The aggregate principal amount of Notes outstanding will not at any time exceed U.S.$5,000,000,000 (or the equivalent in other currencies). The Notes will be issued in Series (as defined in “Overview of the Programme”) and the sole purpose of issuing each Series will be to finance either a senior loan (a “Senior Loan”) or a subordinated loan (a “Subordinated Loan” and, together with a Senior Loan, the “Loans” and each a “Loan”) to Joint Stock Company “ALFA-BANK” (“Alfa Bank”), established under the laws of the Russian Federation (“Russia”), as borrower, on the terms of either: (i) in relation to a Senior Loan, the facility agreement (as amended and restated) between the Issuer and Alfa Bank dated 17 April 2013 (as may be amended, restated or supplemented from time to time) (the “Facility Agreement”), as amended and supplemented by a loan supplement to be entered into in respect of each Loan on or before each issue date (the “Issue Date”) of the relevant Series (each a “Loan Supplement” and, together with the Facility Agreement, the “Senior Loan Agreement”), or (ii) in relation to a Subordinated Loan, a subordinated loan agreement between the Issuer and Alfa Bank, to be entered into on or before the Issue Date of the relevant Series (the “Subordinated Loan Agreement”). OVERVIEW OF THE PROGRAMME

The following overview contains basic information about the Notes and the Loans and should be read in conjunction with, and is qualified in its entirety by, the information set forth under “Terms and Conditions of the Notes” and “the Facility Agreement” appearing elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars. The following overview does not purport to be complete and is taken from, and is qualified in its entirety by, the remainder of this document and, in relation to the terms and conditions of any particular Series of Notes, the applicable Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series). Words and expressions defined in “Terms and Conditions of the Notes” below shall have the same meanings in this summary. The Issuer and Alfa Bank may agree with any Dealer that the Notes may be issued in a form other than that contemplated in “Terms and Conditions of the Notes”, in which event a Series Listing Particulars or supplement to these Base Listing Particulars, if appropriate, will be made available that will describe the effect of the agreement reached in relation to such Notes.

Each transaction will be structured as a Loan by the Issuer to Alfa Bank of a sum equivalent to the gross proceeds of an issue of a Series of Notes. The Issuer will issue the Notes to Noteholders for the sole purpose of funding such Loan. Each Series of Notes will be constituted by the trust deed dated 17 April 2013 between the Issuer and the Trustee as may be amended, restated or supplemented from time to time, as further supplemented and amended in respect of such Series of Notes by a Supplemental Trust Deed (together, the “Trust Deed”), each entered into between the Issuer and the Trustee (as defined below). Pursuant to the Trust Deed the Issuer will (i) charge to the Trustee by way of a first fixed charge as security for a Series of Notes (a) all rights to principal, interest and other amounts payable by Alfa Bank under the relevant Loan Agreement, (b) the right to receive all sums which may be payable by Alfa Bank under any claim, award or judgment relating to the relevant Loan Agreement and (c) all rights, title and interest in and to all sums of money now or in the future deposited in an account established for the relevant Series of Notes with the Principal Paying Agent in the name of the Issuer (the “Account”) including interest from time to time earned thereon and (ii) assign certain of its rights under the relevant Loan Agreement (but excluding any Reserved Rights (as defined in the Trust Deed)), to the Trustee for the benefit of the holders of the corresponding Series of Notes. Alfa Bank will be obliged under the terms of the relevant Loan Agreement to make payments in respect of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) to the Issuer to the Account. The Issuer will agree in the Trust Deed not to make or consent to any amendment to or any modification or waiver of, or authorise any breach or proposed breach of, the terms of any Loan Agreement, unless the Trustee has given its prior written consent. The Issuer will further agree to act at all times in accordance with any instructions of the Trustee from time to time with respect to each Loan Agreement. Any material amendments, modifications, waivers or authorisations made with the Trustee’s consent shall be notified to the Noteholders in accordance with, and as more fully described in “Terms and Conditions of the Notes – 14. Notice” and shall be binding on the Noteholders. Formal notice of the security interests created by any Trust Deed will be given to Alfa Bank and the Principal Paying Agent who will each be required to acknowledge the same.

The Issuer will have no other financial obligations under the relevant Series of Notes and no other assets of the Issuer (including the Issuer’s rights with respect to any Loan relating to any other Series of Notes) will be available to such Noteholders. Accordingly, all payments to be made by the Issuer under each Series of Notes will be made only from and to the extent of such sums received and retained (net of tax) or recovered by or on behalf of the Issuer or the Trustee from the assets securing such Series. Noteholders shall look solely to such sums for payments to be made by the Issuer under such Notes, the obligation of the Issuer to make payments in respect of such Notes will be limited to such sums and Noteholders will have no further recourse to the Issuer or any of the Issuer’s other assets in respect thereof. In the event that the amount due and payable by the Issuer under such Notes exceeds the sums so received or recovered, the right of any person to claim payment of any amount exceeding such sums shall be extinguished, and Noteholders may take no further action to recover such amounts.

Set out below is a diagrammatic representation of the structure.

See Condition 7.7 (Currency Exchange Option).

Maturities: Subject to compliance with all relevant laws, regulations and directives, any maturity as may be agreed between the Issuer, Alfa Bank and the relevant Dealer(s). Where the Issuer wishes to issue Notes with a maturity of less than one year, it shall ensure that the Notes are issued in full compliance with the conditions set out in Notice BSD C 01/02 dated 12 November 2002, as amended, issued by the Central Bank pursuant to section 8(2) of the Central Bank Act of 1971, as amended, of Ireland, including that the Notes comply with, inter alia, the following criteria:

- (a) at the time of issue, the Notes must be backed by assets to at least 100 per cent. of the value of the Notes issued;
- (b) at the time of issue, the Notes must be rated at least investment grade by one or more recognised rating agencies;
- (c) the Notes must be issued and transferable in minimum denominations of EUR300,000 or the foreign currency equivalent;
- (d) the Notes carry the title “Commercial Paper” (unless constituted under the laws of a country other than Ireland and, under those laws, the commercial paper carries a different title in which case it must carry such title) and must identify the Issuer by name;
- (e) it must be stated explicitly on the face of the Notes and, where applicable, in the contract between the Issuer and the initial investor in the Notes that they are issued in accordance with an exemption granted by the Central Bank under Section 8(2) of the Central Bank Act of 1971, inserted by Section 31 of the Central Bank Act of 1989, as amended by Section 70(d) of the Central Bank Act of 1997, each amended by the Central Bank and Financial Services Authority of Ireland Act 2004; and
- (f) it must be stated explicitly on the face of the Notes and, where applicable, in the contract between the Issuer and the initial investor in the Notes that the investment does not have the status of a bank deposit, is not within the scope of the Deposit Protection Scheme operated by the Central Bank and that the Issuer is not regulated by the Central Bank arising from the issue of the Notes.

Denomination:

Notes will be in such denominations as may be specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), save that unless otherwise permitted by then current laws and regulations: (i) Notes which have a maturity of less than one year will have a minimum denomination of EUR300,000 (or its equivalent in other currencies) or higher integral multiples of EUR1,000; (ii) the Rule 144A Notes will have a minimum denomination of U.S.$200,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency as at the issue date of the relevant Notes) or higher integral multiples of U.S.$1,000 and (iii) the minimum denomination of any Notes shall in any event be EUR100,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency as at the date of issue of the Notes).

Rate of Interest:

The Notes may be issued on a fixed rate or a floating rate basis.

Fixed Rate Notes:

Fixed interest will be payable in arrear on the date or dates in each year specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series).

Floating Rate Notes:

Floating Rate Notes will bear interest determined separately for each Series and corresponding Loan as follows:

- (a) on the same basis as the floating rate under a notional interest rate swap transaction in the relevant Specified Currency governed by an agreement incorporating the 2006 ISDA Definitions, as published by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc.; or
- (b) by reference to LIBOR, LIBID, LIMEAN, EURIBOR or any alternative Benchmark as adjusted for any applicable margin.

Interest Periods and Interest Rates:

The length of the interest periods for the Notes and the applicable interest rate may differ from time to time or be constant for any Series. Notes may have a maximum interest rate, a minimum interest rate, or both. The use of interest accrual periods permits the Notes to bear interest at different rates in the same interest period. All such information will be set out in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series).

Redemption:

The relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series) will specify the basis for calculating the redemption amounts payable. Unless permitted by then current laws and regulations, Notes which have a maturity of less than one year and in respect of which the issue proceeds are to be accepted by the Issuer in the United Kingdom or whose issue otherwise constitutes a contravention of Section 19 of the Financial Services and Markets Act of 2000 must have a minimum redemption amount of the greater of EUR300,000 or GBP100,000 (or their equivalent in other currencies).

Issuer's Restrictions and Covenants:

So long as any Note remains outstanding, the Issuer will not, without the consent of the Trustee, inter alia, incur any other indebtedness for borrowed moneys, or enter into other transactions or engage in any business (other than transactions contemplated by these Base Listing Particulars or the Trust Deed), declare any dividends or have any subsidiaries. See “Terms and Conditions of the Notes – 4. Restrictive Covenants”. Furthermore, the Issuer will agree in the Trust Deed not to make or consent to any amendment or modification or waiver of, or authorise any breach or proposed breach of the terms of the corresponding Loan Agreement unless the Trustee has given consent.

Redemption by the Issuer at the Option of Alfa Bank: The Issuer will redeem the Notes in whole, but not in part, at 100 per cent. of their aggregate principal amount plus accrued and unpaid interest and all additional amounts, if any, if Alfa Bank elects to repay any Loan (i) in the event it is required to pay additional amounts on account of Russian or Irish withholding taxes in respect of certain payments under the corresponding Loan or payments under the corresponding Notes or (ii) in the event that Alfa Bank is required to pay additional amounts on account of certain costs incurred by the Issuer pursuant to the relevant Loan Agreement.

Mandatory Redemption: In limited circumstances, as more fully described in the relevant Loan Agreement, the Notes may be redeemed by the Issuer in whole, but not in part, on any Interest Payment Date in the case of Floating Rate Notes or, at any time, in the case of Fixed Rate Notes, upon giving notice to the Trustee, at the principal amount thereof, together with accrued and unpaid interest and all additional amounts, if any, to the date of redemption in the event that it becomes unlawful for (i) the Issuer to allow the relevant Notes to remain outstanding or (ii) the Issuer or Alfa Bank to allow the relevant Loan to remain outstanding under the relevant Loan Agreement. In either case, the Loan would be repaid in whole, but not in part.

Relevant Events: In the case of a Relevant Event (as defined in the Trust Deed), the Trustee may, subject as provided in the Trust Deed, enforce the security created in the Trust Deed in favour of the Noteholders.

Withholding Tax: All payments of principal and interest to be made by the Issuer in respect of each Series of Notes will be made in full without set-off or counterclaim and free and clear of and without deduction for or on account of all taxes, which are or will be imposed, assessed, charged, levied, collected, demanded, withheld or claimed by Ireland, or any taxing authority thereof or therein, other than as required by law. If any such taxes, duties and other charges are payable, the sum payable by Alfa Bank to the Issuer under the relevant Loan Agreement will (subject to certain exceptions) be required to be increased to the extent necessary to ensure that the Noteholders receive the net sum which they would have received free from any liability in respect of any such deduction or withholding had no such deduction or withholding been made or required to be made. The sole obligation of the Issuer in this respect will be to pay to the Noteholders sums equivalent to the sums received net from Alfa Bank, after accounting for any such deduction or withholding pursuant to the relevant Loan Agreement.

Further Issues: The Issuer may from time to time issue further Notes of any Series on the same terms as existing Notes and such further Notes shall be consolidated and form a single Series with such existing Notes of the same Series even if further Notes have original issue discount for U.S. federal income tax purposes and even if doing so may adversely affect the value of the original Notes. In the event of such further issuance, the relevant Loan will be correspondingly increased.

Listing: Application has been made to admit each Series of Notes issued under the Programme within 12 months of these Base Listing Particulars to listing on the Vienna MTF and trading on the Vienna Stock Exchange. The Vienna MTF is not a regulated market for the purposes of MiFID II.

Rating: Series of Notes issued under this Programme may be rated or unrated. Where a Series of Notes is rated, such rating will not necessarily be the same as the ratings assigned to the Programme.

Whether or not each credit rating applied for in relation to the relevant Series of Notes will be issued by a credit rating agency established in the European Union and registered under Regulation (EC) No. 1060/2009, as amended (the “CRA Regulation”) will be disclosed in the Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Listing Particulars) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series).

Credit ratings assigned to the Notes do not necessarily mean that they are a suitable investment. A rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to revision, suspension or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating organisation. Similar ratings on different types of notes do not necessarily mean the same thing. The ratings do not address the likelihood that the principal on the Notes will be prepaid, paid on an expected final payment date or paid on any particular date before the legal final maturity date of the Notes. The ratings do not address the marketability of the Notes or any market price. Any change in the credit ratings of the Notes or Alfa Bank could adversely affect the price that a subsequent purchaser will be willing to pay for the Notes. The significance of each rating should be analysed independently from any other rating should be analysed independently from any other rating.

Governing Law: The Notes and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with them will be governed by and construed in accordance with English law.

Selling Restrictions: The Notes are subject to selling restrictions in the United Kingdom, the United States, Ireland, Russia and other jurisdictions where the Notes may be offered, sold or delivered or these Base Listing Particulars may be distributed. See “Subscription and Sale”.

ERISA Considerations: A Series of Notes issued under the Programme may be regarded for United States Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (“ERISA”) purposes as equity interests in a separate entity whose sole asset(s) are the Loan. Accordingly, the Notes (or any interest therein) may not be acquired by any Benefit Plan Investor (as defined in Section 3(42) of ERISA. Each purchaser and/or holder of Notes (or any interest therein) and each transferee therefore will be deemed to have made certain representations as to its status under ERISA. Potential purchasers should read the sections entitled “Certain ERISA Considerations” and “Transfer Restrictions”.

RISK FACTORS

An investment in the Notes involves a high degree of risk. Prospective investors should consider carefully, among other things, the risks set forth below and the other information contained in these Base Listing Particulars prior to making any investment decision with respect to the Notes. The risks highlighted below could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations or prospects which, in turn, could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's ability to service its payment obligations under any Loan Agreement and, as a result, the ability of the Issuer to make payments under the Notes. In addition, the value of the Notes could decline due to any of these risks, and prospective investors may lose some or all of their investment.

The risks and uncertainties discussed below are those that the Issuer and Alfa Bank believe are material, but these risks and uncertainties may not be the only ones, that the Issuer and the Alfa Banking Group face. Additional risks and uncertainties that, as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the Issuer and Alfa Bank consider immaterial or of which they are unaware may also have an adverse effect on the Issuer and/or the Alfa Banking Group's operating results and financial condition or result in other events that could lead to a decline in the value of the Notes.

The Issuer is a special purpose vehicle and as such its ability to make payments will depend on Alfa Bank's ability to service its payment obligations under a Loan Agreement. The Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects may be adversely affected by the risks highlighted below.

RISKS RELATING TO THE ALFA BANKING GROUP'S BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

The deteriorating conditions of the Russian economy, the instability of the Russian banking sector and commodity prices could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, liquidity and financial condition

The majority of the Alfa Banking Group's assets and customers are located in, or have businesses related to, Russia. As a result, the Alfa Banking Group is substantially affected by the state of the Russian economy, which is, to a significant degree, dependent on exports of key commodities, such as oil, gas, iron ore and other raw materials, imports of significant amounts of consumer and other goods and access to international sources of financing.

The conditions and outlook for the Russian economy deteriorated significantly during 2014 and continued to worsen in 2015 and 2016. According to Rosstat, the Russian economy returned to growth in real gross domestic product ("GDP") terms in 2018 with GDP growing by 2.5 per cent. and expanding by 1.3 per cent. in 2019. In 2020, Russia's GDP contracted by 3.1 per cent. due to the 2019 novel coronavirus ("Covid-19") pandemic. Inflation was 3.0 per cent. in 2019 and 4.9 per cent. in 2020. The Rouble experienced significant depreciation against the U.S. dollar in 2014, 2015 and early 2016. The Rouble / U.S.$ exchange rate remains volatile, and as at 31 December 2019 amounted to RUB 61.91 per U.S.$1.00, as at 31 December 2020 amounted to RUB 73.88 per U.S.$1.00 and as at 30 June 2021 amounted to RUB 72.37 per U.S.$1.00. The deterioration and fluctuations in these and other key economic indicators were the result of a combination of macroeconomic and geopolitical factors, including:

- a significant decline in the price of Brent Crude oil during 2014, 2015 and the first quarter of 2016. The price of Brent Crude oil fell from U.S.$112.36 per barrel on 30 June 2014 to U.S.$55.27 per barrel on 31 December 2014 and continued to decline throughout 2015 reaching U.S.$37.28 per barrel on 31 December 2015, subsequently increasing throughout 2016 and 2017. The price of Brent Crude oil was U.S.$68.68 per barrel on 31 December 2019, U.S.$51.41 per barrel on 31 December 2020 and U.S.$75.08 per barrel on 30 June 2021 averaging U.S.$50 per barrel in December 2020 and U.S.$75 per barrel in July 2021 according to the U.S. Energy Information Agency, and continues to be volatile and unstable as discussed below;
- economic sanctions which the U.S. and the EU (as well as other nations, such as Australia, Canada, Japan and Switzerland) have imposed against Russian individuals and legal entities in connection with Crimea's accession to the Russian Federation and the armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine have significantly interrupted international business relationships and seriously reduced the ability of Russian companies to access the international capital markets. The armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine between the Ukrainian army and local militia has destabilized the region and put further pressure on international relations between Russia and Western countries, including the United States and the EU, and has also led to the expansion of sanction programmes in respect of Russian legal entities and individuals (see "Non-compliance with OFAC and EU sanctions programmes, an expansion of these programmes or a significant expansion of the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with any parties subject to sanctions could adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's financial condition");

- negative investor sentiment towards investing in Russia that resulted in higher net capital outflows as investments decreased and Russian and non-Russian investors sought out other geographies in which to hold capital and make investments. According to the CBR, such outflows increased significantly in 2014 and reached U.S.$151.5 billion, an increase of 148 per cent. from 2013. Net capital outflows amounted to U.S.$57.5 billion in 2015 as compared to U.S.$19.2 billion in 2016, U.S.$31.1 billion in 2017, U.S.$67.5 billion in 2018, U.S.$22.1 billion in 2019, U.S.$47.8 billion in 2020 and U.S.$ 28.2 billion in the first half of 2021;
- a 24.4 per cent. decrease in Russia’s international reserves from U.S.$509 billion on 31 December 2013 to U.S.$385 billion on 31 December 2014, as significant resources were deployed in an effort to support the value of the Rouble along with other government initiatives to bolster the economy and support the Russian banking sector. The level of international reserves has since stabilised and increased, reaching U.S.$554.4 billion as at 1 January 2020, U.S.$597.4 billion as at 1 January 2021 and U.S.$ 599.6 billion on 30 July 2021.
- a global economic downturn caused by the Covid-19 outbreak (see “—The outbreak of Covid-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects”).

In 2020, the Russian economy experienced additional pressure caused by a decrease in oil prices as a result of Russia and OPEC failing to reach an agreement over proposed oil production cuts, as well as falling demand for oil triggered by the significant slowdown of business activity and a deteriorating global macroeconomic outlook caused by the spread of the Covid-19 pandemic. In early March 2020, the price of Brent Crude fell from U.S.$45.3 per barrel on 6 March 2020 to U.S.$33.3 per barrel on 12 March 2020. This drop in oil prices caused volatility in the global financial markets and caused the Rouble to fall in value. See “—The instability of the global economy and financial markets could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, liquidity and financial condition”.

Negative developments affecting the Russian economy in 2014 to 2016 have had a substantial impact on the Russian banking sector. The resulting higher interest rates have had a negative impact on the banking sector’s profitability, and have adversely affected Russian consumer and corporate creditworthiness. In 2019-2020, the CBR proceeded to reduce gradually its key interest rate which led to a significant decrease in funding costs and continues to adjust the key interest rate depending on prevailing market conditions and the trajectory of the Russian economy. Amid increasing inflation in Russia in the first half of 2021, the CBR gradually increased the key interest rate from 4.25 per cent. as at 19 March 2021 to 7.5 per cent. as at 22 October 2021. The turbulence and the increased risk profile of the Russian banking sector has led some foreign financial institutions to limit or eliminate their exposure to the Russian banking sector. While the banking sector has to some extent stabilised over the past few years (prior to the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic), any renewed instability may negatively affect the ability of Russian banks, including Alfa Bank, to access further funding and liquidity for their various business needs, including, among other things, market instruments used for hedging purposes and trade finance operations. See “—The Alfa Banking Group could be negatively affected by the instability of the Russian banking sector and deterioration of the commercial soundness and/or the perceived soundness of other financial institutions, which could result in significant systemic liquidity problems, losses or defaults by other financial institutions and counterparties”. Another negative effect may be brought by any rating downgrades could adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group’s liquidity and undermine confidence in Alfa Bank, which could lead to increased borrowing costs and restrict the Alfa Banking Group’s access to capital markets. An increase to the Alfa Banking Group’s cost or reduction in availability of funding, in turn, could render it unable to meet deposit withdrawals on demand or at their contractual maturity, to service the credit facilities of existing customers or to fund new loans, investments and businesses. The deterioration in the general economic conditions in Russia, depreciation and volatility of the Rouble, high interest rate environment, instability of the Russian banking sector and any downgrade of credit ratings of Alfa Bank or the Russian Federation could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Any adverse changes to the factors discussed in the preceding paragraphs could negatively affect the financial condition of the Alfa Banking Group and its customers and may result, among other things, in a reduction in the Alfa Banking Group’s capital adequacy ratios and profits, pressure on credit risk concentration levels, an increase in exchange rate risk and volatility in gains and losses from foreign exchange, higher funding costs, a change in the strategy of the Alfa Banking Group or curtailment of some business operations due to increased risks. Moreover, any of these factors may cause a decrease in customer funds, a reduction in demand for loans, foreign currency, investment and other banking transaction services that customers carry out with the Alfa Banking Group, as well as a general deterioration in the quality of the Alfa Banking Group’s loan book and/or a reduction in the market values of securities or other assets held on the Alfa Banking Group’s balance sheet, leading to significantly reduced operating results.

The instability of the global economy and financial markets could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, liquidity and financial condition

The financial markets, both globally and in Russia, have faced significant volatility, dislocation and liquidity constraints during the global economic crisis in 2008 and 2009. Disruption in the global financial markets has had a negative impact on investor confidence and has negatively affected the interbank markets and debt issuance in terms of volume, maturity and credit spreads. More recently, the global financial markets were characterized by periods of instability and uncertainty resulting from various factors, including the sovereign debt crisis in Europe, the withdrawal of the UK from the European Union, regional conflicts, outbreaks of contagious diseases, mounting concerns regarding the slowing growth of the global economy and trade tensions between some of the largest economies. There is a high degree of uncertainty in relation to the global economy arising from unstable trade relations between the U.S. and China, as well as tensions over control of investments in technology companies, and any escalation of trade wars could result in negative repercussions in the relevant countries and have a knock-on effect on global trade and the economic environment generally.

In addition, the global Covid-19 pandemic has had a severe effect on the volume of business activity and trade in the affected areas and worldwide. On 8 June 2021, the World Bank released its Global Economic Prospects report, which included a baseline forecast of a 5.6 per cent. increase in global GDP in 2021 as a result of the measures taken to combat the Covid-19 pandemic. The report estimated that economic activity in Russia is expected to increase by 3.2 per cent. in 2021, reflecting a sharp rise in oil prices and gradual economic recovery. The downturn in economic activity and export operations globally and in Russia in 2020 as a result of the Covid-19 outbreak was aggravated by the substantial decline in oil prices since early March 2020 when the global oil markets experienced a precipitous decline in oil prices in response to concerns regarding the potential impacts of the Covid-19 outbreak and the anticipated increases in oil production from OPEC countries. In April 2020, OPEC countries entered into a new agreement to reduce oil production, which led to a gradual increase in crude oil prices in the second half of 2020. In December 2020, OPEC countries agreed to a gradual increase in oil production starting from January 2021. As a result of this agreement and general economic recovery following Covid-19 outbreak in the first half of 2021 led to a surge in oil prices from U.S.$51.41 per barrel on 31 December 2020 to U.S.$75.08 per barrel on 30 June 2021. The depreciation of the Rouble and volatility in exchange rate of the Rouble against other currencies may negatively impact the Alfa Banking Group's performance in U.S. dollar terms, as well as have a broader effect on its operations and customers (see "—Significant depreciation or appreciation of the Rouble and fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group" and "—The outbreak of Covid-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects").

No assurance can be given that further economic downturns, financial crises or widespread stock market crashes will not occur, or that measures to support global or local banking and financial systems, if taken to overcome any downturn or crisis, will be sufficient to restore stability in the banking sectors and financial markets in the short term or beyond. These and other events have resulted and could result in further economic uncertainty, decrease of foreign investment into and increased capital outflows from Russia and emerging markets generally as well as persistent volatility in global and regional financial markets.

The United Kingdom signed a withdrawal agreement with the EU and Euratom on 24 January 2020 and withdrew from the EU on 31 January 2020. Although a trade cooperation agreement between the United Kingdom and the EU was signed in December 2020, there remains considerable uncertainty regarding future relations between the UK and EU and the impact that the UK's withdrawal may have in the long term. These developments have had and may continue to have a material adverse effect on global economic conditions and the stability of global financial markets, and may significantly reduce global market liquidity and restrict the ability of key market participants to operate in certain financial markets. Any of these factors could depress economic activity and restrict access to capital, which could have a material adverse effect on financial institutions worldwide.

In addition, the emergence of Covid-19 has resulted in significant disruption to the global economy. The decline in the economic activity of China, the EU, the United States and other countries as a result of the Covid-19 outbreak has resulted in a global economic downturn, which has adversely effected the Russian economy in general (see "—The outbreak of Covid-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects"). Negative trends in the largest economies, including the United States and the EU, may impact the perception of emerging market economies in general and investor appetite towards emerging market risk. Uncertainty in the international financial markets, further tightening in credit conditions and contraction of the global economy and markets in which the Alfa Banking Group operates could adversely impact, should the market conditions worsen, the Alfa Banking Group's business and operating results due to:

- decreases in the Alfa Banking Group's net interest income;
- decreases in the demand for the Alfa Banking Group's credit products as a result of higher interest rates;

- significantly increased non-performing loans and credit loss allowance charges and write-offs;
- decreases in the business activity of Russian companies and the credit-worthiness of Russian companies and individuals;
- increases in borrowing costs and reduced, or zero, access to the capital markets due to unfavourable market conditions;
- currency volatility;
- liquidity constraints;
- outflows of deposits from accounts;
- significant declines in the market values of securities held in the Alfa Banking Group's trading and available for sale portfolios; and
- deterioration of capital adequacy.

The Alfa Banking Group believes that its level of access to domestic interbank loans and capital markets, international capital and syndicated loan markets, together with its ability to access other funding sources, its credit standing and its liquidity and risk management policies allow it to meet its liquidity needs. Nevertheless, a decrease in the Alfa Banking Group's ability to access the domestic interbank loan and capital markets, the international syndicated loan and/or the capital markets, whether resulting from worsening market conditions, deterioration of the macroeconomic outlook for Russia, disruptions in the financial markets, recent geopolitical instability or otherwise, or maturity mismatches between the Alfa Banking Group's assets and liabilities, may, together or separately, have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition or results of operations of the Alfa Banking Group.

The Alfa Banking Group could be negatively affected by instability in the Russian banking sector and deterioration of the commercial soundness and/or the perceived soundness of other financial institutions, which could result in significant systemic liquidity problems, losses or defaults by other financial institutions and counterparties

The Alfa Banking Group routinely executes a high volume of transactions with numerous counterparties in the financial services industry, including brokers and dealers, commercial banks, investment banks, mutual and hedge funds and other institutional clients, resulting in a significant counterparty credit exposure. This counterparty risk is heightened as a result of financial institutional failures and state sponsored rescue of banks. In recent years, the CBR has actively monitored the Russian banking sector and revoked licences of numerous small and medium-sized Russian banks with the aim of removing fraudulent, failing or undercapitalised financial institutions from the sector and making it more robust and stable in the event of any potential systemic shocks.

Furthermore, the CBR has been actively using its Fund for the Consolidation of the Banking Sector to finance the rescue of failing banks by introducing financial rehabilitation measures that involve the CBR becoming the controlling shareholder in the failing bank. In August 2017, the CBR announced its decision to implement such measures aimed at improving the financial stability of PJSC Bank Otkritie Financial Corporation ("Otkritie Bank") a Russian bank that was included in the list of systemically important credit organisations. In September 2017, the CBR implemented financial rehabilitation measures in relation to PJSC B&N Bank ("B&N Bank"), a Russian bank that was the 12th largest bank in Russia by assets in August 2017, and JSC Rost Bank, a Russian bank affiliated with B&N Bank which was already undergoing financial rehabilitation. In December 2017, the CBR introduced financial rehabilitation measures in relation to Promsvyazbank PJSC, a Russian bank that was the 10th largest bank in Russia by assets as at 1 November 2017 ("Promsvyazbank"). In May 2018, the Russian Prime Minister signed a decree on transferring ownership in share capital in Promsvyazbank from the State Deposit Insurance Agency of the Russian Federation (the "State Deposit Insurance Agency") to the Russian Government. Further, as part of the measures aimed at strengthening the financial health and stability of Bank Otkritie and B&N Bank, the CBR merged B&N Bank and Bank Otkritie (under the brand of Bank Otkritie) with effect from 1 January 2019. More recently, on 22 January 2019, similar measures were introduced by the CBR with respect to Moscow Industrial Bank, the 33rd largest bank in Russia by assets as of 1 January 2019, in response to the breach of the minimum statutory capital requirements caused by asset impairments.

Although this mechanism has been, to some degree, tested in practice, there remains a risk that the financial rehabilitation of these or other banks may not be successful in the long term and such an outcome could undermine the stability of these banks in the future. There also remains some uncertainty as to the long-term effects of these measures on the banking sector as a whole. Any further significant disruptions to the business operations of large Russian banks or restrictions on their ability to fulfill their financial obligations towards other Russian or foreign creditors and banks may have a material adverse effect on the Russian banking sector, local financial market and investment climate generally. Increased state presence in the banking sector and forced bail-in of private investors may lead to reduced competition in the banking sector. Liquidity difficulties could also arise in other large privately owned banks in Russia, and there can be no assurance that the CBR will be able to provide financial support to such banks, which would further exacerbate difficulties in the banking sector and the local financial market.

In addition, intensified withdrawal of banking licences as a result of the inability of certain banks to meet the mandatory requirements of the CBR, failure to comply with anti-money laundering regulations or other reasons could result in lower investor confidence in the Russian banking system generally and may lead to investors, creditors or depositors, as the case may be, reducing their exposure to Russian bank debt or deposits, including those of Alfa Bank, which could be materially adverse to the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects, as well as the price of the Notes.

In addition, the Russian banking sector may experience instability and weaker financial results due to the ongoing volatility in the global financial and commodity markets, as well as any decline in the Russian economy as a result of Covid-19 and the decline in oil prices.

Although the Alfa Banking Group monitors its counterparties on a constant basis and has so far not been affected by any of the recent bank failures, it will continue to be exposed to the risk of loss if any counterparty financial institutions fail, their licences are revoked or are otherwise unable to meet their obligations. A default by, or even concerns about the stability of, one or more financial services institutions could lead to further significant systemic liquidity problems, or losses or defaults by other financial institutions which could materially and adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's ability to raise interbank or other funding, its business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

The Alfa Banking Group could face increased loan losses and decreased demand for its services from both corporate customers and individuals who are affected by any slowdown or weakening of the global, regional or Russian economies

The Alfa Banking Group has been subject to risks regarding the credit quality and recovery of loans to, and amounts due from, customers and market counterparties. Factors such as the increased inflation, unemployment in the Russian Federation, reduced corporate liquidity and profitability, increased corporate and personal defaults and insolvencies and/or increased interest rates that reduced the Alfa Banking Group's customers' and market counterparties' ability to repay their loans. In addition, the recent recession of the Russian economy resulted in the deterioration of the value of collateral held against loans and other obligations. Any downturns in the Russian economy may lead to deterioration of the Alfa Banking Group's existing loan portfolio. In addition, any decreases and volatility in the prices of commodities, as has occurred in relation to the price of oil in the first quarter of 2020, may negatively affect the financial condition of the Alfa Banking Group's customers that operate in or are in any way dependent on or linked to such sectors. Certain industries of the Russian economy, such as building, construction, metals and mining, have in the recent past experienced instability and lower demand for their products both in Russia and abroad, which has in some cases led to the worsening of the credit quality of companies engaged in such industries and increased their cost of funding. In some instances, the worsening economic conditions can be exacerbated by fraudulent practices, overleveraging or ineffective management policies employed at such companies. A deterioration in the financial condition of Russian companies due to a cyclical contraction or recession in the Russian or global economies could increase the Alfa Banking Group's loan losses and negatively impact its profitability and capital levels.

Amid the stabilisation of the economic environment, the Alfa Banking Group's credit loss allowance charges decreased as compared to the first half of 2020 (see "—Loan Portfolio and Credit Loss Allowance"). There can be no assurance that credit loss allowance charges will not increase in the future. Any of the above may result in, among other things, a reduction in the Alfa Banking Group's operations with companies operating in such sectors, decreases in or the closing of any applicable loan limits, decreased corporate deposits from these customers, a reduction in the volume of foreign currency and/or foreign trade operations by these customers, decreases in the value of the collateral (including immovable property, land, equipment, intangibles and machinery) underlying their obligations and the need to increase such collateral, defaults by such customers on their obligations and, ultimately, increased loan losses to the Alfa Banking Group.

The consumer finance market began to recover with the stabilisation of the Russian economy and returned to growth in 2017. According to the CBR, the volume of unsecured retail loans grew by 20.9 per cent. in 2019 and by 8.6 per cent. in 2020. Since 2020, unsecured consumer lending continued to grow and increased by 10 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2020 and remained relatively flat throughout the first half of 2021, according to the CBR. However, this growth in consumer lending and the expansion of Russian banks' retail loan portfolios have occurred against the backdrop of decreasing personal income levels. Based on information published by Rosstat, household personal income of the Russian population decreased during 2020 by approximately 3.5 per cent. and further decreased by 3.7 during first quarter of 2021. The CBR and other government agencies have publicly voiced concerns that there are signs of overleveraging in certain sectors of the consumer finance market and statistics indicate that lending to households that are already burdened with debt has been increasing at a higher pace than the issuance of loans to debt free consumers. Taking into account these concerns, the CBR increased the risk weighting coefficients applicable to consumer loans (depending on their effective interest rates) three times over the course of 2018, as a result of which some banks were required to increase their capital cushions to take into account the additional capital buffers required by the CBR. Furthermore, the CBR also introduced a new a payment-to-income (“PTI”) ratio designed to restrict the issuance of loans to consumers with a high debt burden. If the consumer market overheats and consumers become overleveraged, the default rates on the Alfa Banking Group’s retail loan portfolio could increase and if such increase is significant, it could lead to higher credit loss allowances, lower income and profit, as well as a decrease in capital ratios. Also, an increase in regulatory constraints, by means of higher capital requirements or otherwise, on consumer lending may hinder the Alfa Banking Group’s plans to expand its retail operations and grow its retail customer base, put additional pressure on capital and lower the profitability of such operations.

According to the CBR, the PTI ratio continued to increase throughout 2020 primarily as a result of unsecured consumer loans and worsening economic conditions caused by the spread of Covid-19. Retail customers are generally a greater credit risk than large companies and increases in unemployment levels, default rates, loan losses, falling household income and other factors may negatively affect the performance of the retail segment. These factors create further risks for retail lenders in case Russia’s GDP growth returns to zero or GDP begins to contract. Despite lending activity recovery and overall improvement of the loans in the retail sector during recent years, lending to this sector may represent a relatively higher degree of risk than lending to other groups, which may result in higher levels of past-due amounts. In addition, the retail lending sector is generally considered to be more susceptible to fraud than the Alfa Banking Group’s corporate and investment banking business and the system of credit bureaus in Russia is not fully developed. This, combined with a lack of reliable data on fraud levels within Russia, particularly in the regions, represents an inherent risk for the Alfa Banking Group’s retail business. The above could result in higher levels of credit loss allowance, and negatively impact capital adequacy ratios. In addition, the CBR introduced new regulations tightening the requirements for risk weighting on consumer loans in 2018 and 2019 and some of these requirements were relaxed to support consumer lending during the economic downturn caused by Covid-19. These regulations have affected and will continue to affect capital adequacy levels of Russian banks, including Alfa Bank.

In addition, in April 2020, the Russian Government introduced a state programme of subsidised mortgage lending to support the construction industry and the Russian economy in general amid the Covid-19 outbreak. The programme allowed Russian banks to issue mortgage loans to individuals at reduced interest rates. The higher number of mortgage loans may lead to the growth of household debt burden against a decline in real disposable income of the population which, in turn, may lead to an increase in non-payments on mortgage loans.

Any of the above factors could lead to further loan losses, increases in credit loss allowance levels and have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The outbreak of Covid-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects

A novel strain of the coronavirus, subsequently named Covid-19, was discovered in Wuhan, China in December 2019 and was declared by the World Health Organization to be a global pandemic on 11 March 2020. The pandemic has adversely affected and continues to affect the economies and financial markets of many countries, including Russia, resulting in an economic downturn.

The Covid-19 outbreak has had, and continues to have, a material impact on businesses and on the economic environment in which the Alfa Banking Group operates. Like many countries across the world, Russia (where the majority of the Alfa Banking Group’s assets and customers are located, or have related businesses) in the spring of 2020 implemented significant restrictions on the movement of its population, including several “non-working weeks”, bans on public events, closures of places where large groups of people gather, border controls and travel and other restrictions to slow the spread of Covid-19. The impact of the Covid-19 outbreak has adversely affected revenues in most sectors of the Russian economy. A number of industries providing transportation, tourism and other services experienced a drop in income starting from early March 2020. Falling prices for oil and gas and metals have had a negative impact on the income of Russian commodity exporters and related industries. Any decline in economic activity, turnover, profitability or the general financial position of companies and retail and medium, small and micro enterprises (“MSME”) operating in Russia’s industrial sectors may have a knock-on effect on the Russian banking sector. According to Rosstat, Russia’s GDP decreased by 3.1 per cent. in 2020. The Russian Government and the CBR have implemented a number of fiscal and regulatory measures to address the economic and social impact of the Covid-19 outbreak. Among such measures was the implementation of a nine month moratorium on bankruptcy of certain entities that expired in January 2021, as well as mandatory grace periods for certain types of retail loans and loans to MSMEs. In addition, the CBR introduced regulatory amendments aimed at supporting the Russian banking system including, among other things, temporary adjustments to rules on calculating certain regulatory ratios and risk weighting on certain retail loans (including mortgage loans issued prior to 1 April 2020 and unsecured consumer loans issued prior to 31 August 2019) and corporate loans to borrowers operating in industries involved in combating the Covid-19 outbreak including pharmaceutical and medical equipment producers. No assurance can be given that these measures will have the intended effects of mitigating the long-term adverse impact of Covid-19. In the second half of 2020, Russia and many other countries across the world have been facing a second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic, as evidenced by a significant rise in the number of Covid-19 cases and deaths. Infection rates continued to accelerate throughout most of the fourth quarter of 2020 at a pace higher than in the first half of 2020. Since May 2021, Russia and a number of other countries have been facing a third wave of the Covid-19 pandemic associated with the more virulent “Delta variant” first identified in India, evidenced by a significant increase in the number of Covid-19 cases and deaths. In Russia, infection rates continued to accelerate from late spring and into summer 2021, peaking in mid-July 2021, at a pace higher than in the first half of 2020. To control the spread of the pandemic, Russian authorities re-introduced many of the restrictions previously in place and introduced new restrictions (including QR-code check-ins at certain public places and travel restrictions for non-vaccinated persons). The measures were cancelled in some cities amid falling infection rates since mid-July. In addition, in December 2020, the Russian Government launched a large-scale coronavirus vaccination for high-risk groups of people (such as medical workers and teachers), subsequently expanding this programme by offering free vaccination to the whole population. If the spread of Covid-19 persists for a significant period of time or the infection rates stagnate or increase, this could lead to renewed nationwide lockdowns, which could have a material negative impact on the global and Russian economies.

The Covid-19 outbreak has so far had a limited impact on the Alfa Banking Group. Nevertheless, Stage 3 retail loans expressed as a percentage of the gross retail loan portfolio increased to 5.0 per cent. of the gross retail loan portfolio as at 31 December 2020 compared to 4.0 per cent. as at 31 December 2019 illustrating that a higher number of individuals experienced financial difficulties in 2020 and amounted to 3.7 per cent. as of 30 June 2021 showing signs of stabilisation. In order to address rising credit risks, in the second quarter of 2020 the Alfa Banking Group implemented new approach to assessing the level of expected credit losses. These changes resulted in approximately U.S.$94 million of additional expected credit losses allowance charged at the date of the implementation. The expected credit losses policies and approaches were applied consistently since their implementation and through to 31 December 2020. As at 31 December 2020 exposure of loans and advances to individuals restructured in the form of payment holidays or lower installment payments reduced, expected credit losses allowance on these loans slightly increased following application of most recent statistical information on behaviour of these loans. This increase was offset by better performance of the non-restructured portfolio during the second half of 2020 and the first half of 2021. However, the Covid-19 outbreak may in the future impact the Alfa Banking Group in a number of ways, including higher default rates on its loan portfolios, an increase in credit loss allowance (including due to changes in the economic scenarios used to calculate expected credit losses), a decline in lending volumes and lower demand for banking products and services, pressure on net margins due to lower interest rates, revaluations of securities portfolio due to sharp market and exchange rate movements, changes in credit ratings or rating outlooks as well as regulatory restrictions introduced to protect Russian borrowers effected by the Covid-19 outbreak (such as the moratorium on bankruptcy of certain entities).

The Alfa Banking Group has taken and will continue to take measures to mitigate the consequences of Covid-19 (see “Description of the Alfa Banking Group—The Alfa Banking Group’s measures in relation to challenges resulting from Covid-19”) and, whilst the effect of Covid-19 on the Alfa Banking Group has so far been limited, rapidly evolving developments in the operating environment mean that the long-term impact of the pandemic remains unclear. Should the Covid-19 pandemic continue to adversely affect the global or Russian economies, lead to further deterioration of macroeconomic indicators or instability on the Russian banking sector, it may also have the effect of heightening or aggravating many of the other risks described in this “Risk Factors” section.

The Alfa Banking Group may be unable to accurately assess customers’ credit risks and this could result in the Alfa Banking Group not becoming aware of events of default of its borrowers in a timely manner

The Alfa Banking Group’s total gross loans and advances to customers were U.S.$47,079 million as at 30 June 2021, compared to U.S.$42,714 million as at 31 December 2020 and U.S.$39,840 million as at 31 December 2019. The Alfa Banking Group’s loan portfolio requires continued and improved monitoring by management of credit quality and the adequacy of the Alfa Banking Group’s credit loss allowance levels. See “Risk Management”. The Alfa Banking Group is subject to risks regarding the credit quality of, and the recovery on loans to and amounts due from, customers and market counterparties.

The Alfa Banking Group may not be able to assess the default risk on loans provided to corporate customers accurately due to the unpredictability of economic conditions in Russia and abroad. While the Alfa Banking Group requires periodic disclosure of its corporate customers' financial statements, such financial statements may not always present a meaningful indication of each customer's consolidated financial condition due to the disclosure and accounting regulations in relevant countries, including Russia. Further, the Alfa Banking Group's corporate customers often do not have extensive or externally-verified credit histories. Therefore, in spite of the Alfa Banking Group's credit risk evaluation procedures, the Alfa Banking Group may be unable to evaluate the current financial condition of each prospective corporate borrower correctly or to determine accurately the ability of such corporate borrower to repay.

In addition, the availability of accurate and comprehensive financial and general credit information on individuals and small businesses in Russia is even more limited than in the case of larger corporate customers, which makes it more difficult for the Alfa Banking Group to accurately assess the credit risk associated with such lending. As a result of deteriorating macroeconomic conditions, the expansion of the Alfa Banking Group's retail lending operations and additional credit loss allowance recorded in relation to specific problem loans, the Alfa Banking Group increased its credit loss allowances for loan losses and allowances for loan impairment in previous years. Although levels of credit loss allowances stabilised in recent years, there was a substantial increase in credit loss allowances in 2019 and 2020 mainly due to defaults on several large corporate loans in 2019 and the Covid-19 outbreak in 2020, and there can be no guarantee that loan losses or credit loss allowance will not increase in the future. Any increase in credit loss allowance may adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations, prospects and liquidity position.

The Alfa Banking Group's strategy could be unsuccessful, or less successful, than the Group anticipates

The Alfa Banking Group's strategy is described in these Base Listing Particulars in "Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Strategy". The future prospects of the Alfa Banking Group are dependent on its ability to implement its business strategy successfully, which is in turn dependent on a variety of factors, many of which are beyond its control. There is a risk that, despite executing its strategy, the Alfa Banking Group might fail to increase its corporate and retail customer base or may not shift to a financial super service, in each case as anticipated, which could impact its ability to grow faster than its competitors in its operating segments. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group plans to continue investing substantial capital and resources into upgrading, developing and implementing advanced information technologies ("IT") in its digital platform across its entire infrastructure and operations, with a particular focus on investing in online customer acquisition channels and the digitalisation of corporate banking. There is a risk that budgeted capital expenditures may be inadequate for the Alfa Banking Group to achieve its stated strategies and that real capital expenditures will be considerably more significant than originally anticipated causing the Alfa Banking Group to allocate material resources into accomplishing the strategy. The new strategy also carries a number of other risks, including risks associated with the expansion of the physical branch network, difficulties with implementing new technologies, including operational and regulatory obstacles that result in higher costs, as well as risks relating to changes in its scoring models and risk identification and management systems. Moreover, technological advancements will increase the Alfa Banking Group's reliance on information technologies and the digitalisation of banking may give rise to new risks that are currently difficult to predict, such as new forms of fraud, malware or hacking attacks, restrictions on the use of biometric data, as well as the need to invest in additional measures aimed at protecting banking and personal data of customers. Failure to achieve any of the above goals or the occurrence of any of the risks set out above could have an adverse impact on the business, financial condition or results of operations of the Alfa Banking Group.

The ability of the Alfa Banking Group to grow its customer base in the retail and MSME segments and expand its loan portfolio will depend upon continuing to implement new products and services tailored to customer needs, successfully competing with state-owned and private banks, as well as capital growth, in order to maintain its capital adequacy requirements. The failure of the Alfa Banking Group to respond appropriately to any of the risks set forth above could have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Non-compliance with OFAC and EU sanctions programmes, an expansion of these programmes or a significant expansion of the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with any parties subject to sanctions could adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's financial condition

The U.S. government has imposed economic sanctions against a number of countries as well as "Specially Designated Nationals" ("SDNs"). The implementation and enforcement of these sanctions is administered by the U.S. Department of the Treasury, Office of Foreign Assets Control ("OFAC") and consists of broad prohibitions and restrictions against transactions by U.S. persons with OFAC-designated countries and Specially Designated Nationals.

During the course of 2014, the U.S. and the EU (as well as other states, such as Canada, Switzerland, Australia and Japan) imposed sanctions on a number of Russian and Ukrainian persons and entities, including current and former officials and individuals, companies, banks and businessmen, with the consequence that entities and individuals in the U.S. and EU cannot do business with them or provide funds or economic resources to them, with assets in the relevant sanctioning jurisdictions subject to a freeze and the individuals to visa bans. In addition, the U.S. and EU have applied “sectoral” sanctions. These sanctions have imposed restrictions on the ability of several Russian leading state-owned banks to access the capital markets or otherwise obtain funding from persons in the U.S. and EU. Similar sanctions have been imposed on major companies in the oil and gas and defence sectors of the Russian economy. Moreover, the EU and U.S. prohibited the provision, exportation, or re-exportation, directly or indirectly, of goods, services (except for financial services), or technology in support of exploration or production for deep-water, Arctic offshore, or shale projects that have the potential to produce oil in the Russian Federation and that involve certain companies in the Russian energy sector.

On 18 December 2014, the U.S. President signed into law a bill passed by the U.S. Congress which may extensively widen the scope of U.S. sanctions against Russian entities and persons. Among other things, the legislation authorises the U.S. President to impose significant additional sanctions on Russia’s energy and defence sectors and restrictions on using the U.S. banking system by non-U.S. financial institutions that knowingly facilitate significant financial transactions on behalf of any Russian SDNs. Furthermore, in December 2014, the United States established a region-specific embargo prohibiting a wide range of activities in the Crimea region by U.S. persons. The sanctions also apply to non-U.S. persons in respect of their dealings with U.S. persons or through the U.S. financial system. The EU has maintained sanctions specifically targeting the Crimea region and the city of Sevastopol since June 2014. Furthermore, in December 2016 and more recently in December 2018, the U.S. introduced sanctions against Russia’s intelligence services, the Main Intelligence Agency (GRU) and the Federal Security Service (FSB), as well as other entities and individuals associated with GRU in connection with certain allegations of tampering with the political process in the United States by those entities. On 12 September 2018, the U.S. President has signed an executive order that provides for the imposition of sanctions on countries, organizations and persons that the U.S. government determines have interfered in the U.S. elections.

The current sanctions regime is a result of multiple extensions by the U.S. and EU in the term and scope of sanctions, including SDN designations from 6 April 2018 that targeted a number of Russian state officials and a number of prominent Russian businessmen and their businesses. It is currently unclear how long these sanctions will remain in place and whether new sanctions may be imposed. On 27 January 2019, the sanctions previously imposed on EN+ Group plc, United Company RUSAL plc and JSC EuroSibEnergo were lifted following negotiations between the U.S. Department of Treasury’s Office of Foreign Assets Control and the above companies, which have agreed to provide additional information regarding their operations.

In February and March 2020, OFAC also targeted two Swiss subsidiaries of Rosneft for operating in the oil sector of the Venezuelan economy by brokering crude oil shipments.

The governments of the U.S. and certain EU member states, as well as certain EU officials have indicated that they may consider additional sanctions should fighting in Eastern Ukraine escalate. In March 2019, EU and the U.S. sanctioned a number of Russian individuals and entities over a stand-off with Ukraine in the Azov Sea in November 2018. In January 2020, EU and the U.S. imposed additional sanctions in respect of a number of Russian individuals for organizing the elections held in the Crimea and city of Sevastopol in September 2019. Tensions between Russia and the EU and between Russia and the U.S. have further increased recently as a result of the conflict in Syria, and there can be no assurance that the governments of the EU and US or other countries will not impose further sanctions on Russia related to the Syrian conflict.

In August 2014, on the basis of a directive issued by the President of the Russian Federation that cited the necessity to protect national interests, the Government of Russia introduced a one year ban on the import of certain agricultural products from countries that have adopted economic sanctions against Russian legal entities and individuals. This ban on exports was extended until 31 December 2021 in December 2020.

In addition, on 2 August 2017, the U.S. President signed into law the Countering America’s Adversaries Through Sanctions Act (the “CAATSA”) that includes additional sanctions against Russian entities. The CAATSA, inter alia, a) codifies the existing sanctions against Russia established by former President Obama’s executive orders, reduces the permitted terms of financing under the existing sectoral sanctions and restricts supplies of equipment and services for new deep-water, Arctic offshore, or shale projects anywhere in the world in which a Russian sanctioned entity holds a 33 per cent. or more interest; b) gives the U.S. Treasury Secretary the power to impose sanctions against state-owned companies in Russia in the railways, metals, and mining sectors of the Russian economy; c) requires the U.S. President, subject to the ability to claim a national interest waiver, to impose certain secondary sanctions that were discretionary under the existing U.S. sanctions legislation (including, but not limited to, secondary sanctions for investing in or supporting special Russian crude oil projects and the facilitation of transactions on behalf of Russian SDNs); d) allows the U.S. President to introduce secondary sanctions on foreign persons (including those that invest in the construction or servicing of Russian energy export pipelines); and e) requires the U.S. President, subject to the ability to claim a national interest waiver, to impose asset-blocking and travel sanctions, including certain secondary sanctions, on any person who knowingly engages in significant activities that undermine the cybersecurity of any person or government, including a democratic institution, on behalf of the Russian Government. In addition, the CAATSA requires the U.S. administration to submit various reports to U.S. Congress. In late January 2018, several such reports have been published, including a report under Section 241 of the CAATSA that identified certain Russian individuals and parastatal entities, as well as a report under Section 242 of the CAATSA on the effects of expanding sanctions to include sovereign debt and derivative products. The identification of any individuals or entities in such reports does not automatically lead to the imposition of new sanctions and it is not possible to predict whether any such identification could have a material adverse effect on the Russian economy or banking system, including the Alfa Banking Group.

The U.S. State Department imposed new sanctions on Russia under the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 (the “CBW Act”) on 27 August 2018. The initial set of sanctions under the CBW Act includes, among other things, termination of sales of any defence articles and services and prohibition on the export to Russia of certain national security-sensitive goods and technology. In accordance with the CBW Act, if within three months after the initial determination made under the CBW Act, the U.S. President were to determine that certain conditions set out in the CBW Act were not met, the U.S. President, after consultation with the Congress, was required to introduce further sanctions, including, among other things, the prohibition on U.S. banks to provide financing to the Russian state, extensive bans on exports and imports involving Russia and the possible suspension of aviation rights into the United States. In November 2018, the U.S. Department of State declared its intention to impose such additional sanctions following Russia’s alleged failure to meet the respective conditions. On 2 August 2019, OFAC proceeded to issue a directive that prohibited US banks from participating in the primary market for non-Rouble denominated bonds issued by the Russian sovereign and also prohibited US banks from lending non-Rouble denominated funds to the Russian sovereign. In April 2021, these sanctions were expanded to cover rouble-denominated bonds issued by the Russian sovereign and the lending of rouble-denominated funds to the Russian sovereign. In late September 2021, a legislative proposal was introduced in and passed by the U.S. House of Representatives that seeks to ban, it was further expanded by prohibiting U.S. persons from participating in the secondary market trading of Russian sovereign debt with maturity of more than 14 days. The prospects of this legislative proposal, including its review and approval as part of the 2022 defense policy bill by the U.S. Senate, remain uncertain.

In October 2020, the EU has introduced sanctions on six Russian individuals and one organisation over the alleged involvement of these persons in the poisoning of a Russian opposition politician. In addition, in August 2021 OFAC expanded these sanctions to cover nine Russian citizens and two Russian research institutes.

On 20 December 2019, the U.S. President signed into law the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (or Protecting Europe’s Energy Security Act (“PEESA”)), which includes sanctions with respect to the provision of vessels for certain pipe-laying activities for the construction of the Nord Stream 2, TurkStream and their successor pipeline projects. Moreover, on 20 August 2021 the U.S. President signed into executive order allowing for sanctions to be imposed in respect of the companies involved into the Nord Stream 2 pipeline. It is currently not possible to predict what impact these and any potential new sanctions or retaliating measures by the Russian Government may have on the Russian economy or the Alfa Banking Group’s business.

Several pieces of legislation directed at amplifying U.S. sanctions against the Russian Federation have been introduced in the U.S. Congress and are currently under consideration. The current initiatives, if enacted, could affect, among other things, Russian sovereign debt, Russian energy projects and, the Russian energy and financial sectors. It is currently unclear at which point, if at all, any of these bills could be signed into law and what would be the scope of any new sanctions that may be imposed pursuant to such law. Furthermore, no longer being a part of the EU following Brexit, the United Kingdom has imposed its own sanctions regime, which mostly follows the approach of the EU but deviates in certain areas.

Certain members of the Alfa Banking Group are under the jurisdiction of the EU and the Alfa Banking Group also includes members that are U.S. persons and as such are subject to applicable EU and U.S. laws, including the abovementioned sanctions. However, Alfa Bank itself is a Russian bank and is not a U.S. or EU person and the OFAC and EU sanctions regimes do not apply to it. None of the proceeds of the issue of any Notes will be used to fund activities or persons that are subject to sanctions introduced by the U.S. and the EU.

Alfa Bank does not engage in new business dealings with, and does not provide new financing to, persons that are currently designated by OFAC as SDNs and/or subject to EU’s asset freeze sanctions and various internal screening and due diligence systems are put in place to ensure compliance with such policies. As Alfa Bank plays a significant role in the Russian banking system, its day to day operations on the Russian interbank and financial markets sometimes involve transacting with some of the Russian banks that are subject to the limited sectoral sanctions described above, with which Alfa Bank has correspondent bank relations. Alfa Bank’s corporate client base includes certain corporate entities that are subject to these limited sectoral sanctions. All transactions with such banks and corporate entities, the volume and scope of which are insignificant, are reviewed and monitored on an ongoing basis to ensure that no applicable sanctions regime is breached as a result of such transactions. However, there can be no assurance that compliance issues under OFAC and applicable EU regulations, measures or similar laws and regulations will not arise with respect to the Alfa Banking Group or its personnel.

Non-compliance with OFAC and applicable EU regulations by members of the Alfa Banking Group that are U.S. or EU persons could result in, among other things, debarment from the ability to contract with the U.S. and EU governments or their agencies, liability of the Alfa Banking Group and/or its personnel, the imposition of significant fines and negative publicity and reputational damage. In addition, should Alfa Bank's dealings with sanctioned counterparties become material, the Alfa Banking Group's ability to transact with U.S. or EU persons could be affected, even though such dealings would comply with applicable law. As a result, the ability of members of the Alfa Banking Group to raise funding from international financial institutions or the international capital markets may be inhibited.

Furthermore, should either OFAC, other U.S. governmental agencies or the Council of the EU expand their respective sanctions programmes, including the sectoral sanctions, to include any more of the Alfa Banking Group's existing or future clients, suppliers or other counterparties, further sectors of the Russian economy or otherwise, such an expansion could result in financial difficulties for such persons, the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with designated persons could become material or the suspension or potential curtailment of business operations between the Alfa Banking Group and the designated persons could occur. Should such events arise the Russian Government may continue to provide support to the Russian economy, including the Russian financial services sector, and the Russian Government has put in place initiatives with the view of limiting some of the effects of OFAC and EU sanctions, such as the establishment of a national payment system. Nonetheless, the introduction of large scale sanctions or the expansion of the existing sectoral sanctions on Russian companies or sectors of the Russian economy, including the Russian financial services sector, and potentially the adoption of further restrictive economic measures by Russia, may negatively affect the Russian economy and investment climate and lead to further deterioration of financial markets. Any of the foregoing could result in a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Although the Alfa Banking Group has no reason to believe that it may be specifically targeted by OFAC or EU sanctions, the introduction of any large scale sanctions on the Russian financial services sector, or the expansion of the sectoral sanctions that have been introduced by OFAC and the Council of the EU, may negatively affect the business of Russian banks, including Alfa Bank, in a number of ways. For example, even though Russian banks should be able to continue their operations and provide banking services in Russia, they may be forced to discontinue their dealings with U.S. and EU persons, including financial institutions, Visa and MasterCard financial corporations and rating agencies. In addition, Russian banks may not be able to use international settlement, clearing, payment and information exchange systems. The ability of members of the Russian banking sector to transact in U.S. Dollars or Euro with their counterparties may be limited, Russian banks may not be able to raise funding in the international markets, particularly those involving investors from the U.S. and the EU, which could lead to liquidity constraints and increased funding costs for Russian financial institutions. Furthermore, funds and other assets of Russian banks, as well as those belonging to their Russian customers, held by U.S. and EU financial institutions may be blocked. As a result, whilst the Alfa Banking Group would consider and, to the extent possible, take measures available to it to discharge its obligations under the Loans, or facilitate the discharge of the Issuer's obligations under the Notes, as the case may be, the imposition of sanctions on the Russian financial services sector could negatively affect the ability of Noteholders to receive payments under the Notes. See also "— Risk Factors Relating to the Notes and the Trading Market—An expansion of OFAC or EU sanctions programmes could adversely impact the trading market for the Notes".

The measures undertaken by the Russian Government to provide liquidity and support the Russian banking sector during times of instability may not be available in the future or be sufficient, and the recent instability of the Russian banking sector may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, liquidity and financial condition

Historically, the Russian banking sector has experienced several downturns and constraints. In 2009, within the framework of Russian Government anti-crisis measures, Vnesheconombank (State Corporation Bank for Development and Foreign Economic Affairs) provided the Alfa Banking Group with two subordinated loans in the total amount of RUB39.6 billion and with maturities in 2019 and 2020.

The Alfa Banking Group's use of state funding was due in part to the limited availability of funding from other sources following the onset of the global economic crisis in Russia in 2008. There can be no guarantee that, if the Alfa Banking Group were at any time in the future unable to obtain sufficient liquidity in the market, it would be able to obtain further such loans from Vnesheconombank or other Russian Government agents. In addition, as at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group owned securities in the amount of approximately U.S.$4,181 million (at market value), which were listed in the CBR's lombard list, a list of high-quality securities that are accepted by the CBR as collateral required to receive "lombard loans" (short-term loans provided by the CBR to credit institutions to meet their temporary borrowing requirements secured by the pledge of securities) (the “Lombard List”), and held assets, in particular, loans and advances to customers, which had been pre-approved by the CBR to be used as collateral for secured borrowing from the CBR. As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group’s due to other banks included balances outstanding to the CBR of U.S.$138 million compared to U.S.$103 million as at 31 December 2020 and U.S.$145 million as at 31 December 2019.

In the wake of deteriorating macroeconomic conditions in Russia and limited access to international sources of funding, in 2015 and 2016 the CBR implemented a number of measures to support liquidity in the Russian banking sector. In particular, the CBR gradually lowered its key interest rate from 17.0 per cent. in December 2014 to 7.25 per cent. in March 2018, retained low interest rate lending programmes provided to small and medium enterprises and expanded the Lombard List. The key interest rate is set at 7.5 per cent. as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars. In December 2014, the Russian parliament passed legislation allowing the Russian Government to make state contributions of up to RUB1 trillion to the State Deposit Insurance Agency via the issuance of federal state bonds for the purposes of providing capitalisation to Russian banks. The State Deposit Insurance Agency, in turn, has been authorised to lend these federal state bonds as subordinated debt to Russian banks or use them as a payment for subordinated bonds issued by Russian banks. Russian banks that receive subordinated debt under this capitalisation programme are required to comply with special requirements, including maintaining lending operations to the real sectors of economy, limitations on retail lending and interest rates for loans funded with via the programme and salaries for top-management and certain other requirements. Pursuant to this capitalization programme, the State Deposit Insurance Agency has lent to Alfa Bank federal state bonds with a total nominal value of RUB62,788 million by way of a subordinated loan in December 2015. In April 2017, Alfa Bank returned the federal state bonds to the State Deposit Insurance Agency except for five bonds with total nominal value of RUB 5,000 (see “Operating and Finance Review of the Alfa Banking Group—Capital Management of the Alfa Banking Group”).

In April 2018, in order to mitigate the negative impact of recent sanctions and to support lending to the Russian economy, the CBR introduced certain measures allowing banks not to increase credit loss allowance on loans to sanctioned entities, other assets and contingent credit obligations. More recently, the CBR has put in place temporary regulatory and supervisory relaxations for banks, to counter the Covid-19 outbreak (see “—The outbreak of Covid-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects”).

No assurance can be given that initiatives to provide additional sources of capitalization to the Russian banking sector will be available in the future. Moreover, the specific terms on which such capitalization may be provided by the State Deposit Insurance Agency may make it considerably more expensive than market instruments or may impose substantial restrictions on operations or other aspects of a bank’s activities, any of which may result in banks declining to participate in the State Deposit Insurance Agency’s capitalisation programme.

Notwithstanding the Russian Government’s anti-crisis measures mentioned above, there is still reduced liquidity and capitalisation in the Russian banking sector and no assurance can be given that more severe liquidity problems will not occur in the future, or that the Russian Government will continue or be able to implement state support measures to support the Russian banking sector, in particular in case of any potential liquidity constraints or limitations on access to the international capital markets by Russian financial institutions. Any of which may, together or individually, have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The Alfa Banking Group may face liquidity risks, which it may fail to mitigate if it is unable to raise sufficient funding

The Alfa Banking Group meets a significant portion of its funding requirements using customer accounts, which as a percentage of total liabilities represented 82.7 per cent. as at 30 June 2021 and 82.2 per cent. as at 31 December 2020 and 80.7 per cent. as at 31 December 2019. As at 30 June 2021, retail customer accounts held by individuals amounted to 48.3 per cent. of total customer accounts, and commercial and state and public organisation customer accounts amounted to 51.7 per cent. of total customer accounts.

Russian companies have significant capital requirements, which have been accentuated by the lack of commercially-justifiable funding available from the financial markets as a result of the global economic crisis, and more recently geopolitical tensions and limited access to international sources of funding. The Russian Civil Code (the “Civil Code”) entitles retail depositors to withdraw deposits, including term deposits, at any time, without penalty to principal. As a result, the Alfa Banking Group’s retail depositors may withdraw their deposits from the Alfa Banking Group at any time without notice and such unanticipated withdrawals of customer deposits may result in liquidity gaps that the Alfa Banking Group may not be able to cover. In addition, individuals may decide to reallocate their savings into other investment instruments, such as securities or mutual funds, that provide higher returns. Corporate customers may also withdraw excess liquidity in times of economic instability or low interest rate environment.

The remainder of the Alfa Banking Group's funding is raised in the domestic and international capital, syndicated loan and interbank markets. The Alfa Banking Group has been able to access these markets by issuing U.S. dollar-denominated, Rouble-denominated, Swiss Franc-denominated, Euro-denominated Eurobonds and Euro-commercial paper ("ECP"), U.S. dollar-denominated syndicated loans and domestic Rouble-denominated bonds.

The Alfa Banking Group's ability to raise funding at commercially reasonable costs from the domestic and international markets in amounts sufficient to meet its ongoing liquidity needs could be adversely affected by a number of factors, including the condition of the Russian and international economies and the condition of the financial markets. If the sources of funding, including from the Russian Government, the domestic and international capital, syndicated loan and interbank markets, are not available, the Alfa Banking Group may not be able to generate sufficient cash to refinance or service its debts. If the Alfa Banking Group is not able to access sufficient liquidity, it may not be able to satisfy its obligations with respect to its debt, including the Notes, which could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's liquidity position, as well as the value of the Notes. If geopolitical tensions continue to escalate or the economic situation or financial markets in Russia deteriorate further, there is no guarantee that the Alfa Banking Group will be able to access funding sufficient to fund its operations, or otherwise be able to continue to run and develop its business as planned, which may adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's business, operating results, financial condition and prospects.

Significant depreciation or appreciation of the Rouble and fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group

Certain members of the Alfa Banking Group, including Alfa Bank, use as their functional currency the Russian Rouble. However, the Alfa Banking Group's presentation currency is the U.S. dollar.

Monetary assets and liabilities originally denominated in currencies other than the functional currency of the respective Alfa Banking Group member are translated into the functional currency of such entity in connection with the preparation of the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements. Gains and losses arising from such translations are reflected in the Alfa Banking Group's profit or loss as foreign exchange translation gains less losses. For the purposes of the presentation of the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements, assets and liabilities are translated into the presentation currency of the Alfa Banking Group, the U.S. dollar, at the relevant balance sheet date. The Alfa Banking Group's Rouble net balance sheet and derivatives position, calculated as excess of Rouble-denominated assets over Rouble-denominated liabilities plus net position in derivatives, was a negative position of U.S.$581 million, a negative position of U.S.$748 million and a negative position of U.S.$1,242 million as at 30 June 2021, 31 December 2020 and 31 December 2019, respectively. Having a positive net Rouble balance sheet and derivatives position tends to result in foreign exchange translation losses during the period when the U.S. dollar appreciates against the Rouble in nominal terms and in foreign exchange translation gains during the period when the U.S. dollar depreciates against the Rouble in nominal terms.

Throughout 2014, the Rouble depreciated significantly against the U.S. dollar, reaching RUB67.82 per U.S.$1.00 on 18 December 2014, as a result of falling oil prices, slowdown of the Russian economy, capital outflows and deterioration of the geopolitical environment, including as a result of the events in Ukraine and in the introduction of sanctions by Western countries on certain Russian individuals and legal entities. In 2019, Rouble moderately depreciated against U.S. dollar from lows recorded in 2018. As at 31 December 2020, the Rouble / U.S.$ exchange rate amounted to RUB73.9 per U.S.$1.00 and RUB72.37 per U.S.$1.00 as at 30 June 2021, which reflects the Rouble stability against the U.S. dollar as a result of the growth of oil prices in the first half of 2021 and the economic recovery after the Covid-19 pandemic.

In addition to possible foreign exchange transaction losses, the depreciation of the Rouble against the U.S. dollar could negatively affect the Alfa Banking Group in a number of ways. The Alfa Banking Group maintains mismatches between the currency of its liabilities and the currency of its assets. These mismatches expose the Alfa Banking Group to exchange rate risk, which risk has increased significantly in light of the Rouble's recent volatility against the U.S. dollar and the Euro. Upon a depreciation of the Rouble against foreign currencies, the Alfa Banking Group becomes subject to higher interest payments on its foreign currency denominated liabilities when calculated in Rouble terms. The depreciation of the Rouble against the U.S. dollar also makes it more difficult for some Russian borrowers to service their U.S. dollar loans, especially for borrowers with predominantly Rouble revenue, which may adversely affect their credit quality. An appreciation of U.S. dollar-denominated and other foreign currency loans in Rouble terms also leads to higher credit risk concentrations in lending portfolios and puts additional pressure on Russian banks' capital and credit loss allowance requirements. The Alfa Banking Group plans to continue to access the international capital and syndicated loan markets, which subjects it to risks inherent in currency fluctuations and uncertainty of these markets as a reliable funding source. Although the Alfa Banking Group sets limits and performs certain other measures aimed at reducing currency risk, including, but not limited to, entering into foreign exchange derivative contracts, fluctuations in prevailing foreign currency exchange rates may adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects and may adversely affect the value of the Notes.

The Alfa Banking Group faces intense competition in Russia and other markets where it operates

The Russian market for financial and banking services is intensely competitive. The Alfa Banking Group faces competition from both domestic and foreign banks. According to the CBR, as at 1 January 2021, 406 credit organisations were operating in Russia. In the Russian corporate banking market (including the MSME segment), the Alfa Banking Group principally competes with Sberbank, VTB Bank, Gazprombank, Otkritie Bank, UniCredit Bank, Rosbank, Tinkoff Bank, Modulbank and Raiffeisenbank, as well as a number of other national and regional banks and certain number of the world's largest international banks. In the investment banking sector, the Alfa Banking Group's primary competitors are Sberbank CIB, VTB Capital, Gazprombank and foreign investment banks. In the Russian retail banking market, the Alfa Banking Group's principal competitors are Sberbank, VTB, Raiffeisenbank, Citibank, Russian Standard Bank, Home Credit and Finance Bank, Russian Agricultural Bank, Vostochny Express Bank, Sovcombank, and Tinkoff Bank, as well as a number of other national and regional banks and Russian subsidiaries of foreign banks. In addition to facing competition in Russia, the Alfa Banking Group's subsidiaries, branches and representative offices elsewhere compete with national and/or international banks and non-banking credit organisations in the jurisdictions in which they operate. See "Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Competition in the Russian Banking Market".

Some of the banks with which the Alfa Banking Group competes in Russia, including, in particular, Sberbank and VTB Bank and, with respect to the Alfa Banking Group's corporate lending activities, international universal banks, are larger and have greater capital resources available to them. In the non-Russian jurisdictions in which the Alfa Banking Group operates, the Alfa Banking Group faces competition from larger, more established and better capitalised local financial institutions. The competitive landscape in the Russian banking sector may be affected by the global and Russian economic environment. While a number of international banks have scaled down their operations over the last few years, banks which are directly or indirectly owned by or affiliated with the Russian Federation have continued to consolidate their positions in the Russian banking sector due to the greater levels of state funding. In addition, the deterioration of economic conditions in Russia and worldwide may lead to intensified competition for high quality borrowers, which may in turn restrict the Alfa Banking Group's ability to increase interest rates on loans. At the same time, competitive pressures may lead to increases in interest rates payable on deposits, which may in turn have adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's net interest margin.

If the Alfa Banking Group were unable to continue to compete successfully in the markets in which it operates and/or is unable to succeed in achieving its strategies of growth and expansion, this would have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. Furthermore, the Alfa Banking Group may be subject to further increased competition from Russian banks and other financial providers of financial services (including existing and potential new providers of digitalized online banking services), as over recent years there has been a dramatic increase in the demand for digital products and services and competitors continue to develop and roll out new products and services. As such, the Alfa Banking Group's market share and results of operations are subject to competitive pressures from existing competitor products and new products that have the potential to disrupt the Alfa Banking Group's operations.

The Alfa Banking Group may be unable to reduce the industry and borrower concentrations in its loan portfolio

The Alfa Banking Group's loan portfolio is exposed to certain economic sectors. As at 30 June 2021, individuals, oil industry, food industry and agriculture, real estate and construction, trade and commerce, ferrous metallurgy and finance and investment companies accounted for 31 per cent., 12 per cent., 8 per cent., 7 per cent., 7 per cent., 5 per cent. and 5 per cent., respectively, of the Alfa Banking Group's gross loans and advances to customers compared to 27 per cent., 13 per cent., 8 per cent., 6 per cent., 7 per cent., 5 per cent. and 5 per cent., respectively, as at 31 December 2020. In 2020, the Alfa Banking Group adjusted its procedures for issuing new loans and advances to corporate borrowers introducing requirements for extra information for credit lines drawdowns, reduced high-risk credit limits and implemented additional approval and monitoring procedures for loans issued. In recent years, the Alfa Banking Group had stopped providing financing to companies involved in some sectors of the Russian economy, including in the infrastructure construction sector, and reduced lending to certain other sectors which in the management's view are experiencing a downturn or are associated with higher credit risks. In addition, as at 30 June 2021, loans to the Alfa Banking Group's ten largest non-bank borrowers (or groups of related borrowers) amounted to U.S.$8,579 million, representing 18 per cent. of the Alfa Banking Group's total gross loans to customers, compared to U.S.$7,518 million (18 per cent.) as at 31 December 2020 and U.S.$7,318 million (18 per cent.) as at 31 December 2019. The Alfa Banking Group is sensitive to the downturns in the sectors in which it has high industry concentrations or where its largest borrowers operate, as well as adverse changes to such borrowers' business and financial condition. There can be no assurance that the Alfa Banking Group will be able to achieve or maintain a greater level of diversification in its loan portfolio. The Alfa Banking Group's failure to do so may have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The CBR imposes a limit on all Russian banks' exposure to a single borrower or group of related borrowers of 25 per cent. of such bank's regulatory capital, which must be monitored on a daily basis. See "The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation—Mandatory Economic Ratios". As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, Alfa Bank is in compliance with the CBR's limit on exposure to a single borrower or a group of related borrowers. However, Alfa Bank's exposure to a single borrower or a group of related borrowers could rise above this limit, for reasons including a change in the composition of Alfa Bank's loan portfolio, foreign currency exchange rate changes or changes in the CBR's limit level or interpretation of how the limit should be calculated. The sanctions for failure to comply with this requirement could include fines, the temporary administration of Alfa Bank by the CBR or the revocation of Alfa Bank's banking licence. If Alfa Bank exceeded its exposure to a single borrower or a group of related borrowers and the CBR took sanctions, the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects could be materially adversely affected.

A decline in the value or liquidity of the collateral securing the Alfa Banking Group's loans may adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's loan portfolio

A substantial portion of the Alfa Banking Group's loans to corporate customers and individuals is secured by collateral such as real property, land leasing rights, production equipment, vehicles, aircraft, ships, securities, precious metals, raw materials and inventory. Downturns in the corresponding economic sectors and any continuation in the worsening of economic conditions in Russia may result in declines in the value of collateral securing the Alfa Banking Group's loans to levels below the amounts of the outstanding principal and accrued interest on those loans. The reduced collateral values may not be sufficient to cover uncollectible amounts on the Alfa Banking Group's secured loans, which may result in the Alfa Banking Group being required to reclassify the relevant loans, establish additional credit loss allowance. A failure to recover the expected value of the collateral may expose the Alfa Banking Group to loan losses, which may materially and adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

In addition, the Alfa Banking Group may acquire controlling or minority stakes in defaulting companies, which operate in sectors that are not core to the Alfa Banking Group's business and in respect of which the Alfa Banking Group has no operational or management expertise. The Alfa Banking Group may not have an adequate number of personnel with sufficient experience to assume control of and manage these companies and if the Alfa Banking Group is unable to avoid doing so, this may divert key management time away from its key activities. Further, the Alfa Banking Group may fail to manage these businesses efficiently once it has assumed control.

It may be difficult for the Alfa Banking Group to enforce security and/or guarantees under Russian law

The Alfa Banking Group enters into security arrangements for loans made to its corporate and retail customers. The enforcement of security under Russian law generally requires either an agreement of the parties for an out of court enforcement procedure (which is relatively new, has recently been amended and is subject to specific requirements, including in certain cases the requirement for foreclosure through a notary public) or, in certain cases, a court order followed by a public sale of the collateral. A court may in certain circumstances delay such public sale for a period of up to one year upon a pledgor's application. Therefore, the Alfa Banking Group may have difficulty foreclosing on collateral or enforcing other security when customers default on their loans, which may adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Further, even where the Alfa Banking Group is successful in foreclosing on collateral, it may be difficult to find buyers for such collateral and it may be sold for significantly less than its appraised value. Any failure to recover the expected value of collateral may expose the Alfa Banking Group to losses, which may materially adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

A substantial portion of the Alfa Banking Group's loans to corporate customers is secured by collateral such as real property, land leasing rights, production equipment, vehicles, securities, precious metals, raw materials and inventory, as well as beneficiaries' sureties. Loans to individual retail customers are mostly unsecured, with the exception of mortgage loans. See "Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Retail Banking—Mortgage lending". In addition, a substantial portion of the Alfa Banking Group's loans to corporate customers is secured by the borrower's agreement that a certain volume of its cash receivables will flow through accounts over which the Alfa Banking Group has direct debit rights. However, if the value of the collateral provided or the financial condition of the guarantors or sureties deteriorates or if the borrower diverts funds away from such bank accounts (under Russian law, a borrower may close its bank account with a Russian bank at any time), the Alfa Banking Group may not be able to recover on the collateral, guarantees, sureties or direct debit arrangements, which may lead to losses, materially adversely affecting its business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. See "Risk Management".

The preparation of the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements requires management to make judgments, estimates and assumptions and the accuracy of these estimates and assumptions could have a material impact on the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements

The preparation of the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements requires the Alfa Banking Group's management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and the reported amounts of income and expense during the reporting period. On an ongoing basis, the Alfa Banking Group's management evaluates its estimates and judgments, including those related to expected credit losses on loans and advances, fair value of financial instruments, functional currencies, initial recognition of related party transactions, income taxes and other matters. Management bases its estimates and judgments on historical experience and on various other factors that it believes to be reasonable under the circumstances. Actual results may differ from these estimates and conditions, and such differences may be material. Refer to Note 4 to the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements appearing elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars for further details.

The judgments, estimates and assumptions that the Alfa Banking Group's management makes are based on information available at the time. Should circumstances change, the outcome may be materially different from what was envisaged at the time the judgments, estimates and assumptions were made. Should this occur, it could have a material adverse effect on the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements, including the reported profit and balance sheet.

The interests of Alfa Bank's principal shareholders may conflict with those of other stakeholders and the relationship of the shareholders with the Russian Government could have an adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition and results of operations

Messrs. Mikhail Fridman, German Khan, Alexei Kuzmichev and Petr Aven are the Alfa Banking Group's principal shareholders, directly holding 32.86 per cent., 20.97 per cent., 16.32 per cent. and 12.4 per cent., respectively, of ABH Holdings S.A.'s ("ABH Holdings") outstanding share capital as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars. The principal shareholders have exercised and will continue to be able to exercise influence over the Alfa Banking Group's activities. See "Ownership" and "Description of the Alfa Banking Group". While its principal shareholders have historically supported the Alfa Banking Group, there can be no assurance that they will continue to provide financial support to the Alfa Banking Group or that the principal shareholders may not have interests that differ from those of the Alfa Banking Group. As a result of their indirect ownership of a substantial percentage of the Alfa Banking Group's outstanding shares and their ability to influence the appointment of ABH Financial's Board of Directors, the Alfa Banking Group's shareholders may prevent the Alfa Banking Group from making certain decisions or taking certain actions that would benefit it. For example, the principal shareholders may from time to time have interests in certain industrial sector companies. If any of these companies experience financial difficulties, then the principal shareholders could elect to provide additional funding to such companies through exercising their influence over the Alfa Banking Group, which could adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The Alfa Banking Group could suffer damage to its reputation that would lead clients to take their business elsewhere

To attract and retain clients, the Alfa Banking Group depends to a large extent on its relationships with existing clients and its reputation for integrity and high-quality professional services. As a result, if a client is not satisfied with the Alfa Banking Group's service, the damage the Alfa Banking Group suffers may be greater than simply the loss of that client's business. Any negative publicity, including factually inaccurate negative publicity, could damage the Alfa Banking Group's reputation, cause existing clients to take their business elsewhere and lead potential customers to take their business to the Alfa Banking Group's competitors and lead to greater regulatory scrutiny. Negative publicity could arise from any number of sources, including litigation, press speculation, employee misconduct, operational failures and current and future investigations by regulatory authorities. The Alfa Banking Group could also experience negative publicity and reputational damage as a result of the misconduct of its distribution partners or intermediaries they work with, its joint venture partners or acquired businesses. Unlike state owned banks that may be perceived by the public as being first in line to benefit from state support in times of distress, private banks, like Alfa Bank, may need to rely more heavily on their business reputation and the perception of their financial wellbeing. For example, any deterioration in Alfa Bank's reputation or the perception of its financial wellbeing may result in deposit outflows or higher interest rates on interbank loans, which may result in higher funding costs. For the reasons discussed above, any damage to the reputation of the Alfa Banking Group could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The Alfa Banking Group's banking business entails operational and technological risks

The Alfa Banking Group is exposed to many types of operational risk, including the risk of fraud by employees or outsiders, mismanagement, unauthorised transactions by employees and operational errors, including clerical or record keeping errors or errors resulting from faulty computer or telecommunications systems. Given the Alfa Banking Group's high volume of transactions, errors may be repeated or compounded before they are discovered or rectified. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group's information technology systems do not fully support its operations and a number of transactions at the Alfa Banking Group are processed manually, which may further increase the risk that human error or employee tampering or manipulation will result in losses that are difficult to detect. Additionally, the exposure to operational and related risks may become more prevalent as the Alfa Banking Group expands its operations in the MSME segment because such operations entail higher volume of transactions and less transparent borrowers that may have lower governance standards compared with large corporate clients.

As part of its strategy, the Alfa Banking Group will continue investing substantial capital and resources into its digital platform across its entire infrastructure and operations, with a particular focus on investing in online customer acquisition channels and the digitalisation of corporate banking. The execution of this strategy and the Alfa Banking Group's operations more generally are exposed to technological risks. To achieve this goal, the Alfa Banking Group is implementing various information technology infrastructure development programmes across its branch network and other business operations (see "Description of the Alfa Banking Group—IT Infrastructure"). The implementation of these new information technology systems has involved significant changes across a wide range of the Alfa Banking Group's operating activities and required the retraining of a significant number of the Alfa Banking Group's employees. Furthermore, the Alfa Banking Group's banking business requires the development of sufficient communication channels and software, the creation of large automated systems and considerable computer capacity located throughout the Russian Federation.

Therefore, the Alfa Banking Group's financial performance, its ability to meet its strategic objectives and its ability to manage risks arising out of the market environment and to manage the future growth of its branch and office network depend and will continue to depend to a significant extent upon the functionality of its IT systems and its ability to increase systems capacity and functionality. The Alfa Banking Group invests considerable time and money in order to upgrade its technologies in a timely manner, centralise its information systems, create appropriate reserves and duplicate capacities, develop internal audit functions and control the operation of its hardware and software. A disruption (even short-term) to the functionality of the Alfa Banking Group's IT systems, or delays in increasing the capacity of the IT systems, could have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects of the Alfa Banking Group. In addition, insufficient integration of the IT system increases the Alfa Banking Group's operational risks and the costs of further business development. The inability of the Alfa Banking Group's IT systems to adequately support its operations may have a material adverse effect on its ability to monitor and manage its operations.

The Alfa Banking Group's ability to operate its business depends on its ability to protect the computer systems and databases which the Alfa Banking Group operates and uses from the intrusion of third parties who may attempt to gain access to the Alfa Banking Group's computer systems, networks or databases through the Internet or otherwise. Although the Alfa Banking Group believes that its computer systems, networks and databases are well protected from unauthorised intrusion by a range of both physical and programming measures, given the potential technical and financial resources of intruders, full assurance cannot be given that its computer systems, networks and databases will not suffer from such attacks in the future.

There can be no assurance that the Alfa Banking Group will be able at all times to successfully monitor, prevent and manage its operational and technological risks in the future. Any failure to do so could materially adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Employee misconduct is difficult to deter and detect and could harm the Alfa Banking Group's reputation and business

The Alfa Banking Group faces the risk of loss due to issues that may arise out of its employees' lack of knowledge and willful, negligent or involuntary violations of laws, rules and regulations or other misconduct. Misconduct by employees is a recurring risk in the financial services industry and could involve, among other things, the improper use or disclosure of confidential information, violation of laws and regulations concerning financial abuse and money laundering, or embezzlement and fraud, any of which could result in regulatory sanctions or fines as well as serious reputational or financial harm. Misconduct by employees, including the violation of the Alfa Banking Group's own internal risk management policies, could also include binding the Alfa Banking Group to transactions that exceed authorised limits or present unacceptable risks, or hiding unauthorised or unsuccessful activities, which, in either case, may result in unknown and unmanaged risks and losses. It is not always possible to guard against employee misconduct and ensure full compliance with the Alfa Banking Group's risk management policies, and the precautions the Alfa Banking Group takes to detect such activity may not always be effective. The direct and indirect costs of employee misconduct can be substantial and could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The Alfa Banking Group may be unable to recruit or retain experienced and/or qualified personnel

The Alfa Banking Group's growth depends in part on its ability to continue to attract, retain and motivate qualified and experienced banking and management personnel in Russia. The Alfa Banking Group credits a significant part of its success to recruiting high-calibre international and Russian management and employees with international qualifications and relevant international experience. However, its ability to continue to attract and retain such people in large part is dependent upon the continued growth of the Russian economy, the Russian banking system and the Alfa Banking Group's ability to remunerate and develop its employees. Further volatility in the Russian economy or the banking system may adversely impact its ability to continue to recruit and retain high-calibre staff at all levels.

In addition, the emergence of other Russian banks and foreign banks and financial institutions in Russia and the other regions in which the Alfa Banking Group operates not only represents an increase in competition for business but an increase in competition in the specialised financial services employment markets. The Alfa Banking Group faces the risk of competitors recruiting its employees.

Competition in the Russian banking industry for personnel with relevant expertise is intense, due to the relatively small number of available qualified individuals and there is a high level of turnover among junior bank employees, in particular, in its retail banking business. In addition, competition from state banks for personnel continues to pose risks for private banks, including Alfa Bank. To recruit qualified and experienced employees and to minimise the possibility of their departure to other banks, the Alfa Banking Group provides compensation packages and long-term motivation programmes consistent with evolving standards in the Russian labour market. However, any failure on the part of the Alfa Banking Group to retain its management and other key staff, or to recruit and retain qualified and experienced personnel in Russia or manage the Alfa Banking Group's human resources successfully could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. See "Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Employees".

Any acceleration in the repayment of Alfa Banking Group's indebtedness or deterioration in the Alfa Banking Group's business or financial results may result in the Alfa Banking Group being unable to support the interests of the Noteholders

As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group had numerous outstanding publicly traded debt obligations raised outside of the Russian Federation, including senior loan participation notes issues, subordinated loan participation notes issues (including perpetual loan participation notes) and ECP issues (collectively, the "Alfa Banking Group Indebtedness"). See "Operating and Financial Review of the Alfa Banking Group—Financial Position—Debt Securities Issued, Other Debt and Subordinated Debt". The Alfa Banking Group Indebtedness provides recourse to either both Alfa Bank and ABH Financial or, as the case may be, Alfa Bank or ABH Financial only.

If Alfa Bank ceases to be controlled (directly or indirectly) by ABH Financial and certain other conditions are met, then portions of the Alfa Banking Group Indebtedness may become due and payable, which, in turn, may have a negative impact on the Alfa Banking Group's ability to support the Issuer's obligations under the Notes.

It is possible that if the business or financial results of one or more entities within the Alfa Banking Group were to deteriorate, the overall financial stability of the Alfa Banking Group would weaken and the rating of Alfa Bank and/or the Notes may be downgraded, which, in turn, may adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's ability to support the Issuer's obligations under the Notes.

In addition, any financial difficulties of ABH Financial, as a result of the acceleration of any Loan or otherwise, may lead to substantial repercussions for Alfa Bank and the principal shareholders of the Alfa Banking Group, including, without limitation, increased scrutiny from the CBR and/or regulatory measures for failure to comply with CBR requirements relating to the financial standing of shareholders/controllers, difficulties in raising new financing or outflow of deposits, negative publicity and other consequences. Russian banking regulations require shareholders/controllers of Russian banks to be financially viable and this imposes certain obligations on them. Furthermore, the introduction of any involuntary reorganization, bankruptcy proceedings or other arrangements with respect to ABH Financial can have a negative impact on the ability of the principal shareholders of the Alfa Banking Group to control or provide financial support to Alfa Bank. Any of these factors can lead to a disruption in the operations of Alfa Bank and, in turn, lead to or exacerbate the financial difficulties of ABH Financial and adversely impact the value of the Notes

The Alfa Banking Group may fail to effectively identify or execute strategic acquisitions or investments, and if the Alfa Banking Group were to pursue such transactions it may fail to successfully integrate them into or realise anticipated benefits to its business in a timely manner

The Alfa Banking Group may selectively pursue opportunities to acquire or make investments in businesses, products, technologies or innovations, which complement its business and strategy. The Alfa Banking Group may not be able to identify suitable acquisitions or investments, or it may not be able to complete any transaction on acceptable terms, or at all. Any acquisitions or investments the Alfa Banking Group may pursue in the future could entail risks, including:

- difficulties in realising cost, income or other anticipated benefits or synergies from the acquired entity or investment, including the loss of key employees or intellectual property from the acquired entity or investment, any of which may impact the Alfa Banking Group's ability to grow its business;
- costs of executing the acquisition or investment, including financial costs, business disruption and increased management attention, any of which may impact the Alfa Banking Group's ability to successfully execute the acquisition or investment or may increase costs that could lead to lower profits;
- potential for undermining the Alfa Banking Group's strategy, customer relationships or other elements critical to the success of the Alfa Banking Group's business, any of which may be detrimental to the Alfa Banking Group's existing operations and client relationships;
- inadequate due diligence or errors in valuation or assessment of the acquisition or investment, any of which could result in unexpected costs, loan provisions or lower returns on the investment;
- liabilities or losses resulting from the Alfa Banking Group's control of the acquired entity or investment, including inherited legal claims, any of which may reduce future profits; and
- difficulty integrating the acquired business, including difficulty in adapting acquired technology to the Alfa Banking Group's own systems, any of which may disrupt the Alfa Banking Group IT systems and lead to increased implementation costs.

If the Alfa Banking Group pursues acquisitions or investments in the future and experiences any of the above or other difficulties, its business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects could be materially adversely affected.

The Alfa Banking Group may be unable to meet its regulatory requirements relating to capital adequacy Alfa Bank is required by the CBR to have a minimum RAR-based total capital adequacy ratio (the "N1.0 Ratio"), of 8.0 per cent., a common equity tier 1 capital adequacy ratio (N1.1) (the "N1.1 Ratio") of 4.5 per cent. and a tier 1 capital adequacy ratio (N1.2) (the "N1.2 Ratio") of 6.0 per cent. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, a capital conservation buffer of 2.5 per cent. and a capital buffer for systemically important credit organisations of 1 per cent. is applicable to Alfa Bank's minimum capital adequacy requirements. These ratios must be reported to the CBR by Alfa Bank each month. Alfa Bank's N1.0 Ratio was 13.99 per cent. as at 1 July 2021 and 13.26 per cent. as at 1 January 2021, which in each case exceeded the minimum required by the CBR. Alfa Bank's N1.1 Ratio and N1.2 Ratio as of 1 July 2021 was 10.62 per cent. and 11.98 per cent., respectively, and 10.27 per cent. and 11.81 per cent. as of 1 January 2021, respectively, which in each case exceeded the minimum required by the CBR. See "The CBR regulations phasing in Basel III in Russia could have an adverse effect on Alfa Bank, its capital ratios and its regulatory capital" and "The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation—Regulation—Mandatory Economic Ratios" for further details on the capital and other mandatory economic ratios set by the CBR.

In addition, the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision recommends a minimum risk-based capital adequacy ratio of 8.0 per cent., calculated in accordance with the International Regulatory Framework for Banks ("Basel III"). The Alfa Banking Group's total capital adequacy ratio, calculated in accordance with Basel III, was 18.7 per cent. as at 30 June 2021, compared to 17.8 per cent. as at 31 December 2020 and 18.3 per cent. as at 31 December 2019. The Alfa Banking Group's Tier I capital adequacy ratio was 17.0 per cent. as at 30 June 2021, compared to 16.4 per cent. as at 31 December 2020 and 16.3 per cent. as at 31 December 2019. Both ratios, the total capital adequacy ratio and Tier I capital adequacy exceeded the minimum risk based capital adequacy ratio recommended by Basel III.

However, if Alfa Bank's capital position were to decline below the minimum statutorily required levels of capital adequacy, its banking licences could be suspended or revoked and it could encounter difficulties in continuing to operate its business and obtaining funding, which could materially adversely affect its business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. The Alfa Banking Group's capital adequacy level may decrease organically with the growth of business or the payment of dividends.

In recent years, the CBR, in cooperation with Russian banks, has gradually implemented international standards for capital adequacy of credit organisations under "Basel II: International Convergence of Capital Measurement and Capital Standards: a Revised Framework", as issued by the Basel Committee ("Basel II") as well as Basel III. See "The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation—Regulation—Mandatory Economic Ratios".

In addition, in December 2017, the Basel Committee published the final Basel III standards (also known as Basel 3.5 or Basel IV) that are intended to enhance risk sensitivity and to implement changes to the design and calibration of the leverage ratio and capital floors. The majority of these reforms are scheduled to be implemented by January 2022. There can be no guarantee that further implementation of Basel IV will not have a material adverse effect on Alfa Bank's financial results and capital adequacy ratios.

Requirements imposed by regulators, including capital adequacy requirements, are designed to ensure the integrity of the financial markets and to protect customers and other third parties with whom the Alfa Banking Group deals. These requirements are not designed to protect holders of the Notes and may limit the Alfa Banking Group's activities, including its lending, and may increase the Alfa Banking Group's costs of doing business, or require the Alfa Banking Group to seek additional capital in order to maintain CBR capital adequacy requirements or different varieties of funding to satisfy the CBR's liquidity requirements. In addition, in November 2019, the CBR introduced new regulations tightening the requirements for risk weighting on consumer loans.

Further similar changes in regulation with respect to risk-weightings and credit loss allowance could have a material adverse effect on Alfa Bank's financial results and capital ratios.

The Alfa Banking Group's ability to obtain additional capital may be restricted by a number of factors, including:

- the Alfa Banking Group's future financial condition, results of operations and cash flows;
- any necessary regulatory approvals;
- the ability of the Alfa Banking Group's shareholders to provide additional capital; and
- general market conditions for capital-raising activities by commercial banks and other financial institutions.

If the Alfa Banking Group requires additional capital in the future in order to meet Alfa Bank's CBR capital adequacy requirements, it cannot guarantee that it will be able to obtain this capital on favourable terms, in a timely manner or at all. The Alfa Banking Group's shareholders are under no obligation to inject additional capital into Alfa Bank.

In addition, through March-April 2020 the CBR introduced certain regulatory relaxations of capital requirements as a part of support measures in connection with the Covid-19 outbreak (see "—The outbreak of Covid-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects"), some of these measures have been already uplifted and there can be no assurance that the others would stay in force. Any breach of regulatory requirements in the Russian Federation could expose Alfa Bank and the Alfa Banking Group to potential liability and other sanctions, including the loss of Alfa Bank's general banking licence.

The CBR regulations phasing in Basel III in Russia could have an adverse effect on Alfa Bank, its capital ratios and its regulatory capital

On 1 March 2013, Regulation No. 395-P "On the Methodology of Calculation of Value and Adequacy of Capital of Credit Organisations (Basel III)" of the CBR implementing Basel III principles with respect to the composition and assessment of sufficiency of bank regulatory capital entered into force in Russia and was subsequently replaced with Regulation No. 646-P "On the Methodology of Calculation of Value and Adequacy of Capital of Credit Organisations (Basel III)" of the CBR implementing Basel III principles with respect to the composition and assessment of sufficiency of bank regulatory capital ("Regulation No. 646-P"). See "The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation—Regulation—Regulation of Capital". The Alfa Banking Group's management believes that the impact of these regulations on Alfa Bank's capital adequacy ratios has so far been insignificant, but there can be no assurance that further implementation of Basel III and IV will not have a material adverse effect on Alfa Bank's financial results and capital ratios, which means that Alfa Bank might be forced to either raise additional capital or reduce the amount of its lending.

Alfa Bank is included in the list of systemically important banks. Systemically important credit organisations have to comply with additional regulatory requirements, including a liquidity coverage ratio ("LCR") and additional requirements for capital adequacy in accordance with Basel III. The LCR is applied by the CBR as a prudential ratio for systemically important credit organisations starting from 1 January 2016 and is set at 100 per cent. In January 2020, the CBR published a report on systemically important credit organisations which contemplates potential changes in banking regulation applicable to systemically important credit organisations including implementation of a new mandatory credit exposure ratio and differential capital buffers. These changes, if enacted, may result in further constraints for systemically important banks and require additional capital resources to comply with them. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the capital conservation buffer is set at 2.5 per cent. The CBR set a countercyclical buffer for banks at 25 per cent. at the level of 100 per cent. in 2019. The level of the applicable countercyclical buffer for Russian banks is determined by the CBR and as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars is set at zero per cent. of risk-weighted assets. Systemically important credit organisations are subject to an additional capital buffer, which as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars is set at 1 per cent. The CBR may also amend the capital adequacy requirements and increase the capital adequacy ratios applicable to Russian banks at any time and, in such circumstances, Alfa Bank may be forced to seek additional capital or alternative sources of financing to comply with these requirements. Such additional capital or alternative sources of financing may not be available or may only be available on commercially unacceptable terms. Any of the above factors may, individually or in the aggregate, have a material adverse effect on Alfa Bank's business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

Changes in regulatory consumer lending requirements, consumer protection or other applicable banking legislation or their interpretation by courts and regulators may hinder the Alfa Banking Group's consumer lending operations, impose greater compliance requirements and adversely affect its growth, financial conditions and profitability

Until December 2013, in the absence of specific consumer lending laws, the general Law of the Russian Federation No. 2300-1 of 7 February 1992, "On Protection of Consumers Rights", as amended (the "Consumer Protection Law") had provided general protection for consumers of banking services, including consumers of retail finance loans. In addition to the Consumer Protection Law, Federal Law No. 353-FZ dated 21 December 2013 "On consumer loan" (the "Consumer Lending Law") came into force on 1 July 2014. The Consumer Lending Law is intended to provide more specific regulation of consumer protection in the Russian banking sector, in contrast to the Consumer Protection Law, which contains rules that apply to consumer protection in general. The Alfa Banking Group's retail lending documentation, practices and procedures underwent an internal review process and certain changes were introduced to such documentation, practices and procedures in connection with the requirements of the Consumer Lending Law, including amendments to standardized loan documents, pricing and tariffs, servicing of loans, cooperation with partners and other segments of retail lending operations.

Among other things, the Consumer Lending Law sets out standard terms of agreements in relation to consumer loans provided after 1 July 2014 and imposes additional obligations on lenders (such as certain notification and disclosure requirements). The Consumer Lending Law also provides for a limitation of penalties and effective interest rates on consumer loans (see "Overview of the Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation—Financial Consumer Protection") which may result in a decrease in interest income of Alfa Bank's retail operations, which could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

There can be no assurance that further amendments to the Consumer Lending Law will not be adopted and, if adopted, these amendments will not contain any provisions that would negatively affect Russian banks, including Alfa Bank, or impose additional requirements or restrictions that Alfa Bank would have to respond to by adapting its business practices, products offered to customers and standard consumer lending documentation in order to comply with the applicable legislation. Such measures could have an adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The CBR takes an active approach to the regulation and monitoring of the Russian consumer lending market and the regulator places particular focus on actively managing any signs of overleveraging or deterioration of credit quality in the sector. The CBR increased the risk-weighting coefficients applicable to consumer three times over the course of 2018, as a result of which some banks were required to increase their capital cushions to take into account the additional capital buffers required by the CBR. In September 2020, the CBR reduced the risk-weighting ratios and introduced regulatory amendments aimed at supporting the Russian banking system including, among other things, temporary adjustments to rules on calculating certain regulatory ratios and risk weighting on certain retail loans. Risk-weighting ratios have since increased, with the CBR publishing in April 2021 revised risk weighting coefficients for new loans granted by Russian banks on or after 1 July 2021 and then again increasing them in July 2021 for new loans granted by Russian banks on or after 1 October 2021. The higher risk weighting coefficients are designed to prevent the Russian credit market from overheating since increases in risk weighting coefficients negatively impact capital adequacy, which affects profitability and puts pressure on capital. See "The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in Russia—Banking Regulation—Mandatory Economic Ratios".

In addition, recently new amendments to the Federal Law dated 22 April 1996 N 39-FZ "On Securities Market" (the "Securities Market Law") were introduced. These amendments contemplate that brokers will be required to carry out test-based admission procedures with respect to investors that are not qualified investors before such clients may invest in certain foreign securities, structured instruments or enter into repo and derivatives transactions. The testing of such clients is scheduled to begin in October 2021. In addition, the State Duma recently adopted a draft law, which requires brokers to be transparent with their clients and make necessary disclosures of risks related to offered financial instruments. The draft law also enables the CBR to introduce significant restrictions on brokerage operations, if the relevant broker has not made the necessary disclosures to the client or has sold certain financial instruments in violation of securities laws. Although the Alfa Banking Group believes that its operations are conducted in compliance with applicable laws and regulations and is taking steps to be in full compliance with the new testing regime and other requirements, the recent amendment to the Securities Market Law will entail additional administrative control and expenses, may result in a lower volume of transactions or a reduction in the customer base and revenue from operations. Furthermore, any breach of the comprehensive regulations could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

Moreover, the CBR has introduced an additional metric for purposes of determining risk weighting coefficients on consumer loans which focuses on the overall debt burden of borrowers. This burden is determined using the PTI ratio which is calculated as the ratio of the borrower's monthly debt payments under consumer loans to the borrower's average monthly income. Any of the above factors may, individually or in the aggregate, have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

Any failure of the Alfa Banking Group to comply with legislation and regulatory requirements may have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations

The Alfa Banking Group's operations are subject to regulation by various government and banking authorities in various jurisdictions in connection with obtaining and renewing various licences and permits, as well as with ongoing compliance with existing laws and regulations and with the terms and conditions of the Alfa Banking Group's licences and permits. Changes in the nature of such regulation in Russia or other jurisdictions where the Alfa Banking Group operates could limit the ability of the Alfa Banking Group to execute its growth strategy and/or could adversely affect its existing business and results of operations.

Regulatory authorities in Russia and other CIS countries exercise considerable discretion in matters of enforcement and interpretation of applicable laws, regulations and standards, the issuance and renewal of licences, permits, approvals and authorisations. Regulatory authorities have the right to, and frequently do, conduct periodic inspections of the Alfa Banking Group's operations and properties throughout the year. Any such future inspections may determine that the Alfa Banking Group violated laws, decrees or regulations, and the Alfa Banking Group may be unable to refute such determination or remedy the violations.

The Alfa Banking Group's failure to comply with existing or future laws and regulations, the terms and conditions of its licences and permits, or the findings of governmental inspections may result in the imposition of fines or penalties or more severe sanctions including the suspension, amendment or termination of the Alfa Banking Group's licences, permits, approvals and authorisations, or in requirements that the Alfa Banking Group cease certain of its business activities, or in criminal and administrative penalties applicable to its officers. Any such decisions, requirements or sanctions, or any increase in governmental regulation of the Alfa Banking Group's operations, could increase its costs and materially adversely affect its business, financial condition and results of operations. Moreover, if the CBR were to suspend or revoke Alfa Bank's general banking licence, then this would render Alfa Bank unable to perform any banking operations (including processing payments of its customers) and/or would lead to winding-up of its business (whether by way of bankruptcy proceedings or liquidation).

Regulatory authorities have extensive discretion in connection with their supervisory and enforcement activities and the regulatory structure governing the Alfa Banking Group's operations is continuously evolving. Existing laws and regulations could be amended, the manner in which laws and regulations are enforced or interpreted could change and new laws or regulations could be adopted. Additionally, as a result of the global economic crisis, certain regulations have been relaxed in order to moderate the effects of the global economic crisis on Russian banks. There can be no assurance that there will not be a strengthening of regulation as a preventative measure against the reoccurrence of a similar crisis in the future. If the enforcement or interpretation of existing regulations were to change or if future regulations were imposed, this could have an adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

RISKS RELATED TO RUSSIA AND THE CIS

Emerging markets such as Russia are subject to greater risks than more mature markets, including significant political, economic and legal risks

Generally, investments in emerging markets are only suitable for sophisticated investors who fully appreciate the significance of the risks involved, and investors are urged to consult with their own legal and financial advisers before making an investment in the Notes.

Investors in emerging markets such as the Russian Federation should be aware that these markets are subject to greater risk than more mature markets, including in some cases significant political, economic and legal risks.

Emerging market governments and judiciaries often exercise broad, unchecked discretion and are susceptible to abuse and corruption. Investors should also note that emerging economies such as the economy of the Russian Federation are subject to rapid change and that the information set out herein may become outdated relatively quickly. Moreover, financial turmoil in any emerging market country tends to adversely affect prices in equity and debt markets of all emerging market countries as investors move their money to more stable, developed markets. As has happened recently and in the past, financial problems or an increase in the perceived risks associated with investing in emerging economies could dampen foreign investment in Russia and adversely affect the Russian economy. Should the Alfa Banking Group become unable to obtain alternative financing on reasonable terms, or at all, this could have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. Accordingly, investors should exercise particular care in evaluating the risks involved and must decide for themselves whether, in light of those risks, their investment is appropriate.

Political Risks

A worsening of the political climate in the Russian Federation may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects

Since 1991, Russia has sought to transform itself from a one-party state with a centrally-planned economy to a market-oriented economy. Political conditions in the Russian Federation were highly volatile in the 1990s, as evidenced by the frequent conflicts among executive, legislative and judicial authorities, which negatively affected the Russian Federation's business and investment climate.

Although the political situation in the Russian Federation has stabilised since 2000, future political instability could result in deterioration of economic conditions, including capital flight and a slowdown of investment and business activity. Following Russian parliamentary elections in December 2011, controversy concerning alleged voting fraud in favour of the ruling party, United Russia, led to organised protests in several Russian cities, including several sizeable protests in Moscow. Allegations of voting irregularities also appeared following the election of Vladimir Putin to the Russian presidency in March 2012, with a number of protests taking place throughout the country both before and after his May inauguration. However, the discontent generally declined in 2013 and 2014 resulting, among other things, in weakening of internal tensions and a shift in Vladimir Putin's credibility rating. In March 2018, Vladimir Putin was re-elected as President of the Russian Federation for a six year term.

In January 2020, the current Russian President Vladimir Putin proposed a number of constitutional reforms aimed at altering the balance of power between the legislative, executive and judicial branches and introducing certain other changes to the Constitution of the Russian Federation. The amendments were approved in a nation-wide vote held from 25 June 2020 to 1 July 2020 and are effective from 4 July 2020. These amendments may have an impact on the Russian political landscape and regulatory environment and lead to other changes that are currently difficult to predict. Any significant changes in the political climate could lead to deterioration in Russia's investment climate that might constrain the Alfa Banking Group's ability to obtain financing in the international capital markets.

The actions of the Russian legislative, executive and judicial authorities can affect the Russian securities market and consequently the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, operating results and prospects

The actions of the Russian legislative, executive and judicial authorities can affect the Russian securities market as well as banks and other businesses operating in Russia. In particular, the events surrounding claims brought by the Russian authorities against several major Russian companies, led to questions being raised regarding the progress of market and political reforms in Russia and have resulted in significant fluctuations in the market price of Russian securities and a negative impact on foreign direct and portfolio investment in the Russian economy, over and above the general market turmoil recently. Any similar actions by the Russian authorities that result in a further negative effect on investor confidence in Russia's business and legal environment could have a further material adverse effect on the Russian securities market and price of Russian securities, or securities issued or backed by Russian entities, including the Notes, as well as on the Alfa Banking Group's business, its ability to obtain financing in the international markets, and its financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Domestic, regional and international political conflicts could create an uncertain operating environment that could adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's business and hinder its long-term planning ability

The Russian Federation consists of 85 regions ("federal subjects") of the federation, some of which exercise considerable autonomy in their internal affairs. In certain areas, the division of authority between federal and regional governmental authorities remains uncertain. The lack of consensus between local and regional authorities and the federal governmental authorities may result in political instability and may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, prospects or ability to fulfil its financial obligations. The Russian federal and regional electoral legislation is subject to ongoing revision and amendment. The amendments made to such legislation in 2004, whereby heads of regions are nominated by the President of the Russian Federation and appointed by regional legislatures (instead of direct election by the population) were designed to minimise conflict between federal and regional authorities and secure stability across the Russian Federation. In April 2013, a new law came into force which allows the federal subjects to choose their own process of electing the regional governors. According to this law, each region can choose whether to proceed with direct elections of regional governors or to submit to the President a list of candidates for the position of governor from which the President shall choose three candidates. The deputies of the legislative assembly would then appoint one candidate for the post of regional governor from such list.

In addition, ethnic, religious, historical and other divisions have, on occasion, given rise to tensions and, in certain cases, military conflict, both internally and with other countries. Russian military and paramilitary forces have been engaged in the Chechen Republic in the recent past and continue to maintain a visible presence there. Moreover, in August 2008, Russia and Georgia were involved in an armed conflict. The conflict ended with Russian recognition of the independence of South Ossetia and Abkhazia. Russian stock exchanges experienced heightened volatility, significant overall price declines and capital outflow following these events and the international capital markets temporarily closed to Russia. Furthermore, differing views on the Georgia conflict, as well as the recent armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine, have had an impact on the relationship between the Russian Federation, the EU, the United States and certain former Soviet Union countries and, if prolonged, could adversely affect business relationships among these countries and adversely affect the Russian economy. Recently, there has been a considerable deterioration of relations between Russia and a number of Western European countries including, among others, the United Kingdom that so far has resulted in both countries expelling their diplomats and taking other diplomatic sanctions. A prolonged deterioration in Russia's international relations may have a negative effect on the investment climate in Russia and the price of Russian securities. The risks associated with these events or potential future events could materially and adversely affect the investment environment and overall consumer confidence in the Russian Federation, which in turn could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, its ability to obtain financing in the international markets, and its financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine and the international reaction to Russia's actions in connection with Crimea create significant political and economic uncertainty which could adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's financial condition

The significant civil unrest and political instability in Ukraine in recent years and the armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine has affected the relations between the Russian Federation and Ukraine. On 16 March 2014, a referendum was held in Crimea pursuant to which it was reported that a majority of those who voted were in favour of succession from Ukraine and joining Russia as a federal subject. On 17 March 2014, the parliament of Crimea declared independence from Ukraine and officially applied to the Russian authorities with a request to join Russia which on 18 March 2014 was followed by the signing of an agreement between the Russian Federation and the Republic of Crimea on the acceptance of the Republic of Crimea into the Russian Federation. On 21 March 2014, the Russian parliament passed legislation extending the effect of Russian laws and state authorities to the territory of Crimea and providing for a transitional period until 1 January 2015 for purposes of fully integrating Crimea into Russia.

These events in Crimea and the resulting change in Crimea's legal status have prompted a negative reaction from the international community with the EU, the United States and Ukraine, amongst others, refusing to recognize the referendum in Crimea as legal. The armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine between the Ukrainian army and local militia has destabilized the region and put further pressure on the international relations between Russia and Western countries, including the United States and the EU. Although the armed conflict in Eastern Ukraine has subsided, relations between the Ukrainian government and the breakaway territories in Eastern Ukraine remain tense, which may lead to a renewed escalation of the armed conflict. In relation to these events, the United States and the EU, as well as certain other countries, introduced sanctions and trade restrictions on Crimea, a number of former Ukrainian governmental officials, certain Russian governmental officials and individuals, politicians, Russian businessmen and Russian and non-Russian companies and banks (including certain restrictions on the largest Russian state controlled banks and certain state-controlled companies predominantly in the energy and defence sectors), and also adopted bans and restrictions on exporting certain goods and technologies to Russia generally and in certain cases to designated companies. See "—Non-compliance with OFAC and EU sanctions programmes, an expansion of these programmes or a significant expansion of the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with any parties subject to sanctions could adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's financial condition". No assurance can be given that additional persons will not be subjected to sanctions, the existing sanctions programmes will not be further expanded or that other jurisdictions or bodies will not impose similar or additional sanctions.

The reaction of international investors to escalating geopolitical tensions and the economic sanctions described above have had an adverse effect on the Russian financial markets and funds focused on emerging markets, including Russia, have become more susceptible to intensive withdrawals by clients as has occurred on a number of occasions in the recent past. The ability of Russian companies and banks to obtain funding from the international capital and loan markets has also been hampered as a result of decreased demand from the international investor base and reduced issuer activity. Further escalation of the sanctions regime against Russia may have a further negative impact on the Russian economy and the Russian financial and banking markets, increase capital outflows as well as worsen the general business and investment climate in Russia. In 2014 and 2015, the rating agencies lowered their credit ratings for Russia citing the continuous effect of the United States and EU sanctions as one of the factors affecting these downgrades (see “—The deteriorating conditions of the Russian economy, the instability of the Russian banking sector and commodity prices could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, liquidity and financial condition—Impact on credit ratings”). The continued impact of these events and any continuing or escalating military action in Eastern Ukraine, public protests, unrest, political instability or further sanctions could have a further adverse effect on the Ukrainian and Russian economies and consequently, a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

After the Alfa Banking Group restructured its Ukrainian operations in August 2006, the Alfa Banking Group started to treat its exposure Ukrainian entity Joint Stock Company “Alfa Bank” (“Alfa Bank Ukraine”, ABH Ukraine Limited and its subsidiaries, including Alfa Bank Ukraine, form the “ABH Ukraine Group”) as related party transactions. On 31 March 2014, Alfa Bank transferred to the ABH Ukraine Group legal title to shares representing a 19.9 per cent. interest in Alfa Bank Ukraine which were sold by the Alfa Banking Group in 2010 and 2011 (see “Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Historical Relationship with Alfa Bank Ukraine and the ABH Ukraine Group”). As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group’s exposure to the ABH Ukraine Group and balances receivable from Ukrainian borrowers were insignificant.

Terrorism, crime and corruption could affect the Russian economy and disrupt the Alfa Banking Group’s ability to conduct its business

Terrorist activity inside and outside Russia have had a significant effect on the international and domestic financial and commodity markets. Various acts of terrorism have been committed in population centres within the Russian Federation. The risks associated with these events or potential future events could materially and adversely affect the investment environment and overall consumer confidence in the Russian Federation. In particular, as the Russian Federation produces and exports large amounts of crude oil and gas, any acts of terrorism or armed conflicts causing disruptions of Russian oil and gas exports could negatively affect the Russian economy.

Levels of organised criminal activity continue to be significant in Russia. The Russian and international press have reported high levels of corruption in the Russian Federation, including the bribing of officials for the purpose of initiating investigations by Russian Government agencies. Additionally, published reports indicate that a significant number of Russian media regularly publish biased articles in exchange for payment. These factors could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Social instability could renew support for a centralised authority, nationalism or violence, and thus materially adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group’s ability to conduct its business effectively

Social instability in the Russian Federation, coupled with difficult economic conditions and the failure of salaries and benefits generally to keep pace with the rapidly increasing cost of living have led in the past to labour and social unrest (principally in urban areas). Any future labour and social unrest may have political, social and economic consequences, such as increased support for a renewal of centralised authority, increased nationalism, including restrictions on foreign involvement in the Russian economy and increased violence. This could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Legislation to protect against nationalisation and expropriation may not be enforced in the event of a nationalisation or expropriation of the Alfa Banking Group’s assets

Although the Russian Government has enacted legislation to protect property against expropriation and nationalisation and to provide fair compensation to be paid if such events were to occur, there can be no certainty that such protections will be enforced. This uncertainty is due to several factors, including the lack of state budgetary resources, the lack of an independent judicial system and insufficient mechanisms to enforce judgments.

The concept of property rights is not well developed in the Russian Federation and there is not a great deal of experience in enforcing legislation enacted to protect private property against nationalisation and expropriation. As a result, the Alfa Banking Group may not be able to obtain proper redress in the courts, and may not receive adequate compensation if in the future the Russian Government decides to nationalise or expropriate some or all of the Alfa Banking Group's assets. The expropriation or nationalisation of any of the Alfa Banking Group's or its respective shareholders' assets without fair compensation may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Economic Risks

Instability of the Russian economy

Since the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991, Russia has experienced:

- significant declines in gross domestic product;
- hyperinflation or high levels of inflation;
- an unstable currency;
- high levels of state debt relative to gross domestic product;
- crises in the banking sector limiting the ability of banks to provide liquidity to Russian enterprises;
- a large number of loss-making enterprises that continue to operate due to the lack of effective bankruptcy proceedings;
- significant use of barter transactions and illiquid promissory notes to settle commercial transactions;
- widespread tax evasion;
- growth of "black" and "grey" market economies;
- pervasive capital flight;
- high levels of government corruption and the penetration of organised crime and government into the economy;
- political and social instability;
- ethnic and religious tensions;
- lack of consensus between federal and local governments;
- over-dependence of the economy on export of commodities, in particular oil, gas and metals;
- significant declines and volatility in the stock market;
- significant increases in unemployment and under-employment;
- the impoverishment of a large portion of the Russian population;
- a declining population and short life-expectancy; and
- outdated and deteriorating physical infrastructure.

From 2000 until the first half of 2008, Russia experienced rapid growth in its gross domestic product, higher tax collections and increased stability of the Rouble, providing some degree of economic soundness. However, the Russian economy was adversely affected by the global economic crisis that began in the second half of 2008, which manifested itself through extreme volatility in debt and equity markets, reductions in foreign investment, sharp decreases in GDP and rise of unemployment around the world. While the situation globally has stabilised to a certain extent, the Russian economy began to experience a new slowdown in 2013. The conditions and outlook for the Russian economy deteriorated significantly during 2014 and continued to worsen in 2015. See "Risks relating to the Alfa Banking Group—The deteriorating conditions of the Russian economy, the instability of the Russian banking sector and commodity prices could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, liquidity and financial condition". Whilst the Russian economy experienced some stabilisation in 2016 and 2017, any deterioration in the general economic conditions in Russia, as a result of the fall in the price of oil in March 2020 and/or Covid-19, could adversely influence the level of demand for various products and services, including those provided by the Alfa Banking Group, and therefore could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Instability of the Russian banking system could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition or results of operations

During the past few years a number of Russian banks have experienced difficulties, including failure to make sufficient credit loss allowance, that have caused them to become insolvent and have their licenses revoked or to recognise large loan impairments that required steps to replenish their capital. The CBR commenced a “cleanup” campaign aimed at removing fraudulent, failing or undercapitalised financial institutions from the sector and making it more robust, stable and transparent in the event of any potential systemic shocks. In pursuit of this campaign, the CBR revoked banking licenses from a large number of banks, which substantially undermined the sustainability and reliability of the sector. The CBR revoked the banking license of Tatfondbank, a major regional bank, in March 2017 and Ugra Bank, which was the 33rd largest bank in Russia by assets, in July 2017. The CBR introduced measures aimed at improving the financial stability of Otkritie, B&N Bank and Promsvyazbank, all of which were some of the largest Russian private banks. More recently, on 22 January 2019, similar measures were introduced by the CBR with respect to Moscow Industrial Bank, the 33rd largest bank in Russia by assets as of 1 January 2019, in response to the breach of the minimum statutory capital requirements caused by assets’ impairment. Intensified withdrawal of banking licences as a result of the inability of certain banks to meet the mandatory requirements of the CBR, failure to comply with anti-money laundering regulations or due to other reasons could result in lower liquidity on the domestic market, lower investor confidence in the Russian banking system and raise concerns about the ability of the State Deposit Insurance Agency to service any further pay-outs to insured depositors should any similar bank collapses occur in the future. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group may be affected by consequential defaults of corporate customers that suffer from the problems faced by other Russian banks or if similar disruption in the banking sector occurs in the future and affects the overall economic situation in Russia.

Liquidity shortages on domestic financial and interbank markets during 2014 and 2015 driven by restricted access for many Russian banks to the international capital markets and volatility of the Russian Rouble resulted in the increased funding costs throughout the entire Russian financial system and have put substantial strain on Russian banks’ ability to manage interest rate risks, raise financing and prudently allocate available liquidity. The resulting higher interest rates have also negatively affected the banking sector’s profitability, as well as led to a deterioration in the creditworthiness of Russian consumer and corporates. Although liquidity in the Russian banking sector improved in 2016 and 2017, no assurance can be given that new liquidity constraints or shortages will not occur in the future.

In the event of a further deterioration and increased instability of the Russian banking sector, the Alfa Banking Group’s customers could withdraw some or all of their deposits more quickly than anticipated by the Alfa Banking Group, which could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s liquidity, business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Fluctuations in the global economy and any prolonged decline in commodities prices may have an adverse effect on the Russian economy and on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects

Russia produces and exports large quantities of crude oil, natural gas and other mineral resources, which makes the Russian economy particularly vulnerable to fluctuations in the world markets’ prices of commodities. The price of oil has been particularly volatile in the recent years reaching a peak in March 2012 and significantly decreasing in the second half of 2014 from U.S.$112.36 per barrel of Brent Crude oil on 30 June 2014 to U.S.$55.27 per barrel on 31 December 2014. As at 31 December 2019, the price of Brent Crude oil was U.S.$68.68 per barrel. In the first half of 2020 oil prices have been falling and in early March there was a substantial drop in oil prices (the price of Brent Crude fell from U.S.$45.3 per barrel on 6 March 2020 to U.S.$33.3 per barrel on 12 March 2020) as a result of Russia and OPEC failing to reach an agreement over proposed oil production cuts. This drop in oil prices caused volatility in the global financial markets. In the second half of 2020, oil prices rebounded to levels above U.S.$40 per barrel and in the first six months of 2021, oil prices rebounded to levels above U.S.$60 per barrel. In addition, any significant disruptions of major exploration and development projects in the Russian oil and gas sector as a result of technological failures, restrictions on obtaining necessary technologies or services from foreign suppliers as a result of sanctions or insufficient funding may result in decreased productivity, reductions in output of such commodities and ultimately lead to lower federal budget revenues. These developments could have a material adverse effect on the Russian Government’s ability to provide financial support to Russian banks, including the Alfa Banking Group and could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

In addition, military conflicts, international terrorist activity and natural disasters have had a significant effect on international finance and commodity markets. Any future military conflicts, acts of terrorism or natural disasters could have an adverse effect on the international financial and commodities markets and the global economy. As Russia produces and exports large amounts of crude oil and gas, any acts of terrorism or armed conflicts, or politically motivated acts of Russian Government, causing disruption of Russian oil and gas exports could negatively affect the Russian economy and thereby adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group’s business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

Exchange rates, exchange controls and repatriation restrictions could adversely affect the value of investments in the Russian Federation

The Rouble remains largely non-convertible outside the Russian Federation. A market exists within the Russian Federation for the conversion of Roubles into other currencies, but it is limited in size and is subject to rules limiting such conversion. During 2014, the foreign currency and gold reserves decreased significantly and stood at U.S.$385 billion by 31 December 2014. Russia's international reserves continued to decrease throughout 2015 and reached U.S.$368 billion by 31 December 2015 but subsequently increasing to U.S.$378 billion by 31 December 2016, to U.S.$433 billion by 31 December 2017, to U.S.$469 billion by 31 December 2018, to U.S.$554.4 billion by 1 January 2020, to U.S.$597.4 billion by 1 January 2021 and to U.S.$591 billion by 2 July 2021. According to data published by the CBR, the CBR spent approximately U.S.$78.9 billion of Russia's international reserves on money market interventions to support the Rouble in 2014 but no assurance can be given that the CBR will use any more of the reserves to support the Rouble in the future. The Rouble depreciated against the U.S. dollar as a result of the recent decline in oil prices from RUB 73.88 per U.S.$1.00 as at 31 December 2020 to RUB 72.37 per U.S.$1.00 as at 30 June 2021. The CBR has taken measures to support the Rouble by selling foreign currency and this may reduce Russia's international reserves. Although Russia's current foreign currency and gold reserves may be sufficient to sustain the domestic currency market in the short-term, there can be no assurance that the currency market will not further deteriorate in the medium or long-term due to the lack of foreign currency funding available in the global markets. The lack of growth of the Russian currency market in the medium or long-term may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Russia's physical infrastructure is in poor condition, which could disrupt normal business activity

Russia's physical infrastructure is in very poor condition and largely dates back to Soviet times. It has not been adequately funded and maintained over the past decade and may cause disruptions in normal business activities. Particularly affected are pipeline, rail and road networks, power generation and transmission systems and communication systems. With a view to increasing capital inflows and private investment into Russia's physical infrastructure, the Russian Government has launched a number of infrastructure modernisation programmes such as a large scale reform of the electricity sector. However, there is uncertainty in the current economic environment as to the extent to which such programmes will be realised. Such reforms, if realised, are likely to result in increased charges and tariffs, but may fail to generate the anticipated capital investment needed to repair, maintain and improve these systems.

The Russian Government is actively considering plans to reorganise and/or privatise the Russian Federation's rail, electricity and telephone systems. Any such reorganisation or privatisation may result in increased charges and tariffs while failing to generate the anticipated capital investment needed to repair, maintain and improve these systems. The continued deterioration of Russia's physical infrastructure may harm the national economy, disrupt the transportation of goods and supplies, add costs to doing business in the Russian Federation and may interrupt business operations, any of which could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

If the Russian Federation were to return to heavy and sustained inflation, the Alfa Banking Group's results of operations could be adversely affected

The inflation rate ("CPI") in the Russian Federation measured by RosStat was relatively stable from 2011 to 2013, reaching 6.1 per cent. in 2011, 6.6 per cent. in 2012 and 6.5 per cent. in 2013. As a result of the deteriorating economic conditions, depreciating Rouble and restrictive measures on certain imports, inflation increased significantly in 2014 and reached 11.4 per cent. and 12.9 per cent. in 2015. Inflation was subdued in the following period and amounted to 2.5 per cent. in 2017, 4.3 per cent. in 2018, to 3.0 per cent. in 2019, to 4.9 per cent. in 2020 and to 6.5 per cent. in the first half of 2021.

Any return to high and sustained inflation could lead to market instability, new financial crises, reductions in consumer purchasing power and an erosion of consumer confidence. Any one of these events could lead to decreased demand for the Alfa Banking Group's products and services and result in a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Legal Risks

Weaknesses relating to the Russian legal system and Russian law create an uncertain environment for investment and for business activity

The Russian legal framework applicable to a market economy is still under development. Since 1991, Soviet law has been largely, but not entirely, replaced by a new legal regime as established by the 1993 Federal Constitution, the Civil Code, by other federal laws and by decrees, orders and regulations issued by the President, the Russian Government and federal ministries, which are, in turn, complemented by regional and local rules and regulations. These legal norms, at times, overlap with or contradict one another. Several fundamental Russian laws have only recently become effective. The recent nature of much of Russian law and the rapid evolution of the Russian legal system place the enforceability and underlying constitutionality of laws in doubt and result in ambiguities, inconsistencies and anomalies. In addition, Russian law often leaves substantial gaps in the regulatory infrastructure.

Among the risks of the current Russian legal system are:

- inconsistencies among, federal laws; decrees, orders and regulations issued by the President, the Russian Government, federal ministries and regulatory authorities; and regional and local laws, rules and regulations;
- limited judicial and administrative guidance on interpretations of Russian law;
- substantial gaps in the regulatory structure due to delay or absence of implementing legislation;
- the relative inexperience of certain judges in interpreting new principles of Russian law, particularly business and corporate law;
- the possibility that certain judges may be susceptible to economic, political or nationalistic influences;
- a high degree of discretion on the part of governmental authorities; and
- bankruptcy procedures that are not well developed.

All of these factors make judicial decisions in the Russian Federation difficult to predict and effective redress uncertain. Additionally, court claims are often used to further political aims. The Alfa Banking Group may be subject to these claims and may not be able to receive a fair hearing. Additionally, court judgments are not always enforced or followed by law enforcement agencies.

Unlawful or arbitrary government action in Russia may have an adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business

State authorities have a high degree of discretion in Russia and at times exercise their discretion arbitrarily, without conducting a hearing or giving prior notice, and sometimes on disputed legal grounds. Moreover, the state also has the power in certain circumstances, by regulation or act, to interfere with the performance of, nullify or terminate contracts. Unlawful or arbitrary state actions have included withdrawal of licences, sudden and unexpected tax audits, criminal prosecutions and civil actions. Federal and local government entities have also used common defects in matters surrounding documentation of financing activities as pretexts for court claims and other demands to invalidate such activities and/or to void transactions, often for political purposes. Unlawful or arbitrary state action, if directed at the Alfa Banking Group, could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Difficulty in enforcing the Alfa Banking Group's rights in Russia may have an adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects

The current status of the Russian legal system makes it uncertain whether the Alfa Banking Group would be able to enforce its rights in disputes with any of its contractual counterparties. Furthermore, the dispersion of regulatory power among a number of state agencies in the Russian Federation has resulted in inconsistent or contradictory regulations and unpredictable enforcement. The Russian Government has rapidly introduced laws and regulations and has changed its legal structure in an effort to make the Russian economy more market-oriented, resulting in considerable legal confusion. No assurance can be given that local laws and regulations will become stable in the future. The Alfa Banking Group's ability to operate in the Russian Federation could be adversely affected by difficulties in protecting and enforcing its rights and by future changes to local laws and regulations. Further, its ability to protect and enforce such rights is dependent on the Russian courts, which are underdeveloped, inefficient, and, in places, corrupt. Judicial precedents generally have no binding effect on subsequent decisions. Enforcement of court orders can in practice be very difficult in the Russian Federation.

Foreign judgments and arbitral awards may not be enforceable against the Alfa Banking Group

Russian courts will not enforce any judgment obtained in a court established in a country other than the Russian Federation unless one of the following factors is present:

- there is a treaty in effect between the Russian Federation and the country where the judgment was rendered providing for the recognition of court judgments in civil cases; or
- a federal law of Russia is adopted providing for the recognition and enforcement of foreign court judgments; or

- the judgment may be enforced on the basis of reciprocity, if courts of the country where the foreign judgment is rendered have previously enforced judgments issued by Russian courts.

No such treaty exists between the Russian Federation and either the United Kingdom or the United States and no such federal law has been passed. Even in the event that there is such a treaty and a federal law, Russian courts may nonetheless refuse to recognise and enforce a foreign court judgment on the grounds provided in such treaty and in Russian legislation in effect on the date on which such recognition and enforcement is sought. The Commercial Procedural Code of the Russian Federation establishes the procedures for the recognition and enforcement of foreign court judgments and contains an extensive list of grounds for refusal of such recognition and enforcement in the future. Moreover, Russian procedural legislation may change and no assurance can be given that in the future no other ground for refusal of such recognition and enforcement may arise.

There have been at least two instances in which Russian courts have recognised and enforced a judgment of a court of a country with which Russia does not have an international treaty to that effect (the United Kingdom and the Netherlands). The basis for this was a combination of the principle of reciprocity and the existence of a number of bilateral and multilateral treaties to which both countries were parties. There have been no other Russian court decisions by which foreign judgments, in the absence of a statutory basis in Russian federal law or a treaty between Russia and the respective state where the foreign judgment was rendered, have been recognised and enforced on the territory of Russia. It may be said that as a general rule the court judgments rendered against a member of the Alfa Banking Group in the United Kingdom or elsewhere remain uncertain and it may be impossible to enforce in Russia, unless their recognition and enforcement are permitted by an international treaty or Russian legislation.

Russian tax law and practice are not fully developed and are subject to frequent changes

A significant part of the Alfa Banking Group assets and operations is located in Russia and, therefore, weaknesses in the Russian tax system could adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group.

The Russian subsidiaries of the Alfa Banking Group are subject to a broad range of Russian taxes and charges imposed at the federal, regional and local levels, including, but not limited to, corporate income tax, value added tax (“VAT”), property tax and payroll related social security contributions.

Russian laws and regulations related to these taxes, such as the Tax Code of the Russian Federation (the “Russian Tax Code”) have been in force for a relatively short period in comparison with tax laws and regulations in more developed market economies. The implementation of Russian tax laws and regulations is often unclear or inconsistent. Historically, the system of tax collection in Russia has been relatively ineffective, resulting in the continual changes to the tax legislation, some of which applies retroactively and occurs with little notice.

Although Russia’s tax climate and the quality of Russian tax legislation have generally improved with the introduction of the Russian Tax Code, there can be no assurance that the Russian Tax Code will not be changed or interpreted in the future in a manner adverse to the stability and predictability of the Russian tax system. The possibility exists that the Russian Government may impose arbitrary or onerous taxes, levies, fines and penalties in the future, which could adversely affect the business of Alfa Bank and the Russian subsidiaries of the Alfa Banking Group.

Since Russian federal, regional and local tax laws and regulations have been subject to frequent changes and some of the sections of the Russian Tax Code relating to the aforementioned taxes are comparatively new, the interpretation and applications of these laws and regulations is often unclear, unstable or non-existent. Differing interpretations of tax laws and regulations may exist both among and within government bodies at the federal, regional and local levels, increasing the number of existing uncertainties and tax risks and leading to the inconsistent enforcement of these tax laws and regulations in practice.

Furthermore, taxpayers, the Russian Ministry of Finance and the Russian tax authorities often interpret tax laws and regulations differently. In some instances, the Russian tax authorities have applied new interpretations of tax laws and regulations retroactively. In addition, there have been cases where letters of the tax authorities have been cancelled by the Russian Ministry of Finance. Private clarifications to specific taxpayers’ queries with respect to particular situations issued by the Russian Ministry of Finance are not binding on the Russian tax authorities. There can be no assurance, therefore, that the representatives of the local Russian tax authorities will not take positions contrary to those set out in the private clarification letters issued by the Russian Ministry of Finance. Moreover, there can be no assurance that the Russian legislation and regulations will not be altered, in whole or in part, or that Russian tax authorities and/or Russian courts or other regulatory authorities will not interpret these rules and regulations in such a way that the arrangements described in these Base Listing Particulars would be subject to different tax treatment than the treatment described herein, whether retroactively or otherwise, or would be adversely affected in some other way. During the past several years the Russian tax authorities have shown a tendency to take more assertive positions in their interpretation of tax legislation, which has led to an increased number of material tax assessments issued by them as a result of tax reviews of Russian companies operating in various industries, including in the financial services industry.

In practice, taxpayers often have to resort to court proceedings to defend their positions against the Russian tax authorities. In the absence of binding precedent or consistent court practice, rulings on tax or other related matters by different courts relating to the same or similar circumstances may be inconsistent or contradictory.

The Russian tax system is, therefore, impeded by the fact that, at times, it still relies heavily on the inconsistent judgments of local tax officials and fails to address many of the existing problems. It is, therefore, possible that transactions and activities of Alfa Bank and the Russian subsidiaries of the Alfa Banking Group that have not been challenged in the past may be challenged in the future, which may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

In 2017 anti-avoidance rules were introduced by Article 54.1 "Limits on the exercise of the rights relating to the calculation of the tax base and (or) the amount of a tax, a levy or insurance contributions" of the Russian Tax Code. The new anti-avoidance rules establish the framework within which taxpayers enjoy tax benefits and prohibit any willful misconduct resulting in non-payment or underpayment of taxes by misrepresenting information on economic events and objects of taxation. In addition to this prohibition taxpayers may reduce the tax base and/or payable amount of tax if they can document that (i) tax evasion is not the primary purpose of a transaction and (ii) the contractual obligation is fulfilled directly by the party named in the contract or by a person to whom such obligation was transferred by contract or by law. The new rules apply retrospectively to all periods open for tax examination. Due to the fact that court practice related to application of new rules is still inconsistent, no assurance can currently be given as to the exact effect such rules may have on the taxpayers, including Russian companies of the Alfa Banking Group.

Generally, tax returns together with related documentation are subject to tax audit by the Russian tax authorities for a period of three calendar years (with certain exceptions, including tax monitoring regime in which Alfa Bank participates) immediately preceding the year in which the decision to conduct a tax audit is taken. A repeat tax audit of periods which have been already audited or a tax audit of periods beyond the three-year statute of limitations (the "Extraordinary Tax Audit") may be conducted under certain conditions. Therefore, the statute of limitations is not entirely effective with respect to liability for payment of taxes in Russia. If as a result of the Extraordinary Tax Audit it is concluded that the Russian subsidiaries of the Alfa Banking Group had significant tax underpayments for respective tax periods, it may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition and results of operations. Tax audits may also impose additional administrative burden on the Alfa Banking Group by diverting the attention of its management and financial personnel, requiring resources for defending the Alfa Banking Group's tax filing position, including for any tax litigation.

In addition to the usual tax burden imposed on Russian taxpayers, these conditions complicate tax planning and related business decisions. This uncertainty could possibly expose the Alfa Banking Group to significant fines and penalties and to enforcement measures, despite the Alfa Banking Group's best efforts at compliance, and could result in a greater than expected tax burden.

The possibility exists that the Russian Government may impose arbitrary or onerous taxes and penalties in the future, which could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition or results of operations. Additionally, there have been cases perceived as utilisation of tax claims as a tool for significant state intervention in certain key industries.

The Alfa Banking Group operates in various jurisdictions and includes companies incorporated outside of Russia. Russian tax laws currently in effect are not well developed as far as taxation of foreign companies in Russia or operations of Russian companies abroad are concerned. The Russian Tax Code contains a concept of permanent establishment in Russia as a means for taxing foreign legal entities which carry out regular entrepreneurial activities in Russia beyond preparatory and auxiliary activities. However, the practical application of the concept of a permanent establishment under Russian law is not well developed and foreign companies having even limited operations in Russia, which would not normally satisfy the conditions for creating a permanent establishment under international rules, may be at a risk of being treated as having a permanent establishment in Russia and be liable to Russian taxation and have obligations to withhold Russian taxes from payments to foreign individuals and legal entities as a tax agent. There were a few precedents where the Russian tax authorities sought to challenge the Russian tax status of foreign companies and some of their attempts were successful. It is possible that with the evolution of these rules or changes in the approach of the Russian tax authorities and/or courts to their interpretation and application, the Alfa Banking Group might become subject to additional taxation in Russia in respect of its operations outside Russia.

In addition, the Russian Federation, like a number of other countries in the world, is actively involved in discussing and implementation of measures against tax evasion by the use of low tax jurisdictions and aggressive tax planning structures. Starting 1 January 2015 the following rules and concepts were introduced into the Russian Tax Code:

(1) “controlled foreign companies” rules pursuant to which undistributed profits of certain organizations as well as foreign structures not being legal entities (such as funds, partnerships), owned and/or controlled by Russian tax residents (both legal entities and individuals), should be subject to taxation in Russia provided certain criteria are met; (2) the concept of tax residency in Russia for non-Russian legal entities whereby generally legal entities would be deemed Russian tax residents if their place of management is located in Russia; (3) the beneficial ownership concept for the purposes of application of the double tax treaties, which provides that treaty relief should only be available to foreign income recipients provided they have the actual right to receive income (i.e. they qualify as a “beneficial owner of income”).

Introduction and further evolution of the abovementioned rules and concepts may impose additional administrative and tax burdens on the Alfa Banking Group. No assurance can currently be given as to how the above rules and concepts will be applied in practice, their potential interpretation by the Russian tax authorities and the possible impact (including, additional tax liability, if any) on the Alfa Banking Group. Therefore, it cannot be excluded that the Alfa Banking Group may be subject to additional tax liabilities as a result of the application of the new rules and concepts to transactions carried out by the Alfa Banking Group, which could have a material adverse effect on financial condition and results of operations and the value of the Notes.

These facts create tax risks in Russia that may be substantially more significant than typically found in countries with more developed tax systems. Furthermore, the Russian tax legislation is consistently becoming more sophisticated.

Historically, the Alfa Banking Group and the main Russian entities of the Alfa Banking Group have been paying significant amounts of tax due to the scale of their operations. These factors, coupled with the potential for state budget deficits, raise the risk of the imposition of additional taxes, levies, fines and penalties on the Alfa Banking Group. The introduction of new taxes or levies or introduction of amendments to current taxation rules may have a substantial impact on the overall amount of tax liabilities of the respective entities. Although the Alfa Banking Group undertakes measures aimed at minimising tax risk and the approach to management of tax liabilities and tax risks within the Alfa Banking Group has been conservative, there is no assurance that the Russian entities of the Alfa Banking Group would not be required to make substantially larger tax payments in the future, which may affect the financial results of the Alfa Banking Group. In addition to creating a substantial tax burden, these risks and uncertainties complicate the Alfa Banking Group’s tax planning and related business decisions, potentially exposing it and its Russian subsidiaries to significant additional taxes, levies, fines and penalties and enforcement measures, and could have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

OECD Action Plan on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting

Fiscal and taxation policy and practice is constantly evolving and recently the pace of change has increased due to a number of developments. In particular, a number of changes of law and practice are occurring as a result of the OECD Base Erosion and Profit Shifting project (“BEPS”). Investors should note that certain action points which form part of the OECD BEPS project (such as Action 4, which can deny deductions for financing costs, see the risk factor entitled “EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive” below or Action 6 on the prevention of treaty abuse) may be implemented in a manner which affects the tax position of the Issuer.

EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive

As part of its anti-tax avoidance package, and to provide a framework for a harmonised implementation of a number of the BEPS conclusions across the EU, the EU Council adopted Council Directive (EU) 2016/1164 (the “Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive”) on 12 July 2016.

The EU Council adopted Council Directive (EU) 2017/952 (the “Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive 2”) on 29 May 2017, amending the Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive, to provide for minimum standards for counteracting hybrid mismatches involving EU member states and third countries.

EU member states were required to implement the Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive by 2019 (subject to derogations for EU member states which have equivalent measures in their domestic law) and had until 31 December 2019 to implement the Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive 2 (except for measures relating to reverse hybrid mismatches, which must be implemented by 31 December 2021).

The Directives contain various measures that could, depending on their implementation in Ireland, potentially result in certain payments made by the Issuer ceasing to be fully deductible. This could increase the Issuer’s liability to tax and reduce the amounts available for payments on the Notes. There are two measures of particular relevance. Firstly, the Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive provides for an “interest limitation rule” which restricts the deductible interest of an entity to 30 per cent. of its earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation. However, the interest limitation only applies to the net borrowing costs of an entity (being the amount by which its borrowing costs exceed its taxable interest revenues and other economically equivalent taxable revenues). This measure has not yet been implemented in Ireland but is expected to be implemented with effect from 1 January 2022. The exact scope of the measure and its impact on the Issuer's tax position will depend on how this is implemented in Ireland.

Secondly, the Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive (as amended by the Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive 2) provides for hybrid mismatch rules. These rules apply in Ireland with effect from 1 January 2020 and are designed to neutralise arrangements where amounts are deductible from the income of one entity but are not taxable for another, or the same amounts are deductible for two entities. These rules could potentially apply to the Issuer where: (i) the interest that it pays under the Notes, and claims deductions from its taxable income for, is not brought into account as taxable income by the relevant Noteholder, either because of the characterisation of the Notes, or the payments made under them, or because of the nature of the Noteholder itself; and (ii) the mismatch arises between associated enterprises, between the Issuer and an associated enterprise or under a structured arrangement. It is not clear if the Issuer will have any associated enterprise, however if the Issuer has an associated enterprise holding Notes, then the measures should not impact payments on the Notes to that enterprise where the amounts of the payment are fully included for tax purposes and brought into account as taxable income by that enterprise.

For the purposes of the hybrid rules, a structured arrangement is one involving a mismatch outcome where the mismatch outcome is priced into the terms of the arrangement or the arrangement was designed to give rise to a mismatch outcome. Absent any guidance from the Irish Revenue Commissioners on how they will approach structured arrangements, it is not yet clear if this would apply to the transaction to bring it within scope of the hybrid rules.

Russian transfer pricing rules may adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial condition and results of operations

Russian transfer pricing legislation which is currently in effect allows the Russian tax authorities to make transfer pricing adjustments and impose additional tax liabilities in respect of all "controlled" transactions. The burden of proving market prices rests with the taxpayer.

Due to the uncertainties in the interpretation of Russian transfer pricing legislation, no assurance can be given that the Russian tax authorities will not challenge prices of the transactions of the Alfa Banking Group and make adjustments, which could adversely affect the Alfa Banking Group's tax position unless the Alfa Banking Group will be able to confirm the use of market prices with respect to "controlled" transactions, supported with the appropriate transfer pricing documentation. The imposition of additional tax liabilities under the Russian transfer pricing legislation may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group's tax position, business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

The Alfa Banking Group is subject to regulations related to money laundering and non-compliance with these regulations may result in the revocation of the banking licences of members of the Alfa Banking Group

Russia is a member country of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering ("FATF") and the Egmond Group, and has enacted laws and regulations to combat money laundering, terrorist financing and other financial crimes. In Russia, all banks and their employees are obliged to implement and fulfil certain requirements regarding the treatment of activities that may be referred to as money laundering. The Federal Law No. 115-FZ "On Countermeasures Against Laundering of Criminal Profits and the Financing of Terrorism" of 7 August 2001, as amended (the "Anti-Money Laundering Law") and implementing legislation set forth the framework for this requirement and other anti-money laundering procedures.

Minimum standards and duties according to the Anti-Money Laundering Law include customer identification, record keeping, suspicious activity reporting, employee training, an internal audit function and designation of a compliance officer. Suspicious ("unusual") transactions must be reported on a daily basis to the Federal Service for Financial Monitoring.

In addition, the Alfa Banking Group has expanded its operations with the MSME clients over the past few years which places additional burden on it in terms of financial and tax reporting. In 2018, Russian legislation has been amended to place more obligations on banks to act as tax agents and report various payments to the tax authorities which has resulted in a greater involvement of the Alfa Banking Group's compliance and other staff in such operations and longer times to perform services requested by customers.

To ensure that the Alfa Banking Group is not unwittingly used as an intermediary in any money laundering process or other related criminal activities, the Alfa Banking Group complies with the CBR's anti-money laundering rules. This programme includes written policies and procedures, assigning a compliance officer, an audit and review function to test the robustness of anti-money laundering policies and procedures, monitoring and auditing customer activities and transactions in accordance with anti-money laundering legislation and regulations and employee training. Noncompliance with Russian money laundering legislation may result in the revocation of Alfa Bank's banking licence and, as a result, the general deterioration of the Alfa Banking Group's business, financial position or results of operations.

The Russian corporate governance, public reporting requirements and accounting regulations to which the Alfa Banking Group is subject differ significantly from those applicable to comparable companies in other jurisdictions

The Alfa Banking Group's corporate affairs are governed by its charters, its internal regulations and by the laws governing Russian banks and companies incorporated in Russia. See "The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation". The rights of shareholders and the responsibilities of members of governing bodies of legal entities under Russian law are different from, and may be subject to certain requirements not generally applicable to, companies organised in the United Kingdom, the United States or other jurisdictions. See "Management".

The accounting and reporting standards of the Russian Federation are not comparable to those in other jurisdictions, such as the United States and the United Kingdom and Russian Accounting Regulations ("RAR") are not comparable to either International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") or US Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"). Russian accounting legislation continues to develop and has been subject to change on a regular basis in recent years. The relatively recent introduction of IFRS in Russia means that Russian companies are not as experienced with or knowledgeable about IFRS as companies in countries that have a longer history of complying with IFRS.

In accordance with Russian legislation applicable to securities issuers, Alfa Bank is required to file quarterly reports with the federal governmental authority responsible for the supervision of the securities market of the Russian Federation, which, as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, is the CBR. These reports include certain information about Alfa Bank, its management, subsidiaries, affiliates and selected financial and business information (such as events of litigation and quarterly statutory accounting reports prepared in accordance with RAR).

As a result of the relatively recent introduction of international accounting standards in Russia, Russian companies and corporate groups may not have fully developed and implemented the required methodologies for the preparation of international financial statements, including the internal control frameworks, development methodologies or risk assessment activities on which the preparation of international financial statements depends. In addition, despite recent initiatives to improve corporate transparency in Russia, there is less publicly available information about most Russian banks, including Alfa Bank and the Alfa Banking Group, than there is available for comparable banks in, for example, the United Kingdom or the United States.

The Alfa Banking Group faces risks associated with doing business in other CIS countries and other emerging markets

In addition to Russia, as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the Alfa Banking Group undertakes banking activities in other CIS countries. The Alfa Banking Group may undertake additional banking activities in the CIS and other emerging markets. In many respects, the risks inherent in transacting business in these countries are similar to those in Russia, especially those risks set out herein.

RISKS RELATING TO THE ISSUER

The Issuer's ability to fulfil its obligations to make payments on the Notes is dependent on the Alfa Banking Group

The Issuer is a special purpose vehicle whose entire share capital is held in a charitable trust by TMF Management (Ireland) Limited. The Issuer was established to raise capital by the issue of debt securities and to use amounts equal to the proceeds of each such issuance to make loans to Alfa Bank. The Issuer will use the proceeds of each Series of Notes to finance a loan to Alfa Bank. The Issuer does not have other assets or revenues sufficient to meet its obligations to pay redemption amounts and other amounts due under the Notes. The performance by the Issuer of its obligations under the Notes is, therefore, entirely dependent upon Alfa Bank meeting its payment obligations under the terms of the relevant Loan Agreement.

The Issuer is subject to certain legal risks, including the location of its centre of main interest ("COMI"), the appointment of an examiner in the event the Issuer experiences financial difficulties and the claims of preferred creditors under Irish law

Centre of main interest

The Issuer has its registered office in Ireland. Under Regulation (EU) No. 2015/848 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2015 on insolvency proceedings (recast) (the “Recast EU Insolvency Regulation”), the Issuer’s centre of main interest (“COMI”) is presumed to be the place of its registered office (i.e. Ireland) in the absence of proof to the contrary and provided that the Issuer did not move its registered office within the 3 months prior to a request to open insolvency proceedings.

As the Issuer’s COMI is presumed to be Ireland, any main insolvency proceedings in respect of the Issuer would fall within the jurisdiction of the courts of Ireland. As to what might constitute “proof to the contrary” regarding the location of a company’s COMI, the key decision is that in Re Eurofood IFSC Ltd ([2004] 4 IR 370 (Irish High Court); [2006] IESC 41 (Irish Supreme Court); [2006] Ch 508; ECJ Case C-341/04 (European Court of Justice)), given in respect of the equivalent provision in the previous EU Insolvency Regulation (Regulation (EC) No. 1346/2000). In that case, on a reference from the Irish Supreme Court, the European Court of Justice concluded that “factors which are both objective and ascertainable by third parties” would be needed to demonstrate that a company’s actual situation is different from that which the location of its registered office is deemed to reflect.

As the Issuer has its registered office in Ireland, all of its directors are tax resident in Ireland and is registered for tax in Ireland, the Issuer does not believe that factors exist that would rebut the presumption that its COMI is located in Ireland, although this would ultimately be a matter for the relevant court to decide based on the circumstances existing at the time when it was asked to make that decision. If the Issuer’s COMI was found to be in another EU jurisdiction and not in Ireland, main insolvency proceedings would be opened in that jurisdiction instead.

Preferred creditors

If the Issuer becomes subject to an insolvency proceeding and the Issuer has obligations to creditors that are treated under Irish law as creditors that are senior relative to the Noteholders, the Noteholders may suffer losses as a result of their subordinated status during such insolvency proceedings. In particular:

- under the terms of the Trust Deed, the Issuer will charge to the Trustee on behalf of Noteholders by way of first fixed charge (the “Charge”) as security for its payment obligations in respect of the Notes certain rights under the relevant Loan Agreement and to the relevant Account. Under Irish law, the claims of creditors holding fixed charges may rank behind other creditors (namely fees, costs and expenses of any examiner appointed and certain capital gains tax liabilities) and, in the case of fixed charges over book debts, may rank behind claims of the Irish Revenue Commissioners for PAYE, local property tax and VAT;
- under Irish law, for a charge to be characterised as a fixed charge, the charge holder is required to exercise the requisite level of control over the assets purported to be charged and the proceeds of such assets including any bank account into which such proceeds are paid. There is a risk therefore that even a charge which purports to be taken as a fixed charge may take effect as a floating charge if a court deems that the requisite level of control was not exercised; and
- in an insolvency of the Issuer, the claims of certain other creditors (including the Irish Revenue Commissioners for certain unpaid taxes), as well as those of creditors mentioned above, will rank in priority to claims of unsecured creditors and claims of creditors holding floating charges.

RISKS RELATING TO THE FINANCIAL INFORMATION PRESENTED IN THESE BASE LISTING PARTICULARS

The financial and other information included in these Base Listing Particulars has been derived from the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements and not from the financial statements of Alfa Bank

The financial and other information included in these Base Listing Particulars has, except where expressly stated otherwise, been extracted or derived from the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements (or underlying accounting records), and not from the financial statements of Alfa Bank. See “Presentation of Financial and Other Information – Presentation of Financial Information”.

ABH Financial is the indirect parent company of Alfa Bank and has subsidiaries other than Alfa Bank and its subsidiaries. Alfa Bank is the sole borrower under each Loan Agreement and its obligations are not guaranteed or otherwise indemnified or supported by ABH Financial or any other subsidiaries of ABH Financial. ABH Financial has no obligation with respect to the Notes. While a substantial portion of the revenues, expenses, cash flows, assets and liabilities set out in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements are attributable to Alfa Bank and its subsidiaries, the financial and other information included in these Base Listing Particulars derived from the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements may not be wholly representative of the business, financial condition or results of operations of Alfa Bank and its subsidiaries and should not be read as a direct reflection of the performance of Alfa Bank and its subsidiaries.

Investors should be aware that the financial information contained in these Base Listing Particulars does not highlight the extent to which the revenues, assets, liabilities, expenses and cash flows of the Alfa Banking Group are generated by Alfa Bank and its subsidiaries.

The financial statements for Alfa Bank provided elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars have not been prepared in accordance with the international accounting standards adopted pursuant to the procedure of Article 3 of Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002

Financial statements for Alfa Bank for the years ended 2020 and 2019, that are prepared in accordance with RAR, have been included elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars. Such financial statements have not been prepared in accordance with the international accounting standards adopted pursuant to the procedure of Article 3 of Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002 and there would be material differences in the financial information of Alfa Bank had Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002 been applied to Alfa Bank's historical financial information. Investors are strongly cautioned not to place undue reliance on the Alfa Bank RAR Financial Statements, which are included herein solely due to a requirement under the Commission Regulation (EC) No. 809/2004 of April 2004. Investors should note that RAR differs from IFRS in a number of material respects. See "Presentation of Financial and Other Information – Summary of material differences between IFRS and RAR".

RISKS RELATED TO THE NOTES AND TRADING MARKET

Payments under a Series of Notes are limited to the amount of certain payments received under the relevant Loan Agreement

The Issuer is only obliged to make payments in respect of a Series of Notes to the Noteholders in an amount equal to, and in the same currency as, sums of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) actually received and retained (net of tax) by or for the account of the Issuer from Alfa Bank pursuant to the relevant Loan Agreement. Consequently, if Alfa Bank fails to meet its payment obligations under the Loan Agreement in full, this will result in the Noteholders of a Series of Notes receiving less than the scheduled amount of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) on the relevant due date.

The Noteholders have no direct recourse to Alfa Bank and ABH Financial Except as otherwise disclosed in the "Terms and Conditions of the Notes" and in the Trust Deed, no proprietary or other direct interest in the Issuer's rights under or in respect of any Loan exists for the benefit of the Noteholders. Subject to the terms of the Trust Deed, no Noteholder will have any entitlement to enforce any of the provisions of the relevant Loan Agreement or have direct recourse to Alfa Bank and ABH Financial, except through action by the Trustee under the Security Interests (as defined in "Terms and Conditions of the Notes"). The Trustee shall not be required to take any actions, steps or proceedings to enforce payment under any Loan Agreement, unless it has been indemnified and/or secured and/or prefunded to its satisfaction.

Payment of principal and/or interest by Alfa Bank under any Loan Agreement to, or to the order of, the Trustee or the Principal Paying Agent is expected to meet, and will discharge, the Issuer's obligations in respect of the Notes. Consequently, the Noteholders will have no further recourse against the Issuer, Alfa Bank or ABH Financial after such payment is made.

Upon the occurrence of certain circumstances described in the relevant Loan Agreement, Alfa Bank may prepay the relevant Loan

Under the terms of the relevant Loan Agreement, Alfa Bank may, or may be required to, subject to certain conditions, prepay the relevant Loan early if (i) Alfa Bank is required to increase its payments for tax reasons regardless of whether the increased payment obligation results from any change in the applicable tax laws or treaties, or from the change in application of existing tax laws or treaties, or from enforcement of the security provided for in connection with the Notes; (ii) in the event that it becomes unlawful for the Issuer to allow the relevant Loan to remain outstanding under the relevant Loan Agreement, to allow the Notes to remain outstanding, to maintain or give effect to any of its obligations under the Loan Agreement and/or to charge or receive or to be paid interest at the rate then applicable to the relevant Loan, and (iii) other cases as specified in the relevant Loan Agreement.

An expansion of OFAC or EU sanctions programmes could adversely impact the trading market for the Notes

If OFAC or EU sanctions programmes are significantly expanded, including, inter alia, the extension of the sectoral sanctions in relation to the Russian financial services sector as described under "Risks Relating to the Alfa Banking Group's Business and Industry—Non-compliance with OFAC and EU sanctions programmes, an expansion of these programmes or a significant expansion of the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with any parties" subject to sanctions could adversely impact the Alfa Banking Group's financial condition" above, the trading market for the Notes and the rights of the Noteholders could be materially adversely affected.

As of the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with persons designated as SDNs by OFAC and/or subject to EU's asset freeze sanctions are insignificant. However, if OFAC or EU sanctions programmes, including the sectoral sanctions, are expanded to include any more of the Alfa Banking Group's existing or future clients, suppliers or other counterparties, the Alfa Banking Group's dealings with designated persons may become material, which may force some Noteholders to sell their interests in any Notes due to internal compliance requirements or any laws or regulation applicable to such Noteholders, thereby decreasing their market value, as well as cause the trading market for the Notes to become less liquid as some investors may be prevented from purchasing the Notes.

The OFAC and EU sanctions programmes that target Russian persons are very recent and the application of these sanctions remains subject to interpretation and implementation by various regulators and market participants which may deviate from the Alfa Banking Group's interpretation and application of these sanctions to itself and its counterparties. Although not currently expected, should the manner in which the sanctions are applied or interpreted change, the ability of Russian banks to transact with U.S. or EU persons could be affected, and, as such, Russian banks may be unable to make scheduled payments of principal and interest on their borrowings.

Although the Alfa Banking Group has no reason to believe that it may be specifically targeted by OFAC or EU sanctions, the introduction of any large scale sanctions on the Russian financial services sector, or the expansion of the sectoral sanctions that have been introduced by OFAC and the Council of the EU, may negatively impact the Alfa Banking Group's ability to make scheduled payments of principal and interest under the Loans, as any such payments could be frozen as a consequence of such sanctions before receipt by the Issuer. Any such freezing of payments will be outside of the control of the Alfa Banking Group as it will result from the enforcement of sanctions by the relevant payment processing banks. Consequently, the ability of the Issuer and its agent(s) to make scheduled payments of principal and interest under the Notes may be impaired. Whilst the Alfa Banking Group would consider and, to the extent possible, take measures available to it to discharge its obligations under the Loans, or facilitate the discharge of the Issuer's obligations under the Notes, as the case may be, the imposition of sanctions on the Russian financial services sector could result in the Noteholders not receiving timely scheduled payments under the Notes or receiving such payments at all and/or as a consequence an Event of Default may occur under the Loans. Moreover, should any sector in which the Alfa Banking Group operates become subject to either OFAC or EU sanctions, the relevant clearing systems, brokers and other market participants as well as Vienna Stock Exchange may refuse to permit trading in or otherwise facilitate transfers of the Notes and certain Noteholders may be unable to continue to hold the Notes as a result of applicable law or internal compliance requirements all of which could compound to significantly reduce the trading market for the Notes or may otherwise materially impact the value of the Notes.

There may be no market for the Notes when issued

There may not be an existing market for the Notes at the time they are issued. Although application has been made for the listing and trading on the Vienna MTF of the Vienna Stock Exchange, there is no assurance that such application will be accepted, that a liquid market will develop or be maintained for the Notes or that the holders of the Notes will be able to sell their Notes, or that such holders will be able to sell their Notes for a price that reflects their value.

Even if a market for a Series of the Notes develops, the market price of the Notes could be subject to significant fluctuations in response to actual or anticipated variations in the operating results of Alfa Bank's competitors, adverse business developments, changes to the regulatory environment in which Alfa Bank operates, changes in financial estimates by securities analysts, the actual or anticipated sale of a large number of Notes and other factors, including those set forth in this section "Risk Factors".

The U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act rules could materially affect the Alfa Banking Group, the Issuer and Noteholders

Sections 1471 through 1474 of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code") (the provisions commonly known as "FATCA") require foreign banks and investment funds to provide information to the United States Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") about U.S. customers and investors. This is achieved through a comprehensive information reporting regime that requires "foreign financial institutions" (such as the Alfa Banking Group and the Issuer) to conduct diligence on their account holders and investors to determine whether their accounts are "U.S. accounts", and either provide detailed information about these U.S. accounts to the IRS or suffer a 30 per cent. withholding tax on certain payments. Although the U.S. Treasury Department has released final regulations clarifying the statutory language of FATCA, these regulations do not currently provide guidance on a number of issues. Accordingly, the scope and application of FATCA are uncertain at this time. It is possible that FATCA could operate to impose U.S. withholding tax on payments to the Alfa Banking Group and the Issuer

in respect of certain types of income from sources in the United States and, subject to the proposed regulations discussed below, of gross proceeds from the disposition of, among other things, securities that give rise to United States source income, if the Alfa Banking Group or the Issuer (as the case may be) is not compliant with FATCA, and, subject to the proposed regulations discussed below, (a) certain “passthru payments” to the Alfa Banking Group and the Issuer, if the Alfa Banking Group or the Issuer (as the case may be) are not compliant with FATCA, or (b) certain “passthru payments” from the Issuer to certain Noteholders, if the Issuer is FATCA compliant but the payee, including any paying agent is not FATCA compliant. Proposed regulations eliminate withholding under FATCA on payments of gross proceeds entirely. Taxpayers may generally rely on these proposed regulations until final Treasury Regulations are issued. With respect to the withholding on “passthru payments”, obligations that are characterised as debt (or which are not otherwise characterised as equity and do not lack a stated expiration or term) issued on or prior to the date that is six months after the date on which applicable final regulations defining “foreign passthru payments” are published in the U.S. Federal Register generally would be “grandfathered,” unless the obligations are materially modified (including if the Issuer substitutes another entity as issuer of the Notes pursuant to Condition 10.3 after such date. Under proposed regulations, any withholding on foreign passthru payments on Notes that are not otherwise grandfathered would apply to passthru payments made on or after the date that is two years after the date of publication in the U.S. Federal Register of applicable final regulations defining foreign passthru payments. Taxpayers may generally rely on these proposed regulations until final Treasury Regulations are issued. The United States have entered into intergovernmental agreements (“IGAs”) with many non-U.S. jurisdictions implementing FATCA, which may change the application of FATCA described above.

By purchasing the Notes, Noteholders agree to provide an IRS form W-9 or W-8 (as applicable), and whatever other information may be necessary for the Alfa Banking Group and the Issuer to comply with these reporting obligations. If an amount of, or in respect of withholding tax under FATCA or any IGA were to be deducted or withheld from interest or other payments on the Notes as a result of an investor’s failure to comply with these rules, none of the Alfa Banking Group, the Issuer or any paying agent nor any other person would be required to pay additional amounts with respect to any Notes as a result of the deduction or withholding of such tax.

FATCA is particularly complex and its application to the Issuer, the Notes, and the holders of the Notes is uncertain at this time. Investors are encouraged to consult with their own tax advisors regarding the possible implications of FATCA with respect to an investment in the Notes.

An investment in the Notes is subject to ERISA restrictions

A Series of Notes issued under the Programme may be regarded for purposes of ERISA (as defined below under the section entitled “Certain ERISA Considerations”), as equity interests in a separate entity whose sole asset is the Loan corresponding with that Series. Accordingly, the Notes should not be acquired by any Benefit Plan Investor (as defined below under the section entitled “Certain ERISA Considerations”). Each purchaser and/or holder of Notes and each transferee therefore will be deemed to have made representations that it is not a Benefit Plan Investor. Potential purchasers should read the sections entitled “Certain ERISA Considerations” and “Transfer Restrictions”.

Ratings of the Notes may be limited

The credit ratings of Alfa Bank may not reflect the potential impact of all risks related to structure and other factors on any trading market for, or trading value of, the Notes. In addition, real or anticipated changes in Alfa Bank’s credit ratings will generally affect any trading market for, or trading value of, the Notes. A credit rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be revised or withdrawn by the rating agency at any time. There is no assurance that a credit rating will remain for any given period of time or that a credit rating will not be lowered or withdrawn by the relevant rating agency if, in its judgment, circumstances so warrant. The impact of other activities that Alfa Bank undertakes, including increases in its debt levels, mergers and acquisitions, could also result in future declines in its credit ratings. In the event that a credit rating assigned to the Notes or Alfa Bank is subsequently lowered for any reason, no person or entity is obliged to provide any additional support or credit enhancement with respect to the Notes, and the market value of the Notes is likely to be adversely affected.

In general, European-regulated investors are restricted under the CRA Regulation from using credit ratings for regulatory purposes, unless such ratings are issued by a credit rating agency established in the EU and registered under the CRA Regulation (and such registration has not been withdrawn or suspended), subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances whilst the registration application is pending. Such general restriction will also apply in the case of credit ratings issued by non-EU credit rating agencies, unless the relevant credit ratings are endorsed by an EU registered credit rating agency or the relevant non-EU rating agency is certified in accordance with the CRA Regulation (and such endorsement action or certification, as the case may be, has not been withdrawn or suspended). Where a Series of Notes is rated, the rating assigned to the Notes and details of the relevant rating agency will be specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement or the Series Listing Particulars. Whether or not each credit rating applied for in relation to the relevant Series of Notes will be issued by a credit rating agency established in the EU and registered under the CRA Regulation will be disclosed in the Pricing Supplement or the Series Listing Particulars.

Interest rate benchmarks for Floating Rate Notes may be subject to regulatory scrutiny and reform

The benchmark to be used to determine the rate of interest under Floating Rate Notes may be subject of regulatory scrutiny and reform. For example, on 27 July 2017, the United Kingdom Financial Conduct Authority, which regulates “ICE LIBOR” (“LIBOR”), announced that it intends to stop persuading or compelling banks to submit rates for the calculation of LIBOR to the administrator of LIBOR after 2021. The announcement indicates that the continuation of LIBOR on the current basis cannot and will not be guaranteed after 2021. These reforms may cause such or other benchmarks to perform differently than they performed in the past or to be discontinued entirely and may have other consequences that cannot be predicted. Any such consequences could adversely affect the determination of the rate of interest under Floating Rate Notes and could therefore materially adversely affect the market value of an investment in such Notes.

Any of the proposals for reform or the general increased regulatory scrutiny of interest rate benchmarks could increase the costs and risks of administering or otherwise participating in the setting of a benchmark and complying with any such regulations or requirements. Such factors may have the effect of discouraging market participants from continuing to administer or contribute to certain benchmarks, trigger changes in the rules or methodologies used in certain benchmarks or lead to the discontinuation or unavailability of quotes of certain benchmarks.

Risks relating to Notes denominated in Russian Roubles

For investors (a) holding Russian Rouble Notes through (i) DTC who have not made an irrevocable election to receive payment in Russian Roubles and (ii) Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg who have made an irrevocable election to receive payment in US dollars or (b) whose Russian Rouble Notes are represented by Definitive Notes (as defined in “Provisions Relating to the Notes in Global Form”) and who have made an irrevocable election to receive a forthcoming payment of principal or interest on the Notes in US dollars, the Principal Paying Agent will subject to its having received the Exchange Amount (as defined in the “Terms and Conditions of the Notes”), pursuant to and subject to Condition 7.8, purchase the required US dollars, using the Exchange Amount received in accordance with the Loan Agreement, at a purchase price calculated on the basis of the Applicable Exchange Rate (as defined in “Terms and Conditions of the Notes”) and transfer the purchased amount in US dollars to the Noteholder’s U.S. dollar account. If for any reason, the Principal Paying Agent cannot purchase US dollars, the relevant payment of interest or principal will be made to the relevant Noteholder in Russian Roubles, as more fully described in “Terms and Conditions of the Notes — Condition 7.8 Currency Exchange Option”.

The Applicable Exchange Rate that the Principal Paying Agent has agreed to exchange Russian Roubles into US dollars shall be the internal foreign exchange conversion rate for settlement on the relevant due date for payment which the Principal Paying Agent acting in a commercially reasonable manner uses to convert Russian Roubles into US dollars at the request of its other customers.

No assurance can be given that the amount of US dollars received by an investor who elects to receive a payment of principal or interest in respect of the Notes in US dollars will be equal to the amount of US dollars that the investor could have realised in the foreign exchange market if the interest or principal payment made on the investor’s Notes were instead paid directly to the investor in Russian Roubles and the investor had converted the Russian Roubles into US dollars. The Principal Paying Agent will not be liable to any person for any losses resulting from application by the Principal Paying Agent of the Applicable Exchange Rate. In addition, even if Noteholders make an irrevocable election to receive a payment on the Notes in US dollars, if the Principal Paying Agent cannot, for any reason, purchase US dollars with the Russian Roubles that have been paid by the Borrower in accordance with the terms of the Loan Agreement in respect of any payment of principal or interest, Noteholders will receive Russian Roubles in respect of such payment of principal or interest.

Due to the relative lack of experience of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg with settling, clearing and trading Rouble-denominated debt instruments, there can be no assurance that the clearing, settlement and trading of the Notes held through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg will be effected in the same manner as the clearing, settlement and trading of US. Dollar or Euro-denominated instruments.

Holder of Russian Rouble Notes held through Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg who have not elected to receive payments in US dollars pursuant to the Conditions will be required to open and maintain a Rouble-denominated bank account. There are significant practical difficulties associated with opening Rouble-denominated bank accounts outside the Russian Federation, and no assurance can be given that holders will be able either to open or maintain an offshore Rouble bank account. Such holders of Notes who do not open and maintain a Rouble-denominated bank account will be unable to transfer from their accounts at Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg the Russian Rouble payments made on the Notes or any Russian Rouble proceeds realised from the sale of their Notes.

Furthermore, Noteholders whose interests in the Russian Rouble Notes are represented by the Rule 144A Global Notes and who hold their Notes through a sub-account in Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg may not have the option to elect to receive payments on the Notes in Russian Roubles as Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg may not provide such option in practice in such circumstances.

Alfa Bank's payments under any Loan may be subject to withholding tax

As a general rule, interest payments on borrowed funds made by a Russian legal entity or organisation to a non-resident legal entity or organisation that has no registered presence and/or no permanent establishment and/or no tax residency in Russia are subject to Russian withholding tax at a rate of 20 per cent. (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of payment), unless such withholding tax is reduced or eliminated pursuant to the terms of an applicable double tax treaty subject to treaty clearance formalities to be satisfied by the foreign legal entity in a timely fashion and provided that the foreign interest income recipient can qualify as person having the actual right to income as defined in the Russian tax legislation.

Generally, no withholding tax obligations should arise on interest on debt obligations owed by a Russian borrower in connection with the issuance of traded bonds by a foreign entity (a "Eurobond structure") by virtue of a specific exemption envisaged by the Russian Tax Code. In particular, the Russian Tax Code provides that Russian borrowers should be fully released from the obligation to withhold income tax from interest and other payments on debt obligations owed to foreign entities provided that certain conditions are met throughout the term of such debt obligations and the notes. See "Taxation — Russian Federation".

Importantly, the Russian Tax Code does not provide for the exemption to the foreign interest income recipients from Russian withholding tax. However there is currently no requirement and mechanism in the Russian tax legislation for foreign income recipients - legal entities to self-assess and pay the tax on the Russian-source income to the Russian tax authorities in case the tax was not withheld at source. The Russian Ministry of Finance has acknowledged in an information letter published on its website that the release of Russian companies from the obligation to act as a tax agent means, in effect, that tax at source within Russia should not arise in connection with Eurobonds, since there is neither a mechanism nor obligation for a non-resident to independently calculate and pay such tax. There can be no assurance that rules on self-assessment and payment of the respective withholding taxes by non-residents will not be introduced in the future or that the Russian tax authorities would not change their position on the matter in connection with Eurobond structures or would not make attempts to collect the tax from the foreign income recipients including the Issuer, the Noteholder (as such term is defined in the section "Taxation — Russian Federation") and/or the Trustee.

If interest and/or any other amounts due under any Loan become payable to the Trustee pursuant to the Trust Deed, there is some residual uncertainty whether the Trustee can qualify for the "entity authorized to receive interest income payable on traded bonds" and, hence, whether the release from the obligation to withhold income tax from interest and other payments on any Loan would be available under the Russian Tax Code to Alfa Bank. See "Taxation — Russian Federation". There is a potential risk that Russian withholding tax in respect of payments of interest and some other amounts to the Trustee at the rate of 20 per cent. (or such other tax rate as may be in force at the time of payment) or, potentially, with respect to non-resident individual Noteholders Russian personal income tax at the rate of 30 per cent. (or such other tax rate that may be effective at the time of payment) may be deducted by Alfa Bank upon making such payments to the Trustee. While the tax treaty benefits are available to the beneficial owners of income only, it is not expected that under such circumstances the Trustee will, or will be able to, claim the Russian withholding tax exemption or reduction under any applicable double tax treaty due to the nature of its functions. In addition, while some Non-Resident Noteholders may be eligible for an exemption from or a reduction in Russian withholding tax, as applicable, under the respective double tax treaties entered into between their countries of tax residence and Russia, where such treaties exist and to the extent they are applicable, there can be no assurance that such exemption or reduction would be available for them in practice under such circumstances.

Many countries, including Russia, has signed the Multilateral Convention to Implement Tax Treaty Related Measures to Prevent Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (the "MLI"). The MLI sets forth additional requirements for the application of double taxation treaty benefits, including the reduced tax rates. It is expected that changes to specific bilateral treaties would come into effect after the parties to the treaties deposit their instruments of ratification, accepting or approving of the MLI, subject to an additional phase-in period. There is a risk that the MLI-related changes might negatively affect the availability of certain double taxation treaty benefits to Non-Resident Noteholders that are tax residents in such countries.

If the interest payments or any other amounts due under any Loan become subject to Russian withholding tax or interest payments on any Series of the Notes become subject to any withholding or deduction for the account of Irish taxes (as a result of which the Issuer will reduce payments under the Notes by the amount of such withholding taxes), Alfa Bank will, in certain circumstances, be obliged under the terms of the relevant Loan Agreement to increase the interest payments or to make such additional payments, as may be necessary, so that the net amounts received by the Issuer and the Noteholders will not be less than the amounts they would have received in the absence of such withholding. There is a risk that gross-up for the Russian withholding tax may not take place insofar as Russian law is concerned and that payments made by Alfa Bank under the relevant Loan Agreement will be reduced by the amount of the Russian income tax withheld by Alfa Bank at the rate of 20 per cent. (or such other rate as may be in force at the time of payment) or, potentially, with respect to Non-Resident Noteholders – Individuals Russian personal income tax withheld by Alfa Bank at the rate of 30 per cent. (or such other rate as may be in force at the time of payment). If Alfa Bank is obliged to increase any payments on the relevant Loan or to make additional payments on the relevant Loan as described above, it may (without premium of penalty), subject to certain conditions, prepay the relevant Loan in full. In such case, all outstanding Notes corresponding to such received prepayment would be redeemable at par together with accrued and unpaid interest and additional amounts, if any, to the date of redemption. See “Terms and Conditions of the Notes” and “Taxation”.

Tax might be withheld on disposals of the Notes in Russia, reducing their value

Where proceeds from the sale or other disposal of the Notes (including proceeds attributable to accrued and paid interest on the Notes) are deemed to be received from a source within Russia by a Non-Resident Noteholder - Individual a Russian personal income tax at a tax rate of 30 per cent. (or such other tax rate as could be effective at the time of such sale or other disposal) will apply to the gross amount of the proceeds realized upon such sale or other disposal of the Notes decreased by duly documented cost deductions (including the acquisition cost of the Notes and other documented expenses related to the acquisition, holding and the sale or other disposal of the Notes), provided that the Notes qualify as securities under Russian and applicable foreign law and duly executed documentation supporting cost deductions is made available in a timely manner to the tax agent that is obliged to calculate and withhold Russian personal income tax.

Although technically Russian personal income tax rate on proceeds from disposition of the Notes may be reduced or eliminated based on provisions of an applicable double tax treaty entered into between Russia and the country of tax residency of a particular Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual subject to timely compliance by that Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual with the treaty clearance formalities, in practice such Non-Resident Noteholders - Individuals may not be able to obtain the advance treaty relief in relation to sales or disposal proceeds and/or accrued interest income, as may be relevant, received from a source within Russia. Obtaining a refund of Russian personal income taxes that were excessively withheld in relation to this income can be difficult, or impossible in some cases.

The tax may be withheld at source by any legal entity being a Russian tax resident, Russian representative office or a Russian branch of a foreign organization, or an individual entrepreneur paying proceeds from the sale or other disposal of the Notes to the Non-Resident Noteholder—Individual (such party would be considered as a tax agent for Russian tax purposes).

Generally, there should be no Russian tax on gains from the sale or other disposal of the Notes imposed on a Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity. However, there is some uncertainty regarding the tax treatment of the portion of the sale or disposal proceeds, if any, attributable to accrued interest (coupon) on the Notes (i.e. debt obligations) where proceeds from the sale or other disposal of the Notes are received from a source within Russia by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity. The uncertainty is driven by isolated instances in which the Russian tax authorities challenged the non-application of Russian tax to the amount of accrued interest (coupon) included in the sale price of Eurobonds. Although the Russian Ministry of Finance in its most recent clarification letters opined that the amount of sale or other disposal proceeds attributable to the accrued interest on Eurobonds payable to a non-Russian organization should not be regarded as Russian source income and on this basis should not be subject to taxation in Russia, there remains a possibility that a Russian entity or a foreign entity having registered tax presence in Russia which purchases the Notes from the Non-Resident Noteholder Legal Entity or acts as an intermediary for other persons may seek to assess Russian withholding tax at the rate of 20 per cent. (or such other rate as could be effective at the time of such sale or other disposal) on the accrued interest portion of the disposal proceeds of the Notes.

While some Non-Resident Noteholders might be eligible for an exemption from or a reduction in Russian withholding tax under applicable double tax treaties, there is no assurance that such exemption or reduction will be available in practice.

The imposition or possibility of imposition of this withholding tax, as applicable, under such circumstances could adversely affect the value of the Notes. See “Taxation — Russian Federation”.

Definitive Notes will not be issued in integral multiples of less than €100,000

In relation to any issue of Notes which have a denomination consisting of the minimum Specified Denomination (as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement) of EUR100,000 plus a higher integral multiple of another smaller amount, it is possible that the Notes may be traded in amounts in excess of EUR100,000 (or its equivalent) that are not integral multiples of EUR100,000 (or its equivalent). In such a case a Noteholder who, as a result of trading such amounts, holds a principal amount of less than the minimum Specified Denomination will not receive a definitive Note in respect of such holding (should definitive Notes be printed) and would need to purchase a principal amount of Notes such that it holds an amount equal to one or more Specified Denominations.

ENFORCEABILITY OF JUDGMENTS

The Issuer and Alfa Bank are legal entities organised under the laws of Ireland and the Russian Federation respectively. Most of the directors and executive officers of any of the Issuer or Alfa Bank are not residents of the United Kingdom or the United States, and all or a substantial portion of the assets of the Issuer and Alfa Bank and such persons are located outside the United Kingdom and the United States. As a result, it may not be possible for investors and the Trustee to enforce against Alfa Bank court judgments obtained in English or U.S. courts. Judgments rendered by a court in any jurisdiction outside Russia will generally be recognised by courts in Russia only if (a) an international treaty exists between Russia and the country where the judgment was rendered providing for the recognition of judgments in civil cases and/or (b) a federal law of Russia providing for the recognition and enforcement of foreign court judgments is adopted and/or (c) on the basis of reciprocity and (or) comity. No such federal law has been passed, and no such treaty exists, between Russia, on the one hand, and the United States or the United Kingdom, on the other hand. While Russian courts have recognised and enforced English and Dutch court judgments on grounds of reciprocity, the existence of reciprocity must be established at the time the recognition and enforcement of a foreign judgment is sought, and it is not possible to predict whether a Russian court will in the future recognise and enforce on the basis of reciprocity a judgment issued by a foreign court. Even if an applicable international treaty is in effect or a foreign judgment might otherwise be recognised and enforced on the basis of reciprocity and (or) comity, the recognition and enforcement of a foreign judgment will in all events be subject to exceptions and limitations provided for in Russian law. For example, a Russian court may refuse to recognise or enforce a foreign judgment if its recognition or enforcement would contradict Russian public policy. Therefore, foreign judgments against Russian subsidiaries or Russian assets may not be enforced or their enforcement may require completion of the complicated procedures specified above. In addition, in the absence of established court practice, it is difficult to predict whether a Russian court will be inclined in any particular instance to recognise and enforce an English court judgment on these grounds. Furthermore, Russian courts have limited experience in the enforcement of foreign court judgments.

The Dealer Agreement, the Facility Agreement and the Paying Agency Agreement each provides that any dispute between the parties thereto may be finally settled by arbitration in accordance with the LCIA Rules, with the seat of such arbitration being in London, England. The United Kingdom and the Russian Federation are parties to the New York Convention on the Enforcement and Recognition of Foreign Arbitral Awards (the “New York Convention”). Consequently, an arbitral award from an arbitral tribunal in London, England should generally be recognised and enforced in the Russian Federation on the basis of the rules of the New York Convention, subject to qualifications set out therein and in compliance with applicable Russian legislation. However, it may be difficult to enforce arbitral awards in the Russian Federation due to the relative inexperience of the Russian courts in international commercial transactions and official and unofficial political resistance to the enforcement of awards against Russian companies in favour of foreign investors. This could introduce delay and unpredictability into the process of enforcing such awards by Russian courts.

Moreover, the arbitrazh procedural code of the Russian Federation (the “Arbitrazh Procedural Code”) establishes the procedure for Russian courts to refuse to recognise and enforce such arbitral award. The Arbitrazh Procedural Code and other Russian procedural legislation could change; therefore, inter alia, other grounds for Russian courts to refuse the recognition and enforcement of foreign courts’ judgments and foreign arbitral awards could arise in the future. In practice, reliance upon international treaties may meet with resistance or a lack of understanding on the part of a Russian court or other officials, thereby introducing delay and unpredictability into the process of enforcing any foreign judgment or any foreign arbitral award in the Russian Federation. Additionally, the Arbitrazh Procedural Code provides that in certain circumstances Russian courts might have, as a matter of Russian law, exclusive jurisdiction over disputes involving a Russian party subject to sanctions or other form of restrictive measures and over disputes concerning such sanction or other form of restrictive measure. In such circumstances, a foreign court or arbitral tribunal might decline jurisdiction; it could lead to refusal by Russian courts to recognize and enforce the relevant arbitral award or foreign court judgment; a Russian court might assert jurisdiction over the dispute notwithstanding any arbitration or jurisdiction agreement to the contrary; and/or a Russian court might issue an injunction prohibiting resolution of any dispute outside of the Russian courts. If an injunction is granted, the Russian courts can award damages for violation of this injunction in an amount not exceeding the value of the claim considered by the tribunal.

The Alfa Bank RAR Financial Statements have been audited by FBK, LLC, independent auditors, a member of the Self-regulatory organization of auditors Association “Sodruzhestvo”. Investors are strongly cautioned not to place undue reliance on the Alfa Bank RAR Financial Statements, which are included herein solely due to a requirement under the Commission Regulation (EC) No. 809/2004 of April 2004. RAR differs in certain material respect from IFRS, as more fully set out below.

Summary of the material differences between IFRS and RAR

The following is a summary of the material differences between IFRS and RAR applicable to banks as at 31 December 2020. The Issuer and Alfa Bank confirm that the following summary covers all major differences between RAR and IFRS in relation to Alfa Bank. As at 31 December 2020 and subsequently, respective authorities may have issued a number of new IFRS and RAR pronouncements which may have a significant impact on the future comparison between IFRS and RAR. New IFRS pronouncements are effective for ABH Financial’s or Alfa Bank’s annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2021. Please note that the following summary does not address the consequences of any such new IFRS and RAR pronouncements or their potential impact on the differences between IFRS and RAR applicable to banks and on ABH Financial’s or Alfa Bank’s financial statements. The regulatory bodies for the promulgation of IFRS and RAR are in the process of undertaking significant reviews of IFRS and RAR, the results of which could have a material bearing on the accuracy of this comparison in the future. If an analysis of such new pronouncements had been performed, additional accounting and disclosure differences between IFRS and RAR might have been identified in this summary.

Alfa Bank prepares its published audited financial statements in accordance with RAR. RAR have historically been prepared largely to comply with regulatory requirements.

As at 31 December 2020, the key differences are:

Presentation and disclosure of financial statements

Presentation and disclosure of RAR financial statements are prescribed by the CBR requirements, while IFRS financial statements are prepared in accordance with IAS 1 “Presentation of financial statements”.

Functional currency

RAR prescribe the functional and presentation currency of banks to be only Roubles. Under IFRS the functional currency of each entity is the currency of the primary economic environment in which the entity operates. IAS 21 “The Effects of Changes in Foreign Exchange Rates” includes detailed guidance for determining the appropriate functional currency based on facts and circumstances. Financial statements may be translated for presentation purposes from the functional currency to any other currency or currencies.

The financial information set out in these Base Listing Particulars with respect to Alfa Bank has not been prepared in accordance with the international accounting standards adopted pursuant to the procedure of Article 3 of Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002 and there would have been material differences in the financial information of Alfa Bank had Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002 been applied to Alfa Bank’s historical financial information.

Certain figures included in these Base Listing Particulars have been subject to rounding adjustments. Accordingly, figures shown for the same category presented in different tables may vary slightly and figures shown as totals in certain tables may not be an arithmetic aggregation of the figures, which precede them.

Documents Incorporated by Reference

These Base Listing Particulars should be read and construed in conjunction with the audited financial statements of the Issuer as at and for the years ended 31 December 2020 and 2019 together, in each case, with the audit report thereon which have been previously published or are published simultaneously with these Base Listing Particulars.

The audited financial statements of the Issuer as at and for the years ended 31 December 2020 and 31 December 2019 shall be deemed incorporated in, and form part of, these Base Listing Particulars, save that any statement contained in a document which is incorporated by reference herein shall be modified or superseded for the purposes of these Base Listing Particulars to the extent that a statement contained herein modifies or supersedes such earlier statement (whether expressly, by implication or otherwise). Any statement so modified or superseded shall not, except as so modified or superseded, constitute a part of these Base Listing Particulars.

Impact of New Accounting Standards and reclassifications

From time to time, the Alfa Banking Group adopts new accounting pronouncements and changes presentation of information in its consolidated financial statements. As a result, presentation of some information for the same period or as at the same date may differ in consolidated financial statements from different periods.

Currency

In these Base Listing Particulars, the following currency terms are used:

“Euro”, “EUR” or “€” means the lawful currency of participating member states of the European Union, as contemplated by the Treaty establishing the European Community, as amended.

“£” means the lawful currency of the United Kingdom;

“Rouble” or “RUB” means the lawful currency of the Russian Federation; and

Average Balances, Average Interest Rates and Effective Interest Rates

These Base Listing Particulars include information on the average balances of interest-earning assets and interest bearing liabilities of the Alfa Banking Group for the six months ended 30 June 2021, the years ended 31 December 2020 and 2019 as well as the average interest rate of interest income or expense for such assets and liabilities. The average balances for interest-earning assets and interest-bearing liabilities are determined as the average of the beginning, middle and end of year balances as appropriate. These average balances would likely be different if more frequent averaging methods were used and such differences could be material. The average interest rates disclosed in these Base Listing Particulars are calculated by dividing aggregate interest income or expense for the relevant line item by the average balance for the same item for applicable period and, in relation to rates for the semi-annual periods, by annualisation through multiplication by 2. Average interest rates are distinct from the effective interest rates presented in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements and referred to elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars. The effective interest method is a method of allocating interest income or interest expense over the relevant period so as to achieve a constant periodic rate of interest (effective interest rate) on the carrying amount. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments or receipts (excluding future credit losses) through the expected life of the financial instrument or a shorter period, if appropriate, to the net carrying amount of the financial instrument. The effective interest rate discounts cash flows of variable interest instruments to the next interest re-pricing date except for the premium or discount, which reflects the credit spread over the floating rate specified in the instrument, or other variables that are not reset to market rates. Such premiums or discounts are amortized over the whole expected life of the instrument. The present value calculation includes all fees paid or received between parties to the contract that are an integral part of the effective interest rate.

IFRS requires that effective interest rates be used in the preparation of IFRS compliant consolidated financial statements. The Alfa Banking Group utilises both the effective interest rate and the average interest rate for its management’s monitoring of operational results and effectiveness.

These average interest rate measures are not defined under IFRS or other generally accepted accounting principles, nor should they be considered as substitutes for the information contained in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements.

Non-IFRS measures

Combined Key Ratios, Profitability Ratios, Balance Sheet Ratios, Capital Adequacy and Credit Quality ratios (collectively, “Non-IFRS measures”) are presented because the Alfa Banking Group considers them an important supplemental measure of the Alfa Banking Group’s operating performance and financial position and believes they are commonly used by securities analysts, investors and other interested parties in the evaluation of companies in the Alfa Banking Group's industry. Non-IFRS measures have limitations, and they should not be considered in isolation, or as a substitute for analysis of the Alfa Banking Group's operating results and financial position as reported under IFRS. The Alfa Banking Group compensates for the limitations of Non-IFRS measures by relying primarily on its IFRS operating results and using Non-IFRS measures only supplementally. See the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements and information for ABH Financial included elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars.

Market and official data

The Alfa Banking Group has derived substantially all of the information contained in these Base Listing Particulars concerning its competitors from publicly available information, and it has relied on the accuracy of this information without independent verification. In addition, some of the information contained in these Base Listing Particulars has been derived from the official data of the Russian Government agencies and the CBR. The official data published by Russian federal, regional and local governments is substantially less complete or researched than those of Western countries, and the veracity of some official data released by the Russian Government may be questionable. Official statistics, including those produced by the CBR, may also be produced on different bases than those used in Western countries. Any discussion of matters relating to Russia in these Base Listing Particulars must, therefore, be subject to uncertainty due to concerns about the completeness or reliability of available official and public information. Such information has been accurately reproduced and that as far as the Alfa Banking Group is aware and is able to ascertain from information published by that third party, no facts have been omitted which would render the reproduce information inaccurate or misleading.

Certain statements in these Base Listing Particulars are not historical facts and constitute “forward-looking statements”. Forward-looking statements are identified by words such as “believes,” “anticipates,” “expects,” “estimates,” “intends,” “plans,” “will,” “may” and similar expressions, but these expressions are not the exclusive means of identifying such statements. Forward-looking statements appear, without limitation, under the headings “Overview of Alfa Banking Group”, “Risk Factors”, “Operating and Financial Review of the Alfa Banking Group” and “Description of the Alfa Banking Group”. By their very nature, forward-looking statements involve inherent risks and uncertainties, both general and specific, and risks exist that the predictions, forecasts, projections and other forward-looking statements will not be achieved. Prospective investors should be aware that a number of important factors could cause actual results to differ materially from the plans, objectives, expectations, estimates and intentions expressed in such forward-looking statements. - the effects of competition in the geographic and business areas in which Alfa Bank conducts its operations;
- Alfa Bank’s ability to manage its loan portfolio and overall asset quality;
- Alfa Bank’s ability to increase market share for its products and services and control expenses;
- the management of the growth of Alfa Bank’s business, assets and liabilities;
- the ability of Alfa Bank to adapt its products and services to new technologies;
- Alfa Bank’s success at managing the risks associated with the aforementioned factors; and
- the effects of Covid-19 pandemic and related response measures, including lockdowns and travel restrictions, stability of the international and domestic financial markets, economic conditions in Russia and other countries, the Alfa Banking Group’s business and operations and the Alfa Banking Group’s employees, customers and counterparties.

This list of important factors is not exhaustive. When relying on forward-looking statements, prospective investors should carefully consider the foregoing factors and other uncertainties and events, especially in light of the political, economic, social and legal environment in which Alfa Bank operates. Such forward-looking statements speak only as at the date on which they are made, and are not subject to any continuing obligations under the listing guidelines of the Vienna Stock Exchange. Accordingly, Alfa Bank does not undertake any obligation to update or revise any of them, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise. Alfa Bank does not make any representation, warranty or prediction that the results anticipated by such forward-looking statements will be achieved, and such forward-looking statements represent, in each case, only one of many possible scenarios and should not be viewed as the most likely or standard scenario.

Factors Affecting Results of Operations

Economic Conditions in Russia

The majority of the Alfa Banking Group’s assets and customers are located in, or have businesses related to, the Russian Federation. The concentration of the Alfa Banking Group’s assets in Russia reflects its strategic focus on its core market in Russia. As a result, the Alfa Banking Group is substantially affected by Russian economic conditions. The Russian Federation’s economy is to a significant degree dependent on exports of key commodities, such as oil, gas, iron ore and other raw materials. Dramatic decreases in the prices of these commodities in the world market can lead to sharp decreases in Russian Government revenues and the revenues of privately held Russian companies operating in these sectors, which, in turn, can have a severely negative effect on the overall Russian economy.

After a period of economic contraction caused by a decline in oil prices and geopolitical tensions, real GDP in Russia returned to growth in 2017 – 2019. Due to economic impact of Covid-19 outbreak, the GDP of the Russian Federation decreased by 3.1 per cent. in 2020 whilst inflation reached 4.9 per cent. in 2020 and 6.5 per cent. in the first six months of 2021. The Rouble experienced significant depreciation against the U.S. dollar in 2014 and 2015 and remains volatile. As at 31 December 2018, the Rouble / U.S.$ exchange rate amounted to RUB69.47 per U.S.$1.00, RUB61.91 per U.S.$1.00 as at 31 December 2019, 73.88 as at 31 December 2020 and as at 30 June 2021 it amounted to RUB 72.37 per U.S.$1.00. Fluctuation of the Rouble / U.S.$ exchange may have significant effect on the Alfa Banking Group’s financial performance, as the majority of the Alfa Banking Group’s operations are conducted in Roubles, while the presentational currency of the Alfa Banking Group’s financial statements is U.S.$ dollars.

Any deterioration of the Russian economy affects the Russian banking sector. The general stabilisation of the Russian economy 2018 and 2019 resulted in an increase in customers’ demand for banking services. Although during the period under review Russian banks benefited from improved asset quality and capital, Russian banks remain exposed to volatile of credit losses. The CBR has recently reported the growth of household debt burden against the backdrop of accelerated growth of consumer lending and a decline in real disposable income of the population. These factors may lead to an increase in non-payments on consumer loans. As at 30 June 2021 the credit loss allowance of the Alfa Banking Group for loans to individuals increased by 1.9 per cent. to U.S.$682 million, as compared to U.S.$669 million as at 31 December 2020 and U.S.$500 million as at 31 December 2019.

The consequences of the Covid-19 pandemic have to some extent affected the Alfa Banking Group’s operations and financial position. In particular, Stage 3 retail loans increased to 5.0 per cent. of the gross retail loan portfolio as at 31 December 2020 compared to 4.0 per cent. as at 31 December 2019 illustrating that a higher number of individuals experienced financial difficulties due to Covid-19 in 2020. The market showed signs of recovery in the first half of 2021, which resulted in the improvement of the Alfa Banking Group’s clients risk profile and growing volume of banking operations. Stage 3 retail loans slightly decreased to 3.7 per cent. of the gross retail loans as at 30 June 2021. The Alfa Banking Group’s profit increased by 52.9 per cent. from U.S.$592 million for six months ended 30 June 2020 to U.S.$905 million for six months ended 30 June 2021. Total comprehensive income increased in 3.6 times up to U.S.$942 million in the first half of 2021 compared to U.S.$265 million in the first half of 2020. The Alfa Banking Group’s capital increased to U.S.$9.6 billion as at 30 June 2021 from U.S.$ 8.7 billion as at 31 December 2020 due to the Group’s total comprehensive income. Net fee and commission income increased by 55.5 per cent. to U.S.$773 million for the six months ended 30 June 2021 million from U.S.$497 million for six months ended 30 June 2020.

Foreign Exchange Volatility

The Alfa Banking Group is exposed to foreign currency rates volatility which affect its results of operations and financial position. A substantial portion of the Alfa Banking Group’s assets and liabilities are Rouble-denominated and, consequently, a significant part of its interest income and interest expense is received or paid in Roubles. As a result, a significant depreciation or, as the case may be, appreciation of the Rouble has the effect of decreasing or increasing, respectively, the Alfa Banking Group’s assets, liabilities, interest income, interest expense, and other results of operations, in U.S. dollar terms. Due to the fluctuations of the exchange rate in the first half of 2021, the Group recorded U.S.$70 million gain arising from foreign currencies for the six months ended 30 June 2021, as compared to a U.S.$193 million gain for the six months ended 30 June 2020. See “Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Alfa Banking Group’s business and industry—Significant depreciation or appreciation of the Rouble and fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates may have a material adverse effect on the Alfa Banking Group”.

Interest Rate Environment and Funding

Changes in interest rates affect the Alfa Banking Group’s operations. Over the periods covered by the ABH

Financial Consolidated Financial Statements, movements in short- and long-term interest rates have affected both the Alfa Banking Group's interest income and interest expense, and the Alfa Banking Group's level of gains and losses on its securities portfolio. Interest rates can be affected by factors such as rates set by the CBR, inflation, competition among banks and general macroeconomic conditions and access to funding sources.

As the exchange rate of the Rouble against the U.S. dollar stabilized in 2018 and 2019, the CBR gradually reduced its key interest rate. The CBR's gradual transition to a neutral monetary policy coupled with the slowdown in the growth of consumer prices created conditions for lower interest rates in 2019 and 2020. In the first half of 2021, CBR changed its policy and increased the key interest rate amid the Covid-19 outbreak.

Average lending rates on the Russian interbank market may also fluctuate significantly. For example, the average Rouble interbank lending rate (31 – 90 days maturity) was 6.1 per cent. in June 2021, compared to 4.7 per cent. in December 2020. Average Rouble lending rates decreased for corporate borrowers and individuals during the course of the first half of 2020 and 2021.

However, lower average interest rates may put pressure on the Alfa Banking Group's net interest margins. The following table, which is taken from statistical information produced by the CBR, presents the average interest rates earned by banks based in Russia on U.S. dollar and Rouble-denominated loans to corporate clients and average interest rates paid by such banks on Rouble-denominated deposits from retail clients.

	2021	2020	2019
Loans to corporate clients in U.S. dollars (short-term loans)	3.6%	3.5%	4.8%
Loans to corporate clients in RUB (loans of less than one year)	6.2%	6.8%	8.7%
Deposits from retail clients in RUB (deposits of less than one year, including demand deposits)	3.3%	3.8%	5.4%

The Alfa Banking Group's net interest margin ratio decreased to 4.1 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 from 4.5 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020 (see "Results of Operations for the Years Ended 31 December 2020 and 2019—Net Interest Margin Ratio"). For the six months ended 30 June 2021 and the years ended 31 December 2020 and 2019, the Alfa Banking Group's primary source of interest income was loans and advances to corporate customers and individuals. The Alfa Banking Group's interest income from loans and advances to corporate customers and individuals in aggregate amounted to 88.9 per cent. of its total interest income (including other similar income) for the six months ended 30 June 2021, as compared to 81.2 per cent. for six months ended 30 June 2020. At the same time, the most significant portion of interest expense (including other similar expense) consisted of interest payments on term deposits (legal entities and individuals) and current/settlement accounts which in aggregate accounted for 67.2 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021, as compared to 66.9 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020.

The average annual interest rate on the Alfa Banking Group's loans and advances to individuals decreased to 11.4 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 from 13.7 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020. At the same time, the average annual interest rate on the Alfa Banking Group's loans and advances to corporate customers (across all currencies) was 6 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 as well as for the six months ended 30 June 2020. The average interest rate paid by the Alfa Banking Group on term deposits of legal entities decreased to 4.2 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 from 4.7 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020. The average interest rate paid by the Alfa Banking Group on amounts due to other banks decreased to 4.1 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 compared to 5.1 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020. The average interest rate paid by Alfa Banking Group on term deposits of individuals amounted to 2.7 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 compared to 4.1 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020. The average interest rate paid by the Alfa Banking Group on its debt securities issued amounted to 6.3 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 as compared to 6.6 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020.

Fee and Commission Income

The Alfa Banking Group generates significant amounts of net fee and commission income, accounting for 66.8 per cent., 57.2 per cent. and 49.3 per cent. of net margin (before credit loss allowance) for the six months ended 30 June 2021 and in the years ended 31 December 2020 and 31 December 2019, respectively. Fee and commission income is a significant and stable source of income for the Alfa Banking Group, and is largely independent of market fluctuations in interest rates. The Alfa Banking Group's fee and commission income arises from activities such as commission on operations with plastic cards, fees from settlement transactions, agency commission on insurance operations, commission on guarantees issued and cash and foreign currency exchange and other transactions.

Loan Portfolio and Credit Loss Allowance

During periods of deteriorating economic activity, the ability of the Alfa Banking Group's borrowers to repay amounts due, and the value of the collateral that secures loans, may decrease. In particular, developments such as reduced corporate liquidity and profitability, foreign currency exchange rates fluctuations, restrictions on funding, increased unemployment, rising inflation, increased corporate and personal insolvencies and increased interest rates may adversely affect the ability of the Alfa Banking Group's customers to repay loans. Reduced creditworthiness amongst the Alfa Banking Group's customers also may tend to increase the Alfa Banking Group's credit loss allowance during such periods, possibly significantly, resulting in a possible decrease in the Alfa Banking Group's net margin after credit loss allowance. At the same time, the Alfa Banking Group's credit loss allowance is usually lower during periods characterised by stronger economic conditions.

The Alfa Banking Group's credit loss allowance recorded during the six months ended 30 June 2021 was U.S.$115 million as compared to U.S.$526 million during the six months ended 30 June 2020 showing recovery of the economic environment and improvement of clients' risk profiles. As at 30 June 2021, 2.9 per cent. of the Alfa Banking Group's total gross loans and advances to customers were overdue (namely, loans with a delay of one day or more in payment of interest or principal) (U.S.$1,377 million out of total gross loans and advances to customers), compared to 3.2 per cent. as at 31 December 2020 (U.S.$1,365 million out of total gross loans and advances to customers) and 1.9 per cent. as at 31 December 2019 (U.S.$751 million out of total gross loans and advances to customers). See "Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Alfa Banking Group's business and industry—The Alfa Banking Group could face increased loan losses and decreased demand for its services from both corporate customers and individuals who are affected by any slowdown or weakening of the global, regional or Russian economies".

Fluctuations in the Value of Securities

The value of the Alfa Banking Group's trading securities portfolio has fluctuated in the past and the value of the Alfa Banking Group's trading securities portfolio is likely to continue to fluctuate in the future, which may have an impact on the Alfa Banking Group's results of operations and the structure of the consolidated statement of financial position. As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group had U.S.$1,306 million (or 2.0 per cent. of its total assets) invested in trading securities and repurchase receivables relating to trading securities, compared to U.S.$1,536 million (or 2.5 per cent. of its total assets) as at 31 December 2020 and U.S.$926 million (or 1.6 per cent. of its total assets) as at 31 December 2019.

Critical Accounting Estimates and Judgments in Applying Accounting Policies

The accounting policies of the Alfa Banking Group are integral to understanding its results of operations and financial condition.

The preparation of its consolidated financial statements requires the Alfa Banking Group's management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and the reported amounts of income and expense during the reporting period. On an ongoing basis, the Alfa Banking Group's management evaluates its estimates and judgments, including those related to impairment losses on loans and advances, fair value of financial instruments, functional currencies, initial recognition of related party transactions, income taxes and other matters. Management bases its estimates and judgments on historical experience and on various other factors that it believes to be reasonable under the circumstances. Actual results may differ from these estimates and conditions, and such differences may be material. Refer to Note 4 to the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements appearing elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars for further details.

In March 2020, ABH Financial declared and paid dividends on preference shares in the amount of U.S.$80 million.

Net Margin

Net margin comprises total interest income calculated using the effective interest rate method and other similar income less total interest expense calculated using the effective interest rate method, other similar expense and deposit insurance expense.

The Alfa Banking Group's net margin before credit loss allowance charge for the six months ended 30 June 2021 increased by 4.6 per cent. to U.S.$1,158 million from U.S.$1,107 million for the six months ended 30 June 2020. This increase resulted primarily from interest rates on liabilities decreasing faster than interest rates on loans during the first half of 2020.

Net Interest Margin Ratio

The net interest margin ratio comprises net interest income before credit loss allowance (including other similar expense and deposit insurance expense) expressed as a percentage of average interest-earning assets.

The Alfa Banking Group's net interest margin ratio calculated based on the average interest-earning assets determined as the average of the beginning and end of applicable year balances was 4.1 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021, compared to 4.5 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020. This decrease resulted primarily from the declining interest rates, which were in line with general market trends.

If, in addition to the beginning and end of applicable year balances mentioned above, the Alfa Banking Group's net interest margin ratio calculation also included quarter-end balance as at 31 March, which are based on the Alfa Banking Group's management data, the net interest margin ratio would be 4.1 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 and 4.6 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020. This approach to calculating the net interest margin ratio is based on a more frequent averaging method and, as a result, diminishes to a certain extent the effect of foreign currency fluctuations on the net interest margin of the Alfa Banking Group. However, investors should be aware that this information has not been extracted or derived from the audited or reviewed financial statements of ABH Financial nor from the audited or reviewed financial statements of Alfa Bank.

Interest income from loans and advances to corporate customers

The Alfa Banking Group's interest income from loans and advances to corporate customers for the six months ended 30 June 2021 decreased by 2.2 per cent. to U.S.$839 million from U.S.$858 million for the six months ended 30 June 2020. This decrease was partially offset by an increase in the average balance from U.S.$28,731 million for the six months ended 30 June 2020 to U.S.$31,647 million for the six months ended 30 June 2021 reflecting organic growth in the Alfa Banking Group's business and improvement of the macroeconomic environment.

This increase was partially offset by a decrease in the average interest rate paid on loans and advances to individuals from 13.7 per cent. to 11.4 per cent. attributed to declining market interest rates and development of mortgage products which have lower interest rates compared to cash loans and credit cards.

Interest income from debt investments at fair value through other comprehensive income and repurchase receivables

The Alfa Banking Group's interest income from debt investments at fair value through other comprehensive income and repurchase receivables for the six months ended 30 June 2021 decreased by 32.6 per cent. to U.S.$60 million as compared to U.S.$89 million for the six months ended 30 June 2020, resulted mainly from a decrease in the average interest rate paid on such instruments from 5.2 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020 to 3.8 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021.

This decrease resulted primarily from a decrease in the average interest rate paid on amounts due from other banks from 3.6 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020 to 2.5 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021.

Other similar income

This decrease resulted primarily from decreases in interest expense on term deposits of individuals and was partially offset by increase in the interest expense on current/settlement accounts to reallocation of liquidity by customers from deposits to current/settlement accounts due to reduced deposit rates.

Interest expense related to term deposits of legal entities

The Alfa Banking Group's interest expense related to term deposits of legal entities for the six months ended 30 June 2021 decreased by 0.9 per cent. to U.S.$233 million from U.S.$235 million for the six months ended 30 June 2020, resulting from a decrease in the average interest rate on term deposits of legal entities to 4.2 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2021 from 4.7 per cent. for the six months ended 30 June 2020 in line with the market trend. Net Margin

Net margin comprises total interest income calculated using the effective interest rate method and other similar income less total interest expense calculated using the effective interest rate method, other similar expense and deposit insurance expense.

The Alfa Banking Group's net margin before credit loss allowance charge for the year ended 31 December 2020 increased by 2.6 per cent. to U.S.$2,171 million from U.S.$2,117 million for the year ended 31 December 2019. This increase mainly resulted from a decrease in interest expense in particular from term deposits of individuals and legal entities reflecting declining market interest rates as a result of the gradual reduction of the key interest rate by the CBR.

Net Interest Margin Ratio

The net interest margin ratio comprises net interest income before credit loss allowance (including other similar income, other similar expense and deposit insurance expense) expressed as a percentage of average interest-earning assets.

The Alfa Banking Group's net interest margin ratio calculated based on the average interest-earning assets determined as the average of the beginning, middle and end of applicable year balances was 4.3 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2020 and 4.6 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2019. This decline in the net interest margin ratio is explained by the low interest rate environment triggered by the decreasing CBR key rate, as well as depreciation of the Rouble against the U.S. dollar, which is the presentational currency of the Alfa Banking Group.

If, in addition to the beginning, middle and end of applicable year balances mentioned above, the Alfa Banking Group's net interest margin ratio calculation also included quarter-end balances as at 31 March and 30 September, which are based on the Alfa Banking Group's management data, the net interest margin ratio would be 4.4 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2020 and 4.6 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2019. This approach to calculating the net interest margin ratio is based on a more frequent averaging method and, as a result, diminishes to a certain extent the effect of foreign currency fluctuations on the net interest margin of the Alfa Banking Group. However, investors should be aware that this information has not been extracted or derived from the audited or reviewed financial statements of ABH Financial nor from the audited or reviewed financial statements of Alfa Bank.

advances to individuals from 14.7 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2019 to 13.0 per cent. for the year ended 31 December 2020 attributed to declining market interest rates and development of mortgage products which have lower interest rates comparing to cash loans and credit cards.

The decrease in term deposits of state and public organisations mainly reflected the use of liquidity by clients during a period of deteriorating economic conditions caused by Covid-19, decreasing interest rates as well as reallocation of liquidity by customers from deposits to current/settlement accounts due to reduced deposit rates.

Analysis by Segment

The Alfa Banking Group's primary format for reportable segment information is business segments. The Alfa Banking Group as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars describes its business in terms of four main business segments:

- Corporate and investment banking, which provides a broad range of commercial and investment banking services and products, including corporate lending, leasing, corporate deposit services, factoring, trade finance operations, structured corporate lending, securities trading, debt and equity capital markets, derivatives, structured financing, foreign exchange trading, corporate finance and merger and acquisition advisory services to large corporations, and other financial institutions;

- Medium, small and micro banking, which provides an extensive range of banking services, including customer current accounts, savings, deposits, settlements, cash services and provision of loans to small and medium businesses and individual entrepreneurs;
- Retail banking, which provides a wide range of retail banking services, including retail demand account and deposit services, credit and debit card services, lending (including consumer loans, personal instalment loans, credit card lending, car loans and mortgages), money transfers and private banking services to individuals; and
- Treasury operations, which manage the Alfa Banking Group's own funding activities and internal funding reallocation, liquidity and risk management activities and investment in liquid assets, as well as short-term money market and promissory note operations.

The accounting policies of the operating segments of the Alfa Banking Group are materially the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies as set out in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements except for: (i) use of a transfer pricing system, (ii) a different classification of certain lines of income and expenses, and (iii) some balances and operations are excluded from the segment analysis since they are monitored separately and on a less regular basis (including situations where the balance is not allocated and related income or expense is allocated for the segment analysis and vice versa). In accordance with the transfer pricing system used by the Alfa Banking Group funds are generally reallocated at interest rates set by the Treasury Department of the Alfa Banking Group, which are determined by reference to market interest rate benchmarks, contractual maturities for loans and observed actual maturities of customer account balances. Consequently, financial statements line items in analysis by segment in accordance with IFRS 8 may not equal respective financial statements line items. Refer to Note "Segment Analysis" to the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements for reconciliation of segment information to respective financial statement items.

The Alfa Banking Group has changed its segmentation by introducing a new reportable segment "Medium, small and micro banking". The segment reported revenue and profit before tax were greater than 10 per cent. of the combined reported revenue and profit before tax of all operating segments of the Alfa Banking Group for the year ended 31 December 2019 and as at 31 December 2019 the segment met the definition for the separate disclosure.

Credit Related Commitments and Performance Guarantees

The primary purpose of guarantees and letters of credit is to ensure that funds are available to customers and counterparties as required. Guarantees and standby letters of credit, which represent irrevocable assurances that the Alfa Banking Group will make payments in the event that a customer cannot meet its obligations to third parties, carry the same credit risk as loans. Documentary and commercial letters of credit, which are written undertakings by the Alfa Banking Group on behalf of a customer authorising a third party to draw drafts on the Alfa Banking Group up to a stipulated amount under specific terms and conditions, are collateralised by the underlying shipments of goods to which they relate or cash deposits and therefore carry less risk than a direct borrowing. Outstanding credit related commitments and performance guarantees were as follows as at the dates indicated:

	As at 30 June 2021	As at 31 December
		2020	2019
(U.S.$ millions)
Unused credit cards limits	7,707	6,940	6,523
Import letters of credit	885	855	551
Corporate overdrafts	773	672	1,063
Financial guarantees	298	246	157
Export letters of credit	42	11	17
Performance guarantees	4,327	2,619	1,636
Total credit related commitments and performance guarantees	14,032	11,343	9,947

The total outstanding contractual amount of guarantees and letters of credit does not necessarily represent future cash requirements, as these financial instruments may expire or terminate without being funded.

The total value of credit related commitments and performance guarantees increased by 23.7 per cent. to U.S.$14,032 million as at 30 June 2021, compared to U.S.$11,343 million as at 31 December 2020. The increase was mainly attributable to the increase in the credit cards limits and performance guarantees due to the growth of the Alfa Banking Group's retail and MSME customer base.

Capital Commitments

As at 31 December 2020, the Alfa Banking Group had capital commitments of U.S.$109 million, of which U.S.$94 million related to construction expenditure and the modernisation of premises and U.S.$5 million related to the purchase and installation of new computer systems.

As at 31 December 2019, the Alfa Banking Group had capital commitments of U.S.$95 million, of which U.S.$88 million related to construction expenditure and the modernisation of premises and U.S.$7 million related to the purchase and installation of new computer systems.

These amounts are not reflected in the Alfa Banking Group's balance sheet in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements, but are disclosed in Note "Contingencies and Commitments" to the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements. The Alfa Banking Group's management has already allocated the necessary resources in respect of these commitments, and believes that future income and funding will be sufficient to cover this and any similar commitments in the future.

Derivative Financial Instruments

The Alfa Banking Group uses foreign exchange and other derivative financial instruments that are generally traded in an over-the-counter market with professional market counterparties on standardised or specific contractual terms and conditions. Derivative financial instruments including foreign exchange contracts, currency and interest rate swaps and other derivative financial instruments are carried at their fair value, which varies as a result of fluctuations in market interest rates, foreign exchange rates or other variables relative to their terms. All derivatives are carried as assets when fair value is positive and as liabilities when fair value is negative.

	As at 30 June 2021		As at 31 December
	(U.S.$ millions)
	Fair Value		Fair Value		Fair Value
	Positive	Negative	Positive	Negative	Positive	Negative
Derivative financial instruments other than foreign exchange based forward and swap contracts	33	(33)	37	(38)	15	(20)
Foreign exchange based forward and swap contracts	520	(514)	515	(619)	475	(641)
Total	553	(547)	552	(657)	490	(661)

Derivative financial instrument assets

As of 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group's derivative financial instrument assets remain relatively stable compared to 30 June 2020.

The Alfa Banking Group's derivative financial instrument assets increased by 12.7 per cent. to U.S.$552 million as at 31 December 2020 from U.S.$490 million as at 31 December 2019, due to fluctuations in market interest rates and foreign exchange rates.

Derivative financial instrument liabilities

The Alfa Banking Group's derivative financial instrument liabilities as at 30 June 2021 was U.S.$547 million compared to U.S.$657 million as at 31 December 2020, mainly due to redemption of contracts expiring before 30 June 2021 and net change in fair value of derivative financial liabilities with negative fair value.

The Alfa Banking Group's derivative financial instrument liabilities slightly decreased to U.S.$657 million as at 31 December 2020 from U.S.$661 million as at 31 December 2019, due to revaluation of contracts as a result of Rouble volatility.

Legal Proceedings

From time to time and in the normal course of business, claims against the Alfa Banking Group are received. On the basis of its own estimates and both internal and external professional advice, the Alfa Banking Group's management is of the opinion that no material losses exceeding the provision of U.S.$2 million recorded in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements will be incurred in respect of such claims as at 31 December 2020 and 30 June 2021. In August 2021, the Alfa Banking Group received a claim from the Prosecutor General's Office of the Russian Federation requiring the Alfa Banking Group to pay U.S.$104 million in relation to a settlement of certain loans with one of its significant borrowers. On 8 September 2021, the Moscow Arbitration Court upheld the prosecutor's claim and ordered Alfa Bank to pay approximately U.S.$30 million and RUB 5 billion. On 22 September 2021, the Alfa Banking Group and the prosecutor entered into a settlement agreement and settled this dispute.

Tax Legislation

A significant part of operations of the Alfa Banking Group is undertaken in the Russian Federation. Russian tax legislation (including changes enacted at the end of the reporting period), is subject to varying interpretations when being applied to the transactions and activities of the Alfa Banking Group. Consequently, tax positions taken by management and the formal documentation supporting the tax positions may be challenged by relevant authorities. Russian tax administration is gradually strengthening, including the fact that there is a higher risk of tax review of transactions without a clear business purpose or with tax non-compliant counterparties. Fiscal periods remain open to review by the authorities in respect of taxes for three calendar years preceding the year of review. Under certain circumstances reviews may cover longer periods.

The Russian transfer pricing legislation is to a large extent aligned with the international transfer pricing principles developed by the OECD. This legislation provides the possibility for tax authorities to make transfer pricing adjustments and impose additional tax liabilities in respect of controlled transactions (transactions with related parties and some types of transactions with unrelated parties), provided that the transaction price is not on an arm's length basis. The legislation contains special rules for adjustment of transaction prices for tax purposes which includes transfer pricing rules as well as rules for securities and derivatives. It is possible, with the evolution of the interpretation of the transfer pricing rules, that such transfer prices could be challenged. The impact of any such challenge cannot be reliably estimated.

The Alfa Banking Group includes companies incorporated outside of Russia. The tax liabilities of the Alfa Banking Group are determined on the assumption that these companies are not subject to Russian profits tax, because they do not have a permanent establishment in Russia. This interpretation of relevant legislation may be challenged but the impact of any such challenge cannot be reliably estimated currently; however, it may impact the financial position and/or some operations of the Alfa Banking Group.

In 2014, the Anti-Offshore Law introduced Russian taxation of profits of foreign companies and non-corporate structures (including trusts) controlled by Russian tax residents (controlling parties). Starting from 2015, "controlled foreign companies" income is subject to a 20 per cent. tax rate if the "controlled foreign company" is controlled by a legal entity and a rate of 13 per cent. if it is controlled by an individual. As a result, management reassessed the Alfa Banking Group's tax positions and concluded that this new legislation does not result in additional material deferred taxes for temporary differences that arose from the expected taxable manner of recovery of the relevant Alfa Banking Group's operations to which the "controlled foreign companies" legislation will apply to.

As Russian tax legislation does not provide definitive guidance in certain areas, the Alfa Banking Group adopts, from time to time, interpretations of such uncertain areas that may be challenged by tax authorities. While management currently estimates that the tax positions and interpretations that it has taken can probably be sustained, there is a possible risk that outflow of resources will be required should such tax positions and interpretations be challenged by the relevant authorities. The impact of any such challenge cannot be reliably estimated; however, it may be significant to the financial position and/or the overall operations of the Alfa Banking Group.

In addition to the aforementioned risks, the Alfa Banking Group estimates that as at 31 December 2020 and 31 December 2019 it had no other material probable or possible tax exposures. Any exposures are estimates that result from uncertainties in interpretation of applicable legislation and related documentation requirements. Management will vigorously defend the entity's positions and interpretations that were applied in determining taxes recognised in the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements if these are challenged by the authorities.

Regulatory compliance

The Alfa Banking Group provides financial services in Russia, Netherlands, Cyprus and other jurisdictions. Financial services are subject to regulation by authorities in connection with obtaining and renewing various licences and permits, as well as with ongoing compliance with existing laws and regulations and with the terms and conditions of the respective licences and permits. The failure to comply with the legal and regulatory requirements may result in the imposition of fines or penalties or more severe sanctions including the suspension, amendment or termination of licences and permits or in requirements to limit certain business activities.

In the normal course of business, the Alfa Banking Group must interpret and apply existing legal and regulatory requirements to its activities. From time to time matters of actual or potential non-compliance with existing legal or regulatory requirements may be identified. The management of the Alfa Banking Group is focused on the rectification of such matters known as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars and believes that such matters will not result in significant operating restrictions or material financial losses. No provisions have been recorded in this respect. See “Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Alfa Banking Group’s Business and Industry—Failure of the Alfa Banking Group to comply with various corporate law and regulatory requirements may have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations” and “Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Major Subsidiaries—ATB”.

Capital Adequacy of Alfa Bank

Alfa Bank is required to comply with capital adequacy ratios set by the CBR. For the purposes of calculating Alfa Bank's capital adequacy ratios according to the CBR's requirements on RAR unconsolidated basis, Alfa Bank's principal assets are divided into five categories with different risk weightings. Under Russian law, the N1.0 Ratio that the banks are required to maintain is calculated (on an unconsolidated basis) as the ratio of a bank's owned funds (its capital) to the total amount of its risk weighted assets. The minimum N1.0 Ratio required by the CBR as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars is 8.0 per cent. In addition, banks are required to maintain the N1.1 Ratio and the N1.2 Ratio at or above 4.5 per cent. and 6.0 per cent., respectively. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, a capital conservation buffer of 2.5 per cent. and a capital buffer for systemically important credit organisations of 1 per cent. is applicable to Alfa Bank's minimum capital adequacy requirements. See “The CBR regulations phasing in Basel III in Russia could have an adverse effect on Alfa Bank, its capital ratios and its regulatory capital” and “The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation—Regulation—Mandatory Economic Ratios” for further details on the capital and other mandatory economic ratios set by the CBR.

Alfa Bank's N1.0 Ratio amounted to 13.99 per cent. as at 1 July 2021, 13.26 per cent. as at 1 January 2021 and 12.69 per cent. as at 1 January 2020, which in each case exceeded the minimum required by the CBR. Alfa Bank's N1.1 Ratio and N1.2 Ratio as of 1 July 2021 was 10.62 per cent. and 11.98 per cent., respectively and 10.27 per cent. and 11.81 per cent. as of 1 January 2021, and 9.13 per cent. and 10.71 per cent., respectively, as of 1 January 2020, which in each case exceeded the minimum required by the CBR.

Capital Management of the Alfa Banking Group

The Alfa Banking Group's main objectives when managing capital are: (i) to comply with the capital requirements set by the respective central banks and debt covenants, (ii) to safeguard the Alfa Banking Group's ability to continue as a going concern, and (iii) to maintain a sufficient capital base to achieve a capital adequacy ratio based on Basel III of at least 8 per cent. The Alfa Banking Group's capital adequacy ratio is monitored monthly.

The following table sets forth the composition of the Alfa Banking Group's capital and the Alfa Banking Group's capital adequacy ratios as at the dates indicated in accordance with the Basel III:

History and Structure of the Alfa Banking Group

Alfa Finance Holdings

Alfa Finance Holdings was incorporated in Luxembourg in May 1999 principally to function as a holding company of the main financial businesses of a group of companies that operated principally in the banking, investment, insurance and asset management segments (the “Alfa Group”). Commencing in December 1999, Alfa Finance Holdings effected a multi-stage reorganisation (the “Reorganisation”) in order to:

- increase the transparency of the business by having a structure with a single parent company; and
- segregate the Alfa Group’s banking and non-banking assets.

After the Reorganisation, Alfa Finance Holdings was the sole shareholder of four wholly-owned sub-holding companies, each corresponding to the four main business segments in which the Alfa Group operated: ABH Financial (corporate and investment banking), Alfa Telecom Limited (telecommunications), Alfa Petroleum Holdings Limited (oil trading and production) and Alfa Capital Stock Trading Limited (insurance).

In 2004, Alfa Finance Holdings effected a further restructuring of the Alfa Banking Group’s ownership structure to further increase its transparency to allow it to comply with CBR requirements applicable to banks with retail operations and to participate in the Russian Deposit Insurance System. In early 2004, the then existing shareholders of Alfa Bank (holding 99.74 per cent. of its share capital) were consolidated into one entity JSC AB Holding. Further restructuring was carried out by transferring the ownership of ABH Financial from Alfa Finance Holdings to the then newly-formed ABH Holdings Corp (incorporated in 2004 in the British Virgin Islands). With effect from 31 December 2009, ABH Holdings Corp. transferred its domicile from the British Virgin Islands to Luxembourg, and changed its name to ABH Holdings. The registered office of ABH Holdings is 3, boulevard du Prince Henri, L-1724 Luxembourg, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

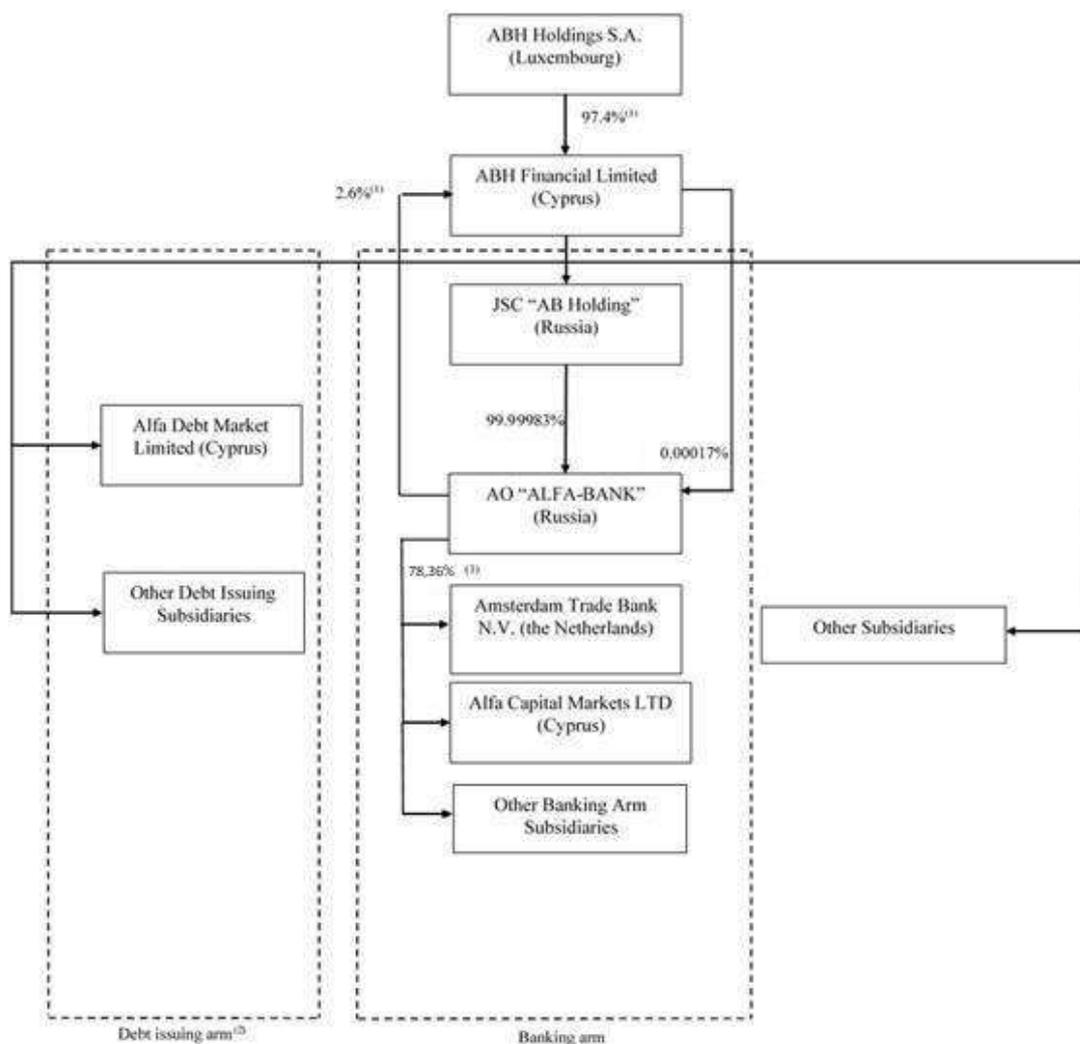

ABH Financial and the Alfa Banking Group

Originally named Alfa Bank Holdings Limited, ABH Financial was incorporated as a private company with limited liability under the laws of the British Virgin Islands on 3 November 1995, and is the parent company of the Alfa Banking Group.

In order to avail itself of the benefits of the EU regulated jurisdictions, effective 4 April 2011, ABH Financial changed its domicile from the British Virgin Islands to the Republic of Cyprus by transferring its registered office to Cyprus and continuing as a private limited liability company registered in Cyprus.

ABH Financial’s registered office is Themistokli Dervi, 5, Elenion Building, 2nd Floor, P.C. 1066, Nicosia, Cyprus and phone number is +357 22555800. ABH Financial is registered with the Department of Registrar of Companies and Official Receiver of the Ministry of Commerce, Industry and Tourism of the Republic of Cyprus under No. 284510. Competitive Strengths

The Alfa Banking Group's business is characterised by the following key strengths:

Strong Corporate and Investment Banking and Established Relationships with Leading Russian Companies

A key strength of the Alfa Banking Group is its corporate and investment banking segment. The Alfa Banking Group has a history of cooperation and strong relationships with leading Russian companies operating in various sectors of the Russian economy. Corporate and investment banking generated total external revenues of U.S.$920 million for six months ended 30 June 2021, representing 31.3 per cent. of the Alfa Banking Group's total external revenues for the period, as compared to U.S.$1,827 million for the year ended 31 December 2020 (34.2 per cent.) and U.S.$2,233 million for the year ended 31 December 2019 (40.5 per cent.). See Note 30 to the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements and "Operating and Financial Review—Results of Operations for the years ended 31 December 2020 and 2019—Segment Analysis".

The Alfa Banking Group believes that the global economic crisis provided it with an opportunity to strengthen its market position in its regions of operation and its core customer segments, as a number of its competitors (and foreign competitors, in particular) cut back their operations in Russia. The Alfa Banking Group's collaboration with leading Russian companies is based upon a wide range of products and its in-depth knowledge of the industry sectors in which its customers operate, and of its customers' businesses. The tailor-made solutions that the Alfa Banking Group is able to offer its clients give it a competitive advantage over some of its competitors. The Alfa Banking Group also believes that the know-how, experience and reputation of the Alfa Banking Group, through its servicing of specialised industry sectors, such as commercial real estate development and construction, transport and logistics, trade and commerce, machinery, mass media and telecommunications, food industry, metallurgy, power generation and agriculture, gives the Alfa Banking Group an advantage over banks trying to enter such sectors. As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group had approximately 661 thousand active corporate customers, compared to approximately 627 thousand as at 31 December 2020 and 540 thousand as at 31 December 2019.

Strong Franchise and Brand Recognition

The Alfa Banking Group is one of the leading Russian banking groups in terms of corporate and interbank lending, corporate current and retail accounts, retail deposits, fixed income and equity trading, foreign exchange, corporate finance advisory services, factoring, leasing and trade finance services. The Alfa Banking Group has also developed one of the most recognised brands in the Russian banking industry. The Banker, an international publication, has named Alfa Bank the "Bank of the Year in Russia 2019" and recognized Alfa Bank as the best performing lender in Russia in Top 1000 World Banks 2021. The British journal Euromoney has recognized Alfa Bank as the Best Bank in Central and Eastern Europe for SMEs 2019.

Strong Shareholder Commitment to Support the Bank

The Alfa Banking Group is one of the main strategic assets of its shareholders. The Alfa Banking Group's shareholders have historically provided financial support to the Alfa Banking Group, including in 2009 with a capital contribution of U.S.$320 million as additional capital to ABH Financial to support it during the turbulence of the global economic crisis. Although under no continuing obligation and while the shareholders may in time withdraw excess capital, the Alfa Banking Group's shareholders have publicly expressed their commitment to provide support to the Alfa Banking Group in the future, if needed.

ABH Financial believes that it benefits from this commitment taking into account its position in the corporate structure and indirect controlling ownership of the share capital in Alfa Bank. Moreover, in order to comply with CBR regulations regarding shareholder/controlling person financial standing and/or for purposes of ensuring that one of their main strategic assets remains financially stable, the shareholders of the Alfa Banking Group may, if circumstances so require, elect to provide financial support to ABH Financial using the financial resources of Alfa Bank or otherwise.

Strong Management Team and Advanced Systems

The Alfa Banking Group believes that its success is in large measure due to its strong management team, which combines Russian and Western expertise. Many of the Alfa Banking Group's senior managers have previously held senior positions at leading international financial institutions. The Alfa Banking Group's management team has also been instrumental in supporting the Alfa Banking Group's adoption of best practices from more developed banking markets including the development and implementation of a modern information management system and advanced risk management procedures.

International Experience and Reputation

From its inception, the Alfa Banking Group has been active in the international markets and has strong relationships with many international financial institutions, which has allowed it to continue to access funding at lower cost and from a wider range of sources than many other non-State banks in Russia. Alfa Bank has an international reputation as a stable and reliable bank according to Global Reputation Index research conducted by Romir in 2010. In the aftermath of Russia's 1998 financial crisis, unlike many other Russian banks, Alfa Bank settled all of its obligations on outstanding forward contracts and fully repaid all of its other obligations as they came due.

Strategy

The central goal of the Alfa Banking Group's strategy until the end of 2024 is to enhance its position in the Russian banking market and grow faster than its competitors in its operating segments. To achieve its strategic objectives, the Alfa Banking Group has identified and intends to focus on the following:

Building a New Generation Universal Bank

The Alfa Banking Group is dedicated to creating a new generation universal bank that will provide customers with an unparalleled level of high quality services supported by state of the art technology. As part of its overall strategy, the Alfa Banking Group is focused on achieving by 2024 certain targets and goals in respect of its client base, in particular, increasing the number of active retail clients and corporate clients to at least 13 million and 1 million, respectively.

For this purpose, the Alfa Banking Group will continue to place focus on identifying and meeting the modern needs of, and developing new ways to attract, customers, as well as improving decision-making processes by applying all available client data and refining its scoring and monitoring processes. In particular, the Alfa Banking Group aims to refine its scoring models to increase the volume of preapproved loan products whilst enhancing its risk detection and management system. The Alfa Banking Group seeks to grow its customer base by leveraging its existing and expanding strategic partnerships through the development of its digital platform. The Alfa Banking Group anticipates that further investments in its online customer acquisition channels will continue to contribute to the growth of its retail, small and micro business customer base and allow to maintain a scalable operating platform with an efficient customer acquisition process. See "—Partnerships and Technological Platform".

The Alfa Banking Group believes that the combination of the digital and physical experience and customer interaction is an essential component of new generation banking services. In 2020, the Alfa Banking Group launched new generation phygital offices with paperless operations and special biometric technologies used for detecting and processing customer information. Since then, transformation of branches into the phygital format was at the forefront of the Alfa Banking Group's strategy for creating a new generation branch network. Such offices use a biometric facial recognition system that reads the clients' biometrics and passes the results on to the managers and organises the queue automatically for speed and convenience. Supported by digital transformation, phygital branches enable secure identification and swift servicing of customers by means of smartphones, significantly cut down on paperwork and introduce new means of cross-selling. As part of this strategy the Alfa Banking Group is planning to scale up its phygital branch network by further expansion of the new format branches in regions with a goal of launching more than 300 branches in the next few years.

In line with the ongoing migration of transactions to digital channels and with a significant volume of transactions now taking place outside a bank's branch, the Alfa Banking Group is planning to continue develop digital services with particular focus on digitalisation of corporate business.

The Alfa Banking Group believes that a universal bank will enable the Alfa Banking Group to exploit synergies across all business lines and scale up its business activities across all segments.

Partnerships and Technological Platform

One of the Alfa Banking Group's strategic objectives is to place great emphasis on developing technological and business partnerships of all kinds, that will allow it to extend the value proposition and build new products and services without diverting its attention to non-core or ancillary business lines.

Over the past few years, the Alfa Banking Group has entered into several long-term partnership on technological integration, launching a series of co-branded unique offerings and tools together with major Russian companies and international financial players. For example, development of the Alfa Banking Group's technological platform provides a proficient new approach to partner lending programmes by integrating the Alfa Banking Group's proprietary technologies and scoring systems into partners' client systems where potential clients can obtain quick decisions on non-recurrent applications for credit products and receive pre-approved lending offers. This approach significantly expands the target audience for products and services and decreases acquisition costs.

The Alfa Banking Group plans to further develop and implement advanced technologies which management believes will allow it to offer the best-in-class services not only to existing customers but to partners and their clients, provide competitive advantages in the changing banking sector and will become the basis for increasing the Alfa Banking Group's profitability and market share. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group plans to leverage existing partnerships with companies owned or controlled by its principal shareholders, such as X5, Alfa Capital and Alfa Insurance, to further expand its target audience.

Shift to a Financial Super Service

The Alfa Banking Group develops a financial super service, a service that will ensure consistent high-level customer experience across all channels and products lines. The Alfa Banking Group's goal is to develop its front and back end processes in a way that will allow it to offer its target audience the right proposition at a convenient time and through the most suitable channel. To achieve this goal, the Alfa Banking Group plans to invest capital and resources into improvements of services quality across all channels.

The Alfa Banking Group's strategy is to match the clients' expectations with a balanced and uniform approach across all channels. The Alfa Banking Group strives to understand their expectations by constantly learning, reinventing and challenging its clients proposition and gathering customer feedback. The Alfa Banking Group will continue to increase its brand awareness using its multiple digital and social media channels.

According to the recently updated strategy, the Alfa Banking Group will launch an Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) programme. The key priorities of this programme are to manage environmental impacts and support diversity initiatives both within its own organisation and externally.

The Alfa Banking Group has invested and will continue to invest in various health care, education and culture initiatives, as well partake in philanthropy, and its new strategy puts sustainability issues front and centre. The Alfa Banking Group's intends to manage its ESG agenda on a comprehensive basis in accordance with international best practices. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group will continue shifting to the paperless bank through widespread adoption of electronic digital signatures and integration of biometrical technologies.

Attracting and Retaining Top Talent

The Alfa Banking Group's employment strategy is to attract and retain top talent at all levels and to become a company of choice for IT specialists. The Alfa Banking Group's Human Resources strategy is focused on creating the best employee experience, increasing in efficiency of staff and development of strong and independent leaders internally. The Alfa Banking Group has established a core set of values, which its employees are encouraged to share, and a model of leadership competences, linked with values, for all levels of staff. The Alfa Banking Group is planning to develop a new motivation system encouraging overachievement and superior results..

During each of the periods covered by the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements, the Alfa Banking Group's principal business activities have consisted of corporate and investment banking and retail banking. See “Operating and Financial Review of the Alfa Banking Group—Analysis by Segment” for a further discussion of the revenues and segment results generated by the Alfa Banking Group's respective business segments.

The Alfa Banking Group's measures in relation to challenges resulting from Covid-19

The Alfa Banking Group's management took affirmative action and established a special taskforce in response to the developing operating environment in 2020. This taskforce proceeded to develop and implement a wide range of measures that ensured banking operations remained uninterrupted and employees were able to conduct their day-to-day functions in the ordinary course (and remotely, if necessary) as the restrictions on movement were introduced across the country. As part of these measures, the Alfa Banking Group transferred a substantial portion of its employees to remote working. As at 1 January 2021, 60 per cent. of the total workforce was working remotely. At the same time, nearly all of the Alfa Banking Group's branches remained fully operational and capable of providing banking services and products to customers in a safe environment during the time the restrictions were in force. As of 1 January 2021, approximately 75 per cent. of the workforce of Alfa Bank's central headquarters in Moscow was working remotely and various social distancing and precautionary measures were introduced in the Alfa Banking Group's branches and offices to ensure the safety of personnel and customers. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group divided its employees into four groups: “office” (working at the office on a daily basis), “office heavy” (working primarily at the office with opportunity to work 1-2 days per week remotely), “home heavy” (working primarily remotely with opportunity to work 1-2 days per week at the office) and “remote” (working completely in a remote regime).

Underpinning the Alfa Banking Group's ability to adjust to a rapidly changing operating environment is the ongoing shift in the technological level of its operations and a systematic implementation of digitalization processes in its day-to-day activities. See “Description of the Alfa Banking Group—Strategy”. The results of this strategy are allowing customers to conduct most of their banking transactions remotely using mobile and online banking platforms, as well call centers and automated bots. The Alfa Banking Group's management believes that its IT systems are well equipped to function in the current operating environment and its technical support is sufficiently staffed and trained to accommodate any potential increase in remote operations and online customer requests. Adjusting to a rapidly changing operating environment, the Alfa Banking Group implemented a system for digital execution of transactions. Now clients of the Alfa Banking Group can enter into transactions remotely using authorized electronic signature. Introduction of this system will allow customers to conduct their banking transactions remotely and will significantly simplify relevant banking operations.

The Alfa Banking Group is committed to supporting its customers during turbulent times and has embraced the state-mandated grace period programme that applies to certain types of retail mortgage, cash and credit card loans. In addition, the state-mandated programme has been supplemented with the Alfa Banking Group's own credit relief period programme that has fewer qualifying criteria and developed with its customer base in mind. These programmes provide for grace periods for principal and/or interest payments, payment schedule restructuring and other measures.

During the program period, the Alfa Banking Group approved grace periods for or otherwise restructured retail loans in the amount of RUB1.5 billion pursuant to the state-mandated programme and in the amount of RUB63.1 billion under the Alfa Banking Group's own credit relief programme. Furthermore, the Alfa Banking Group is offering grace periods on payments of principal and interest to its small and micro business clients, as well as medium businesses and large corporate clients. During the program period, the Alfa Banking Group approved grace periods for or otherwise restructured loans in the amount of RUB2.0 billion to small and micro business clients under the state-mandated programme and in the amount of RUB5.3 billion under the Alfa Banking Group's own credit relief programme. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group approved grace periods for or otherwise restructured loans in the amount of RUB1.6 billion to medium business clients under the state-mandated programme and in the amount of RUB17 billion under the Alfa Banking Group's own credit relief programme. the Alfa Banking Group also approved grace periods for or otherwise restructured loans to large corporate clients in the amount of RUB56.1 billion under the Alfa Banking Group's own credit relief programme. In addition, the Alfa Banking Group has provided issued loans to customers pursuant to state support programmes, including zero interest rate payroll loans and loans at reduced interest rates, all of which were subsidised by the Russian Government. During the program period, the Alfa Banking Group provided payroll loans in the amount of RUB0.4 billion to small and micro clients, in the amount of RUB1.8 billion to medium business and in the amount of RUB13.5 billion to large corporate clients. During the program period, the Alfa Banking Group provided loans at reduced interest rates in the amount of RUB0.5 billion to small and micro clients, RUB3.5 billion to medium businesses and RUB6.2 billion loans to large corporate clients.

As a result of the Covid-19 outbreak and deteriorating conditions and outlook for the global economy, weak demand for oil and the continued depreciation of the Rouble against the U.S. dollar, the management of the Alfa Banking Group applies a more conservative approach to risk management, which may entail a reduction or more selective issuance of loans, and a focus on maintaining the quality of its existing loan portfolio and other assets, with a prudent allocation of industry related exposures. The Alfa Banking Group has implemented a monitoring system aimed at proactively identifying potential changes in the credit quality of borrowers and counterparties. The Alfa Banking Group monitors clients and counterparties on a regular basis in order to identify deteriorations in certain industries and sectors of the economy, as well as in the context of each borrower and counterparty.

Corporate and Investment Banking

The Alfa Banking Group merged its corporate banking business and investment banking business in 2009 and it continues to develop cross-selling opportunities between its corporate and investment banking customers. The combined corporate and investment banking segment includes lending; bank account, deposit and settlement services; trade finance; factoring; corporate finance; equities; fixed income and foreign exchange.

The Alfa Banking Group's corporate and investment banking operations generated external revenues of U.S.$920 million for six months ended 30 June 2021, compared to U.S.$960 million for six months ended 30 June 2020.

Corporate Customer Base and Segmentation

The Alfa Banking Group provides corporate banking products and services to a variety of corporate and governmental entities. The Alfa Banking Group divides its corporate clients by revenue: (i) large corporate business segment, which includes clients with annual revenues in excess of RUB10 billion; (ii) medium corporate business segment, which includes clients with annual revenues between RUB350 million and RUB 10 billion; and (iii) micro and small business segment, which includes clients with annual revenues that are less than RUB350 million.

Since 2010 the Alfa Banking Group has developed a separate business platform to provide banking services for clients with an annual turnover of less than RUB350 million – a micro and small business segment which combines features of the Alfa Banking Group's retail banking and MSME banking businesses. Since 2014 the Alfa Banking Group has begun to place particular emphasis on developing and strengthening its relationships with the medium corporate business segment, as it believes it can benefit from and substantially expand offering its relatively low risk fee and commission services to such clients. Medium corporate business became a separate block in 2018 owing to record clientele growth and the need to separate between medium business and micro and small business objectives. Over the past few years the Alfa Banking Group has continuously developed its expertise in medium, small and micro banking services, which resulted in the introduction of a new reportable segment "Medium, small and micro banking" as it met the requirements of separate disclosure under IFRS standards. See "—Medium, small and micro banking".

Large corporate and investment banking business segment, medium corporate business segment and micro and small business segment are governed by three heads which report directly to the Chief Executive Officer of Alfa Bank.

The Alfa Banking Group also focuses on "blue chip" and state sector clients in a number of natural resources sectors, including mining and metals, oil and gas, agrochemicals, petrochemistry and energy. As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group had approximately 661 thousand active corporate customers, compared to 631 thousand active corporate customers as at 31 December 2020 and 540 thousand active corporate customers as at 31 December 2019. The Alfa Banking Group plans to make more personal instalment loans to employees of payroll customers as it believes this customer segment represents a lower credit risk due to the fact they earn higher incomes and because the Alfa Banking Group can more accurately evaluate the individuals' ability to service a loan due to the Alfa Banking Group's knowledge of their employer, and their credit histories and employment. In 2020, the Alfa Banking Group launched a new scoring solution for its customers to make preliminary lending decisions based on taxpayer identification numbers within very limited time frame.

The Alfa Banking Group also offers its retail clients VISA and MasterCard debit and credit cards. The card-holders pay annual and transaction-based fees for using the cards. clients to whom it can cross-sell other products and plans to develop new technologies which will allow to simplify the process of financing.

As at 30 June 2021, the Alfa Banking Group offered mortgage loans to retail customers in Moscow and 47 other regions of the Russian Federation. Since February 2016 the Alfa Banking Group has been offering its mortgage products in selected cities across Russia. These products include loans for apartments in the primary and secondary residential real estate market, the refinancing of mortgages originated by other banks, as well as general loans secured by a pledge of real estate.

In 2019, the Alfa Banking Group modified its products relating to mortgage lending and introduced new procedures for review of the applications of the customers. As a result of implementation of new products, the Alfa Banking Group offers more attractive products to the clients and the process of review and approval of customers' applications is faster and more customers-friendly.

The Alfa Banking Group's retail banking business is conducted through its network of branches, which aim to provide easy-to-understand, convenient and efficient service to individuals and small businesses. Most of the Alfa Banking Group's branches offer customers 24-hour access to their accounts through telephone, Internet and self-service channels. Branches offer customers a range of checking and savings accounts in Roubles, U.S. dollars and Euros; credit cards; overdraft facilities; instant cash transfers; pre-paid cash cards and safe deposit boxes. The Alfa Banking Group offers its customers different tariff plans with tiered levels of service.

The Alfa Banking Group uses "micro" branches, which offer a more streamlined range of services to customers, as part of its strategy to increase its retail banking presence across Russia and particularly in the Russian regions, without incurring the cost of establishing traditional branches.

The Alfa Banking Group's focus on developing the profitability of its retail operations means that it takes a careful approach to developing and maintaining its branch network. As further discussed under "—Property" below, most of the Alfa Banking Group's branches are operated under lease contracts for the period of more than one year. The Alfa Banking Group carefully considers the viability of maintaining a branch at a given location upon expiration of its lease. If an increase in rent makes a branch uneconomic, the Alfa Banking Group relocates the branch. In the Moscow area, this has resulted in the Alfa Banking Group closing some branches in central locations, which were initially chosen to raise the profile of the Alfa Banking Group's retail operations. These branches were relocated to residential, or so called "dormitory" areas. The Alfa Banking Group's management believes this policy will increase the branch network's profitability.

Ensuring high standards of quality and consistency in its retail operations is a key focus for the Alfa Banking Group. To this end, it conducts a variety of operational audits and tests. These include "mystery shopper exercises", where branches are anonymously inspected to check the quality of service delivery, approximately four times each quarter. The Alfa Banking Group also performs a variety of consumer survey operations, including Internet voting on the performance of branches, and “voice of the customer” exercises, which involve the Alfa Banking Group conducting surveys to obtain feedback customers’ views by telephone.

In June 2018, the Alfa Banking Group launched a service allowing to transfer a debt from a credit card of another bank. In addition, in June 2018, the Alfa Banking Group launched a special action of cash loans with 10.99 per cent. rate and the debit and credit cards of AlfaTravel.

Remote retail services

One of the Alfa Banking Group’s highest priorities for its retail business remains the development of infrastructure to provide its customers with convenient, easy-to-use remote banking services. As a result, the Alfa Banking Group has installed several hundred ATMs capable of receiving cash deposits and developing remote customer service channels and, in particular, Internet and mobile banking. Since 2007, the Alfa Banking Group has sought to increase the functionality of its Internet banking service, “Alfa-Click”, by adding payment options for mobile phone services, Internet, utilities, replenishment of Alfa Direct brokerage accounts and enabling customers to invest in mutual funds managed by LLC “Alfa Capital”. The Alfa Banking Group has also developed a mobile phone based access system, “Alfa-Mobile”, which offers the same service options as Alfa-Click, and has also developed an SMS banking service. In March 2021, the Alfa Banking Group acquired digital service “Net Monet”, a Russian QR code based platform for paying tips. The Alfa Banking Group’s management believes that Net Monet is one of the Russian market leader by amount of collected tips and this acquisition will create great synergy between businesses. In particular, Net Monet data on tips and workplaces enables a real income estimate of the employee which opens an opportunity for short term lending. In addition, Net Monet users can be offered to issue Alfa Bank card on the success screen after paying tips. Net Monet data on reviews and tips also provides an opportunity to develop a restaurant recommendation or booking system. The Alfa Banking Group charges approximately 5 per cent. commission on GMV of Net Monet.

Treasury

Alfa Bank’s Treasury Department has historically been responsible principally for the Alfa Banking Group’s liquidity and interest risk management functions and maintenance of open foreign exchange positions as directed by the Asset and Liability Management Committee, as well as methodological and analytical functions. In 2009, the Treasury Department was reorganised so that the foreign exchange operations were transferred to the Foreign Exchange Department of the Corporate and Investment Banking division. In addition to determining the price of allocation of funds within the Alfa Banking Group, as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the Treasury Department functions now include the Alfa Banking Group’s asset and liabilities management and money market operations. See “Risk Management” below for a further discussion of the Asset and Liability Management Committee and its operations.

In 2013, the Alfa Banking Group’s Russia/CIS Financial Institutions department within the Treasury was merged with its International Financial Institutions department, previously within the Trade Finance department, in order to further develop the Alfa Banking Group’s financial institutions business. The Alfa Banking Group’s treasury operations generated external revenues of U.S.$202 million for the year ended 31 December 2020 compared to U.S.$320 million for the year ended 31 December 2019.

Asset and Liability Management Functions/Interest Rate Management

Alfa Bank’s Treasury Department supports the Asset and Liability Management Committee in carrying out the asset and liability management functions, as well as the interest rate management functions, of the Alfa Banking Group. This entails, amongst other things, the analysis, monitoring and management of the Alfa Banking Group’s liquidity, foreign currency and interest rate positions under the authorities granted to it by the Asset and Liability Management Committee. In order to calculate its exposures, the Alfa Banking Group produces a consolidated balance sheet for its Russian operations on a daily basis, and intends to expand this practice to include its international operations. The Alfa Banking Group calculates its international operational exposures to ALM risks on a daily basis based on information obtained through its operations systems and on monthly basis based on its consolidated balance sheet. The Alfa Banking Group exploits special ALM system for its monitoring process, as well as to improve its market risk management and transfer pricing systems. The Alfa Banking Group’s liquidity is monitored on a daily basis, and interest rate risk is assessed on a weekly basis. See “Risk Management—Interest Rate Risk”. As part of its liquidity management process the Alfa Banking Group has a portfolio of debt investments at fair value through other comprehensive income, which is intended to complement the correspondent account cash management of the Treasury Department and provide an additional buffer for the Alfa Banking Group’s liquidity requirements. As at 30 June 2021, debt investments at fair value through other comprehensive income amounted to U.S.$2,938 million compared to U.S.$3,283 million as at 31 December 2020 and U.S.$4,840 million as at 31 December 2019. The Treasury Department also makes recommendations concerning lending rates to the Asset and Liability Management Committee and transfer pricing rates between the Alfa Banking Group’s different divisions. In order to improve the interface between the Treasury Department and other divisions of the Alfa Banking Group, and in particular with the Alfa Banking Group’s investment banking and corporate banking businesses, the Treasury Department has introduced a treasury marketing unit. The Asset and Liability Management Committee establishes balance sheet structure limits, which the asset and liability management unit of the Treasury Department monitors on a monthly basis. The Asset and Liability Management Committee establishes liability concentration limits, which the middle office monitors weekly. The Financial Institutions department (which currently combines operations with both Russia/CIS and international financial institutions) coordinates the provision of services (including setting and utilisation of credit limits) for, and develops relationships with financial institutions, which are Alfa Bank’s clients, and focuses on increasing the effectiveness of cooperation and cross-sales to financial institutions.

During 2016 the Alfa Banking Group implemented certain measures including the increase of ATB's capitalisation, disposal of some of ATB's loan exposures and other measures aimed at providing capital support to ATB. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, there are no indications that this may cause ATB to cease being a going concern. It is unclear which consequences the examination may have. Possible punitive measures may include a fine, which is expected to be not material for the Alfa Banking Group.

RISK MANAGEMENT

Overview

The Alfa Banking Group is focused on systematically exploiting available opportunities to achieve its growth targets without losing sight of the related risks. The Alfa Banking Group applies a unified risk management practice across all product lines, comprising credit risk, market risk, currency risk, interest rate risk, liquidity risk and operational risk management. The primary objective of the Alfa Banking Group's risk management is to achieve an optimal level of risk-return for its operations. The Alfa Banking Group continues to enhance its risk management.

The financial risk management function establishes risk limits and ensures that exposure to risks stays within these limits. The operational risk management functions are intended to ensure proper functioning of internal processes and procedures to minimise the Alfa Banking Group's exposure to internal and external risk factors.

The Alfa Banking Group's approach to managing risks is composed of following elements: (i) risk governance, (ii) risk identification, (iii) risk assessment, management and control, and (iv) risk reporting.

Subsidiaries of the Alfa Banking Group have their own unified risk management bodies depending on the size and risk profiles of each relevant entity aimed at effective and efficient governance and decision making.

The Board of Directors of Alfa Bank has overall responsibility for the implementation of the risk management framework, including, but not limited to, review and approval of the risk and capital management strategy, procedure of significant risks management, risk-appetite, IRB models and validation reports. The Board of Directors of Alfa Bank also approves significant exposures, affiliated and related party transactions, which exceed the specific limits.

The Audit Committee of Alfa Bank is responsible for overseeing the internal control framework, assessing the adequacy of risk management and compliance policies and procedures. It convenes regularly and provides recommendations to the Board of Directors on development of the risk management framework as well as its views on the quality of risk management and compliance.

The Remuneration Committee is responsible for reviewing and developing the remuneration framework, including recommendations to the Board of Directors.

The Risk Committee is responsible for preliminary consideration, analysis and proposals to the Board of Directors of Alfa Bank of the following key subjects: oversight the risk and capital management strategy, establishing risk appetite, monitoring the effectiveness of the risk management system, improvement of risk-culture and "Three lines of defence" model, IRB models and validation.

The Executive Board of Alfa Bank is responsible for implementation and monitoring of risk mitigation measures. The Executive Board monitors that the Alfa Banking Group operates within the established risk parameters. The Executive Board approves risks which exceed the individual authority of the relevant committees. The Executive Board of Alfa Bank is responsible for approval of procedures for risk and capital management and stress-testing based on the risk and capital management strategy approved by the Board of Directors of Alfa Bank. It ensures internal capital adequacy assessment procedures ("ICAAP") and maintains capital adequacy higher than minimum regulatory requirements, as well as considers ICAAP reporting.

Risks are managed and controlled through a system of committees. In order to facilitate efficient decision-making, the Alfa Banking Group has established a hierarchy of credit committees depending on the type and amount of the exposure: a) non-retail credit risk through the Non-Retail Credit Committees; b) retail credit risk through the Retail and Mass Risk Committee; c) Market, Liquidity and Interest rate risk through the Asset and Liability Management Committee; d) operational risk through the Operational Risk Steering Committee.

The Risk Management Department is responsible for the overall risk management functions, ensuring the implementation of common principles and methods for identifying, measuring, managing and reporting risks. The Risk Management Department deals with non-retail credit risk, counterparty credit risk, retail credit risks along with market risk, operational risk, liquidity risk and interest rate risk (together with the Treasury Department). The department structure is geared to bring focus on proactive portfolio management and to perform an extensive program of risk management processes and models improvements with ultimate goal to satisfy Basel II and III standards for risk management.

Corporate bad debts are managed through the Problem Loans Department that is independent from the Risk Management Department. Corporate problem loans are approved by the Main Credit Committee. The Non-Retail Default Committee is responsible for approval defaults and recovery period of borrowers (group of borrowers).

In relation to retail business, the Bad Debt Management Department executes the bad debt management strategy developed by the Retail Credit Risk Management Division and the Bad Debt Management Department. Default process is mainly automated, methodology is approved by the Head of Executive Board of Alfa Bank.

ATB has its own Risk Management and Treasury departments that operate in a similar manner.

Risk identification

Both external and internal risk factors are identified and managed throughout the Alfa Banking Group's organisational structure. Particular attention is given to developing risk overviews that are used to identify the full range of risk factors and serve as a basis for determining the level of assurance over the current risk mitigation procedures. An overview of the key risks is regularly reported to the Chief Risk Officer, members of the risk management committees, the Executive Board and the Board of Directors.

Risk assessment, management and control. The Alfa Banking Group's risk assessment, reporting and control procedures vary by type of risk, but share a common methodology developed and updated by the Risk Management Department. Compliance with the Alfa Banking Group's standards is supported by periodic reviews undertaken by the Internal Audit Department. The results of Internal Audit reviews are discussed with the management of the business units to which they relate and presented to the Audit Committee and the senior management of the Alfa Banking Group.

Risk Reporting. Risk reporting represents a comprehensive reporting system that provides the senior management with the summary information regarding significant risks, risk-appetite and consequences of changes of the operating environment. Regular risk reporting includes results on risk identification and analysis of significant risks through the set of indicators, analysis of the available capital and capital adequacy estimation, stress-testing results.

Risk-appetite and significant risks. The Alfa Banking Group identifies significant risks and defines risk-appetite for each significant risk disclosed below:

- Non-retail credit risk
- Counterparty credit risk
- Retail credit risk
- Market risk
- Interest rate risk
- Operational risk
- Liquidity risk
- Concentration risk

Credit risk. The Alfa Banking Group exposes itself to credit risk, which is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will cause a financial loss for the other party by failing to meet an obligation.

Exposure to credit risk arises as a result of the Alfa Banking Group's lending and other transactions with counterparties, giving rise to financial assets and off-balance sheet credit-related commitments.

The Alfa Banking Group's maximum exposure to credit risk is reflected in the carrying amounts of financial assets in the consolidated statement of financial position. For financial guarantees issued, commitments to extend credit, undrawn credit lines and export/import letters of credit, the maximum exposure to credit risk is the amount of the commitment.

Credit risk management. Credit risk is the single largest risk for the Alfa Banking Group's business; management therefore carefully manages its exposure to credit risk.

The estimation of credit risk for risk management purposes is complex and involves the use of models, as the risk varies depending on market conditions, expected cash flows and the passage of time. The assessment of credit risk for a portfolio of assets entails further estimations of the likelihood of defaults occurring, the associated loss ratios and credit conversion factors.

Limits. The Alfa Banking Group structures the levels of credit risk it undertakes by placing limits on the amount of risk accepted in relation to one borrower, or groups of borrowers, and to geographical and industry segments. Limits on the level of credit risk by product and industry sector are approved regularly by management. Such risks are monitored on a revolving basis and are subject to an annual, or more frequent, review.

The Alfa Banking Group established a number of credit committees that are responsible for approving credit limits for individual borrowers. Depending on the magnitude of credit risk, the decisions on transactions with corporate clients are approved either by the Main Credit Committee or the Small Credit Committee. These committees convene weekly. In certain circumstances (for example, based on tenor or size) loans are approved by the Executive Board or the Board of Directors of Alfa Bank. Authority to approve deals with insignificant credit limits are delegated by the Executive Board of Alfa Bank to the special groups within Corporate and Investment Bank and the Risk Management Department under the “4 eyes” principle.

Loan applications originated by the relevant client relationship managers are passed on to the relevant credit committee for the approval of the credit limit. Exposure to credit risk is also managed, in part, by obtaining collateral as well as corporate and personal guarantees. In order to monitor exposure to credit risk, regular reports are produced by the officers based on a structured analysis focusing on the customer’s business and financial performance. Any significant interaction with customers with deteriorating creditworthiness are reported to and reviewed by the Executive Board or the Board of Directors of Alfa Bank.

Credit risk grading system. For measuring credit risk and grading financial instruments by the amount of credit risk, the Alfa Banking Group applies two approaches – an IRB system or risk grades estimated by external international rating agencies (Standard & Poor’s, Fitch and Moody’s).

In accordance with the internal rating loans and advances to customers and investments at amortised cost assigned in one of the following rating categories:

- First class – strong credit quality with low expected credit risk
- Good and standard – adequate credit quality with a moderate credit risk
- Acceptable – moderate credit quality with a satisfactory credit risk
- Weak – facilities that require closer monitoring and remedial management
- Impaired – facilities in which a default has occurred.

The IRB system is designed internally and ratings are estimated by the Alfa Banking Group itself. Various credit-risk estimating techniques are used by the Alfa Banking Group depending on the class of the asset. There are three commonly used types of such systems:

- Model-based – In this system, credit risk ratings are assigned by internally developed statistical models with the limited involvement of credit officers. Statistical models include qualitative and quantitative information that shows the best predictive power based on historical data on defaults.
- Expert judgement-based – In this system, credit risk ratings are assigned subjectively by experienced credit officers based on internally developed methodology and different qualitative and quantitative factors. This approach is based on expert methodology and judgements rather than on sophisticated statistical models.
- Hybrid – This rating system is a combination of the two systems above. It is developed by using historical data combined with expert input.

The Alfa Banking Group applies IRB systems for measurement of credit risk for the following financial assets: interbank loans with Russian counterparties, corporate and retail loans, corporate bonds. The Alfa Banking Group is planning to apply IRB systems for measurement of credit risk for retail loans starting from 1 July 2021.

The rating models are regularly reviewed by the Risk Management Department, backtested on actual default data and updated if necessary. Despite the method used, the Alfa Banking Group regularly validates the accuracy of ratings estimates and appraises the predictive power of the models.

Assessment of the credit quality of cash and cash equivalents, debt trading securities, due from other banks and debt investments at fair value through other comprehensive income are based on the counterparties’ long-term credit ratings assigned by international rating agencies such as Standard & Poor’s, Fitch and Moody’s and in accordance with the internal rating methodology:

- First class - banks and companies with minimal probability of default and with ratings above BB+ by Standard & Poor’s and Fitch, Ba1 by Moody’s and BB+ in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Good and standard - banks and companies with long-term credit rating from BB- to BB by Standard & Poor’s and Fitch, Ba3 to Ba2 by Moody’s and from BB- to BB in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Acceptable - banks and companies with long-term credit rating from B- to B+ by Standard & Poor’s and Fitch, B3 to B1 by Moody’s and from B- to B+ in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Weak - banks and companies with long-term credit rating from CCC+ to C by Standard & Poor’s and Fitch, Caa1 and Ca by Moody’s and CCC in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Impaired - banks and companies with long-term credit rating below C by Standard & Poor’s and Fitch, Ca by Moody’s and below CCC in accordance with the internal rating methodology.

External ratings are assigned to counterparties by independent international rating agencies, such as S&P, Moody's and Fitch. These ratings are publicly available. Such ratings and the corresponding range of probability of default are applied for the following financial instruments if these instruments are not covered by IRB rating systems: interbank placements to foreign counterparties, loans to sovereigns, and investments in debt securities (government, corporate and municipal bonds, and Eurobonds and promissory notes purchased).

Expected credit loss measurement – definitions

Expected credit loss is a probability-weighted estimate of the present value of future cash shortfalls (i.e., the weighted average of credit losses, with the respective risks of default occurring in a given time period used as weights). An expected credit loss measurement is unbiased and determined by evaluating a range of possible outcomes. Expected credit loss measurement is based on four components used by the Alfa Banking Group: Probability of Default, Exposure at Default, Loss Given Default and Discount Rate.

Exposure at Default – an estimate of exposure at a future default date, taking into account expected changes in exposure after the reporting date, including repayments of principal and interest, and expected drawdowns on committed facilities.

Probability of Default – an estimate of the likelihood of default to occur over a given time period.

Loss Given Default – an estimate of the loss arising on default. It is based on the difference between the contractual cash flows due and those that the lender would expect to receive, including from any collateral. It is expressed as a percentage of the exposure at default.

Discount Rate – a tool to discount an expected loss to the present value at the reporting date. The discount rate represents the effective interest rate for the financial instrument or an approximation thereof.

Lifetime period – the maximum period over which expected credit loss should be measured. For loans with fixed maturity, the lifetime period is equal to the remaining contractual period. For loan commitments and financial guarantee contracts, this is the maximum contractual period over which an entity has a present contractual obligation to extend credit. For credit cards issued to individuals, it is the period that is based on internal statistics, and it is equal to 3 years.

Lifetime expected credit loss – losses that result from all possible default events over the remaining lifetime period of the financial instrument.

12-month expected credit loss – the portion of lifetime expected credit losses that represent the expected credit losses resulting from default events on a financial instrument that are possible within 12 months after the reporting date that are limited by the remaining contractual life of the financial instrument. For those instruments without contractual life - 12 months are used.

Forward looking information – the information that includes the key macroeconomic variables impacting credit risk and expected credit losses for each portfolio segment. Among other factors the Alfa Banking Group updated the following economic variables on which the forecast of future macroeconomic conditions is based:

- oil and gas prices changes;
- Russian stock market index MOEX dynamics; and
- dynamics of the money supply, which includes changes in volumes of currency in circulation, demand and saving deposits and liquid securities.

As with any economic forecast, however, the projections and likelihoods of their occurrence are subject to a high degree of inherent uncertainty and therefore the actual outcomes may be significantly different from those projected. Note 4 to ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements provides more information on how the Alfa Banking Group incorporated forward-looking information in the ECL models.

Credit Conversion Factor – a coefficient that shows the probability of conversion of an off-balance sheet amounts to exposure on the balance within a defined period. It can be calculated for a 12-month or lifetime period. Based on the analysis performed, the Alfa Banking Group considers that 12-month and lifetime credit conversion factors are the same.

Purchased or originated credit impaired financial assets – financial assets that are credit-impaired upon initial recognition.

Low credit risk financial assets – assets that have an investment grade defined by external rating agencies or corresponding internal rating, debt instruments issued by Russian Federation and denominated in RUB, loans to companies owned by the Russian Federation and denominated in RUB. The presumption, that there have been significant increases in credit risk since initial recognition when financial assets are more than 30 days past due, has not been rebutted.

Default and credit-impaired asset – a loan is in default, meaning fully aligned with the definition of credit-impaired, when it meets one or more of the following criteria:

- the borrower is more than 90 days past due on its contractual payments;
- the Alfa Banking Group is considering selling the borrower's debt with significant losses (more than 5% of the debt principal balance and accrued interest);
- the Default Committee recognized restructured debt as default;
- the Alfa Banking Group has classified the borrower in the default rating class according to the master scale together with the fact that the Main Credit Committee recognised the borrower as credit-impaired one. The Main Credit Committee decides on recognition of the borrower as credit-impaired one based on the unlikelihood-to-pay criteria listed below:
 - the borrower is insolvent;
 - it is becoming likely that the borrower will enter bankruptcy;
 - other criteria reflecting difficulties with successful fulfilling of obligations by the borrower.

An instrument is considered to no longer be in default (i.e. to have cured) when it no longer meets any of the default criteria for a consecutive period of six months.

Significant increase in credit risk – the significant increase in credit risk assessment is performed on an individual basis and on a portfolio basis. For loans issued to legal entities and individuals, interbank loans and debt securities accounted for at amortized cost or at fair value through other comprehensive income, significant increase in credit risk is assessed on an individual basis by monitoring the triggers stated below. The criteria used to identify a significant increase in credit risk are monitored and reviewed periodically for appropriateness by the Alfa Banking Group's Risk Management Department.

The Alfa Banking Group considers a financial instrument to have experienced a significant increase in credit risk when one or more of the following quantitative, qualitative or backstop criteria have been met.

- For loans issued to legal entities and bonds issued by the legal entities, interbank operations and bonds issued by the banks:
- 30 days past due;
- increase of probability of default by 2,7 times (that is close to decrease of rating by 3 notches) compared to probability default on the date of initial recognition (the relative threshold);
- loan for which internal rating cannot be calculated (excluding loans rated by international rating agencies);
- inclusion of loan into a watch list zone "Red" according to the internal credit risk monitoring process.

For loans to Individuals:

- 30 days past due;
- increase of probability of default by 4 times compared to probability default on the date of initial recognition (the relative threshold);
- refinanced loan – a special type of loan when all loans of the borrower are refinanced into one.

If there is evidence that the significant increase in credit risk criteria are no longer met, the instrument will be transferred back to Stage 1. If an exposure has been transferred to Stage 2 based on a qualitative indicator, the Alfa Banking Group monitors whether that indicator continues to exist or has changed.

Expected credit loss measurement – description of estimation techniques

General principle

For non-purchased or originated credit impaired financial assets, expected credit losses are generally measured based on the risk of default over one of two different time periods, depending on whether the credit risk of the borrower has increased significantly since initial recognition. This approach can be summarised in a three-stage model for expected credit loss measurement:

- Stage 1: a financial instrument that is not credit-impaired on initial recognition and its credit risk has not increased significantly since initial recognition, loss allowance is based on 12-month expected credit loss.

- Stage 2: if a significant increase in credit risk since initial recognition is identified, the financial instrument is moved to Stage 2 but not yet deemed to be credit-impaired, loss allowance is based on lifetime expected credit loss.
- Stage 3: if the financial instrument is credit-impaired, the financial instrument is then moved to Stage 3 and loss allowance is based on lifetime expected credit loss.

Expected credit loss for purchased or originated credit impairment financial assets is always measured on a lifetime basis (Stage 3), so at the reporting date, the Alfa Banking Group only recognises the cumulative changes in lifetime expected credit losses.

The Alfa Banking Group can carry out three separate approaches for expected credit loss measurement:

- assessment on an individual basis;
- assessment on a portfolio basis: internal ratings are estimated on an individual basis but the same credit risk parameters (e.g. probability of default, loss given default) will be applied during the process of expected credit loss calculations for the same credit risk ratings and homogeneous segments of the loan portfolio;
- assessment based on external ratings.

The Alfa Banking Group performs an assessment on an individual basis for the following types of loans issued to legal entities: loans with unique credit risk characteristics, individually significant loans and credit-impaired loans.

The Alfa Banking Group performs an assessment on a portfolio basis for the following types of assets: loans and credit-related commitments issued to legal entities (standard lending, specialised lending, loans to leasing companies, etc.), interbank loans, retail loans and loans issued to MSMEs. This approach incorporates aggregating the portfolio into homogeneous segments based on borrower-specific information.

The Alfa Banking Group performs assessments on external ratings for the following types of loans: interbank loans, debt securities issued by the banks and legal entities, and loans issued to sovereigns.

Principles of assessment on individual basis – expected credit loss assessments on an individual basis are done by weighting the estimates of credit losses for different possible outcomes against the probabilities of each outcome. The Alfa Banking Group defines at least two possible outcomes for each loan, one of which leads to credit loss in spite of the probability of such a scenario. Individual assessment is mainly based on the expert judgement of the Problem Loans Collection Department. Expert judgements are regularly tested in order to decrease the difference between estimates and actual losses.

Principles of assessment on portfolio basis – to assess the staging of exposure and to measure a loss allowance on a collective basis, the Alfa Banking Group combines its exposures into segments on the basis of shared credit risk characteristics, such as that exposures to risk within a group are homogeneous.

Examples of shared characteristics include: type of customer (such as income producing real estate or leasing companies), product type (such as credit cards or cash loans), credit risk rating and date of initial recognition.

The different segments reflect differences in credit risk parameters such as probability of default and loss given default. The appropriateness of groupings is monitored and reviewed on a periodic basis by the Risk Management Department.

In general, expected credit loss is the multiplication of the following credit risk parameters: exposure at default, probability of default and loss given default (definitions of the parameters are provided above). The general approach used for expected credit loss calculation is set out in reference to Note 31 to the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements.

The expected credit loss is determined by predicting credit risk parameters (exposure at default, probability of default and loss given default) for each future month during the lifetime period for each individual exposure or collective segment. These three components are multiplied together and adjusted for the likelihood of survival (i.e. the exposure has been repaid or defaulted in an earlier month). This effectively calculates an expected credit loss for each future month, which is then discounted back to the reporting date and summed up. The discount rate used in the expected credit loss calculation is the original effective interest rate or an approximation thereof.

The brief principles of calculating the credit risk parameters are as following.

The exposures at default are determined based on the expected payment profile, which varies by product type:

- for amortising products and bullet repayment loans, exposure at default is based on the contractual repayments owed by the borrower over a 12-month or lifetime basis;
- for revolving products, the exposure at default is predicted by taking the current drawn balance and adding a credit conversion factor that accounts for the expected drawdown of the remaining limit by the time of default.

Two types of probability of default are used for calculating expected credit loss: 12-month and lifetime probability of default:

- 12-month probability of default – the estimated probability of a default occurring within the next 12 months (or over the remaining life of the financial instrument if less than 12 months). This parameter is used to calculate 12-month expected credit losses. An assessment of a 12-month probability of default is based on the latest available historic default data and adjusted for forward-looking information when appropriate.
- Lifetime probability of default – the estimated probability of a default occurring over the remaining life of the financial instrument. This parameter is used to calculate lifetime expected credit loss for Stage 2 exposures. An assessment of a lifetime probability of default is based on the latest available historic default data and adjusted for forward looking information when appropriate.

To calculate lifetime probability of default, the Alfa Banking Group uses different statistical approaches depending on the segment and product type, such as the extrapolation of 12-month probability of default based on migration matrixes and developing lifetime probability default curves based on the historical default data. For lifetime probability of default calculations, the Alfa Banking Group uses historical default data and the extrapolation of trends for longer periods during which default data was not available.

Loss given default represents the Alfa Banking Group's expectation of the extent of loss on a defaulted exposure. Loss given default varies by the product, stage and the availability of collateral or other credit support.

The 12-month and lifetime losses given defaults are determined based on the factors that impact the expected recoveries after a default event.

The approach to loss given default measurement can be divided into three possible approaches:

- measurement of loss given default based on the specific characteristics of the collateral;
- calculation of loss given default on a portfolio basis based on recovery statistics;
- individually defined loss given default depending on different factors and scenarios.

For loans secured by real estate the Alfa Banking Group calculates loss given default based on specific characteristics of the collateral, such as projected collateral values, historical discounts on sales and other factors.

For particular segments of the corporate, retail, interbank loan portfolio and corporate bonds loss given default is calculated on a collective basis based on the latest available recovery statistics.

Expected credit loss measurement for off-balance sheet financial instruments (financial guarantees, loan commitments)

The expected credit loss measurement of off-balance sheet accounts consists of the same steps described above for the balance sheet exposures and differs with respect to exposure at default calculation. The general approach used for exposure at default calculation is set out in reference to Note 31 to ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements.

Principles of assessment based on external ratings – the principles of expected credit loss calculations based on external ratings are the same as for their assessment on a portfolio basis. Since the clients have defined the external credit rating, credit risk parameters (probability of default) could be taken from the default and recovery statistics published by international rating agencies.

Forward-looking information incorporated in the expected credit loss models. The assessment of the significant increase in credit risk and the calculation of expected credit losses both incorporate forward-looking information. The Alfa Banking Group has performed historical analyses and identified the key economic variables impacting credit risk and expected credit losses for each portfolio.

These economic variables and their associated impact on the probability of default, exposure at default and loss given default vary by financial instrument. These economic variables, such as consumer price index, natural gas price, Russian credit default swaps, have been determined by performing statistical regression analysis to understand the impact of changes in these variables has historically had on default rates.

Based on these economic variables the Alfa Banking Group's Risk Management Department makes the forecast of future macroeconomic conditions, which is considered by the management of the Alfa Banking Group to define the next coming stage of economic cycle using not only statistical approach but also expert judgement of the management.

The assessment of significant increase in credit risk is performed using the lifetime probability of default for retail borrowers and 12-month probability of default for other financial assets, along with qualitative and backstop indicators. This determines whether the whole financial instrument is in Stage 1, Stage 2, or Stage 3 and hence whether a 12-month or lifetime expected credit loss should be recorded. Following this assessment, the Alfa

Banking Group measures expected credit loss as either a probability-weighted 12 month expected credit loss (Stage 1), or a probability weighted lifetime expected credit loss (Stages 2 and 3). These probability-weighted expected credit losses are determined by running the relevant expected credit loss model.

As with any economic forecast, the projections and likelihoods of occurrence are subject to a high degree of inherent uncertainty, and therefore the actual outcomes may be significantly different to those projected. The Alfa Banking Group considers these forecasts to represent its best estimate of the possible outcomes and has analysed the non-linearities and asymmetries within the Alfa Banking Group's different portfolios to establish that the chosen scenarios are appropriately representative of the range of possible scenarios.

Validation – the Alfa Banking Group regularly reviews its methodology and assumptions to reduce any difference between the estimates and the actual loss of credit. Such validation is performed at least once a year. The results of validation the expected credit loss measurement methodology are communicated to the Alfa Banking Group management and further steps for tuning models and assumptions are defined after discussions between authorised persons.

Equity price risk. As noted above, for the purpose of quantifying the Alfa Banking Group's equity price risks which is attributed to investment banking trading position only, the Alfa Banking Group uses a value at risk model.

As at 30 June 2021 the Alfa Banking Group's equity price risk value at risk was limited at U.S.$8 million (U.S.$8 million as at 31 December 2020 and 2019). This limit is set by the Asset and Liability Management Committee.

Currency risk. Currency risk is the risk that the value of financial instruments will fluctuate due to changes in the foreign exchange rates. The Treasury Department is responsible for the centralised management of the foreign exchange risk of the banking book (strategic position). The Corporate and Investment Bank Department is responsible for the currency risk management of trading positions. Assets and Liability Management Committee sets separate limits on the open currency position. The Risk Management Department controls limits of trading position. The Treasury Department of the Alfa Banking Group ensures compliance with limits on open foreign exchange position of the banking book and general limits on the open currency position.

The Alfa Banking Group uses derivatives to manage current and forecast exposures resulting from foreign currencies.

The table below summarises the Alfa Banking Group's exposure to foreign currency exchange rate risk as monitored by management as at 31 December 2020 and 2019:

Market Risk

The Alfa Banking Group takes on exposure to market risks. Market risks arise from open positions in equity, currency and interest rate products, all of which are exposed to general and specific market movements.

The Alfa Banking Group manages its market risk through notional-based and risk-based limits for the Alfa Banking Group's sub-positions. Overall the Alfa Banking Group's position is split between (i) Corporate and Retail Banking positions, (ii) Investment Banking position and (iii) Treasury position. The exposure of Corporate Banking (loans, deposits, current accounts, and other non-trading operations) and Retail Banking operations to market risks is managed through the system of limits monitored by the Treasury Department. The exposure to the market risk of Investment Banking operations is managed through open position limits, value at risk limits and extreme loss limits which are set for both aggregated position of Investment Banking in equities, fixed income, foreign currency and derivative instruments (treated as separate “trading desks”) and for individual trading desks. In addition, sub-limits are set for exposures to various types of securities (including both equity and debt securities) and markets and position limits for issuers and individual instruments. Limits on securities positions are approved by the Asset and Liability Management Committee. Additional issuer limits on debt securities are approved separately by the relevant Credit Committees. The major part of the Alfa Banking Group’s proprietary and flow trading portfolios consists of liquid, traded securities. For content of the trading portfolio refer to Note 8 of ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements. The Alfa Banking Group’s derivative operations are driven by two major factors: (i) the need of the Alfa Banking Group to hedge its own risks, principally using foreign currency, securities and interest rate derivatives, and (ii) customer demand, principally for foreign currency, securities and commodities derivatives.

Risk-based limits are monitored on a daily basis by the Risk Management Department with respect to individual (foreign currency, equity, fixed income, derivatives) trading desks. The overall value at risk of Investment Banking is monitored on a weekly basis by the Risk Management Department. In the first half of 2021, 2020 and 2019, the limit for the overall 1-day, 99% confidence level value at risk of trading position was U.S.$40 million.

Certain structured credit positions either with or without a component of financing from third parties were controlled according to their notional amount under the credit risk policy of the Alfa Banking Group.

The daily value at risk measure is an estimate, with a confidence level set at 99%, of the potential loss that might arise under normal market conditions if the current positions of the Alfa Banking Group were to be held unchanged for one business day. Although value at risk is a valuable tool in measuring market risk exposures, it has a number of limitations, especially in less liquid markets:

- The use of historical data as a basis for determining future events may not encompass all possible scenarios, particularly those which are of an extreme nature;
- One business day holding period assumes that all positions can be liquidated or hedged within that period. This is considered to be a realistic assumption in almost all cases but may not be the case in situations in which there is severe market illiquidity for a prolonged period;
- The use of a 99% confidence level does not take into account losses that may occur beyond this level. There is a one per cent. probability that the loss could exceed the value at risk;
- As value at risk is only calculated on the end-of-day basis, it does not necessarily reflect exposures that may arise on positions during the trading day; and
- The value at risk measure is dependent upon the Alfa Banking Group’s position and the volatility of market prices. The Value at risk of an unchanged position reduces if market volatility declines and vice versa.

The effectiveness of the value at risk model is subject to back-test assessment. Back-testing compares the frequency of bigger-than-value at risk loss occurrence and compares it to the set confidence level.

The major advantage of value at risk assessment, its reliance on the empirical data, is at the same time its major drawback. Extreme market moves that may cause substantial deterioration of the Alfa Banking Group’s position have to be assessed by putting a stress on the number of standard deviations of market returns. Historical stress scenarios can be also used. The resulting figures serve as a rough indicator of magnitude of a likely loss under the corresponding scenario. The Alfa Banking Group uses stress tests to model the financial impact of a variety of exceptional market scenarios on individual trading portfolios and the Alfa Banking Group’s overall position. Stress tests provide an indication of the potential size of losses that could arise in extreme conditions.

Equity price risk

As noted above, for the purpose of quantifying the Alfa Banking Group’s equity price risks which is attributed to Investment Banking trading position only, the Alfa Banking Group uses a value at risk model.

As at 30 June 2021, 31 December 2020 and 2019 the Alfa Banking Group’s equity price risk value at risk was limited at U.S.$8 million.

Currency Risk

In respect of currency risk, the Treasury Department is responsible for the centralised management of the foreign exchange risk of the banking book (strategic position). The Corporate and Investment Bank Department is responsible for currency risk management of trading positions. The Asset and Liability Management Committee sets separate limits on open foreign exchange positions of the banking book and trading positions, as well as general limits on the open currency position. The Risk Management Department controls limits of trading positions. The Treasury Department of the Alfa Banking Group oversees compliance with limits on open foreign exchange position of the banking book and general limits on the open currency position.

The Alfa Banking Group uses derivatives to manage current and forecast exposures resulting from foreign currencies. Currency risk is the risk that the value of financial instruments will fluctuate due to changes in foreign exchange rates. The Alfa Banking Group takes on exposure to the effects of fluctuations in the prevailing foreign currency exchange rates on its financial position and cash flows.

As a whole, the Alfa Banking Group is exposed to potentially significant risk from sudden fluctuations in the exchange rates of currencies in which the Alfa Banking Group has significant net balance sheet positions. The Alfa Banking Group's major net balance sheet positions are concentrated in U.S. dollars, Roubles and Euros.

The tables below summarise the Alfa Banking Group's exposure to foreign currency exchange rate risk as at the dates indicated. Included in the table are the Alfa Banking Group's assets and liabilities at carrying amounts, categorised by currency.

Almost all non-monetary items are attributable to the Russian Federation.

Derivatives in each column represent the fair value, as at the end of the reporting period, of the respective currency that the Alfa Banking Group agreed to buy (positive amount) or sell (negative amount) before netting of positions and payments with the counterparty. The amounts by currency are presented gross.

Different entities within the Alfa Banking Group have different functional currencies, based on the underlying economic conditions of their operations. For the purpose of currency risk sensitivity analysis the Alfa Banking Group splits its assets, liabilities and notional amounts of foreign currency receivable and payable at the reporting dates into three currency zones depending on the functional currencies of the entities included in the zone:

- Russian Rouble zone (includes all Russian Federation subsidiaries);
- Euro zone (includes Amsterdam Trade Bank N.V.);
- US Dollar zone (includes all other foreign subsidiaries operating internationally).

Sensitivity analysis presented below indicates the potential effect of the change in foreign exchange market conditions on the profit or loss for the year and risk arising out of translation of the financial statements of subsidiaries into the presentation currency of the Alfa Banking Group.

As the Alfa Banking Group's exposure to currencies other than US Dollar, Euro and Russian Rouble is not considerable in comparison to other exposures, in performing sensitivity analysis the Alfa Banking Group includes its net position in other currencies into the net position in US Dollars. As at 31 December 2020 the Alfa Banking Group's net currency position including foreign currency derivatives was as follows:

		(U.S.$ millions)
Russian Rouble zone.....	8,704	-	220

Exposure with effect on profit or loss.....	8,763	568	221
Exposure with effect on other comprehensive income	(7,607)	-	-
Net exposure.....	1,156	568	221

As at 31 December 2020 if either of U.S.$/RUB, U.S.$/EUR or EUR/RUB rate changed by +/-10% respectively, this would have affected total comprehensive income for the year (pre-tax) of the Alfa Banking Group and on equity in the following way:

	U.S.$/RUB	U.S.$/EUR	EUR/RUB
		(U.S.$ millions)
+10% change in all foreign exchange rates.....	116	57	22
-10% change in all foreign exchange rates	(116)	(57)	(22)

As at 31 December 2019 the Alfa Banking Group's net currency position including foreign currency derivatives was as follows:

	U.S.$/RUB	U.S.$/EUR	EUR/RUB
		(U.S.$ millions)
Russian Rouble zone.....	8,321	-	151

At 31 December 2019 if either of U.S.$/RUB, U.S.$/EUR or EUR/RUB rate changed by +/-10% respectively, this would affect total comprehensive income for the year (pre-tax) of the Alfa Banking Group in the following way:

	U.S.$/RUB	U.S.$/EUR	EUR/RUB

Interest rate risk.

Interest rate risk of the banking book (the “IRRBB”) is the current or prospective risk to both the earnings and economic value arising from adverse movements in interest rates that affect interest rate sensitive instruments. IRRBB is assessed in two perspectives: sensitivity of net interest margin (NIM perspective), sensitivity of economic value of equity. Thus, there are two classes of IRRBB metrics employed. Shocks of interest rates for IRRBB metrics calculations are: 1) standardised by Basel committee and 2) developed by the Treasury and the Risk Management Department.

While IRRBB arises from interest rates fluctuations, there are risks, reflecting in both mentioned perspectives of IRRBB, that come from movements in market rates (referring as “market risk”) and from Alfa Banking Group's credit spreads oscillations (referring as “spread risk”). Both market and spread IRRBB are measured in terms of NIM's and economic of value equity's sensitivities.

To control for IRRBB volume Asset and Liability Management Committee sets limits for all interest rate risk metrics. Limits for IRRBB metrics are set for significant currencies (these are currencies for each those total outstanding volume is not less than 5 per cent. of the total banking book balance). These are Russian Rouble, US Dollar and Euro. The Alfa Banking Group's IRRBB is managed by the Treasury Department within the limits set by Asset and Liability Committee. Such limits are monitored on a weekly basis by the Assets Liabilities Management Unit of the Treasury Department.

To remain within the limits set by Asset and Liability Committee, the Treasury Department has a mandate to hedge IRRBB. Hedge is achieved both 1) with derivatives and 2) by altering balance sheet structure.

In addition, the risks of changes in prices of individual debt instruments related to trading positions of investment business (i.e. interest rate risk of the trading book) are covered by the limit on the size of the open position and the limit for value at risk.

The table below summarises the Alfa Banking Group's exposure to interest rate risks as monitored by management of the Alfa Banking Group. The table presents the aggregated amounts of the Alfa Banking Group's financial assets and liabilities at carrying amounts, categorised by the earlier of contractual interest repricing or maturity dates.

For the years ended 31 December 2020 and 2019, if interest rates at that date had been 100 basis points higher/lower, with all other variables held constant, pre-tax profit would have been U.S.$40 million higher/lower (U.S.$22 million higher/lower in 2019), mainly as a result of higher interest income on loans and advances to customers. Other components of equity (also pre-tax) would have been U.S.$33 million lower/higher (U.S.$ 47 million lower/higher in 2019), as a result of change in the fair value of fixed interest rate debt investments classified as fair value through other comprehensive income.

The Alfa Banking Group monitors interest rates for its financial instruments. The table below summarises interest rates based on reports reviewed by key management personnel:

The sign “-” in the table above means that the Alfa Banking Group does not have the assets or liabilities in corresponding currency.

Geographical risk concentrations. As at 31 December 2020 and 2019 majority of assets, liabilities and credit related commitments of the Alfa Banking Group are concentrated in the Russian Federation. Also the Alfa Banking Group has certain balances (mainly cash and cash equivalents, loans and advances to customers and debt securities) in Europe, USA and CIS. The majority of the Alfa Banking Group’s revenues are generated from counterparties domiciled in the Russian Federation as well as substantially all of capital expenditure of the Alfa Banking Group relates to operations of the Alfa Banking Group in the Russian Federation.

Liquidity risk. Liquidity risk is a risk of incapacity of the credit institution to finance its activities, i.e., support the growth of assets and fulfil the obligations at maturity without incurring losses in amounts endangering the financial stability of the credit institution. The Alfa Banking Group is exposed to daily calls on its available cash resources from overnight deposits, current accounts, maturing deposits, loan draw downs and from margin and other calls on derivative instruments. The Alfa Banking Group does not maintain cash resources to meet all of these needs as experience shows that a minimum level of reinvestment of maturing funds can be predicted with a high level of certainty. Liquidity risk is managed by the Treasury Department and is monitored by Asset and Liability Management Committee of the Alfa Banking Group.

The Alfa Banking Group seeks to maintain a stable funding base comprising primarily amounts due to corporate and retail customer deposits, debt securities in issue and due to other banks and maintain an adequate diversified portfolios of liquid assets in order to be able to respond quickly and smoothly to unforeseen liquidity requirements.

The liquidity management of the Alfa Banking Group requires considering the level of liquid assets necessary to settle obligations as they fall due; maintaining access to a range of funding sources; maintaining funding contingency plans, monitoring liquidity ratios and liquidity factors against regulatory or Alfa Banking Group risk-appetite requirements. Alfa Bank calculates liquidity ratios on a daily basis in accordance with the requirement of the CBR. These ratios are:

- (i) instant liquidity ratio (N2), which is calculated as the ratio of highly-liquid assets to liabilities payable on demand;
- (ii) current liquidity ratio (N3), which is calculated as the ratio of liquid assets to liabilities maturing within 30 calendar days;

- (iii) long-term liquidity ratio (N4), which is calculated as the ratio of assets maturing after one year to regulatory capital and liabilities maturing after one year;
- (iv) liquidity coverage ratio (PKL, N26), which is calculated as the ratio of highly liquid assets that will be received during the next calendar day without substantial loss in value to the amount of net expected outflow of funds on the operations of the bank for the next 30 calendar days;
- (v) net stable funding ratio (NSFR, N28) in accordance with the internal and the CBR requirements, different ratios of concentration of liabilities by groups of clients, covenants, deposits with rights of cancellation, etc.

The Treasury Department prepares the liquidity profile of the financial assets and liabilities. The Treasury Department then builds up an adequate portfolio of short-term liquid assets, largely made up of short-term liquid trading securities, deposits with banks (including the CBR and Federal Treasury for Russian Roubles and central banks for other currencies) and other inter-bank facilities, to ensure that sufficient liquidity is maintained within the Alfa Banking Group as a whole.

For regular stress-test purposes, the Treasury Department runs liquidity forecast models for different financial instruments on a daily basis. Different scenarios are tracked: including or disregarding projected new lending. Information on the level of delinquencies that result in late payments is regularly updated for the liquidity forecast. These liquidity forecast models are aggregated into liquidity position under a crisis scenario. The crisis scenario's liquidity position is calculated on a daily basis and additionally covers severe market conditions: crisis customer's outflows, defaults of loans, the CBR facilities, etc. The Asset and Liability Management Committee sets the limits as "survival horizon" (continuous number of days of positive liquidity under crisis scenario) separately for local currency, foreign currency and total.

Liquidity risk-appetite ratios are reported on regular basis to the Executive Board of Alfa Bank, Asset and Liability Management Committee and the Board of Directors of Alfa Bank.

The tables below show liabilities by their remaining contractual maturity. The amounts disclosed in the maturity table are the contractual undiscounted cash flows, including gross finance lease obligations (before deducting future finance charges), prices specified in deliverable forward agreements to purchase financial assets for cash, contractual amounts to be exchanged under a gross settled currency swaps, and gross loan commitments. Such undiscounted cash flows differ from the amounts included in the consolidated statement of financial position because the amounts in the consolidated statement of financial position are based on discounted cash flows. Net settled derivatives are included at the net amounts expected to be paid.

When the amount payable is not fixed, the amounts are determined by reference to the conditions existing at the reporting date. Foreign currency payments are translated using the spot exchange rate at the end of the reporting period.

The maturity analysis of undiscounted financial liabilities as at 31 December 2020 was as follows:

Payments in respect of gross settled forwards will be accompanied by related cash inflows as disclosed above. Customer accounts are classified in the above analysis based on contractual maturities. However, in accordance with the Civil Code, individuals have a right to withdraw their deposits prior to maturity if they forfeit their right to accrued interest.

The Alfa Banking Group does not use the above undiscounted maturity analysis to manage liquidity. Instead, the Treasury Department monitors expected maturities.

The following table represents analysis of assets and liabilities as at 31 December 2020 by their expected maturities as determined by the management. This analysis was prepared on the basis of contractual maturities except for adjustments in relation to (i) trading securities and (ii) part of customer accounts. The entire portfolio of trading securities was classified within “demand and less than 1 month” based on the Executive Board’s assessment of the portfolio’s realisability. Part of current/settlement/demand accounts was reallocated from “demand and less than 1 month” category to baskets with later maturities. On the basis of past experience Alfa Banking Group believes that (i) diversification of these accounts by number and type of customers and (ii) constant inflow of new deposits indicate that at least part of these current/demand/settlement accounts would provide a long-term and stable source of funding for the Alfa Banking Group.

Assets and liabilities disclosed as “no stated maturity” are expected to be recovered or settled after twelve months after the reporting period.

Liquidity requirements to support calls under guarantees and standby letters of credit are considerably less than the amount of the commitments because the Alfa Banking Group does not generally expect the third party to draw funds under the agreement. The total outstanding contractual amount of commitments to extend credit does not necessarily represent future cash requirements, since many of these commitments will expire or terminate without being funded.

The matching and/or controlled mismatching of the maturities and interest rates of assets and liabilities is fundamental to the management of the Alfa Banking Group. It is unusual for banks ever to be completely matched since business transacted is often of an uncertain term and of different types. An unmatched position potentially enhances profitability, but can also increase the risk of losses. The maturities of assets and liabilities and the ability to replace, at an acceptable cost, interest-bearing liabilities as they mature, are important factors in assessing the liquidity of the Alfa Banking Group and its exposure to changes in interest and exchange rates.

Operational risk. Operational risk is defined as risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, people and systems or from external events. This definition includes legal risk, but excludes strategic and reputational risk. The events that are included under this definition of operational risk are, mainly, losses from fraud, computer system failures, settlement errors, model errors or natural disasters.

The Alfa Banking Group monitors its operational risk profile and material exposures to operational losses on a regular basis. The Alfa Banking Group's system of regular reporting of information to senior management supports the proactive management of operational risk.

Activities of the Alfa Banking Group's operational risk management includes: identification, assessment, monitoring and reporting, control and/or minimization of the Alfa Banking Group's exposure to operational risk as well as the distribution of responsibilities and authorities to manage operational risk. Information on realised operational risks and losses are collected in the Alfa Banking Group's own loss database system.

In order to identify and assess operational risks, the Alfa Banking Group uses the following operational risk management tools:

- analysis of processes;
- internal loss data collection and analysis;
- external loss data collection and analysis;
- risk and control self-assessment (RCSA);
- key risk indicators (KRI);
- scenario analysis (stress-testing).

The main principles and instruments of operational risk minimisation are defined by the Alfa Banking Group's Operational Risk Management Policy.

The Alfa Banking Group regards active participation of its business divisions as a cornerstone for effective risk management. Each business division is primarily responsible for the identification and assessment of operational risk arising from its business operations. In circumstances where a business division considers it appropriate, operational risk is insured.

The Operational Risk Steering Committee, which meets monthly, monitors the level of operational risk, coordinates the operational risk management across the departments and approves procedures for operational risk identification. ORSC takes part in carrying out operational risk analysis of new products and complex transactions, approval of internal documents regarding operational risk.

Each year, the Alfa Banking Group obtains an international comprehensive banking risk insurance policy, also known as a "banker's blanket bond", which covers its professional activities world-wide and insures it against, among other things, forgery, electronic and computer crimes and employees' unlawful actions. The amount of indemnity coverage provided by the policy as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars in effect is limited to U.S.$80 million for BBB coverage and computer crime and U.S.$50 million for professional indemnity (which includes liability to third parties arising from negligence or error on the part of the Alfa Banking Group), and in each case an additional U.S.$5 million coverage for independent directors.

Anti-Money Laundering Measures

As a member state of the FATF, the Russian Federation adopted the Anti-Money Laundering Law. This law remains the principal legislative source in the Russian Federation for combating money laundering. Subsequent to the passage of the Anti-Money Laundering Law, the CBR promulgated a number of regulations in this field specifically for the banking sector.

Alfa Bank's management believes that Alfa Bank's internal policies and procedures, which have been approved by the CBR, comply fully with the provisions of the Anti-Money Laundering Law and applicable regulations.

Alfa Bank's anti-money laundering policy requires, among other things: risk-based identification of every client, verification of each client's documents, monitoring of each client's operations, detection and reporting of operations according to suspicious (or unusual) obligatory control criteria, record keeping and staff training. All detected suspicious operations and operations that are subject to obligatory control must be reported by Alfa Bank's compliance department on a daily basis to the CBR for further reporting to the Federal Service for Financial Monitoring.

Anti-Terrorism and Compliance Measures

Every new customer of the Alfa Banking Group is screened against the Federal Service for Financial Monitoring's List of Designated Extremists. In addition, all incoming and outgoing international payments are checked by the Alfa Banking Group's compliance department against the lists of all the major sanctioning bodies, such as the United Nations, OFAC, the European Union and law enforcement agencies and regulators. The compliance department consists of approximately 60 people, including a team of five members which is dedicated to monitoring transactions and any dealings with existing customers and reviewing potential business projects for purposes of compliance with any applicable sanctions and restrictions. The department also obtains certifications from its customers and counterparties and conducts diligence exercises with respect to any applicable sanctions and restrictions. The compliance department is continually developing and has put in place internal regulations and policies that need to be complied with and followed by all relevant departments of the Alfa Banking Group. The department's staff also conducts regular training courses and internal programmes for the Alfa Banking Group personnel.

Credit loss allowance

Under modified risk management policies implemented during the global economic crisis, the Alfa Banking Group conservatively assessed possible losses on the loans and advances to customers and created sufficient credit loss allowance to fully cover them, reduced lending to second tier borrowers and reduced lending limits for certain industries such as construction and railway transportation. At the same time maximum internal lending limits to certain top quality borrowers, which required lower credit loss allowance level, were increased.

The following table shows movements in the Alfa Banking Group's credit loss allowance for the six months ended 30 June 2021.

Alfa Bank

Alfa Bank is required to comply with a number of mandatory economic ratios set by the CBR. In particular, the CBR establishes capital adequacy and risk diversification ratios.

On 1 March 2013, Regulation No. 395-P entered into force in Russia. The new regulatory capital requirements provided by Regulation No. 395-P are being phased in gradually starting from 1 January 2014 until 1 January 2018, which was replaced with new Regulation No. 646-P on 28 September 2018. See “The Banking Sector and Banking Regulation in the Russian Federation” for a more detailed discussion of these requirements, and “Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Alfa Banking Group’s Business and Industry—The Alfa Banking Group may be unable to meet its regulatory requirements relating to capital adequacy”.

For the purposes of calculating Alfa Bank’s capital adequacy ratios according to the CBR’s requirements, Alfa Bank’s principal assets are divided into five categories with different risk weightings. Under Russian law, the N1.0 Ratio that the banks are required to maintain is calculated (on an unconsolidated basis) as the ratio of a bank’s owned funds (its capital) to the total amount of its risk weighted assets. The minimum N1.0 Ratio required by the CBR as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars is 8.0 per cent. If the capital adequacy ratio of a bank drops below 2 per cent., then the CBR will revoke its banking licence. In addition, banks are required to maintain the N1.1 Ratio and the N1.2 Ratio at or above 4.5 per cent. and 6.0 per cent. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, a capital conservation buffer of 2.5 per cent. and a capital buffer for systemically important credit organisations of 1 per cent. is applicable to Alfa Bank’s minimum capital adequacy requirements. Alfa Bank’s N1.0 Ratio was 13.99 per cent. as at 1 July 2021 and 13.26 per cent. as at 1 January 2021, which in each case exceeded the minimum required by the CBR. Alfa Bank’s N1.1 Ratio and N1.2 Ratio as of 1 July 2021 was 10.62 per cent. and 11.98 per cent., respectively, and 10.27 per cent. and 11.81 per cent. as of 1 January 2021, respectively, which in each case exceeded the minimum required by the CBR. Alfa Bank’s annual N1.0 Ratio is calculated by Alfa Bank on the basis of the statutory RAR audited financial statements of Alfa Bank adjusted for post-balance sheet events (as prescribed by applicable CBR regulations).

For the purposes of calculating Alfa Bank’s CBR capital adequacy ratios, Alfa Bank had equity capital of RUB 667,936 million as at 1 July 2021, RUB566,727 million as at 1 January 2021 and RUB485,640.4 million as at 1 January 2020. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, as an unregulated bank holding company, ABH Financial does not have an obligation to meet specific international or Russian regulatory capital ratios, see “Operating and Financial Review of the Alfa Banking Group—Capital Adequacy”.

The following table sets out Alfa Bank’s mandatory economic ratios calculated in accordance with the requirements of the CBR as at 1 July 2021, 1 January 2021 and 1 January 2020 and based upon statutory RAR financial statements:

	CBR minimum/ maximum ratio requirements	As at 1 July	As at 1 January

Maximum amount of large credit risks (N7)	N7 – Max 800	128.0	159.4	206.96
Ratio for the use of the bank’s own resources (capital) to acquire participation interests in other legal entities (N12)	N12 – Max 25	2.0	2.1	1.2

Note: All figures in percentages. In this table, “0.0” means that Alfa Bank had no exposure.

If Alfa Bank were required to calculate its capital adequacy based upon IFRS financial statements, according to the BIS Guidelines regarding solvency and capitalisation, then no assurances can be given that, without any appropriate remedial action, Alfa Bank’s capital adequacy would satisfy such guidelines.

Notes:

- (1) Calculated as profit for the period (annualised for the six months period) divided by average equity (calculated as sum of opening and closing balances divided by two).
- (2) Liquid assets comprise cash and cash equivalents, due from other banks (with a maturity of less than one month) and financial assets at fair value through profit or loss and repurchase receivables relating to financial assets at fair value through profit or loss (with a maturity of less than one month) at the end of the respective reporting period.
- (3) Non-IFRS measures are presented because ABH Financial considers them an important supplemental measure of ABH Financial's operating performance and financial position and believes they are used by securities analysts, investors and other interested parties in the evaluation of companies in ABH Financial's industry. Non-IFRS measures have limitations, and they should not be considered in isolation, or as a substitute for analysis of ABH Financial's operating results and financial position as reported under IFRS. ABH Financial compensates for the limitations of Non-IFRS measures by relying primarily on its IFRS operating results and using Non-IFRS measures only supplemental. See the ABH Financial Consolidated Financial Statements and information about ABH Financial included elsewhere in these Base Listing Particulars.

The Alfa Banking Group calculates its capital adequacy ratio based on Basel III.

- (4) Operating income equals profit before tax and before operating expenses.
- (5) Calculated as profit for the period (annualised for the six months period) divided by average assets (calculated as sum of related opening and closing balances divided by two).
- (6) The amount of liabilities of up to one month was extracted from the expected maturities analysis, which is based on contractual maturities except that part of current/settlement/demand accounts was reallocated from "demand and less than 1 month" category to baskets with later maturities. On the basis of past experience management believes that (i) diversification of these accounts by number and type of customers and (ii) constant inflow of new deposits indicate that at least these current/demand/settlement accounts would provide a long-term and stable source of funding for the Alfa Banking Group.
- (7) Calculated as profit for the period (annualised for the six months period) divided by total assets as at the end of the respective reporting period.
- (8) Calculated as customer accounts as at the end of the respective reporting period divided by total assets as at the end of the respective period.
- (9) Calculated as total net loans and advances to customers as at the end of the respective reporting period divided by total assets as at the end of the respective reporting period.
- (10) Calculated as total equity as at the end of the reporting period divided by total assets as at the end of the respective reporting period.
- (11) Customer accounts comprised customer accounts as at the end of the respective reporting period.

THE BANKING SECTOR AND BANKING REGULATION IN THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION

Overview

As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the banking sector mostly offers services related to short term and midterm financing due to the historical instability of the Russian lending market and the difficulty borrowers face in providing adequate collateral.

According to the CBR, as at 1 July 2021, the total assets of the Russian banking sector were valued at approximately RUB110,171 billion, which represented an increase of 6.1 per cent., compared to 1 January 2021. The capital base of Russian credit organisations was valued at approximately RUB10,689 billion as at 1 July 2021. According to the CBR, as at 1 July 2021, the total charter capital of Russian credit organizations was RUB2,825 billion, which represented a 0.4 per cent. increase, compared to RUB2,813 billion as at 1 January 2021.

According to the CBR, as at 1 July 2021, the total amount of individuals' deposits with Russian banks amounted to RUB32,378.2 billion (of which deposits for a period of more than one year in Roubles amounted to RUB8,901.0 billion and deposits for a period of more than one year in foreign currencies totalled RUB3,465.0 billion), compared to RUB32,834.2 billion as at 1 January 2021. Corporate deposits with Russian banks as at 1 July 2021 amounted to RUB15,958.0 billion (of which deposits in Roubles amounted to RUB10,194.7 billion and deposits in foreign currencies totalled RUB5,763.4 billion), compared to RUB16,669.9 billion as at 1 January 2021.

According to the CBR, the remaining sources of the banking sector's funding base are debt security issues (primarily promissory notes) and interbank credit operations, amounting to RUB2,919.5 billion and RUB10,688.6 billion as at 1 July 2021, respectively, compared to RUB2,666.4 billion and RUB9,905.6 billion as at 1 January 2021, respectively.

According to the CBR, as at 1 July 2021, the total amount of loans and other funding in Roubles provided by Russian banks in Roubles increased to RUB60,167.7 billion (of which loans in the amount of RUB22,674.4 billion was provided to retail customers, loans and other funding in the amount of RUB30,701.3 billion was provided to corporate customers, excluding banks and other financial institutions, and loans and other funding in the amount of RUB618.8 billion was provided to state financial agencies and non-budgetary funds) as compared to RUB55,215.6 billion as at 1 January 2021. The total amount of loans and other funding provided by Russian banks in foreign currencies amounted to RUB11,563.6 billion as at 1 July 2021 (of which loans and other funding in the amount of RUB81.8 billion was provided to retail customers, loans and other funding in the amount of RUB10,235.2 billion was provided to corporate customers, excluding banks and other financial institutions) as compared to RUB11,563.6 billion as at 1 January 2021.

History of the Russian Banking Sector and Banking Statistics

Under the Soviet regime, the former State Bank of the USSR, or Gosbank, (the predecessor of the CBR) allocated resources from the Russian Government's budget according to the prevailing economic plan, and was in effect the only bank in existence. In 1987, with the relaxation of controls over companies and interbank settlements, a small group of dependent, specialised banks developed to conduct business relating to savings, foreign trade, construction, industry, agriculture and small enterprises.

In 1988 and 1989, during the second phase of the reform, regional commercial banks (primarily in the form of cooperatives or joint stock companies) began to rapidly emerge (with initial capital between RUB500,000 and RUB300 million). By the beginning of 1992, 1,500 licences had been granted to banks.

In 1991, three of the specialised state dependent banks were transformed into joint-stock companies and some regional branches became independent from their head offices through management buyouts.

The CBR assumed all the functions of Gosbank in November 1991 and Gosbank was liquidated in December of that year.

Between 1991 and 1998 the Russian banking sector experienced rapid growth. The number of commercial banks in Russia increased from 358 in 1990 to 2,538 in 1996. On 17 August 1998, the Russian financial market suffered a serious crisis in part as a result of the Asian financial crisis that began in 1997, causing major concerns over the liquidity and solvency of the market as a whole. In connection with the crisis, the Russian Government defaulted on its sovereign debt and the CBR announced a gradual devaluation of the Rouble, the imposition of a repayment moratorium on certain loans to foreigners and the compulsory restructuring of approximately U.S.$40 billion of short-term treasury instruments. Many banks went into bankruptcy or fell under the administration of the Agency for Restructuring of Credit Organisations ("ARCO"). However, due to the stabilisation of the Russian banking sector, the importance of ARCO as the administrator of credit organisations undergoing financial restructuring has decreased. On 18 October 2003, the last of such credit organisations was withdrawn from ARCO's administration, and pursuant to Federal Law No. 87-FZ "On abolition of Federal Law "On Restructuring of Credit Organisations" and certain provisions of legal acts of the Russian Federation and on the liquidation procedure of state corporation “Agency for Restructuring of Credit Organisations” of 28 July 2004 (the “ARCO Liquidation Law”), ARCO itself was liquidated. Pursuant to the ARCO Liquidation Law and Federal Law No. 177-FZ “On Insurance of Deposits of Individuals in Banks in the Russian Federation” of 23 December 2003 (the “Deposit Insurance Law”), the assets of ARCO were transferred to the State Deposit Insurance Agency.

Following to the 1998 financial crisis, the number of credit organisations operating in Russia fell to 1,586 by 1 July 2004. The 1998 financial crisis revealed the lack of proper controls in the banking sector and increased public concerns over the integrity of the banking system, in particular, concerns regarding misleading advertising, money laundering and corruption.

Further, the Russian banking sector experienced instability and a liquidity deficit in 2004 resulting from the actions taken by the CBR and a crisis of confidence among Russian banking customers. From May to July 2004, the CBR revoked banking licences of a number of Russian banks, and the resulting uncertainty in the Russian banking system led to the virtual collapse of the interbank lending market and to liquidity pressures for many Russian banks. The collapse of a number of Russian banks caused panic among depositors, and even the more reliable, larger banks experienced depositor withdrawals and liquidity problems as banks were unable to attract funds on the interbank market or from their client base. In 2004, the Russian banking sector experienced instability, which resulted in a crisis of confidence towards Russian banks by their customers. The CBR took effective steps to reverse the trend. The rate of mandatory reserves that banks were required to deposit with the CBR was temporarily reduced from 7 per cent. to 3.5 per cent. To implement these measures, the CBR permitted banks to immediately reduce their mandatory reserves. Accordingly, banks’ borrowing costs have been reduced. In addition, legislation was passed to combat the crisis and to minimise potential losses of private depositors. In accordance with amendments to Federal Law No. 86-FZ “On the Central Bank of the Russian Federation (Bank of Russia)” dated 10 July 2002 (the “Central Bank Law”) enacted in 2004, the CBR is required to make payments to private depositors of insolvent Russian banks if such banks have not been admitted to the system of private deposit insurance prior to their bankruptcy. The CBR is also able to impose, for the term of one year, a limit on the interest rates on deposits paid by banks to private depositors. In addition, banks are required to disclose certain information related to the interest rates on deposits, banks’ liabilities in respect of deposits and amounts of cash withdrawals by private depositors.

In 2007, disclosure of effective interest rate became a precondition to grouping the loans in portfolios for the purposes of calculation of loss allowances (but later this provision was abolished). Since April 2008, banks are required to disclose all costs that may be associated with obtaining a bank loan by an individual.

In the second half of 2008, in response to the global credit crisis and its impact on the Russian banking system and overall economy, the Russian authorities and the CBR introduced certain measures intended to prevent bankruptcy of credit organisations. These measures were taken in accordance with Federal Law No. 175-FZ “On Additional Measures for Strengthening the Stability of the Banking System for the Period until 31 December 2011” dated 27 October 2008, as amended (the “Banking System Stability Law”) and decisions taken in September and October 2008 prior to the effective date of this law. The number of credit organisations subject to such measures decreased from 20 (with assets of RUB62.6 billion, or 1.6 per cent. of the total assets of Russian credit organisations) as at 1 January 2009 to 17 (with assets of RUB3,514.5 billion, or 4.9 per cent. of the total assets of Russian credit organisations) as at 1 June 2015.

The Banking System Stability Law envisages that the State Deposit Insurance Agency will assist distressed banks through: (a) attracting investors for credit organisations, which are experiencing financial difficulties; and (b) liaising with the CBR regarding the provision of financial assistance to such credit organisations.

The Banking System Stability Law expands the list of bankruptcy prevention measures available for Russian credit organisations by introducing the following additional procedures:

- provision of financial assistance to private investors that have agreed to acquire a controlling stake in a credit organisation in distress;
- financial assistance to other credit organisations that have agreed to acquire certain assets and obligations of a credit organisation in distress;
- acquisition of a controlling stake in a credit organisation in distress directly by the State Deposit Insurance Agency (if there is no investor willing to participate in rehabilitation proceedings);
- provision of financial assistance to a credit organisation in distress subject to acquisition of a controlling stake in such credit organisation by either a private investor or the State Deposit Insurance Agency;
- making arrangements for public sale of the assets securing obligations of a credit organisation owed to its creditors, including the CBR; and
- appointment of the State Deposit Insurance Agency by the CBR to act as temporary administrator in relation to a credit organisation.

The decision as to whether bankruptcy prevention measures should be launched in respect of a particular credit organisation rests with the CBR.

The analysis of the financial position of a credit organisation for the purpose of provision of state support to it will be performed by the CBR and the State Deposit Insurance Agency. Based on the results of the analysis the State Deposit Insurance Agency will develop a rehabilitation plan for that credit organisation which will then need to be approved by the CBR.

According to the State Deposit Insurance Agency, as at 1 August 2020, the CBR and the State Deposit Insurance Agency have launched rehabilitation measures in respect of 16 credit organisations. For further information on legislative and governmental measures adopted in 2008 and 2009 in response to the global economic crisis, see “—Measures to Support the Liquidity and Solvency of Russian Banks and Legal Entities since October 2008”.

Structure of the Russian Banking Sector

The Russian banking sector consists of the CBR, credit organisations and representative offices of foreign banks. Credit organisations, in turn, consist of banks, which provide a wide range of banking services, and non-banking credit organisations, which provide only limited banking services, such as maintaining accounts and making payments.

State-owned banks continue to play a key role in the development of the Russian banking sector. State owned banks offering retail banking services include Sberbank and VTB. Other state owned banks focus primarily on operations with budgetary funds and participate in the realisation of governmental programmes (for example, Rosselkhozbank (Russian Agricultural Bank)).

Although it is not possible for foreign banks to directly conduct business on the Russian financial market, many major foreign banks have subsidiary banks in the Russian Federation. The presence of foreign owned banks in the Russian market is relatively limited as their activities have been restricted in order to protect the nascent Russian banks. Foreign owned banks must satisfy additional requirements in connection with obtaining a licence, for example, there must be a degree of reciprocity in the home country of the foreign bank. According to the CBR, as at 1 January 2021, the number of credit organisations operating in Russia with a 100 per cent. foreign participation amounted to 57, and with a foreign participation in the amount from 50 to 100 per cent. amounted to 15.

Current Competitive Landscape

The banking sector in the Russian Federation is highly fragmented and competitive. As at 1 August 2021, according to the CBR, there were 376 banks and non-banking credit organisations registered in the Russian Federation. However, at 1 August 2021, the five largest banks accounted for 64.8 per cent. of the total value of banking assets in the Russian Federation, and the following fourteen largest banks accounted for 22.1 per cent., according to the CBR.

According to the CBR, a number of the country’s largest banks are part of financial industrial groups and as such undertake transactions for related parties. As at 1 July 2021, approximately 52.1 per cent. of banks operating in Russia were located in the Moscow region. The following table sets out market share data for the ten largest banking groups by total assets (according to RAR) as at 30 June 2021.

The presence of foreign-owned banks in the Russian market is relatively limited. Historically, foreign controlled banks have primarily serviced multinational firms operating within the Russian Federation and conducted inter-bank operations. More recently, these banks have increased their presence in Russian retail banking and have increased their loan portfolio in several sectors of the economy. The level of foreign investment in the Russian banking sector remains relatively low, with foreign banks accounting for 14.4 per cent. of statutory capital as at 1 January 2021, according to the CBR, compared to 13.90 per cent. as at 1 January 2020.

Role of the CBR

The CBR is the primary authority responsible for the regulation of banking institutions in Russia and also acts as Russia’s central bank.

Until 2002, the CBR had been operating under the general terms of reference of Federal Law “On the Central Bank of the Russian Federation (the Bank of Russia)” of 2 December 1990, as amended. In 2002, this law was superseded by the Central Bank Law. According to the Central Bank Law, the State cannot be liable for the CBR’s obligations, nor can the CBR be liable for the State’s obligations unless the relevant liability has been undertaken or is required by law. The CBR’s property is under federal ownership.

The CBR is legally and financially independent of the Russian Government. The CBR’s governing bodies are the Board of Directors and the National Banking Council, a collective management body carrying out certain governing functions, which were solely vested in the Board of Directors prior to adoption of the Central Bank Law (including, among other things, making decisions on maximum capital expenditures of the CBR, distribution of profits gained by the CBR, appointment of the CBR’s chief auditor, approval of the CBR’s accounting rules and requirements). The structure of the CBR comprises the Moscow Head Office, a number of regional branches in constituent entities of the Russian Federation (in some of the Russian republics the CBR’s regional branches are called National) and local branches. The Chairman of the CBR’s Board of Directors is appointed for a fixed term of five years by the State Duma (the lower chamber of the Russian Parliament), on the recommendation of the President, can be replaced under the same procedure, and has the right to participate in meetings of the Russian Government (Cabinet). The Ministers (or Deputy Ministers, as the case may be) of Finance and of Economic Development have the right to participate in meetings of the CBR’s Board of Directors with consultative voting rights. The members of the National Banking Council are appointed by the Council of Federation (the upper chamber of the Russian Parliament), the State Duma, the President and the Government of the Russian Federation. The Chairman of the CBR is a member of the National Banking Council ex officio.

Under the Central Bank Law, the Banking Law and Federal Law No. 173-FZ “On Currency Regulation and Currency Control” of 10 December 2003, as amended (the “Currency Control Law”), the CBR is authorised to adopt implementing regulations on various banking and currency control issues. The CBR has actively used this authorisation in recent years, creating a detailed and extensive body of regulations.

The Federal Service for Financial Markets (the “FSFM”) used to issue licences to banking institutions acting as professional participants of the Russian securities market. According to the Federal Law No. 251-FZ “On Amending Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation in connection with the Transfer of Authorities on Regulation, Control and Supervision in Financial Markets”, the authorities of the FSFM were transferred to the CBR effective 1 September 2013. The CBR succeeded the authorities of the FSFM in regulating and overseeing, inter alia, activities of banks as professional participants of the securities market.

Under current legislation, the CBR has the following major functions:

Function	Summary
Issue of money and regulation of circulation	The CBR is the sole issuer of Russian Rouble banknotes and regulates their circulation. The CBR plans and arranges for the printing of banknotes and the engraving of coins, establishes the rules for their transportation and storage and regulates over-the-counter operations with cash. However, the CBR is prohibited from issuing money for purposes of budget deficit Rouble and foreign currency accounts of residents and non-residents in Russia.
Licensing	Issuance, suspension and revocation of banking licences to banks.
Control and supervision	Bank supervision (compliance with mandatory economic ratios and reserves requirements, sanctions for violations, overseeing banking operations); defining format requirements for accounting and statistical reports; fixing reporting schedules; appointment of temporary administration to banks; control over acquisition (and/or a trust management) of significant (more than 1 per cent.) stakes in banks; assessment of financial standing of banks' founders (shareholders/participants).

Banking Regulation

The Banking Law is the principal law regulating the Russian banking sector. Among other things, it defines credit organisations, sets forth the list of banking operations and other transactions that credit organisations may perform and establishes the framework for the registration and licensing of credit organisations and the regulation of banking activity by the CBR.

In accordance with Federal Law No. 135-FZ "On Competition Protection" of 26 July 2006, which came into effect at the end of October 2006, the Federal Antimonopoly Service of the Russian Federation (the "FAS") regulates mergers and acquisitions of stakes in excess of 25, 50 and 75 per cent. of the total voting shares in credit organisations established in the form of joint stock companies, participation interests representing one third, half and two thirds of the charter capital of credit organisations established in the form of limited liability companies and acquisitions of certain shares of credit organisations' assets or rights to determine conditions relating to their activities. In addition, the CBR approval is required for the acquisition of or setting up of a trust management over stakes in excess of 10 per cent. of total voting shares in Russian credit organisations and any subsequent increases of ownership/trust holding above thresholds of 25 per cent., 50 per cent. and 75 per cent. of shares or the acquisition of 100 per cent. of share capital. The CBR approval is valid for one year from the date of issuance, and the applicant may acquire any amount of shares in a credit organisation within the threshold and total acquisition price stipulated in such CBR approval. Where more than 1 per cent. of share capital of a bank is purchased or trust management over such shares is created, the CBR should be notified of such acquisition or actions. Tax authorities supervise tax assessments of banks. Other governmental authorities are largely inactive in relation to banks. The Association of Russian Banks, comprising, as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, about 200 members, was established pursuant to the provisions of the Banking Law as a non-commercial self-regulatory organisation. It offers various types of technical support to its members and lobbies the interests of banks in all branches of power. Set out below are some of the principal features of the regulatory regime governing banks in Russia.

Recent Amendments to the Banking Law

In accordance with the amendments introduced by the Federal Law No. 29-FZ "On Amending Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation" dated 14 March 2013 it is forbidden for foreign banks to establish their branches on the territory of the Russian Federation. Therefore, foreign banks may carry out business activity on the territory of the Russian Federation only by establishment of subsidiary companies or through representative offices, whereas branches of foreign banks were excluded from the bank system of the Russian Federation. The Regulation of the CBR No. 467-P dated 22 April 2015 sets for the procedure for opening representative offices of foreign credit organisations in the Russian Federation and for the activities thereof.

On 2 July 2013, further amendments to the Banking Law were introduced, and are now effective, by the Federal Law No. 146-FZ "On Amendments to Certain Legislative Acts of the Russia Federation". Among the most important, amendments provide for the following:

- preliminary CBR consent is required for acquisition of over 10 per cent. of shares in a Russian bank (instead of the previous 20 per cent. threshold);
- rules for qualifying a banking group (bankovskaya gruppy) and a banking holding (bankovskiy kholding) were changed. As opposed to the previous rules, the amendments define a banking group as an association of legal entities under control of a credit organisation. The definition of a banking holding was expanded: a bank holding is now defined as an association of legal entities, at least one of which is a credit organisation, under control of a parent legal entity, not a credit organisation, provided that a share of banking activities is at least 40 per cent. of the overall activities of this group. Rules for reporting and disclosure by Russian banks were also slightly clarified in connection with the above new rules; and
- competence of the board of directors of a Russian bank was expanded. In particular, the amendments authorise the board of directors to adopt risk and capital management strategy, methodology of risk management and models of risk assessment, the procedure for resolving of conflicts of interests in the bank, appoint the head of an internal audit department and adopt regulations relating to remuneration of, and requirements, to employees involved in operations affecting compliance with mandatory capital ratios and interests of clients of the bank. Therefore, such authorities may not be referred to competence of the other management bodies.

In July 2015, the CBR published Order No. 3737-U "On Procedure of Determination of the List of Systemically Important Credit Organisations" (that was subsequently superseded by the Order No. 5778-U dated 13 April 2021) that introduced certain criteria and procedure for the preparation of a list of systemically important credit organisations. For the purposes of preparing this list, the CBR has taken into account, among other things, the size of a credit organisation in relation to the entire banking sector, the amount of retail deposits, the volume of funds raised from other financial institutions and the funds placed with other financial institutions. The list of systematically important credit organisations includes banks that account for more than three-fifths of the total assets of the Russian banking sector and is subject to annual review. Credit organisations are informed by the CBR of being included in the list. The list of Systemically Important Credit Organisations was initially published on 15 July 2015 and updated on 20 October 2015, 30 September 2016, 13 September 2017, 5 October 2018, 14 October 2019 and 29 October 2020.

In December 2015 the Federal Law No. 372-FZ “On Amending Article 16 and Article 18 of the Banking Law” introduced additional requirements to the establishment and operations of credit organizations with foreign investments (investment of non-residents).

Amendments introduced to Russian bankruptcy legislation in 2017 provide for a new type of financial rehabilitation of Russian banks. Such rehabilitation shall be conducted by the CBR via a specially established Fund for the Consolidation of the Banking Sector. This fund will play a key role in the CBR’s efforts to remove weak and unstable banks via consolidation and improve the overall health of the banking sector. The fund consists of cash contributions made by the CBR and the funds’ property is legally separated other assets owned by the CBR.

The CBR has established a management company for purposes of managing the Fund for the Consolidation of the Banking Sector which will on the CBR’s behalf participate in implementing measures to prevent bankruptcy of credit institutions and use the property of the fund.

Using the fund, the CBR will be able to invest in the share capital of banks undergoing financial rehabilitation in the course of implementing measures to prevent the bankruptcy of credit institutions. The fund’s management company will manage the banks undergoing financial rehabilitation by the CBR, create mutual investment funds, sell investment units to the CBR, carry out the functions of the temporary administration on the basis of the rehabilitation plan approved by the CBR.

On 1 May 2017, Federal Law No. 92-FZ “On Amendments to Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation”, effective from 1 June 2017, introduced a set of structural amendments to the banking regulation. In particular, the amendments provide that Russian banks divide into two groups: the banks having general license and the banks having basic license. A bank having basic license is unable to perform certain kinds of banking operations with foreign persons, such as placing of funds deposited with it by individuals and legal entities on its behalf and for its own account, taking precious metals as deposits and placing them, issuing bank guarantees or acting as a surety, leasing operations, acquiring claims against foreign persons, as well as to open a correspondent account with a foreign bank, save for the purposes of participating in foreign payment systems. Furthermore, the amendments provide for RUB1 billion as a minimum amount of charter and regulatory capital of a bank having general license and RUB300 million as a minimum amount of a charter capital and equity of a bank having basic license. The amendments also regulate a procedure of acquiring the status of a bank having general license.

On 29 July 2017, Federal Law No. 281-FZ “On Amendments to Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation Relating to Improvement of Mandatory Requirements for Incorporators (Shareholders), Management Bodies and Officers of Financial Organisations”, effective from 28 January 2018, introduced a new set of amendments to the Banking Law. In particular, the amendments refine qualification and reputational requirements for senior officers of a credit organization and reputational requirements for its shareholders (or potential shareholders) or controlling persons (or its shareholders’ controlling persons). The amendments also improve the procedure and grounds for refusal to grant approval of a transaction relating to the shares in a credit organisation.

In June 2018, Federal Law № 123-FZ “On authorized entity for the rights of consumers of financial services” introduced new institution of financial ombudsman that considers the claims of customers against the financial institutions during the pretrial proceedings. Introduction of financial ombudsman is due to significant increase of claims of customers against banks and other credit institutions.

Licensing

A licence must be obtained from the CBR in order for any institution to engage in banking activity as defined in the Banking Law. Applicants must be incorporated within Russia and registered with the CBR as a credit organisation, and submit, inter alia, a feasibility report and detailed information on the suitability of the applicant’s management team. A banking licence may be denied for a number of reasons, including if the financial standing of the founders of the bank is deemed by the CBR to be unsatisfactory or if the proposed candidates for the senior management of the bank, including members of the management board and the chief executive officer, are deemed to be unsuitable or do not meet the qualification requirements.

Additional requirements have been introduced for obtaining a licence for taking deposits from individuals. The licence could be granted to a bank being a member of the Deposit Insurance System existing for more than two years from the date of its registration. Such requirement may be dispensed with if (a) the charter capital of a newly established bank or the regulatory capital of a bank is not less than RUB3,600 million, and (b) the bank complies with the CBR's requirement to publicly disclose all information relating to persons having significant influence over decisions made by the bank's management bodies.

Pursuant to the Banking Law, a bank's licence may be revoked by the CBR if, inter alia: (a) the information upon which the licence has been issued is untrue and misleading; (b) the bank delays the commencement of its operations for more than one year from the issue of the licence; (c) reporting statements submitted by the bank turn out to be materially untrue and misleading; (d) the bank delays submission of its monthly reports to the CBR for more than 15 days; (e) the bank conducts banking operations (or a single operation) not permitted by its licence; (f) the bank's activities do not comply with Russian banking or anti-money laundering legislation or regulations of the CBR and the bank has been subject to sanctions for such breaches/non-compliance before that; (g) multiple failures, whether intentionally or by negligence, to carry out bailiffs orders requiring seizure of funds in customer accounts; (h) in cases of insolvency, the revocation of the banking licence is requested by the temporary administration appointed to the bank; (i) the bank repeatedly fails to submit updated information required to be reflected in the Unified State Register of Legal Entities and Entrepreneurs in the Russian Federation; (j) a bank involved in mortgage-backed asset management operations does not comply with Russian mortgage-backed securities legislation and the bank has been subject to sanctions for such breaches/non-compliance before that; or (k) multiple failures within a year to comply with Russian anti-money laundering or insider trading laws and regulations.

The CBR must revoke a bank's licence if, inter alia: (a) its capital adequacy ratio falls below 2 per cent.; (b) its regulatory capital is less than its minimal charter capital as set by the CBR; (c) the bank fails to adjust its charter capital to its regulatory capital according to CBR requirements within 45 days of the CBR notification; (d) the bank fails to satisfy the claims of its creditors or make mandatory payments (for example, taxes and duties) amounting to an aggregate minimum of RUB100,000 within 14 days of their maturity; (e) the amount of the bank's regulatory capital is less than a certain statutory threshold during a certain defined period of time; or (f) the bank fails to meet requirements related to either basic or universal licence and transferring from one type of the licence to another.

Regulation of Capital

Basel Implementation in Russia

Over the recent years, the CBR, in cooperation with Russian banks, has started preparing the implementation of international approaches of capital adequacy of credit organisations under Basel II as issued by the Basel Committee. Currently, the standardised approach for credit risks of Basel II as set forth in Pillar 1 "Minimum Capital Requirements", is being applied in Russia. CBR Letter No. 96-T of 29 June 2011 issued as part of introducing Pillar 2 "Supervisory Review Process" (the "Methodical Recommendations") recommends credit organisations to elaborate and use the respective internal procedures for capital adequacy assessment which should comprise the process of assessment by a credit organisation of adequacy of its own capital, i.e. its internal capital to cover accepted and potential risks, as well as constitute a part of such credit organisation's corporate culture.

Basel III Regulation

The implementation of Basel III in Russia is scheduled as follows: (1) requirements for capital between 2013 and 2015, (2) capital conservation buffer within 2016 and 2018, (3) leverage ratio starting from 1 January 2018, (4) liquidity coverage ratio commencing from 1 January 2015, and (5) net stable funding ratio starting from 1 January 2018.

From 1 January 2014, Regulation No. 395-P is fully applied by Russian banks for the purposes of calculating their own funds (capital). Regulation No. 395-P provides for the following two types of subordinated debt instruments that may qualify for inclusion into bank regulatory capital if they meet the requirements set out in Regulation No. 395-P: (a) perpetual and certain long-term subordinated debt instruments; and (b) plain subordinated debt instruments.

Regulation No. 395-P has been phased in gradually during the period from 1 January 2014 until 1 January 2018 as described below. CBR's Regulation No. 4098-U provided further clarification on the provisions of Regulation No. 395-P, and introduced additional requirements and methodology for formation of a bank's capital. Most recently, Regulation No. 395-P was superseded by Regulation No. 646-P, introducing certain amendments aimed at enhancing the quality of Russian banks' capital sources. Regulation No. 646-P entered into force on 29 September 2018 and remains in effect as at the date of these Listing Particulars.

New Classification of Capital Under Regulation No. 646-P

Regulation No. 646-P distinguishes between core capital (osnovnoi kapital) (“Tier 1 capital”) and supplemental capital (“Tier 2 capital”) (dopolnitennyi kapital) (together, “own funds” or “regulatory capital”). Tier 1 capital is further divided into base capital (“Base Tier 1 capital”) (bazovyi kapital) and additional capital (“Additional Tier 1 capital”) (dobavochnyi kapital). Pursuant to Regulation No. 646-P, the own funds (capital) of Russian banks is determined as the amount of its Tier 1 capital and Tier 2 capital less certain items listed in Regulation No. 646-P. Regulation No. 646-P became effective on 28 September 2018.

Subordinated Debt

Prior to the enactment of Regulation No. 646-P, Russian banks’ capital calculations used, among other things, in CBR mandatory ratio reporting, as well as requirements for subordinated debt to qualify as part of a bank’s capital, were primarily set out in CBR Regulation No. 395-P “On the method of determination of own funds (capital) of credit organisations (“Basel III”)” dated 28 December 2012, as amended.

Regulation No. 646-P sets out requirements for subordinated financings (in the form of a loan, a deposit or debt securities) which may be included in additional Tier 1 capital and those which may be included in Tier 2 capital of a credit organisation. In addition, Regulation No. 646-P sets out the concept of conversion of subordinated debt into equity (while retaining the concept of writedown and cancellation of subordinated debt instruments), which features have been derived from the Basel III regulations.

Regulation No. 646-P sets out, inter alia, the following requirements for subordinated debt to qualify as part of a bank’s Tier 2 capital:

- the agreement must provide that, if the bank’s CET 1 ratio (defined as a ratio of the bank’s adjusted base capital to its risk-weighted assets) falls below 2 per cent. for six or more operational days within a 30-day period, or the State Deposit Insurance Agency (or the CBR) implements bankruptcy prevention measures consisting of financial assistance provided pursuant to the Insolvency Law;
- the subordinated debt shall be converted into the bank’s ordinary shares; and (or)
- the accrued interest shall be fully or partially cancelled; and
- a partial or full write down of the principal amount of such debt (and any applicable financial sanctions) shall occur;

Regulation No. 646-P does not establish any limitations on the amount of subordinated debt which could be counted towards Tier 1 or Tier 2 capital.

Subordinated debt may also be included into a bank’s Tier 1 capital, if it meets certain requirements in addition to those applicable for subordinated debt qualifying as part of Tier 2 capital. In particular, such debt must be perpetual under Regulation No. 646-P and in each case provide for implementation of the Write Down Measures in case the CET 1 ratio falls below 5.125 per cent. In addition, Tier 1 capital subordinated debt must allow the credit organisation to unilaterally repudiate payment of interest under such debt.

If the CET 1 ratio was breached due to losses, such losses may only be covered by the Write Down Measures after utilization of other sources of base capital (including reserve funds and undistributed profit) to remedy such losses.

Regulation No. 646-P sets out certain other requirements for subordination debt, including, inter alia: (a) a right of a bank to repay a subordinated loan using Russian federal bonds; (b) ability of a bank to include subordinated loans with no defined repayment term or subordinated bonds with no defined repayment term into the calculation of a bank’s additional Tier 1 capital; (c) maximum interest rate for Rouble-denominated instruments and for foreign currency-denominated instruments shall not exceed 15 per cent. and 10 per cent., respectively; (d) ability of the CBR to require a bank to convert its subordinated debt instrument into its equity to bring the bank’s CET 1 ratio up to 5.125 per cent. if the bank’s CET 1 ratio falls below 5.125 per cent. for six or more business days within a 30-day period, or the State Deposit Insurance Agency (or the CBR) implements bankruptcy prevention measures consisting of financial assistance pursuant to Insolvency Law.

In December 2018, the Federal Law N 514-FZ amended the Banking Law in respect of the requirements for investing in subordinated debt. As a result of these amendments, subordinated debts in the form of bonds can only be acquired by qualified investors and the nominal value of one subordinated bond cannot be less than RUB ten million.

In addition, under Article 25.1 of the Banking Law, implementation by the CBR’s Board of Directors of a plan of measures aimed at bankruptcy prevention with the participation of the CBR or the approval by the CBR’s Banking Supervision Committee of a plan of implementation of anti-bankruptcy measures by the State Deposit Insurance Agency can also trigger the writedown or conversion of subordinated debt.

Regulation No. 646-P broadened the list of grounds allowing CBR to withhold consent to early repayment of subordinated debt, and introduced additional grounds for the writedown or conversion of subordinated debt of banks holding basic licenses and non-banking credit organisations.

Mandatory Economic Ratios

CBR Instruction No. 199-I “On Mandatory ratios and Capital Buffers to Capital Adequacy Ratios of Banks with Universal License” dated 29 November 2019 (the “Mandatory Economic Ratios Instruction”) establishes mandatory economic ratios for banks.

The following table sets forth the mandatory economic ratios that banks must observe on a daily basis and periodically report to the CBR. Unless stated otherwise, such ratios are calculated on the basis of RAR, as formulated by applicable Russian laws and CBR regulations.

As mentioned above, a bank’s capital base consists of core capital and supplemental capital. Core capital consists of base capital and additional capital and includes, among other items, charter capital, share premium, retained earnings and certain reserve funds. Supplemental capital includes, among other items, reserves for asset revaluations, reserves for loan losses, certain preferred shares and subordinated debt.

Mandatory Economic Ratio	Description	CBR Mandatory Economic Ratio Requirements
Adequacy ratios	These ratios are intended to limit the risk of a bank’s insolvency and to establish the minimum size of the bank’s capital base necessary to cover credit, operational and market risks. Adequacy ratios include capital adequacy ratio (N1.0), common equity tier 1 capital adequacy ratio (N1.1) and Tier 1 capital adequacy ratio (N1.2).
Capital adequacy ratio (N1.0)	This ratio is formulated as a ratio of a bank’s capital base (calculated in accordance with Regulation No. 646-P) to: (i) credit risk on on-balance sheet assets, (ii) credit risk on off-balance sheet items, (iii) credit risk on derivatives, (iv) charge for potential losses as a result of deterioration of creditworthiness of counterparty, (v) operational risk and (vi) market risk.	Minimum 8 per cent.
Common equity tier 1 capital adequacy ratio (N1.1)	This ratio is formulated as a ratio of a bank’s common equity tier 1 capital (calculated in accordance with Regulation No. 646-P) to: (i) credit risk on on-balance sheet assets, (ii) credit risk on off-balance sheet items, (iii) credit risk on derivatives, (iv) charge for potential losses as a result of deterioration of creditworthiness of counterparty, (v) operational risk and (vi) market risk.	Minimum 4.5 per cent.
Tier 1 capital adequacy ratio (N1.2)	This ratio is formulated as a ratio of a bank’s tier 1 capital (calculated in accordance with Regulation No. 646-P) to: (i) credit risk on on-balance sheet assets, (ii) credit risk on off-balance sheet items, (iii) credit risk on derivatives, (iv) charge for potential losses as a result of deterioration of creditworthiness of counterparty, (v) operational risk and (vi) market risk.	Minimum 6 per cent.
Instant liquidity ratio (N2)	This ratio is intended to limit the bank’s liquidity risk during one operational day. It is defined as the minimum ratio of a bank’s highly liquid assets to its liabilities payable on demand.	Minimum 15 per cent.

Mandatory Economic Ratio	Description	CBR Mandatory Economic Ratio Requirements
Current liquidity ratio (N3)	This ratio is intended to limit the bank's liquidity risk during 30 calendar days preceding the date of the calculation of this ratio. It is defined as the minimum ratio of a bank's liquid assets to its liabilities payable on demand and liabilities with terms of up to 30 calendar days.	Minimum 50 per cent.
Long-term liquidity ratio (N4)	This ratio is intended to limit the bank's liquidity risk from placement of funds into long-term assets. It is defined as the maximum ratio of the bank's credit claims maturing in more than one year to the sum of its capital base and liabilities maturing in more than one year.	Maximum 120 per cent.
Maximum exposure to a single borrower or a group of related borrowers (N6)	This ratio is intended to limit the credit exposure of a bank to one borrower or a group of related borrowers (defined as persons who belong to the same banking holding, are close relatives, or persons who can directly or indirectly materially influence the decisions of corporate borrowers). It is defined as the maximum ratio of the aggregate amount of the bank's various credit claims to a borrower (or a group of related borrowers) to its capital base. The CBR issued Letter No. 106-T dated 10 September 2004, as amended recommending that Russian banks implement an exposure limit for economically related borrowers. Under this letter, borrowers are "economically related" if a decline in the financial condition of one borrower affects or may affect the financial condition of the other borrower; and may result in such other borrowers inability to perform its obligations to the bank (e.g., if the borrower is simultaneously a creditor of a bank and a debtor to another creditor of the bank). This letter was superseded by Mandatory Economic Ratios Instruction, which also provides criteria of economically related borrows. Under this letter, economically related borrowers include economically related borrowers in the meaning of Article 64 of the Federal Law "On the Central Bank" dated 29 December 2014 as well as borrowers which are close relatives. However, the limit has not been officially introduced yet.	Maximum 25 per cent.
Maximum amount of major credit risks (N7)	This ratio is intended to limit the aggregate amount of a bank's major credit risks (defined in the Banking Law as the sum of loans to, and guarantees or sureties in respect of, clients with exposure exceeding 5 per cent., of a bank's capital base). It is defined as the maximum ratio of the aggregate amount of major credit risks to a bank's capital base.	Maximum 800 per cent.
Ratio for the use of the bank's capital base to acquire shares (participation interests) in other legal entities (N12)	This ratio is intended to limit the aggregate risk of banks investments in shares (participation interests) of other legal entities. It is defined as the maximum ratio of the banks investments in shares (participation interests) of other legal entities to its capital base.	Maximum 25 per cent.
Maximum amount of an exposure of a bank's related person (group of related	This ratio is defined as the maximum ratio of the aggregate amount of the obligations of a bank's related person (or a group of related persons), whether to a bank or to other party, giving rise to	Maximum 20 per cent.

persons) (N25)	a bank's claim against such person (or group of persons) to a capital base of a bank.
Minimum ratio of mortgage coverage to the amount of mortgage-backed bonds (N18)	This ratio regulates (limits) the credit risk of credit institutions issuing mortgage-backed bonds by determining the minimum ratio of mortgage coverage to the amount of mortgage-backed bonds.	Minimum 100 per cent.

In addition to mandatory economic ratio requirements the CBR set out three capital buffers to the common equity: (a) capital conservation buffer; (b) countercyclical buffer and (c) additional capital buffer for systemically important credit organisations. The capital conservation buffer applies to all credit institutions and has been set at 0.625 per cent. of risk-weighted assets starting from 1 January 2016 was increased each subsequent year by an additional 0.625 per cent. and reached 2.5 per cent. on 1 January 2019.

The CBR has set a minimum allowed countercyclical buffer at 25 per cent. of the weighted average of countercyclical buffers set in all jurisdictions to which the bank has credit and market exposure (calculated in accordance with applicable CBR rules) starting from 1 January 2016 and gradually increased each year to reach 100 per cent. in 2019. The level of the applicable countercyclical buffer for the Russian banks is determined by the CBR and as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars set at zero per cent. of risk-weighted assets.

The systemically important credit organisations are subject to an additional capital buffer of 0.15 per cent. of risk-weighted assets starting from 1 January 2016 with subsequent increased each year to reach 1 per cent. on 1 January 2019. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars the level of additional capital buffer of the systemically important credit organisations is set at 1 per cent.

Instruction 199-I establishes five groups of assets and risk weighting coefficients for each of such group: (i) 0 per cent. for the assets classified in the I group; (ii) 20 per cent. for the assets classified in the II group; (iii) 50 per cent. for the assets classified in the III group; (iv) 100 per cent. for the assets classified in the IV group; and (v) 150 per cent. for the assets classified in the V group. Such risk weighting coefficients represent percentage of the asset value which is to be accounted included in the bank's risk-weighted assets for purposes of calculating the bank's capital adequacy ratios and can be increased by buffers prescribed by the CBR with respect to certain classes of assets, including consumer loans.

In December 2018, the CBR published new risk weighting coefficients for new loans granted by Russian banks on or after 1 April 2019 as a result of which the risk weighting coefficients were increased (i) from 120 per cent. to 150 per cent. for loans with annual effective interest rates calculated based on CBR requirements ranging from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent., (ii) from 140 per cent. to 170 per cent. for loans with annual effective interest rates ranging from 15 per cent. to 20 per cent., (iii) from 170 per cent. to 200 per cent. for loans with annual effective interest rates ranging from 20 per cent. to 25 per cent. and (iv) from 200 per cent. to 230 per cent. for loans with annual effective interest rates ranging from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent.

In addition, the Banking Law imposes restrictions on banks regarding the payment of dividends, investments in companies and certain other actions if such actions may result in breach of the capital conservation buffer established by the applicable CBR regulations.

Exposure Concentration Ratio

From 1 January 2019, the CBR started to gradually introduce into the Russian banking regulation the provisions of the Basel Committee's Supervisory Framework for Measuring and Controlling Large Exposures (the "Large Exposures Framework") adopted in April 2014. The provisions of the Large Exposures Framework are expected to be implemented in respect of systemically important credit organisations.

The CBR currently plans to implement the Large Exposures Framework in several stages. In the course of Stage 1 (took place during 2019), the CBR set the ratio of maximum concentration of exposure per borrower or group of related borrowers (PKC6.1), which systemically important banks are obliged to calculate and report starting from 1 January 2019.

During Stage 2, based on the results of monitoring of the above indicator, the CBR will take a decision regarding the terms and specifics for setting PKC6.1 as a mandatory exposure concentration ratio.

The PKC6.1 ratio is calculated based on the respective bank's Tier 1 capital. All of the bank's exposures to a borrower (a group of related borrowers), contingent credit obligations and derivatives are included in the calculation not weighted by risk level, minus provisions for possible losses. The credit exposure calculation does not include, inter alia, claims on central banks and governments (including the Government of the Russian Federation), constituent entities and municipalities of the Russian Federation, and claims guaranteed or secured with debt securities issued by such counterparties.

Nevertheless, on 27 March 2020 BCBS have decided to defer for one year — until 1 January 2023 — deadlines for implementation of changes to the Basel III framework, of updated requirements for market risk management and of Pillar 3 disclosure requirements.

Charter Capital Requirements

The Banking Law sets out the minimum charter capital for newly-established banks in Russia the amount of RUB1 billion for a bank having general license and RUB300 million for a bank having basic license.

Further, pursuant to the Banking Law, the minimum regulatory capital amounts to RUB1 billion for banks applying for a status of a bank having general licence and to RUB300 million for banks applying for a status of a bank having basic licence.

Financial stability of the shareholders

In accordance with the Banking Law, the financial position of the shareholders which own more than 10 per cent. of the share capital or exercise control over the credit institution must comply with certain requirements set out in the Regulation No. 626-P “On the Assessment of, and Requirements for, Financial Standing, Grounds for Recognising Financial Standing as Unsatisfactory with Regard to the Founders (Participants in) of a Credit Institution and other Persons Specified by Federal Law No. 281-FZ, Dated 29 July 2017 ‘On Amending Certain Laws of the Russian Federation with Regard to Improving Mandatory Requirements for Financial Institutions’ Founders (Participants), Management Bodies and Officials” dated 28 December 2017 (“Regulation 626-P”), including requirements for net assets and financial statements. In case of non-compliance with such requirements the CBR may issue an order requiring to rectify the violation or to decrease the share of such shareholder down to 10 per cent. From the date of the publication of the order and until the date of publication of the information on its withdrawal (after the requirements are fulfilled) voting rights of such shareholder at the shareholders meeting shall be limited by its 10 per cent. share. If such shareholder does not fulfil the requirements provided in the CBR’s order within 90 days, the CBR may seek mandatory decrease of the share of such shareholder down to 10 per cent. through court.

Reporting Requirements

Russian banks must regularly submit balance sheets to the CBR, together with financial statements showing their actual respective financial positions. They must also inform the CBR in respect of providing large loans (exceeding 5 per cent. of a bank’s capital). Banking groups (namely alliances of the legal entities in which one bank directly or indirectly controls decisions of the governing bodies of other legal entities within the alliance) and consolidated groups (namely alliances of legal entities in which one bank, directly or indirectly, is controlled by a non-banking entity) must regularly submit consolidated accounts to the CBR. The CBR may at any time carry out full or selective checks of a bank’s submissions, and may inspect all books and records of the bank. In addition, annual audits must be carried out by an audit company that is a member of a self-regulatory organisation of auditors. Starting from 2004, all credit organisations in Russia have been required to prepare financial statements according to both RAR and IFRS. Banks must file IFRS standalone and audited consolidated annual accounts with the CBR on an annual basis.

Mandatory Reserve Deposit Requirements

To cover loan losses and currency, interest and financial risks, the CBR requires banks to form mandatory reserve deposits and keep them in designated non-interest bearing accounts with the CBR. Particular reserve requirements are set by the Board of Directors of the CBR from time to time. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, banks are required to post compulsory reserves to be held on non-interest bearing accounts with the CBR. From 1 October 2021 mandatory reserves applicable to credit organisations with universal licence amounted to 4.5% (1.00% for banks with a basic license) and 8.00% for the banks’ obligations to individuals in Roubles and foreign currency, respectively, and to 4.75% (1.00% for banks with a basic licence) or 8.00% for the banks’ obligations to non-resident legal entities in Roubles and foreign currency, respectively.

The mandatory reserves are calculated by banks in accordance with CBR Regulation No. 507-P dated 1 December 2015 and Regulation No. 5158-U dated 31 May 2019 (the “Reserves Regulations”). The Reserves Regulations require the banks to promptly report to the CBR and its regional units at the end of each calendar month with calculation of reserves and to promptly post additional reserves, if necessary. The CBR and its regional units have a right to conduct unscheduled audits of credit organisations to monitor their compliance with the reserve rules. The Reserves Regulations do not require the creation of reserves for certain long-term borrowings, although it requires posting of reserves for obligations to non-resident banks. If a bank does not comply with the mandatory cash balance requirements, the CBR may impose a fine and directly debit the bank's correspondent account with the CBR in respect of the shortfall in reserve amounts.

Credit loss allowance

The CBR established certain rules concerning the creation of loan impairment provisions for loans extended by banks. Since 14 July 2017, Russian credit organisations are required to calculate and establish their loan impairment provisions in accordance with Regulation No. 590-P "On the Procedure for Making Provisions for Possible Losses on Loans and Similar Indebtedness by Credit Organisations" dated 28 June 2017, as amended ("Regulation No. 590-P"). The Regulation No. 590-P introduced a number of rules, which purport to make loan impairment credit loss allowance compliant with the BIS requirements. In particular, it requires credit organisations to rank their loans into five categories. The range of loans that must be provided for includes assigned rights under contracts, financial leasing operations, mortgages acquired in the secondary market and various other operations. It has been established that loans classified as Category I loans (standard loans) do not need provisions. In addition, credit organisations will be required to classify their loan security into three groups on the basis of its quality (taking into account the borrower's financial position and debt servicing level).

Pursuant to Regulation No. 590-P, the debt servicing level of a loan to a legal entity is considered to be good if the aggregate loan or interest repayment arrear does not exceed 5 days (in respect of loans granted to legal entities) and 30 days (in respect of loans granted to individuals) for the last 180 calendar days. The debt servicing level of a loan to a legal entity is considered to be bad in cases if, inter alia, the aggregate loan or interest repayment arrear exceed 30 days (in respect of loans granted to legal entities) and 60 days (in respect of loans granted to individuals) for the last 180 calendar days. In addition, restructuring of a loan (including change of the loan nominal currency and time periods for repayment of the loan and interest) may affect the debt servicing level. Loans should be classified on the basis of professional judgment by the credit organisation taking into account the borrower's financial standing and debt servicing level. The credit organisation must evaluate at its discretion the borrowers financial standing and debt servicing level as good, average or bad. Regulation No. 590-P sets forth the relevant tests to be applied towards a particular loan and borrower. Additionally, credit organisations must classify loan collateral into two categories on the basis of its quality.

Provisions for loan losses are calculated at the end of each calendar month. Such provisions only cover losses relating to the principal amount of loans and exclude interest and any discount. The CBR and its regional branches may audit banks compliance with requirements relating to provisions for loan losses and verify the correctness of calculations in respect of such provisions.

The CBR also established rules concerning creation of provisions for loans other than loan impairment, which may include losses from investments in securities, funds held in correspondent accounts of other banks, contingent liabilities, forward contracts and other transactions. CBR Instruction No. 611-P of 23 October 2017 requires banks to rank such assets and operations into five categories of quality reflecting the following situations: (i) no real or potential threat of losses; (ii) moderate potential threat of losses; (iii) serious potential or moderate real threat of losses; (iv) simultaneous potential and moderate real threat of losses or material real threat of partial losses; and (v) value of particular type of asset or operation is going to be lost completely. Banks are then required to provide for each type of asset or operation in the amounts corresponding to the amounts of possible losses but within the following framework established by the CBR for each risk group indicated above, respectively: (i) 0 per cent.; (ii) 1 per cent. to 20 per cent.; (iii) 21 per cent. to 50 per cent.; (iv) 51 per cent. to 100 per cent.; and (v) 100 per cent. The CBR and its regional units are responsible for monitoring bank compliance with these rules.

Pursuant to the CBR Directive No. 1584-U of 22 June 2005, mandatory provisions must also be created for operations with residents of certain off-shore jurisdictions in the amount of 25 per cent. or 50 per cent. depending on the jurisdictions involved. In 2017, the CBR introduced amendments to its regulations describing further developments in the approach to credit loss allowance of loans and advances to customers under RAR. The documents came into effect on 1 January 2019. According to these amendments, RAR provisions are accounted for and calculated based on the principles of IFRS 9 "Financial instruments".

Regulation of Currency Exposure

In CBR Instruction No. 178-I "On the Establishment of the Amounts (Limits) of the Open Currency Positions, on the Methods of their calculation and Particularities of Lending Organisations' Control and Compliance therewith" of 28 December 2016, the CBR established rules regarding exposure of banks to foreign currency and precious metals (collectively, "currency exposure"), as well as controls over such exposure. Currency exposure is calculated with respect to net amounts of balance sheet positions, spot market positions, forward positions, option positions and positions under guarantees, suretyships and letters of credit. Open currency position is calculated as the sum of all these net amounts. Such exposure is calculated for each currency and each precious metal, and then recalculated into Roubles in accordance with the official exchange rates and CBR's prices for precious metals.

The CBR established that at the end of each operation day the total amount of all long or short currency positions should not exceed 20 per cent. of a bank's capital base. At the same time, at the end of each operation day the long or short positions with respect to one particular currency or precious metal should not exceed 10 per cent. of a bank's capital base.

Accounting Practices

The CBR has established a standard format for the presentation of a bank's accounts and instructions on how transactions are recorded within the accounts. It requires the preparation of financial statements and other accounts in accordance with CBR Regulation No. 579-P of 27 February 2017, Directive of the CBR No. 2851-U "On the procedure for the filling in of and delivery of reporting statements to the CBR" of 16 July 2012. Despite certain differences, such financial statements represent an approximation to IFRS.

Pursuant to CBR Regulation No. 3580-U dated 16 January 2013, as amended, credit organisations are required to file with the CBR their audited annual and semi-annual financial statements, as well as the information as to contents, method, time and place of disclosure of these statements.

Starting from 1 January 2004, all credit organisations are also required to prepare their accounting reports in accordance with IFRS and those reports should be audited.

Anti-Money Laundering Legislation

Russia, as a member of the FATF, has developed and enacted certain anti-money laundering legislation. The Anti-Money Laundering Law follows the FATF Forty Recommendations and the FATF Special Recommendations on Terrorist Financing and provides for measures to combat money laundering in Russia to be implemented by individuals and organisations, including Russian banking institutions, involved in transactions with money and certain property. Pursuant to the Anti-Money Laundering Law, Russian banks are obligated to, inter alia: (1) establish and maintain systems of internal control ensuring that the bank and its clients are in compliance with Russian anti-money laundering legislation; (2) monitor and record certain client transactions, as specified in the Anti-Money Laundering Law; and (3) report certain client transactions specified by the Anti-Money Laundering Law to the relevant Russia authorities. Furthermore, in certain cases Russian banks must suspend client transactions and inform the relevant Russian authorities. The current Anti-Money Laundering Law does not permit banks to suspend or freeze client transactions for longer than five business days unless extended by the authorised body to a longer period.

The Federal Service on Financial Monitoring is the main governmental authority acting as a financial intelligence unit, and, together with the CBR, exercises control over banks' compliance with the Anti-Money Laundering Law. Russian banks are obligated to report through the CBR to the Federal Services on Financial Monitoring with respect to the types of transactions mentioned above.

Failure by Russian banks and/or their officers to comply with the requirements of the Anti-Money Laundering Law may result in the imposition of sanctions, including the revocation of a banking licence (with a subsequent liquidation of the bank) and criminal penalties for individuals.

On 30 June 2013, several amendments to the Anti-Money Laundering Law came into force. They were introduced by the Federal Law No. 134-FZ "Amending Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation on the Counter Measures on Illegal Financial Operations" dated 28 June 2013. These amendments, among other things:

- introduced the definition of the "beneficiary owner" to the Anti-Money Laundering Law in order to extend the scope of client identification procedure;
- set forth the obligation for the clients to provide all necessary information on their beneficiary owners to banks (for the banks to comply with the provisions of the Anti-Money Laundering Law);
- set forth the obligation for the banks to take reasonable steps for preliminary identification of the clients' reputation, financial position and objectives of the business activity;
- set forth the obligation for the banks to freeze monetary funds and other assets of individuals and legal entities under certain circumstances; and
- for additional measures against financing terrorism.

One more set of amendments to the Anti-Money Laundering Law was adopted by the Federal Law No. 424-FZ "On amending the Anti-Money Laundering Law" dated 30 December 2015. This new law has extended the definition of the "client" to include concept of a "foreign structure without incorporation of a legal entity" which means a structure (such as fund, trust or partnership) entitled by law to do business without being a body corporate.

According to these amendments credit organisations are required to verify certain information related to the foreign structure.

In April 2018, new amendments to the Anti-Money-Laundering Law were adopted. These amendments established the obligation of audit organisations and individual auditors to notify the Rosfinmonitoring of any reason to believe that transactions of the audited entity could or may be carried out in order to legalise proceeds from crime. Also, the amendments introduced the concept of “personal account” and established the legal regime for its use.

Financial Consumer Protection

Financial consumer protection is generally based on the Federal Law No. 2300-1 “On Consumer Protection Law” dated 7 February 1992, as amended (the “Consumer Protection Law”) and the Federal Law No. 353-FZ “Consumer Lending Law” dated 21 December 2013 (the “Consumer Lending Law”).

The Consumer Lending Law regulating consumer lending in Russia, came into force on 1 July 2014. The Consumer Lending Law is intended to provide more specific regulation of consumer protection in the Russian banking sector, in contrast to the Consumer Protection Law, which contains more general regulations. The Consumer Lending Law will not apply to mortgage loans.

The Consumer Lending Law sets requirements in relation to the terms of a consumer loan agreement. In particular, according to the Consumer Lending Law, a consumer loan agreement must contain general and specific terms. General terms of the consumer loan agreement are based on the lender’s template form, whilst the specific terms are agreed between the lender and the borrower. The Consumer Lending Law designates, among others, the following terms to be the specific terms of the consumer loan agreement: (i) amount of the loan or lending limit (and the procedure of change of the lending limit), (ii) term of the loan and repayment date, (iii) currency of the loan, (iv) the annual percentage rate (in case of floating interest rate – the calculation procedure), (v) payment schedule of the loan, (vi) purpose of the loan and (vii) borrower’s liability for undue performance of its obligations under the consumer loan.

The Consumer Lending Law sets the priority of payments under the loan in case the payment made by the borrower is not enough to discharge its relevant payment obligations. In particular, the Consumer Lending Law sets out the following priority of payments: (i) overdue interest payments, (ii) overdue principal payments, (iii) penalty, (iv) current interest payments, (v) current principal payments and (vi) other payments as provided by the Russian legislation on consumer lending and the consumer loan agreement.

In addition, the Consumer Lending Law sets out the limits of penalties payable under consumer loan agreement in case of the borrower’s payment default. The penalty shall not exceed (i) 20 per cent. per annum, if the consumer loan agreement states that the interest continues to accrue on the overdue payment of the principal of the loan, or (ii) 0.1 per cent. per day, if the consumer loan agreement states that the interest stops accruing on the overdue amount of the principal of the loan, after the payment default of the borrower has occurred.

According to the Consumer Lending Law, the effective interest rate of the loan shall not exceed by more than one third the mid-market effective interest rate of the relevant category of consumer loans established by the CBR quarterly.

The mid-market effective interest rate is determined by the CBR 45 calendar days prior to each quarter during the course of which the relevant mid-market effective interest rate will be applicable for the purposes of limitation stipulated by the Consumer Lending Law. The CBR calculates the effective interest rate using weighted average rate of (i) not less than 100 largest lenders in respect of the relevant category of loan or (ii) not less than one third of all lenders in respect of the relevant category of loan. The latest value of the mid-market effective interest rate has been published by the CBR on 16 August 2021. The effective interest rate for consumer loans for the fourth quarter of 2021 shall not exceed:

For loans with repayment term up to 1 year:

- 29.277% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount up to 30,000 RUB;
20.996% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount from 30,000 RUB up to 100,000 RUB;
- 18.731% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount from 100,000 RUB up to 300,000 RUB; and
- 13.160% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount exceeding 300,000 RUB;

For loans with repayment term exceeding than 1 year:

- 21.223% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount up to 30,000 RUB;
- 22.909% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount from 30,000 RUB up to 100,000 RUB;
- 21.529% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount from 100,000 RUB up to 300,000 RUB; and
- 17.203% for the no-purpose loans, purpose loans without collateral (excluding POS loans) and debt refinancing loans with principal amount exceeding 300,000 RUB.

Bankruptcy (Insolvency) and Other Related Issues

Bankruptcy of credit organisations in Russia is governed by the Insolvency Law. Bankruptcy of credit organisations was also previously governed by the Federal Law No. 40-FZ “On Bankruptcy of credit organisations”. This law was terminated by the Federal Law No. 432-FZ dated 22 December 2014 and a new 4.1 Chapter “Bankruptcy of credit organizations” was included in the Insolvency Law.

Bankruptcy

Bankruptcy proceedings against a Russian bank may be initiated only after the revocation by the CBR of its banking licence. Following the revocation of the bank’s licence, inter alia, all obligations of the bank are deemed to have fallen due and the bank is prohibited from entering into transactions and performing its obligations, except for a limited number of current and settlement transactions and operations listed in the Banking Law, until the liquidator or the competition manager is appointed.

Bankruptcy proceedings may be initiated against a Russian bank provided that its business has “signs” of insolvency, as described in the Insolvency Law; the overall amount of the outstanding obligations is not less than RUB100,000 and the bank has failed to perform such obligations within 14 days of their due date; or after the revocation of the bank’s licence its total assets do not cover all of its outstanding obligations.

Prior to the institution of bankruptcy proceedings, the CBR, on its own initiative or upon the application of the authorised body of the bank, has the right to take action aimed at preventing the bank’s bankruptcy. Such action may include (a) financial rehabilitation of the bank (for example, financial support, changing the structure of assets and liabilities or organisational structure of the bank), (b) appointment of a temporary administration to the bank, (c) reorganisation and (d) measures to be undertaken with participation of the State Deposit Insurance Agency or the management company of the Fund of Consolidation of the Banking Sector acting on behalf of the CBR.

The Management Company of the Fund of Consolidation of the Banking Sector (the “Management Company”) was established by the CBR in accordance with the Banking Law as an independent legal entity which is authorized to take measures aimed at financial rehabilitation of credit organisations. In particular, the Management Company participates in the analysis of banks’ financial standing, carries out temporary administration, participates in additional capitalization and manages shares of credit organisations acquired by the CBR in course of the financial rehabilitation. As part of its activities, the Management Company uses the finances of the Fund of Consolidation of the Banking Sector (the “Fund”), which was established by the CBR. The Fund is formed out from funds allocated by the CBR by the decision of its Board of Directors.

Pursuant to the recent amendments to the Insolvency Law, adopted as a part of the federal legislation package intended to prevent the spread of the Covid-19 pandemic, the government of the Russian Federation is entitled to introduce a moratorium on the initiation of insolvency proceedings by creditors in exceptional circumstances such as the Covid-19 pandemic. The Government of the Russian Federation enacted such moratorium by its Decree dated 3 April 2020 No. 428 (as amended) in respect of, among others, companies with strategic importance for the national defence and security of the Russian Federation, Russian systemically important companies and companies holding certain types of licences (the “Affected Debtors”). The list of Affected Debtors may be amended from time to time. The insolvency moratorium expired in January 2021, however, the moratorium regime may be re-introduced by the Russian Government if the circumstances giving rise to its introduction continue to persist.

Temporary Administration

Temporary administration, which is aimed at the financial rehabilitation of a bank. Technically, temporary administration precedes, and does not necessarily result in, the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings. Temporary administration may be imposed by the CBR in certain negative financial circumstances set out in Article 189.26 of the Insolvency Law. The grounds for the appointment of a temporary administration include, among other things, breach of certain financial and regulatory capital ratios and a bank’s failure to perform its payment obligations to some of its creditors for a period greater than seven days due to insufficient funds in its correspondent accounts, as well as the emergence of grounds for revocation of a bank's licence. Temporary administration may also be introduced pursuant to a plan of participation of the CBR in bankruptcy prevention measures adopted by the CBR's Board of Directors, or following the adoption by the CBR's Banking Supervision Committee of a plan of bankruptcy prevention measures to be taken by the Deposit Insurance Agency. If the plan is adopted by the CBR's Board of Directors, the functions related to temporary administration can be transferred either to the Management Company or the Deposit Insurance Agency.

The introduction of a temporary administration may entail a limitation or suspension of the powers of the executive bodies of a bank. The temporary administration can manage a bank and is further entitled to request that the CBR impose a three month moratorium on all payments of a bank to counterparties and creditors, which can be prolonged for the period of up to three months. The temporary administration, the State Deposit Insurance Agency and the management company of the Fund of Consolidation of the Banking Sector may also refuse performance of agreements or challenge transactions under Articles 27 and 189.40 of the Insolvency Law. The procedure for introduction of a temporary administration is described in CBR Regulations 675-P and 676-P, both dated 25 February 2019.

Priority of Claims

Under Russian bankruptcy law, claims of unsecured creditors against Russian banks are generally subordinated to the claims of individual clients arising out of deposit and bank account agreements, certain claims of creditors arising after the initiation of the bankruptcy proceedings and certain other ongoing payments, workplace injury and moral damages obligations, severance pay, employment related obligations and royalties. There is also a small risk that claims of unsecured creditors may be further subordinated to claims under certain tax and mandatory payment obligations to the Russian Government, although the Insolvency Law ranks such claims equally. Furthermore, unsecured claims are also effectively subordinated to claims secured by a Russian law pledge. Under the Insolvency Law, claims of creditors secured by a Russian law pledge are settled with the money received from the sale of pledged assets. Claims of creditors secured by a Russian law pledge remaining unsatisfied upon the sale of pledged assets would be ranked as claims of unsecured creditors after the obligations mentioned above, irrespective of the time of the creation of such claims.

Recent amendments to the Insolvency Law provide that the proceeds from the sale of the pledged assets will be used as follows: (a) 70 per cent. (or 80 per cent. if the pledge secures a credit agreement) to satisfy secured claims; (b) 20 per cent. (or 15 per cent. if the pledge secures a credit agreement) to satisfy claims of creditors of the first and second priorities, provided the debtor's other property is insufficient to satisfy such claims; and (c) the remaining amount to cover court expenses, remuneration to a bankruptcy manager and related expenses. Any obligations of creditors secured by a pledge remaining unsatisfied following the sale of the pledged assets would be ranked as claims of unsecured creditors.

Liquidation and Revocation of the Banking Licence

Mandatory Liquidation

The procedure for the revocation of banking licences and liquidation of banks is regulated by the Banking Law. See "—Regulation — Licensing" above.

Upon the revocation of its licence, a bank must be liquidated either under mandatory solvent liquidation procedures set out in the Banking Law or under bankruptcy procedures set out in the Insolvency Law.

Article 20 of the Banking Law establishes the consequences of the revocation of the banking licence, including that the CBR must impose a "temporary administration" on the relevant bank, that all obligations of the bank are deemed to have fallen due, that enforcement of execution documents issued on the basis of court judgments, with certain exceptions, is suspended and that entering into transactions and performance by the bank of its obligations is prohibited until the liquidator or the competition manager is appointed.

The CBR must make a public announcement of the revocation of the banking licence within one week of resolving to revoke such a licence.

Voluntary Liquidation

In the case of voluntary liquidation of a bank, the shareholders (founders), upon the adoption of the relevant decision, must apply to the CBR for cancellation of the banking licence and, upon its cancellation, the liquidation should be carried out in accordance with the liquidation rules and applicable CBR regulations. In particular, shareholders will appoint the liquidation commission to oversee the liquidation process.

Banking and Other Relevant Reforms

Following the 1998 financial crisis, Russian banks took important steps towards developing more transparent business practices and more diversified portfolios of assets. In recent years, confidence in local banks has gradually improved, as evidenced by the substantial growth in the volume of private deposits in Russian banks.

On 17 March 2011, the Russian Government and the CBR issued their joint Strategy. The Strategy replaced the five year Strategies for the Development of the Banking Sector in the Russian Federation issued in December 2001 and April 2005, and set out an action plan for the facilitation of the development of the Russian banking sector up to 2015.

Among other things, the Strategy outlined the targets for the reform of the Russian banking sector, the forecast of the results of such reform and the analysis of the current condition of the Russian banking sector. The Strategy also listed measures, which should be implemented to achieve these targets.

The system of the insurance of private deposits was introduced in 2003. According to the Deposit Insurance Law, banks holding a CBR licence for attracting deposits from individuals and opening and administering individuals' accounts qualify for such activities. Subject to a bank's compliance with certain regulatory requirements, it enters the system of the insurance of individuals' deposits and thus qualifies to receive deposits and open accounts for individuals. If a bank fails to comply with the applicable requirements or chooses not to participate in the insurance system, it will be precluded from receiving deposits and opening accounts for individuals. Banks accepting private deposits and opening accounts for individuals are required to make quarterly payments to the insurance fund in the amount of up to 0.15 per cent. of the average account balances calculated under the law.

Under the Deposit Insurance Law, the protection for each individual and legal entity classified as a small enterprise is limited to RUB1,400,000 per bank and banks are required to make quarterly payments into a deposit insurance fund. The previous protection threshold was RUB700,000. This threshold was increased by the Federal Law No. 451-FZ "On Amending Article 11 of the Federal Law "On Retail Deposit Insurance" and Article 46 of the Federal Law "On the Central Bank" dated 29 December 2014. The insurance payment from the deposit insurance fund will be payable to depositors if a bank's licence has been revoked or if the CBR has imposed a moratorium on payments by the bank. The basis of the deposit insurance contribution is the quarterly average of daily balances of retail deposits. Standard contribution premiums cannot exceed 0.15 per cent. of the contribution basis. In certain circumstances, the premium can be increased up to 0.3 per cent. of the contribution basis, but not for more than two quarters in every 18 months. When the size of the insurance fund reaches 5 per cent. of total retail deposits of all Russian banks, all succeeding contribution premiums cannot exceed 0.05 per cent. of the contribution basis, and when the size of the insurance fund exceeds 10 per cent. of all Russian banks' retail deposits, no contributions need to be made, but they resume once the insurance fund falls below the 10 per cent. threshold.

On 30 December 2004, the President signed Federal Law No. 218-FZ "On Credit Histories" (the "Credit Histories Law"). Most of the provisions of the Credit Histories Law came into force on 1 June 2005. Pursuant to the Credit Histories Law, the "credit history" of a borrower (whether an individual or a legal entity) consists of certain data, as defined by the Credit Histories Law, which describe the borrower's performance under loan or credit arrangements and which are stored with a "credit history bureau" (a Russian legal entity included in the State Register of Credit History Bureaus, whose principal activity is to collect, process and store credit history data and issue "reports", as defined in the Credit Histories Law). As at 5 February 2021, the CBR had registered 9 credit history bureaus.

The Credit Histories Law defines the procedures for the submission of data to credit history bureaus, disclosure by bureaus of such data to authorised users, and the rights and obligations of borrowers and bureaus. It also sets out the procedures for the registration of credit history bureaus and the transfer of credit history data upon their liquidation.

Credit history bureaus may disclose credit history data only to:

- a borrower itself;
- banks or other legal entities which are users of such data (with the borrower's consent);
- courts and, with the consent of a prosecutor general, certain enforcement agencies;
- the Central Credit History Catalogue administered by the CBR to allow the centralised search of all credit history data; and
- the Federal Service of Court Bailiffs.

Credit organisations are obliged to make their activities compliant with the Credit Histories Law within nine months of the date of its entry into force. Since 1 September 2005, banks have been required to enter into agreements with at least one credit history bureau and provide it, subject to the borrowers' consent, with the relevant information relating to the borrowers.

In connection with the entry into force of the Credit Histories Law, amendments to the Banking Law, the Civil Code and to the Code of Administrative Offences were introduced in order to make them compliant with the Credit Histories Law. Specifically, these amendments address issues concerning bank secrecy, liability for unauthorised access to, and disclosure of, credit history data, and violation of the procedure for the collection, storage and processing of such data.

In addition to the Credit Histories Law and as part of the development of consumer lending legislation, Federal Law No. 152-FZ “On Mortgage Backed Securities” and amendments to the Civil Code, Tax Code and Federal Law No. 102-FZ “On Mortgage” were enacted in 2003/2004. By means of these laws, Russian legislators attempted to make mortgage lending attractive to banks and affordable to individuals by simplifying the applicable procedures and making them more transparent and less costly. Another intention of this new legislation is to introduce improved regulation of mortgage backed securities in order to make them more attractive for investors.

On 18 June 2004, the Currency Control Law came into force, replacing the former Federal Law “On Currency Regulation and Currency Control” of 1992 almost in its entirety. The Currency Control Law is generally aimed at the gradual liberalisation of Russian currency control regulations. Pursuant to the Currency Control Law, the CBR had the power to regulate certain currency operations (including non-banking operations performed by Russian banks) by introducing a “special account requirement”. As at 1 January 2007, the major remaining restrictions envisaged in the Currency Control Law (including the “special account requirement”) have been abolished.

As part of implementing legislation contemplated by the Currency Control Law, the CBR passed Directive No. 1425-U of 28 April 2004, which came into force on 18 June 2004. Directive No. 1425-U confirms that no currency control limitations will apply to bank operations between authorised banks and sets forth a list of non-banking transactions between authorised banks that are exempt from currency control restrictions. Directive No. 1425-U specifically provides that all other non-banking transactions of authorised banks will fall under the general currency control regime applicable to resident legal entities.

The Insider Dealing Law

The Insider Dealing Law generally came into force on 31 July 2011, save for the provisions relating to of criminal liability for unlawful use of insider information and revocation of a banking licence due to multiple instances of non-compliance with the Insider Dealing Law during one year. The Insider Dealing Law enumerates categories of persons that can be considered insiders, including, among others, issuers and management companies, as well as professional market participants (including brokers and dealers) and other persons who transact on behalf of their clients with financial instruments, foreign currency and/or goods, and have received insider information from such clients. Under the Insider Dealing Law, any person who illegally uses insider information and publishes misleading information may be held liable for misuse of information and/or market manipulation. Furthermore, insiders must comply with certain new disclosure requirements, including keeping the insiders list and sending notices of transactions by the insiders to the CBR and the relevant legal entities. In implementing the Insider Dealing Law and pursuant to CBR Regulation No. 5140-U of 6 May 2019, the CBR began to disclose certain information relating to Russian banks on its website, including: (1) the status and results of its inspections, (2) licence revocations, (3) cases of imposing an administrative liability upon a credit organisation and/or its sole executive body, (4) an invalidation of the CBR’s approval for taking retail deposits and opening and maintaining bank accounts for individuals, and (5) stages of issuance of securities by banks.

The Retail Deposit Insurance Law

Federal Law No. 177-FZ “On Retail Deposit Insurance” dated 23 December 2003, as amended (the “Retail Deposit Insurance Law”), introduced a mandatory deposit insurance scheme for Russian banks that offer retail deposit services and deposit services for sole proprietors and small enterprises (that are registered in the Unified Register of Medium and Small Enterprises maintained by the Russian tax authority) pursuant to a CBR licence. The Retail Deposit Insurance Law prescribed the requirements for admission to the deposit insurance scheme, and compliance with these requirements was verified by the CBR on a case-by-case basis.

According to the State Deposit Insurance Agency, as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, 345 banks are participants to the deposit insurance scheme. A bank that does not participate in the deposit insurance scheme is not permitted to accept retail deposits or open accounts for individuals.

The Retail Deposit Insurance Law guarantees each customer’s deposit for up to RUB1,400,000 per bank. Insurance proceeds are payable from the deposit insurance fund into which participating banks must make quarterly contributions. An insurance payment from the deposit insurance fund becomes payable to depositors if the CBR revokes the bank’s licence or imposes a moratorium on payments by the bank. The amount of each bank’s contribution to the deposit insurance scheme is assessed based on the quarterly average of daily balances of its deposits (excluding balances of deposits that are not subject to insurance). Standard contribution premiums cannot exceed 0.15 per cent. of the contribution basis. In certain circumstances, the premium can be increased up to 0.3 per cent. of the contribution basis, but not for more than two quarters in any 18-month period. When the size of the insurance fund exceeds 5 per cent. of all Russian banks' combined deposits, all subsequent contribution premiums cannot exceed 0.05 per cent. of the contribution basis. When the size of the insurance fund exceeds 10 per cent. of all Russian banks' combined deposits, no contributions will need to be made, but contributions must be resumed if the size of the insurance fund falls below 10 per cent. of the combined deposits.

Starting from 1 July 2015 the banks satisfying certain conditions are obliged to make additional contributions established by the State Deposit Insurance Agency. If a bank in a particular quarter has entered into any agreement (except for agreement with small enterprise) with deposit rate exceeding the basic level of profitability by 2 to 3 per cent. such bank is subject to additional contribution. And the banks providing deposits with rates exceeding the basic level of profitability by more than 3 per cent. must pay higher additional contributions. The basic level of profitability will be established by the CBR every month by determination of the average rate calculated on the basis of the highest deposit rates offered to unlimited range of depositors by the banks holding, in aggregate, two thirds of retail deposits in the Russian Federation.

The Retail Deposit Insurance Law provides for the establishment of a regulator, the State Deposit Insurance Agency, which, among other things, collects fund contributions, manages the fund, calculates insurance premiums and monitors insurance payments. The State Deposit Insurance Agency maintains a register of all banks that hold a retail banking licence.

The National Payment System Law

Federal Law No. 161-FZ "On the National Payment System" (the "National Payment System Law") that was adopted on 27 June 2011, generally came into force on September 29, 2011. This law provides for legal and organisational principles of the national payment system, establishes the procedure for rendering of payment services, including making transfer of monetary funds, use of electronic means of payment, as well as sets forth requirements for organisation and operation of payment systems and the procedure for monitoring and supervision over the national payment system. This law provides that only credit institutions may carry out transfers of electronic monetary funds. Credit institutions may enter into agreements with other organisations, under which the latter may render to the credit institutions operational and clearing services for the transfer of electronic monetary funds. Under this law, the CBR is vested with additional functions of monitoring and supervision over the national payment system.

The Central Depository Law

Federal Law No. 414-FZ "On the Central Depository", as amended (the "Central Depository Law"), which generally came into force on 1 January 2012, provides legal framework for establishment, and operational conditions, of the central depository, in particular, setting out rights and obligations of the central depository, requirements to its activities and specifics of the state control and supervision over its activities. The Central Depository Law aims at improving effectiveness and competitiveness of Russian stock market, including, expediting and facilitating securities trade settlements and mitigating the risks associated therewith. Under this law, the central depository is defined as a depository that is a non-banking credit organisation ("NCO"), to which the status of the central depository has been assigned. Only a joint-stock company registered in Russia can be the central depository. Pursuant to the Central Depository Law, the central depository (within one year from the date of assignment of its status) shall take all necessary steps in order to open its nominal holder accounts, in particular, in all securities registers of issuers obliged to disclose information in accordance with the Securities Market Law. Also, the Central Depository Law prohibits persons maintaining securities registers from opening, and depositing securities to, other nominal holder accounts from the opening date of a nominal holder account of the central depository. On 6 November 2012, CJSC NCO "National Settlement Depository" was assigned the central depository status by Order of the FSFM No. 12-2761/PZ-I.

Accession of Russia to the WTO

On 16 December 2011, Russia signed the Protocol on its accession to the WTO. The ratification procedures were completed in July 2012, and the accession to the WTO became effective for Russia on 22 August 2012. Upon the Protocol's entry into force, Russia became subject to the WTO regime. However, in relation to its banking sector, Russia made a reservation that it would review market access requirements for the establishment of branches of foreign banks and securities firms in the context of future negotiations on the accession of Russia to the OECD or within the framework of the next round of the WTO multilateral trade negotiations. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the CBR allows foreign banks either (i) to incorporate a subsidiary bank in Russia regulated by the CBR or (ii) to maintain a representative office in Russia. A subsidiary of a foreign bank is an entity operational within the scope of its banking licence, which must comply with Russian laws and CBR regulations (including on mandatory CBR ratios), while activities of a representative office are limited to facilitating banking operations and representing interests of its foreign parent. At present, a foreign bank may set up a subsidiary or representative office in Russia, subject to obtaining the CBR approval and provided that, among other matters, the parent bank has a good reputation and is in good financial standing in its home country.

The accession of Russia to the WTO is also expected to necessitate unification of requirements applicable to private banks, banks under state control and foreign-controlled banks, including, among other things, abolishing some Russian law provisions that may be deemed discriminatory against foreign-owned banks in favour of banks controlled by Russian nationals or the state. At the same time, Russia managed to keep a limit on an overall amount of foreign investments into the banking sector of Russia post-accession, which shall not exceed 50 per cent. of the total equity capital of all credit organisations registered in Russia. If the threshold is exceeded, the CBR will have a right (i) not to authorise new foreign investments in the banking sector, and/or (ii) to impose a temporary ban on disposal of banks' equity capital to foreign investors, including, inter alia, through an increase of equity capital at the account of a foreign investor.

Measures to Support the Liquidity and Solvency of Russian Banks and Legal Entities since October 2008

Since October 2008, the Russian Government and the CBR have announced and, in many cases, fully implemented measures intended to support the liquidity and solvency of Russian banks and to increase the availability of credit to businesses, which have been seen as critical for restoring investor confidence and supporting the medium-term economic growth of the Russian economy. These measures were primarily introduced by the Federal Law No. 173-FZ "On Additional Measures for Supporting the Financial System of the Russian Federation" (the "Rescue Measures Law"). According to the Rescue Measures Law, the following measures are being implemented:

- The Russian Government through the CBR and Vnesheconombank may provide up to RUB910 billion in subordinated loans to State-owned and private banks under certain conditions. The RUB910 billion state contribution to banking sector capital in the form of long-term subordinated loans is one of the key economic initiatives announced by the Russian Government to restore confidence in the Russian banking sector. State-owned banks such as Sberbank, VTB Bank and Russian Agricultural Bank received RUB500 billion, RUB200 billion and RUB25 billion, accordingly, as part of this initiative. The remaining amount has been distributed among privately-owned Russian banks subject to certain conditions.
- The CBR was authorised to enter into agreements with privately owned banks to partially compensate such banks for the losses suffered during the period from 14 October 2008 to 31 December 2010 as the result of operations on the interbank market with banks whose licences are revoked. Vnesheconombank had the right, until 31 December 2009, to originate foreign currency loans up to U.S.$50 billion to Russian legal entities to repay and/or refinance the loans received from foreign lenders prior to 25 September 2008.

A set of federal laws and governmental regulations complements the measures introduced by the Rescue Measures Law:

- The CBR established a new liquidity scheme to conduct uncollateralised lending covering a number of Russian banks. The maximum amounts that banks can raise under this facility were set by the CBR depending on the credit rating, asset size and the level of capitalisation of the potential borrower under this arrangement.
- The CBR Regulation dated 16 October 2008 No. 323-P "On Provision of Unsecured Loans to Russian Credit Institutions by the Bank of Russia" has introduced the procedure and criteria for issuing unsecured loans by the Central Bank of Russia (was later replaced by the CBR Directive No. 3239-U dated 23 April 2014).
- Federal Law No. 317-FZ "On Amending Articles 46 and 76 of the Federal Law on Central Bank of Russian Federation (Bank of Russia)" dated 30 December 2008 vested the CBR with the right to appoint its authorised representatives to the banks and credit institutions which, inter alia, have received any foreign currency loans and/or subordinated loans under the Rescue Measures Law. On 20 February 2009 the CBR appointed its authorised representatives to Alfa Bank. The CBR Regulation No. 2182-U dated 9 February 2009 provides for the procedure for such authorised representatives appointment, their rights and obligations including, inter alia, the right to participate in the meetings of the management bodies of such banks and credit institutions and the right to request information on management remuneration and the issuance of loans to third parties.
- CBR Regulation No. 5158-U "On Determination of Mandatory Reserve Requirements of the Bank of Russia" dated 31 May 2019 established From 1 August 2016, the current mandatory reserves requirements for the obligations of credit organisations. These requirements differ depending on several factors: type of a bank license (basic or universal); currency (foreign or Russian); person (individual or legal entity); term;

- The Deposit Insurance Law has been amended to increase the amount of the secured deposits of individuals with Russian banks included to the state system of deposits insurance up to RUB700,000.
- Government Decree No. 18 “On the Procedure of National Welfare Fund Assets Management” was amended in 2008 and 2009 to increase the scope of financial instruments in which funds from the National Welfare Fund can be invested. The National Welfare Fund was established in 2008 using oil revenues, with a view to partially funding contributions to pensions of Russian citizens and to make up shortfalls in other contributions from the federal budget to federal pension funds. As a consequence, up to RUB955 billion of such funds may be deposited in Vnesheconombank to support the Russian financial markets.
- The number of instruments eligible for the CBR’s collateralised facility and for refinancing transactions with the CBR has been increased and the CBR may accept, among other things, the pledge of certain bonds and suretyships granted by certain Russian banks as collateral under its facilities to credit organisations.
- On 21 July 2014, President of the Russian Federation signed amendments to the Rescue Measures Law that allow the Russian Government to use certain funds, repaid under subordinated loans provided by Vnesheconombank to credit institutions under the Rescue Measures Law, to purchase preferred shares of credit institutions. According to the Russian Government Decree dated 22 August 2014, Vnesheconombank will purchase preferred shares of VTB Bank and Russian Agricultural Bank using the funds of subordinated loans repaid by VTB Bank, VTB 24 Bank and Russian Agricultural Bank. In August 2014, Sberbank publically announced its decision to convert subordinated loan obtained in accordance with the Rescue Measures Law into perpetual debt as such possibility was provided to Sberbank by amendments introduced to the Rescue Measures Law.

Recent Amendments to the Civil Code

On 18 July 2008, former Russian President Dmitry Medvedev issued a decree requiring various amendments to be made to the Russian Civil Code. The Concept of Development of Russian Civil Legislation was subsequently adopted on 7 October 2009. The proposed amendments are divided into a number of sets.

On 30 December 2012, current Russian President Vladimir Putin signed into law the first set of amendments to the Russian Civil Code, which form part of a major reform to Russian civil legislation. The majority of the first set of amendments became effective on 1 March 2013. These amendments relate primarily to certain basic principles of civil law, limits on the exercise of civil rights, changes to rules on state registration of rights to certain types of property, as well as recognising the principle of compensation for losses incurred as a result of unlawful acts of the state authorities.

A second set of amendments to the Russian Civil Code was signed into law on 7 May 2013. These amendments affect, inter alia, the general rules on transactions, the grounds on which a transaction may be challenged and the rules governing representation and powers of attorney. The amendments became effective on 1 September 2013.

A third set of amendments to the Russian Civil Code was signed into law on 26 June 2017. These amendments introduce, inter alia, certain changes of loan and credit agreements regulation, as well as other changes to the financial deals regulation. The amendments became effective on 1 June 2018.

A fourth set of amendments to the Civil Code was adopted on 18 March 2019 and became effective on 1 October 2019. The scope of these amendments introduce a new concept of digital rights and modify existing laws governing, among other things, performance of contractual obligations and requirements for written form of contracts.

A fifth set of amendments to the Russian Civil Code was signed into law on 16 December 2019 and became effective from 1 January 2020. These amendments introduce certain changes in protection of a good faith purchaser of real estate.

The fifth set of amendments to the Russian Civil Code was adopted on 31 July 2020 and became effective from 11 August 2020. These amendments effect the procedure of transfer of a participation interest in limited liability company to such company.

2 Loans

2.1 Loans

On the terms and subject to the conditions set forth herein and, as the case may be, in each Loan Supplement, the Lender hereby agrees to make available to the Borrower Loans in principal amounts which, when aggregated with the principal amounts advanced under any Subordinated Loan Agreement, will not exceed the total aggregate amount equal to the Programme Limit.

2.2 Purpose

The proceeds of each Loan will be used for general corporate purposes of the Borrower (unless otherwise specified in the relevant Loan Agreement), but the Lender shall not be concerned with the application thereof.

2.3 Separate Loans

It is agreed that with respect to each Loan, all the provisions of this Facility Agreement and the Loan Supplement shall apply mutatis mutandis separately and independently to each such Loan and the expressions “Account”, “Closing Date”, “Day Count Fraction”, “Facility Fee”, “Interest Payment Date”, “Loan Agreement”, “Notes”, “Rate of Interest”, “Repayment Date”, “Specified Currency”, “Subscription Agreement” and “Trust Deed”, together with all other terms that relate to such a Loan shall be construed as referring to those of the particular Loan in question and not of all Loans unless expressly so provided, so that each such Loan shall be made pursuant to this Facility Agreement and the relevant Loan Supplement, together comprising the Loan Agreement in respect of such Loan and that, unless expressly provided, events affecting one Loan shall not affect any other.

3 Drawdown

3.1 Drawdown

On the terms and subject to the conditions set forth herein and, as the case may be, in each Loan Supplement, on the Closing Date thereof the Lender shall make a Loan to the Borrower and the Borrower shall make a single drawing in the full amount of such Loan.

In the event that the relevant closing does not occur on the relevant Closing Date, the Lender shall refund to the Borrower the relevant Facility Fee within two Business Days of such Closing Date.

3.3 Disbursement

Subject to the conditions set forth herein and, as the case may be, in each Loan Supplement, on each Closing Date the Lender shall transfer the full amount of the relevant Loan to the Borrower’s Account specified in the relevant Loan Supplement in the Same-Day Funds.

4 Interest

4.1 Rate of Interest for Fixed Rate Loans

Each Fixed Rate Loan bears interest on its outstanding principal amount from (and including) the Interest Commencement Date at the rate(s) per annum (expressed as a percentage) equal to the applicable Rate of Interest.

If a Fixed Amount or a Broken Amount is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement, the amount of interest payable on each Interest Payment Date will amount to the Fixed Amount or, if applicable, the Broken Amount so specified and in the case of the Broken Amount will be payable on the particular Interest Payment Date(s) specified in the relevant Loan Supplement.

4.2 Payment of Interest for Fixed Rate Loans

Interest at the Rate of Interest shall accrue on each Fixed Rate Loan from day to day, starting from (and including) the Interest Commencement Date and thereafter from (and including) each Interest Payment Date, in each case to (but excluding) the next Interest Payment Date and shall be paid in arrear by the Borrower to the Account not later than 10.00 a.m. (Relevant Time) one Business Day prior to each Interest Payment Date.

4.3 Interest for Floating Rate Loans

4.3.1. Interest Payment Dates: Each Floating Rate Loan bears interest on its outstanding principal amount from (and including) the Interest Commencement Date and thereafter from (and including) each Interest Payment Date, in each case to (but excluding) the next Interest Payment Date at the rate per annum (expressed as a percentage) equal to the applicable Rate of Interest, which interest shall be paid in arrear by the Borrower to the relevant Account not later than 10.00 a.m. (Relevant Time) one Business Day prior to each Interest Payment Date. Such Interest Payment Date(s) is/are either shown in the relevant Loan Supplement as Specified Interest Payment Date(s) or, if no Specified Interest Payment Date(s) is/are shown in the relevant Loan Supplement, Interest Payment Date shall mean each date which falls the number of months or other period shown in the relevant Loan Supplement as the Interest Period after the preceding Interest Payment Date or, in the case of the first Interest Payment Date, after the Interest Commencement Date.

4.3.2. Business Day Convention: If any date referred to in the relevant Loan Supplement that is specified to be subject to adjustment in accordance with a Business Day Convention would otherwise fall on a day that is not a Business Day, then, if the Business Day Convention specified is (A) the Floating Rate Business Day Convention, such date shall be postponed to the next day that is a Business Day unless it would thereby fall into the next calendar month, in which event (x) such date shall be brought forward to the immediately preceding Business Day and (y) each subsequent such date shall be the last Business Day of the month in which such date would have fallen had it not been subject to adjustment, (B) the Following Business Day Convention, such date shall be postponed to the next day that is a Business Day, (C) the Modified Following Business Day Convention, such date shall be postponed to the next day that is a Business Day unless it would thereby fall into the next calendar month, in which event such date shall be brought forward to the immediately preceding Business Day or (D) the Preceding Business Day Convention, such date shall be brought forward to the immediately preceding Business Day.

4.3.3. Rate of Interest for Floating Rate Loans: The Rate of Interest in respect of Floating Rate Loans for each Interest Accrual Period shall be determined in the manner specified in the relevant Loan Supplement and the provisions below relating to either ISDA Determination or Screen Rate Determination shall apply, depending upon which is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement.

(i) ISDA Determination for Floating Rate Loans

Where ISDA Determination is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement as the manner in which the Rate of Interest is to be determined, the Rate of Interest for each Interest Accrual Period shall be determined by the Calculation Agent as a rate equal to the relevant ISDA Rate. For the purposes of this sub-paragraph (i), “ISDA Rate” for an Interest Accrual Period means a rate equal to the Floating Rate that would be determined by the Calculation Agent under a Swap Transaction under the terms of an agreement incorporating the ISDA Definitions and under which:

- (a) the Floating Rate Option is as specified in the relevant Loan Supplement;
- (b) the Designated Maturity is a period specified in the relevant Loan Supplement; and
- (c) the relevant Reset Date is the first day of that Interest Accrual Period unless otherwise specified in the relevant Loan Supplement.

For the purposes of this paragraph (i), “Floating Rate”, “Calculation Agent”, “Floating Rate Option”, “Designated Maturity”, “Reset Date” and “Swap Transaction” have the meanings given to those terms in the ISDA Definitions.

(ii) Screen Rate Determination for Floating Rate Loans

Where Screen Rate Determination is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement as the manner in which the Rate of Interest is to be determined, the Rate of Interest for each Interest Accrual Period shall be determined by the Calculation Agent at or about the Relevant Time on the Interest Determination Date in respect of such Interest Accrual Period in accordance with the following:

- (a) if the Primary Source for Floating Rate is a Relevant Screen Page, subject as provided below, the Rate of Interest shall be:
 - (I) the Relevant Rate (where such Relevant Rate on such Relevant Screen Page is a composite quotation or is customarily supplied by one entity); or
 - (II) the arithmetic mean of the Relevant Rates of the persons whose Relevant Rates appear on that Relevant Screen Page, in each case appearing on such Relevant Screen Page at the Relevant Time on the Interest Determination Date;

- (b) if the Primary Source for the Floating Rate is Reference Banks or if sub-paragraph (a)(I) above applies and no Relevant Rate appears on the Relevant Screen Page at the Relevant Time on the Interest Determination Date or if sub-paragraph (a)(II) above applies and fewer than two Relevant Rates appear on the Relevant Screen Page at the Relevant Time on the Interest Determination Date, subject as provided below, the Rate of Interest shall be the arithmetic mean of the Relevant Rates that each of the Reference Banks is quoting to leading banks in the Relevant Financial Centre at the Relevant Time on the Interest Determination Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent; and
- (c) if paragraph (b) above applies and the Calculation Agent determines that fewer than two Reference Banks are so quoting Relevant Rates, subject as provided below, the Rate of Interest shall be the arithmetic mean of the rates per annum (expressed as a percentage) that the Calculation Agent determines to be the rates (being the nearest equivalent to the Benchmark) in respect of a Representative Amount of the Specified Currency that at least two out of five leading banks selected by the Calculation Agent in the Relevant Financial Centre of the country of the Specified Currency or, if the Specified Currency is euro, in Europe as selected by the Calculation Agent are quoting at or about the Relevant Time on the date on which such banks would customarily quote such rates for a period commencing on the Effective Date for a period equivalent to the Specified Duration (I) to leading banks carrying on business in Europe, or (if the Calculation Agent determines that fewer than two of such banks are so quoting to leading banks in Europe) (II) to leading banks carrying on business in the Relevant Financial Centre; except that, if fewer than two of such banks are so quoting to leading banks in the Relevant Financial Centre, the Rate of Interest shall be the Rate of Interest determined on the previous Interest Determination Date (after readjustment for any difference between any Margin, Rate Multiplier or Maximum or Minimum Rate of Interest applicable to the preceding Interest Accrual Period and to the relevant Interest Accrual Period).

If the Benchmark from time to time in respect of Floating Rate Loans is specified in the applicable Loan Supplement as being other than LIBOR, LIBID, LIMEAN or EURIBOR, the Rate of Interest in respect of such Loans will be determined as provided in the applicable Loan Supplement.

4.4 Accrual of Interest

Interest shall accrue on each Loan up to, but excluding, the Repayment Date or Prepayment Date, as applicable, unless payment is improperly withheld or refused, in which event interest shall continue to accrue (both before and after judgment) at the applicable Rate of Interest to, but excluding, the date on which payment in full of the principal thereof is made.

4.5 Margin, Maximum/Minimum Rates of Interest, Rate Multipliers and Rounding

- 4.5.1. If any Margin or Rate Multiplier is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement (either (x) generally, or (y) in relation to one or more Interest Accrual Periods), an adjustment shall be made to all Rates of Interest, in the case of (x), or the Rates of Interest for the specified Interest Accrual Periods, in the case of (y), calculated in accordance with Clause 4.3 above by adding (if a positive number) or subtracting the absolute value (if a negative number) of such Margin or multiplying by such Rate Multiplier, subject always to the next paragraph.
- 4.5.2. If any Maximum or Minimum Rate of Interest is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement, then any Rate of Interest shall be subject to such maximum or minimum, as the case may be.
- 4.5.3. For the purposes of any calculations required pursuant to a Loan Agreement (unless otherwise specified), (x) all percentages resulting from such calculations shall be rounded, if necessary, to the nearest one hundred-thousandth of a percentage point (with halves being rounded up), (y) all figures shall be rounded to seven significant figures (with halves being rounded up) and (z) all currency amounts that fall due and payable shall be rounded to the nearest unit of such currency (with halves being rounded up), save in the case of yen, which shall be rounded down to the nearest yen. For these purposes “unit” means the lowest amount of such currency that is available as legal tender in the country or countries of such currency.

4.6 Calculations

The amount of interest payable in respect of any Loan for any period shall be calculated by multiplying the product of the Rate of Interest and the outstanding principal amount of such Loan by the Day Count Fraction, unless an Interest Amount (or a formula for its calculation) is specified in the relevant Loan Supplement in respect of such period, in which case the amount of interest payable in respect of such Loan for such period shall equal such Interest Amount (or be calculated in accordance with such formula). Where any Interest Period comprises two or more Interest Accrual Periods, the amount of interest payable in respect of such Interest Period shall be the sum of the amounts of interest payable in respect of each of those Interest Accrual Periods.

4.7 Determination and Notification of Rates of Interest and Interest Amounts

As soon as practicable after the Relevant Time on each Interest Determination Date or such other time on such date as the Calculation Agent may be required to calculate any rate or amount, obtain any quotation or make any determination or calculation, it shall determine such rate and calculate the Interest Amounts in respect of such Floating Rate Loan for the relevant Interest Accrual Period, obtain such quotation or make such determination or calculation, as the case may be, and cause the Rate of Interest and the Interest Amounts for each Interest Period and the relevant Interest Payment Date to be notified to the Borrower, the Trustee, the Lender, each of the Paying Agents and any other Calculation Agent appointed in respect of such Floating Rate Loan that is to make a further calculation upon receipt of such information. Where any Interest Payment Date or Interest Period Date is subject to adjustment pursuant to Clause 4.3.2, the Interest Amounts and the Interest Payment Date so notified may subsequently be amended (or appropriate alternative arrangements made with the consent of the Borrower and the Lender by way of adjustment) without notice in the event of an extension or shortening of the Interest Period. If such Floating Rate Loan becomes due and payable under Clause 11, the accrued interest and the Rate of Interest payable in respect of such Floating Rate Loan shall nevertheless continue to be calculated as previously in accordance with this Clause. The determination of any rate or amount, the obtaining of each quotation and the making of each determination or calculation by the Calculation Agent(s) shall (in the absence of manifest error) be final and binding upon all parties.

4.8 Determination or Calculation by Independent Appraiser

If the Calculation Agent does not at any time for any reason determine or calculate the Rate of Interest for an Interest Period or any Interest Amount in relation to a Floating Rate Loan, the Lender and the Borrower agree that such determination or calculation may be made by or at the direction of a financial adviser or bank being a reputable financial institution appointed at its expense by the Borrower, provided it is not an Affiliate of the Lender, ABH Financial or any Material Subsidiary.

4.10 Calculation Agent and Reference Banks

The Lender (failing which the Borrower) shall procure that there shall at all times be specified no less than four Reference Banks (or such other number as may be required) with offices in the Relevant Financial Centre and appointed one or more Calculation Agents if provision is made for them in a Loan Supplement and for so long as any amount remains outstanding under a Loan Agreement. If any Reference Bank (acting through its relevant office) is unable or unwilling to continue to act as a Reference Bank, then the Lender shall (with the prior approval of the Borrower) appoint another Reference Bank with an office in the Relevant Financial Centre to act as such in its place. Where more than one Calculation Agent is appointed in respect of a Loan, references in the relevant Loan Agreement to the Calculation Agent shall be construed as each Calculation Agent performing its respective duties under the relevant Loan Agreement. If the Calculation Agent is unable or unwilling to act as such or if the Calculation Agent fails duly to establish the Rate of Interest for an Interest Period or Interest Accrual Period or to calculate any Interest Amount, or to comply with any other requirement, the Lender shall (with the prior approval of the Borrower) appoint a leading bank or investment banking firm engaged in the interbank market (or, if appropriate, money, swap or over-the-counter index options market) that is most closely connected with the calculation or determination to be made by the Calculation Agent (acting through its principal London office or any other office actively involved in such market) to act as such in its place. The Calculation Agent may not resign its duties without a successor having been appointed as aforesaid. Both the Borrower and the Lender agree that such successor Calculation Agent will be appointed on the terms of the Agency Agreement in relation to the relevant Loan Agreement.

5 Repayment and Prepayment

5.1 Repayment

Except as otherwise provided herein and in the applicable Loan Supplement, the Borrower shall repay each Loan not later than 10.00 a.m. (Relevant Time) one Business Day prior to the Repayment Date therefor.

5.2 Prepayment in the Event of Taxes or Increased Costs

If the Borrower is required to pay any Additional Amount pursuant to any Loan Agreement as provided by Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts) or any Tax Indemnity Amount pursuant to any Loan Agreement as provided by Clause 7.2 (Tax Indemnity), or if (for whatever reason) the Borrower would have to or has been required to pay additional amounts pursuant to any Loan Agreement pursuant to Clause 9 (Change in Law; Increase in Cost), and in any such case such obligation cannot or could not be avoided by the Borrower taking reasonable measures available to it, then the Borrower may (without premium or penalty), upon not more than 60 nor less than 30 days' prior notice to the Lender (which notice shall be irrevocable), prepay the Loan relating to the relevant Loan Agreement in whole (but not in part) on any Interest Payment Date, in the case of a Floating Rate Loan, or at any time, in the case of a Fixed Rate Loan, together with any amounts then payable under Clauses 7.1 (Additional Amounts), 7.2 (Tax Indemnity) or 9 (Change in Law; Increase in Cost) and pay the accrued and unpaid interest on such outstanding principal amount up to and excluding such prepayment date. Prior to giving any such notice in the event of the Borrower being obliged to make an additional payment pursuant to any Loan Agreement as referred to in this Clause 5.2, the Borrower shall address and deliver to the Lender an Officers' Certificate confirming that the Borrower would be required to make such payment and that the obligation to make such payment cannot or could not be avoided by the Borrower taking reasonable measures available to it.

5.3 Prepayment in the Event of Illegality

If, by reason of the introduction of any change in any applicable law, regulation, regulatory requirement or directive of any Agency at any time after the date of the relevant Loan Agreement, the Lender reasonably determines (such determination being accompanied, if so requested by the Borrower, by an Opinion of Counsel, with the cost of such Opinion of Counsel being borne solely by the Borrower) that it is or would be unlawful or contrary to such applicable law, regulation, regulatory requirement or directive for the Lender to allow all or part of the Loan relating to such Loan Agreement or the corresponding Series of Notes to remain outstanding or for the Lender to maintain or give effect to any of its obligations in connection with the relevant Loan Agreement and/or to charge or receive or to be paid interest at the rate then applicable to such Loan (an "Event of Illegality"), then upon notice by the Lender to the Borrower in writing (setting out in reasonable detail the nature and extent of the relevant circumstances), the Borrower and the Lender shall consult in good faith as to a basis which eliminates the application of such Event of Illegality; provided, however, that the Lender shall be under no obligation to continue such consultation if a basis has not been determined within 30 days of the date on which it so notified the Borrower. If such a basis has not been determined within the 30 days, then upon written notice by the Lender to the Borrower and the Trustee, the Borrower shall prepay such Loan (without penalty or premium) in whole but not in part (together with the interest accrued on the day of repayment), in the case of a Floating Rate Loan, on the next Interest Payment Date therefor, or, in the case of a Fixed Rate Loan, at any time or on such earlier date as the Lender shall certify to be necessary to comply with such requirements.

5.4 Reduction of a Loan Upon Cancellation of Corresponding Notes

The Borrower, ABH Financial or any Subsidiary of the Borrower or ABH Financial, as the case may be, may from time to time, in accordance with the Conditions, purchase Notes in the open market or by tender or by a private agreement at any price and, at any time after the third anniversary of the relevant Closing Date, deliver to the Lender Notes, having an aggregate principal value of at least U.S.$1,000,000 (or its equivalent in a Specified Currency), together with a request for the Lender to present such Notes to the relevant Registrar for cancellation, and may also at any time after the third anniversary of the relevant Closing Date procure the delivery to the relevant Registrar of the relevant Global Notes with instructions to cancel a specified aggregate principal amount of Notes (being at least U.S.$1,000,000 or its equivalent in a Specified Currency) represented thereby (which instructions shall be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to the relevant Registrar that the Borrower or ABH Financial or any Subsidiary of the Borrower or ABH Financial, as the case may be, is entitled to give such instructions), whereupon the Lender shall, pursuant to Clause 9.1 of the Agency Agreement, request the relevant Registrar to cancel such Notes (or specified aggregate principal amount of Notes represented by the relevant Global Notes). Upon any such cancellation by or on behalf of the relevant Registrar, the principal amount of the Loan corresponding to the principal amount of such Notes shall be deemed to be prepaid for all purposes as of the date of such cancellation and no further payment shall be made or required to be made by the Borrower in respect of such amounts.

5.5 Payment of Other Amounts and Costs of Prepayment

If a Loan is to be prepaid by the Borrower pursuant to any of the provisions of this Clause 5 (except in the case of Clause 5.4), the Borrower shall, simultaneously with such prepayment, pay to the Lender accrued interest thereon to the date of actual payment and all other sums payable by the Borrower pursuant to the relevant Loan Agreement.

5.6 Provisions Exclusive

The Borrower shall not prepay or repay any Loan except at the times and in the manner expressly provided in this Agreement. The Borrower shall not be permitted to re-borrow any amounts prepaid or repaid.

5.7 Notice of Discharge

Upon the repayment or prepayment, in accordance with this Clause 5, of the relevant Loan together with any accrued interest thereon to the date of repayment or actual payment and all other sums payable by the Borrower pursuant to the relevant Loan Agreement, the Lender shall within five Business Days deliver to the Borrower a notice of discharge in the form of a deed drafted by the Borrower acknowledging the full and complete discharge of the Borrower's duties, obligations and liabilities under or in respect of the relevant Loan Agreement and irrevocably and unconditionally releasing and discharging the Borrower from any and all future:

5.7.1. claims or demands that the Lender has or may have against the Borrower; and

5.7.2. duties, obligations and liabilities that the Borrower has, or may have, to the Lender,

5.7.3. under or in respect of the relevant Loan Agreement.

6 Payments

6.1 Making of Payments

All payments of principal, interest and additional amounts to be made by the Borrower under each Loan Agreement shall be made unconditionally by credit transfer to the Lender not later than 10.00 a.m. (Relevant Time) one Business Day prior to each Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date (as the case may be) or on such other date as may be specified therein in Same-Day Funds to the relevant Account or as the Trustee may otherwise direct following the occurrence of an Event of Default or a Relevant Event (as defined in the Trust Deed). The Borrower shall, before 10.00 a.m. (Relevant Time) one Business Day prior to each Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date (as the case may be) and in the case of any other payments made in connection with Clause 5 (Repayment and Prepayment), two Business Days prior to the date on which such prepayment or repayment is due to be made, procure that the bank effecting such payments on its behalf confirms to the Principal Paying Agent by tested telex or authenticated SWIFT message the payment instructions relating to such payment. The Lender agrees with the Borrower that it will not deposit any other monies into such Account and that no withdrawals shall be made from such Account other than as provided for and in accordance with the relevant Trust Deed and the Agency Agreement.

6.2 No Set-Off or Counterclaim

All payments to be made by the Borrower under each Loan Agreement shall be made in full without set-off or counterclaim (including, for the avoidance of doubt, any set-off or counterclaim in respect of any amounts owed to the Borrower under any other Loan Agreement) and shall be made free and clear of and without deduction for or on account of any set-off or counterclaim.

6.3 Alternative Payment Arrangements

If, at any time, it shall become impracticable, by reason of any action of any governmental authority or any change of law, exchange control regulations or any similar event, for the Borrower to make any payments under a Loan Agreement in the manner specified in Clause 6.1 (Making of Payments), then the Borrower may agree with the Lender and the Trustee alternative arrangements for such payments to be made; provided that, in the absence of any such agreement, the Borrower shall be obliged to make all payments due to the Lender in the manner specified in such Loan Agreement.

7.1 Additional Amounts

All payments made by the Borrower under each Loan shall be made (except to the extent required by law) free and clear of and without deduction or withholding for or on account of any Taxes imposed, collected, withheld, assessed or levied on behalf of any government or political subdivision or territory or possession of any government or authority or Agency therein having the power to tax (each a “Taxing Authority”) within Russia or Ireland. If the Lender or Borrower becomes subject at any time to any taxing jurisdiction other than or in addition to Russia or Ireland, as the case may be, references to jurisdiction in this Clause 7.1 shall be construed as references to Russia and/or Ireland and/or such other jurisdiction and in addition, upon enforcement of the fixed charge in the Trust Deed over certain rights, benefits and/or obligations under this Agreement, references in this Clause 7.1 to “Ireland” shall be construed as references to the jurisdiction which the Trustee is a resident of and acting through for tax purposes.

If the Borrower is required by applicable law to make any deduction or withholding from any payment under or in respect of a Loan Agreement for or on account of any such Taxes referred to in the preceding paragraph of this Clause 7.1, it shall, on the date such payment is made, pay such additional amounts (“Additional Amounts”) as may be necessary to ensure that the Lender receives and retains a net amount in the Specified Currency equal to the full amount which it would have received and retained had such deduction or withholding not been required and shall promptly account to the relevant authorities (within the time specified by legislation) for the relevant amount of such Taxes so withheld or deducted and shall deliver to the Lender without undue delay evidence satisfactory to the Lender of such deduction or withholding and of the accounting therefore to the relevant Taxing Authority. If the Lender is or will be subject to any liability or required to make any payment for or on account of Taxes in relation to a sum received or receivable (or any sum deemed for the purposes of Tax to be received or receivable) under or in respect of a Series of the Notes, the Borrower shall on demand pay to the Lender an amount in the Specified Currency equal to the loss, liability or cost which the Lender, or as the case maybe, Trustee has or will have (directly or indirectly) suffered for or on account of Tax by the Lender or the Noteholders of such Series.

7.2 Tax Indemnity

Without prejudice to the provisions of Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts), if the Lender notifies the Borrower (setting out in reasonable detail the nature and extent of the obligation with such evidence as the Borrower may reasonably require) that it is obliged (or would be but for the limited recourse nature of the Notes) to make any withholding or deduction for or on account of any Taxes from any payment that is due, or would otherwise be due but for the imposition of any such withholding or deduction for or on account of any such Taxes, pursuant to a Series of the Notes, the Borrower agrees to pay to the Lender, no later than 10:00 a.m. (Relevant Time) one Business Day prior to the date on which payment is due to the Noteholders of such Series in Same-Day Funds to the relevant Account, an additional amount as may be necessary to ensure that the Lender receives and retains a net amount in the Specified Currency equal to such additional amount as the Lender is required to pay in order that the net amount received by the Noteholders after such deduction or withholding will equal the respective amounts which would have been received by the Noteholders in the absence of such withholding or deduction; provided, however, that the Lender shall immediately upon receipt from any Paying Agent of any sums paid pursuant to this provision, to the extent that any Noteholders of such Series are not entitled to such additional amounts pursuant to the Conditions of such Series of the Notes, repay such additional amounts to the Borrower as are recovered (it being understood that none of the Lender, or any Paying Agent shall have any obligation to determine whether any Noteholder of such Series is entitled to such additional amount). All payments under this Clause 7.2 will be made by the Borrower, subject to the relevant expenses being properly documented.

Without prejudice to, and without duplication of the provisions of Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts), if at any time the Lender makes or is required to make any payment to a Person (other than to or for the account of any Noteholder) on account of Tax in respect of a Loan or in respect of a Series of the Notes imposed by any Taxing Authority in the jurisdiction in which the Lender is resident for tax purposes, or any liability in respect of any such payment is asserted, imposed, levied or assessed against the Lender, the Borrower shall, as soon as reasonably practicable, and in any event within 30 calendar days of, written demand (setting out in reasonable detail the nature and extent of the obligation with such evidence as the Borrower may reasonably require) made by the Lender, indemnify the Lender against any such payment or liability, or any claim, demand, action, damages or loss in respect thereof, together with any interest, penalties, costs and expenses (including without limitation, legal fees and any applicable value added tax properly payable) payable or incurred in connection therewith.

Any payments required to be made by the Borrower under this Clause 7.2 are collectively referred to as “Tax Indemnity Amounts”. For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Clause 7.2 shall not apply to any withholding or deductions of Taxes with respect to the Loan which are subject to payment of Additional Amounts under Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts).

If the Lender intends to make a claim for any Tax Indemnity Amounts, it shall promptly notify the Borrower thereof.

7.3 Tax Credits and Refunds

If an Additional Amount is paid under Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts) or a Tax Indemnity Amount is paid under Clause 7.2 (Tax Indemnity) by the Borrower and the Lender, in its absolute discretion, determines that it has received or been granted a credit against, a relief, remission for, or a repayment of any Taxes, then if and to the extent that the Lender determines that such credit, relief, remission or repayment (a “Tax Benefit”) is in respect of or calculated with reference to the deduction or withholding giving rise to such increased payment, or as the case may be in respect of an additional payment with reference to the loss, liability or cost giving rise to the additional payment, the Lender shall, to the extent that it determines in its absolute discretion that it can do so without prejudice to its right to the amount of such credit, relief, remission or repayment and without worsening the position it would have been in had such Additional Amount or Tax Indemnity Amount not been required to be repaid, repay to the Borrower an amount equal to such amount as is attributable to such deduction or withholding or, as the case may be, such loss, liability or cost.

Nothing contained in this Clause 7.3 shall interfere with the right of the Lender to arrange its tax affairs in whatever manner it thinks fit nor oblige the Lender to disclose any confidential information or any information relating to its tax affairs, any computations in respect thereof, or its business or any part of its business.

If the Borrower makes a withholding or deduction for or on account of Taxes from a payment under or in respect of a Loan Agreement and if an Additional Amount is paid under Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts) or a Tax Indemnity Amount is paid under Clause 7.2 (Tax Indemnity) by the Borrower, the Borrower may apply on behalf of the Lender to the relevant Russian Taxing Authority for a payment to be made by such authorities to the Lender with respect to such Tax. If, whether following a claim made on its behalf by the Borrower or otherwise, the Lender receives and retains such a payment (“Russian Tax Payment”) from the Russian Taxing Authority with respect to such Taxes, it will as soon as reasonably possible notify the Borrower that it has received and retained that payment (and the amount of such payment); whereupon, provided that the Borrower has notified the Lender in writing of the details of an account (the “Borrower Account”) to which a payment or transfer should be made, and that the Lender is able to make a payment or transfer under applicable laws and regulations and without worsening the position it would have been in had such Additional Amount or Tax Indemnity Amount not been required to be paid, the Lender will pay or transfer an amount equal to the Russian Tax Payment to the Borrower Account.

7.4 Tax Treaty Relief

The Lender, at the cost and upon the instructions of the Borrower (such costs to be properly documented by the Lender), shall make reasonable and timely efforts to assist the Borrower with completing procedural formalities necessary to obtain relief from withholding of Russian income tax pursuant to the double taxation treaty between Russia and the jurisdiction in which the Lender is resident, including its obligations under Clause 7.5 (Delivery of Forms).

7.5 Delivery of Forms

The Lender shall, at the cost of the Borrower (such costs to be properly documented by the Lender) and at the request of the Borrower but not later than 20 calendar days prior to the date of the first Interest Payment Date (and thereafter as soon as possible at the beginning of each calendar year, but not later than 20 Business days prior to the first Interest Payment Date with respect to any Loan in that year), use its best efforts to deliver to the Borrower a certificate issued by the Revenue Commissioners in Ireland (or such Qualifying Jurisdiction in which the Lender or any successor thereto is resident for tax purposes) confirming the status of the Lender as a resident of Ireland for the purposes of the Agreement between Ireland and the Russian Federation for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to taxes on income (the “Ireland-Russia DTT”) for the appropriate year (or such Qualifying Jurisdiction in which the Lender or any successor thereto is resident for tax purposes) (the “Residency Certificate”), provided the Residency Certificate shall be properly legalised or apostilled by the Lender. The Lender shall (to the extent it is able to do so under applicable law including Russian laws) each year while any Loan remains outstanding no less than 30

Business Days before the Interest Payment Date with respect to such Loan in that particular year (and at the request of the Borrower), use its best efforts to deliver to the Borrower at the cost of the Borrower any other documents, together with a power of attorney prepared by the Borrower with, if requested and at the cost of the Borrower, an independent English translation thereof authorising the Borrower to make the relevant filings with the Russian tax authorities and such other information as may need to be duly completed and delivered by the Lender to enable the Borrower to apply to obtain relief from deduction or withholding of Russian tax after the date of this Agreement or, as the case may be, to apply to obtain a tax refund if a relief from deduction or withholding of Russian tax has not been obtained. The Lender shall not be responsible for any failure to provide, or any delays in providing, the Residency Certificate as a result of any action or inaction of any authority of Ireland (provided that the Residency Certificate has been properly requested by the Lender and reasonably sufficient time has been allowed for the authorities in Ireland to issue such certificate), but shall notify the Borrower as soon as practicable about any such failure or delay with an indication of the actions taken by the Lender to obtain the Residency Certificate. The application form and, if required, other documents provided by the Lender referred to in this Clause 7.5 shall be duly signed by the Lender, if applicable, and stamped or otherwise approved or certified by the Revenue Commissioners in Ireland at the cost of the Borrower, if applicable, and the power of attorney shall be duly signed and apostilled or otherwise legalised at the cost of the Borrower. If a relief from deduction or withholding of Russian tax or a tax refund under this Clause 7.5 has not been obtained and further to an application of the Borrower to the relevant Russian tax authorities the latter requests the Lender's Rouble bank account details, the Lender shall at the request of the Borrower (a) use reasonable efforts to procure that such Rouble bank account of the Lender is duly opened and maintained, and (b) thereafter furnish the Borrower with the details of such Rouble bank account. The Borrower shall pay for all costs associated, if any, with opening and maintaining such Rouble bank account.

The Borrower and the Lender (using its best endeavours and in accordance with applicable law) agree that should the Russian legislation regulating the procedure for obtaining an exemption from Russian income tax withholding or the interpretation thereof by the relevant competent authority change, then the procedure referred to in this Clause 7.5 will be deemed changed accordingly.

The Borrower shall advise the Lender as soon as reasonably practicable of any modification to or development in Russian tax laws and regulations which affect or are capable of affecting the relief of the Lender from Russian withholding tax in respect of payments under any Loan Agreement in order to ensure that, prior to the first Interest Payment Date and at the beginning of each calendar year, the Lender can provide the Borrower with the documents required under applicable Russian law for the relief of the Lender from Russian withholding tax in respect of payments under such Loan Agreement.

7.6 Mitigation

If at any time either party hereto becomes aware of circumstances which would or might, then or thereafter, give rise to an obligation on the part of the Borrower to make any deduction, withholding or payment as described in Clauses 7.1 (Additional Amounts) or 7.2 (Tax Indemnity), then, without in any way limiting, reducing or otherwise qualifying the Lender's rights, or the Borrower's obligations, under such Clauses, such party shall promptly upon becoming aware of such circumstances notify the other party, in writing and, thereupon the parties shall consider and consult with each other in good faith with a view to finding, agreeing upon and implementing a method or methods by which any such obligation may be avoided or mitigated and, to the extent that the parties can do so without taking any action which in the reasonable opinion of such party is prejudicial to its own position, take such reasonable steps as may be reasonably available to it to avoid such obligation or mitigate the effect of such circumstance including in the case of the Lender (without limitation) by transfer of its rights or obligations under the relevant Loan Agreement(s) (but only in accordance with the Conditions); provided, however, that the Lender shall, in no circumstance, be required to undertake any expense prior to being ensured to its satisfaction that it will be reimbursed therefore.

7.7 Lender Notification

The Lender agrees promptly, upon becoming actually aware thereof, to notify the Borrower if it ceases to be resident in Ireland or a Qualifying Jurisdiction or if any of the representations and warranties of the Lender set forth in the Dealer Agreement or the relevant Subscription Agreement are no longer true and correct.

8 Conditions Precedent

The obligation of the Lender to make each Loan shall be subject to the further conditions precedent that as of the relevant Closing Date (a) no Default or Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, (b)

the Borrower shall not be in breach of any of the terms, conditions and provisions of the relevant Loan Agreement, (c) the relevant Subscription Agreement, Trust Deed and the Agency Agreement shall have been executed and delivered, and the Lender shall have received the full amount of the proceeds of the issue of the corresponding Series of Notes pursuant to such Subscription Agreement and (d) the Lender shall have received in full the amount of the Facility Fee referred to in Clause 3.2, if due and payable, above, as specified in the relevant Loan Supplement.

9 Change in Law; Increase in Cost

9.1 Compensation

In the event that after the date of a Loan Agreement there is any change in or introduction of any tax, law, regulation, regulatory requirement or official directive (whether or not having the force of law but, if not having the force of law, the observance of which is in accordance with the generally accepted financial practice of financial institutions in the country concerned) or in the interpretation or application thereof by any person charged with the administration thereof and/or any compliance by the Lender in respect of such Loan with any request, policy or guideline (whether or not having the force of law but, if not having the force of law, the observance of which is in accordance with the generally accepted financial practice of financial institutions in the country concerned) from or of any central or other fiscal, monetary or other authority, agency or any official of any such authority which:

- 9.1.1. subjects or will subject the Lender to any Taxes with respect to payments of principal of or interest on such Loan or any other amount payable under such Loan Agreement (other than any Taxes payable by the Lender on its overall net income, capital gains or any Taxes referred to in Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts)); or
- 9.1.2. increases or will increase the taxation of or changes or will change the basis of taxation of payments to the Lender of principal of or interest on such Loan or any other amount payable under such Loan Agreement (other than any such increase or change which arises by reason of any increase in the rate of tax payable by the Lender on its overall net income, capital gains or as a result of any Taxes referred to in Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts)); or
- 9.1.3. imposes or will impose on the Lender any other condition affecting such Loan Agreement or such Loan, and if as a result of any of the foregoing:

- (i) the cost to the Lender of making, funding or maintaining such Loan is increased; or
- (ii) the amount of principal, interest or other amount payable to or received by the Lender under such Loan Agreement is reduced; or
- (iii) the Lender makes any payment or foregoes any interest or other return on or calculated by reference to the gross amount of any sum receivable by it from the Borrower or makes any payment or foregoes any interest or other return on or calculated by reference to the gross amount of such Loan, then subject to the following, and in each such case:

- (a) the Lender shall, as soon as practicable after becoming actually aware of such increased cost, reduced amount or payment made or foregone, give written notice to the Borrower, together with a certificate signed by an authorised attorney of the Lender describing in reasonable detail the introduction or change or request which has occurred and the country or jurisdiction concerned and the nature and date thereof and demonstrating the connection between such introduction, change or request and such increased cost, reduced amount or payment made or foregone, and setting out in reasonable detail the basis on which such amount has been calculated, and all relevant supporting documents evidencing the matters set out in such certificate; and
- (b) the Borrower, in the case of sub-Clauses (i) and (iii) above, shall on demand by the Lender, pay to the Lender such additional amount as shall be necessary to compensate the Lender for such increased cost, and, in the case of sub-Clause (ii) above, at the time the amount so reduced would otherwise have been payable, pay to the Lender such additional amount as shall be necessary to compensate the Lender for such reduction, payment or foregone interest or other return; provided, however, the amount of such increased cost shall be deemed not to exceed an amount equal to the proportion thereof which is directly attributable to such Loan Agreement, provided, however, that this Clause 9.1 will not apply to or in respect of any matter for which the Lender has already been compensated under Clause 7.1 (Additional Amounts) or Clause 7.2 (Tax Indemnity).

9.2 Lender Tax Event

If, as a result of a change in the law, practice or interpretation of the law, the Lender is unable to obtain relief in computing its Irish tax liability for some or all of the interest payable on the Notes (having duly and timely claimed such relief and notwithstanding receipt of confirmation from the relevant tax authorities that such relief is available), the Borrower agrees to pay such additional amount to the Lender that the Lender reasonably determines would be necessary to ensure the Lender receives the amount it would have received and retained had such relief been obtained. The Borrower's obligation to pay such additional amounts shall survive the termination of the Loan Agreement.

9.3 Mitigation

In the event that the Lender becomes entitled to make a claim pursuant to Clause 9.1 (Compensation) or 9.2 (Lender Tax Event) the Lender shall consult in good faith with the Borrower and shall use reasonable efforts (based on the Lender's reasonable interpretation of any tax, law, regulation, requirement, official directive, request, policy or guideline) to reduce, in whole or in part, the Borrower's obligations to pay any additional amount pursuant to such Clause, except that nothing in this Clause 9.3 shall oblige the Lender to incur any costs or expenses in taking any action hereunder unless the Borrower agrees to reimburse the Lender such costs or expenses.

10 Covenants

Provided that nothing in this Agreement shall prevent ABH Financial or the Borrower from entering into any ABH Financial Limited Permitted Reorganisation, any Contemplated Disposal or any Permitted Disposal in accordance with this Agreement, so long as any sum remains outstanding under a Loan Agreement:

10.1 Negative Pledge

The Borrower shall not and shall procure that no Material Subsidiary shall, directly or indirectly, create, incur or suffer to exist any Lien, other than a Permitted Lien, on any of its assets, now owned or hereafter acquired, securing any Indebtedness unless (i) the Notes are secured equally and rateably with such other Indebtedness or (ii) such other security for the Notes, as may be approved by the Trustee or an Extraordinary Resolution or Written Resolution of the Noteholders (as defined in the Trust Deed), is provided.

10.2 Limitation on Affiliate Transactions

The Borrower shall not, and shall procure that no Material Subsidiary shall, directly, or indirectly, conduct any business or permit to exist or enter into any transaction or series of related transactions (including the purchase, sale, transfer, assignment, lease, conveyance or exchange of any property, the rendering of any service, the making of any loan or guarantee or the creation of any other contingent obligation, whether directly or indirectly) with or for the benefit of any of its respective Affiliates (each an "Affiliate Transaction") unless:

- (i) the terms of such Affiliate Transaction are no less favourable to the Borrower or relevant Material Subsidiary, as the case may be, than those that would be obtained in a comparable arms-length transaction with a person that is not an Affiliate of such Person; and
- (ii) if the fair market value of such Affiliate Transaction as determined by the appropriate decision-making body with the authority to make such decision of the Borrower or relevant Material Subsidiary, as the case may be, is in excess of 10 per cent. of the total assets of the Group (as determined by reference to the latest audited consolidated financial statements of ABH Financial prepared in accordance with IFRS), such decision-making body shall have received a written opinion from an Independent Appraiser (a copy of which opinion shall be provided to the Trustee) that such Affiliate Transaction is fair to the Borrower or relevant Material Subsidiary, as the case may be, from a financial point of view; such written opinion of an Independent Appraiser may be relied upon by the Trustee without further enquiry or evidence and, if relied upon by the Trustee, shall be conclusive and binding on all parties.

This Clause 10.2 does not apply to (a) compensation or employee benefit arrangements with any officer or director of the Borrower or a Material Subsidiary, as the case may be, arising as a result of their employment contract, (b) any Affiliate Transaction between the Borrower and any of its Material Subsidiaries or any Affiliate Transaction between any Subsidiaries of the Borrower, (c) any Affiliate Transaction entered into prior to the date of the relevant Loan Supplement the terms of which were disclosed in the Prospectus, (d) any Permitted Disposal, (e) any Contemplated Disposal, (f) any ABH Financial Limited Permitted Reorganisation or (g) unless otherwise included within (a) through (g) as aforesaid, Affiliate Transactions involving an aggregate amount not to exceed, in any calendar year, 3 per cent. of ABH Financial's total equity determined in accordance with IFRS (as calculated by reference to the then latest audited consolidated IFRS financial statements of ABH Financial).

10.3 Maintenance of Capital Adequacy

The Borrower shall ensure full compliance with mandatory ratios and other requirements of the Central Bank.

10.4 Maintenance of authorisations

The Borrower shall and shall procure that each Material Subsidiary shall, take all action which may be necessary to (i) ensure the obtaining and continuance of, all consents, licences, approvals and authorisations required in or by the laws of the Russian Federation or any relevant jurisdiction or regulatory authority thereof or having regulatory authority therein and (ii) make or cause to be made all registrations, recordings and filings which may at any time be required to be obtained or made in the Russian Federation or any relevant jurisdiction or regulatory authority thereof or having regulatory authority therein where failure to obtain or continue any such consent, licence, approval or authorisation or make any such registration, recording or filing is likely to have a Material Adverse Effect.

10.5 Limitation on change of business

The Borrower shall not make any change to the general nature or scope of its business from that carried on at the date of the relevant Loan Supplement which is likely to have a Material Adverse Effect.

10.6 Limitation on sale of assets

The Borrower shall not and shall procure that no Material Subsidiary of the Borrower shall, in any financial year, sell, lease, transfer or otherwise dispose of, by one or more transactions or series of transactions (whether related or not, but not including Permitted Disposals, Contemplated Disposals or any ABH Financial Limited Permitted Reorganisation), the whole or any part of its assets which results in a decrease in excess of 10% in the consolidated total assets of the Group (as determined by reference to the latest audited consolidated IFRS financial statements of ABH Financial) to any person unless such transaction:

- (i) is on an arm's length basis and on commercially reasonable terms; and
- (ii) has been approved by a resolution of the Board of Directors of the relevant company resolving that the transaction complies with the requirements of this Clause and such resolution has been adopted by a majority of the disinterested members of such Board of Directors or, if there are insufficient disinterested members, by a majority of such Board of Directors acting in good faith or, in the case of the Borrower or any of its Subsidiaries incorporated in Russia, approved by any relevant managing body of the Borrower, adopted in good faith and in accordance with the relevant requirements of the laws of the Russian Federation and the Borrower's constitutive documents and that a copy (in English) of such resolution has been delivered to the Trustee.

10.7 Limitation on merger and consolidation

The Borrower shall not and shall procure that no Material Subsidiary shall, without the prior written consent of the Trustee, enter into any reorganisation (whether by way of a merger, accession, division, separation or transformation, as these terms may be construed in accordance with applicable laws or participate in any other type of corporation reconstruction, other than any Contemplated Disposal (each such reorganisation or reconstruction, other than any Contemplated Disposal, a "Reorganisation")) unless such Reorganisation would not or does not result in a Material Adverse Effect.

10.8 Covenant fall away

From and after the date on which the (i) Borrower has reached the Investment Grade Status, and (ii) provided that no Default or Event of Default has occurred and is continuing at such time, the Borrower shall be released from its obligations to comply with Clause 10.4 and Clause 10.5, and non-compliance with such Clauses 10.4 and 10.5 will not constitute an Event of Default pursuant to Clause 11.

10.9 FATCA Compliance

The Borrower hereby agrees with the Lender that it will provide the Lender with sufficient information (as is available to the Borrower), provide all reasonable assistance necessary, and pay any costs associated with, compliance by the Lender with Section 1471(b) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (the “Code”) or otherwise imposed pursuant to Section 1471 through 1474 of the Code and any regulations or agreements thereunder or official interpretations thereof.

11 Events of Default

11.1 Events of Default

11.1.3. Cross Default

- (i) any Indebtedness (other than an Acquired Indebtedness and/or Domestic Debt) of the Borrower or ABH Financial becomes, as a result of a Specified Default that is not an Excluded Event, due and payable prior to its stated maturity otherwise than at the option of the Borrower or ABH Financial, as the case may be; or provided that the aggregate amount of the Indebtedness (without double counting) in respect of which one or more of the events mentioned above in this Clause 11.1.3 have occurred equals or exceeds 3 per cent. of ABH Financial’s total equity determined in accordance with IFRS (as calculated by reference to the then latest audited consolidated IFRS financial statements of ABH Financial); or

11.1.4. Judgment

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE NOTES

The following is the text of the terms and conditions of the Notes (the “Conditions”), which contain summaries of certain provisions of the Trust Deed, and which (subject to completion and amendment in accordance with the provisions of the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars, as the case may be) will be attached to the Notes in definitive form, if issued, and (subject to the provisions thereof) apply to Global Notes representing each Series. Either (i) the full text of these terms and conditions together with the relevant provisions of the Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars, as the case may be or (ii) these terms and conditions as so completed, amended, supplemented or varied (and subject to simplification by the deletion of non-applicable provisions), shall be endorsed on any Notes in definitive form. All capitalised terms that are not defined in these Conditions will have the meanings given to them in the Trust Deed and the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars. Those definitions will be endorsed on the definitive Notes. References in the Conditions to “Notes” are to the Notes of one Series only, not to all Notes that may be issued under the Programme.

The Notes are constituted by, are subject to, and have the benefit of, a supplemental trust deed dated the Issue Date specified hereon (the “Supplemental Trust Deed”) supplemental to a principal trust deed (the “Principal Trust Deed”) dated 17 April 2013, each made between Alfa Bond Issuance Plc (the “Issuer”) and BNY Mellon Corporate Trustee Services Limited (the “Trustee”, which expression shall include any trustee or trustees for the time being under the Trust Deed) as trustee for the Noteholders (as defined in Condition 3.1). The Principal Trust Deed and the Supplemental Trust Deed as modified from time to time in accordance with the provisions therein contained and any deed or other document expressed to be supplemental thereto, as from time to time so modified, are together referred to as the “Trust Deed”.

The Issuer has authorised the creation, issue and sale of the Notes for the sole purpose of financing either a Senior Loan (if the status of the Loan is specified as “Senior” thereon) or a Subordinated Loan (if the status of the Loan is specified as “Subordinated” thereon and together with a Senior Loan, the “Loans”, and any one of them a “Loan”) to Joint Stock Company “ALFA-BANK” (“Alfa-Bank”) subject to, and in accordance with, either (i) in relation to a Senior Loan, a facility agreement between the Issuer and Alfa-Bank dated 17 April 2013 (such facility agreement, the “Facility Agreement”) as amended and supplemented by a loan supplement to be dated the Trade Date (the “Loan Supplement”) and, together with the Facility Agreement, the “Senior Loan Agreement”) or (ii) in relation to a Subordinated Loan, a subordinated loan agreement between the Issuer and Alfa-Bank to be entered into on the Trade Date (the “Subordinated Loan Agreement”). In these Terms and Conditions, “Loan Agreement” shall mean either (i) a Senior Loan Agreement (in respect of a Senior Loan) or (ii) a Subordinated Loan Agreement (in respect of a Subordinated Loan), as applicable.

In each case where amounts of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) are stated herein or in the Trust Deed to be payable in respect of the Notes, the obligations of the Issuer to make any such payment shall constitute an obligation only to account to the Noteholders on each date upon which such amounts of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) are due in respect of the Notes, for an amount equivalent to sums of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) actually received by or for the account of the Issuer pursuant to the Loan Agreement, less any amounts in respect of the Reserved Rights (as defined below). Noteholders must therefore rely solely and exclusively on the covenant to pay under the Loan Agreement and the credit and financial standing of Alfa-Bank. Noteholders shall have no recourse (direct or indirect) to any other assets of the Issuer. The Issuer has charged by way of first fixed charge in favour of the Trustee for the benefit of the Trustee and the Noteholders certain of its rights and interests as lender under the Loan Agreement (other than any rights and benefits constituting Reserved Rights) as security for its payment obligations in respect of the Notes and under the Trust Deed (the “Charge”) and has assigned absolutely certain other rights under the Loan Agreement to the Trustee (together with the Charge, the “Security Interests”). “Reserved Rights” are the rights excluded from the Charge, being all and any rights, interests and benefits of the Issuer in respect of the obligations of Alfa-Bank (i) in respect of a Senior Series, under Clauses 3.2 (Facility Fee), 3.3 (Disbursement), 5.3 (Prepayment in the event of illegality) (other than the right to receive any amount payable under such Clause), 6.2 (No Set-off or Counterclaim), 7.1 (Additional Amounts) (to the extent that the Issuer has received from Alfa-Bank the corresponding amount in respect of Russian Federation taxes, penalties or interest), 7.2 (Tax Indemnity) (to the extent that the Issuer has received from Alfa-Bank the corresponding amount to which the Noteholders are not entitled), 7.3 (Tax Credits and Refunds), 7.4 (Tax Treaty Relief), 9 (Change in Law; Increase in Cost), 12.4 (Indemnification) (only to the extent that the Issuer has received amounts to which the Noteholders are not entitled), 12.5 (Independent Obligation), 12.6 (Evidence of Loss), 12.7 (Currency Indemnity) (only to the extent the Issuer has received from Alfa-Bank the corresponding amount to which the Noteholders are not entitled), 13 (Survival), 15.1 (Lender’s Ongoing Costs) and 15.2 (Lender’s Costs) of the Facility Agreement and (ii) in respect of a Subordinated Series, as set out in the relevant Subordinated Loan Agreement.

In certain circumstances, the Trustee can (subject to it being indemnified and/or secured and/or prefunded to its satisfaction) be required by Noteholders holding at least one quarter of the principal amount of the Notes outstanding or by an Extraordinary Resolution (as defined in the Trust Deed) of the Noteholders to exercise certain of its powers under the Trust Deed (including those arising under the Security Interests).

The Notes have the benefit of, and payments in respect of the Notes will be made (subject to the receipt of the relevant funds from Alfa-Bank) pursuant to, a paying agency agreement (the “Agency Agreement”) dated 17 April 2013 and made between the Issuer, Alfa-Bank, the Trustee and the Agents named therein. The Bank of New York Mellon, London Branch will act as principal paying agent (the “Principal Paying Agent” and a “Paying Agent”), a transfer agent (a “Transfer Agent”) and calculation agent (the “Calculation Agent”). The Bank of New York Mellon, New York Branch will act as U.S. paying agent (the “U.S. Paying Agent”) and a transfer agent (a “Transfer Agent”). The Bank of New York Mellon SA/NV, Luxembourg Branch will act as the Regulation S registrar in respect of the Regulation S Notes and the Rule 144A registrar in respect of the Rule 144A Notes (the “Registrar”). References herein to the “Agents” are to the Registrar, the Principal Paying Agent, the U.S. Paying Agent, any other Paying Agents, the Calculation Agent and the Transfer Agents and any reference to an “Agent” is to any one of them.

Copies of the Trust Deed, the Loan Agreement, the Agency Agreement and the Pricing Supplement (or the Series Listing Particulars, as the case may be) are available for inspection by Noteholders during normal business hours at the principal office of the Trustee being, at the date hereof, at the specified office of the Principal Paying Agent and at the registered office of the Issuer.

Certain provisions of these Conditions include summaries or restatements of, and are subject to, the detailed provisions of the Trust Deed, the Pricing Supplement (or the Series Listing Particulars, as the case may be), the Loan Agreement (the form of which is scheduled to and incorporated in the Trust Deed) and the Agency Agreement. Noteholders are entitled to the benefit of, are bound by, and are deemed to have notice of, all the provisions thereof.

1. Status

The sole purpose of the issue of the Notes is to provide the funds for the Issuer to finance the Loan. The Notes constitute the obligation of the Issuer to apply the proceeds from the issue of the Notes solely for financing the Loan and to account to the Noteholders for an amount equivalent to sums of principal, interest and additional amounts (if any) actually received by or for the account of the Issuer pursuant to the Loan Agreement, less any amount in respect of Reserved Rights.

The Trust Deed provides that, notwithstanding any other provision thereof, payments in respect of the Notes equivalent to the sums actually received by or for the account of the Issuer by way of principal, interest or additional amounts (if any) pursuant to the Loan Agreement, less any amounts in respect of the Reserved Rights, will be made pro rata among all Noteholders, on the date of, and in the currency of, and subject to the conditions attaching to, the equivalent payment pursuant to the Loan Agreement. The Issuer shall not be liable to make any payment in respect of the Notes other than as expressly provided herein and in the Trust Deed. As provided therein, neither the Issuer nor the Trustee shall be under any obligation to exercise in favour of the Noteholders any rights of set-off or of banker’s lien or to combine accounts or counterclaim that may arise out of other transactions between the Issuer and Alfa-Bank.

Noteholders have notice of, and have accepted, these Conditions, the Pricing Supplement (or the Series Listing Particulars, as the case may be) and the contents of the Trust Deed, the Agency Agreement and the Loan Agreement. It is hereby expressly provided that, and Noteholders are deemed to have accepted that:

- 1.1 neither the Issuer nor the Trustee makes any representation or warranty in respect of, or shall at any time have any responsibility for, or, save as otherwise expressly provided in the Trust Deed or in paragraph 1.6 below, liability or obligation in respect of the performance and observance by Alfa-Bank of its obligations under the Loan Agreement or the recoverability of any sum of principal or interest (or any additional amounts) due or to become due from Alfa-Bank under the Loan Agreement;
- 1.2 neither the Issuer nor the Trustee shall at any time have any responsibility for, or obligation or liability in respect of, the condition (financial or otherwise), creditworthiness, affairs, status, nature or prospects of Alfa-Bank;
- 1.3 neither the Issuer nor the Trustee shall at any time be liable for any representation or warranty or any act, default or omission of Alfa-Bank under or in respect of the Loan Agreement;
- 1.4 neither the Issuer nor the Trustee shall at any time have any responsibility for, or liability or obligation in respect of, the performance and observance by the Principal Paying Agent, any of the Paying Agents, the Registrar or the Transfer Agents, of their respective obligations under the Agency Agreement;

- 1.5 the financial servicing and performance of the terms and conditions of the Notes depend solely and exclusively upon performance by Alfa-Bank of its obligations under the Loan Agreement and its covenant to make payments under the Loan Agreement and its credit and financial standing. Alfa-Bank has represented and warranted to the Issuer in the Loan Agreement that the Loan Agreement constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of Alfa-Bank;
- 1.6 the Issuer and the Trustee shall be entitled to rely on certificates signed by two duly authorised officers of Alfa-Bank (and, where applicable, certification by third parties) as a means of monitoring whether Alfa-Bank is complying with its obligations under the Loan Agreement and identifying Material Subsidiaries and shall not otherwise be responsible for investigating any aspect of Alfa-Bank's performance in relation thereto and, subject as further provided in the Trust Deed, the Trustee will not be liable for any failure to make the usual or any investigations which might be made by a security holder in relation to the property which is the subject of the Trust Deed and held by way of security for the Notes, and shall not be bound to enquire into or be liable for any defect or failure in the right or title of the Issuer to the assigned property which is subject to the Security Interests whether such defect or failure was known to the Trustee or might have been discovered upon examination or enquiry or whether capable of remedy or not, nor will it have any liability for the enforceability of the security created by the Security Interests whether as a result of any failure, omission or defect in registering or filing or otherwise protecting or perfecting such security and the Trustee has no responsibility for the value of such security;
- 1.7 neither the Trustee nor the Issuer shall at any time be required to expend or risk its own funds or otherwise incur any financial liability in the performance of its obligations or duties or the exercise of any right, power, authority or discretion pursuant to these Conditions until the Issuer or the Trustee, as the case may be, has received from Alfa-Bank the funds or adequate indemnity against, and/or security and/or prefunding that are necessary to cover the costs and expenses in connection with such performance or exercise, or has been (in its sole discretion) sufficiently assured that it will receive such funds; and
- 1.8 the Issuer will not be liable for any shortfall in respect of amounts payable by or resulting from any withholding or deduction or for any payment on account of tax or duties required to be made by the Issuer on or in relation to any sum received by it under the Loan Agreement which will or may affect payments made or to be made by Alfa-Bank under the Loan Agreement, save to the extent that it has received additional amounts under the Loan Agreement in respect of such withholding or deduction or payment, and the Issuer shall, furthermore, not be obliged to take any actions or measures as regards such deduction or withholding or payment, other than those set out in the Loan Agreement. The Trustee shall have no liability for any such shortfall in respect of any such deduction, withholding or payment.

The obligations of the Issuer in respect of the Notes rank pari passu and rateably without any preference among themselves.

In respect of a Note issued under a Subordinated Series (as defined in the Trust Deed) only, the claims of the Issuer under the Loan Agreement, excluding the Reserved Rights, constitute the direct, unconditional and unsecured subordinated obligations of Alfa-Bank and will rank at least equally with all other unsecured and subordinated obligations of Alfa-Bank (whether actual or contingent) as more fully set out in the relevant Subordinated Loan Agreement.

In the event that the payments under the Loan Agreement are made by Alfa-Bank to, or to the order of, the Trustee or (subject to the provisions of the Trust Deed) the Principal Paying Agent, they will pro tanto satisfy the obligations of the Issuer in respect of the Notes except to the extent there is failure in its subsequent payment to the Noteholders.

Save as otherwise expressly provided herein and in the Trust Deed, no proprietary or other direct interest in the Issuer's right under or in respect of the Loan Agreement or the Loan exists for the benefit of the Noteholders. Subject to the terms of the Trust Deed, no Noteholder will have any entitlement to enforce the Loan Agreement or direct recourse to Alfa-Bank except through action by the Trustee pursuant to the relevant Security Interests granted to the Trustee in the Trust Deed. Neither the Issuer nor, following the enforcement of the Security Interests created in the Trust Deed, the Trustee shall be required to take any step, action or proceedings to enforce payment under the Loan Agreement unless it has been indemnified and/or secured and/or prefunded by the Noteholders to its satisfaction.

The obligations of the Issuer under the Notes shall be solely to make payments of amounts in aggregate equivalent to each sum actually received by or for the account of the Issuer (after deduction or withholding of such taxes or duties as may be required to be made by the Issuer by law in respect of such sum or in respect of the Notes and for which the Issuer has not received a corresponding payment (also after deduction or withholding of such taxes or duties as may be required to be made by the Issuer in respect thereof) pursuant to the Loan Agreement) from Alfa-Bank in respect of principal, interest or, as the case may be, other amounts relating to the Loan (less any amounts in respect of the Reserved Rights), the right to receive which will, inter alia, be assigned to the Trustee as security for the Issuer's payment obligations in respect of the Notes. Accordingly, all payments to be made by the Issuer under the Notes will be made only from and to the extent of such sums received or recovered by or on behalf of the Issuer or the Trustee. Noteholders shall look solely to such sums for payments to be made by the Issuer under the Notes, the obligation of the Issuer to make payments in respect of the Notes will be limited to such sums and Noteholders will have no further recourse to the Issuer or any of the Issuer's other assets (including the Issuer's rights with respect to any Loan relating to any other Series of Notes) in respect thereof. In the event that the amount due and payable by the Issuer under the Notes exceeds the sums so received or recovered, the right of any person to claim payment of any amount exceeding such sums shall be extinguished, and Noteholders may take no further action to recover such amounts.

Noteholders must therefore rely solely and exclusively upon the covenant to pay under the Loan Agreement and the credit and financial standing of Alfa-Bank and no other assets of the Issuer will be available to the Noteholders.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of these Conditions and the provisions in the Trust Deed, the Trustee and the Noteholders shall have recourse only to the Charged Property and the Assigned Rights (each as defined in the Trust Deed) in accordance with the provisions of the Trust Deed. After realisation of the security which has become enforceable and application of the proceeds in accordance with clause 8 of the Trust Deed, the obligations of the Issuer with respect to the Trustee and the Noteholders in respect of the Notes shall be satisfied and none of the foregoing parties may take any further steps against the Issuer to recover any further sums in respect thereof and the right to receive any such sums shall be extinguished.

None of the Noteholders or the other creditors (nor any other person acting on behalf of any of them) shall be entitled at any time to institute against the Issuer, or join in any institution against the Issuer of, any bankruptcy, administration, moratorium, reorganisation, controlled management, arrangement, insolvency, examinership, winding-up or liquidation proceedings or similar insolvency proceedings under any applicable bankruptcy or similar law in connection with any obligation of the Issuer relating to the Notes or otherwise owed to the creditors, save for lodging a claim in the liquidation of the Issuer which is initiated by another party or taking proceedings to obtain a declaration or judgment as to the obligations of the Issuer.

No Noteholder shall have any recourse against any director, shareholder, or officer of the Issuer in respect of any obligations, covenants or agreements entered into or made by the Issuer in respect of the Notes.

2. Form, Denomination and Title

The Notes will be issued in fully registered form, and in the Specified Denomination shown hereon (the minimum Specified Denomination of any Notes admitted to trading on a regulated market within the European Economic Area or offered to the public in a Member State of the European Economic Area in circumstances which require the publication of a prospectus under Regulation (EU) 2017/1129 shall be $100,000 or its equivalent in any other currency as at the date of issue of the relevant Notes) or higher integral multiples thereof as specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars, without interest coupons, provided that (i) Notes with a maturity of less than 365 days shall be held in amounts not less than $300,000 (or its equivalent in other currencies) and (ii) the Rule 144A Notes will have a minimum Specified Denomination of U.S.$200,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency as at the date of issue of the relevant Rule 144A Notes).

A Note issued under the Principal Trust Deed may be a Fixed Rate Note, a Floating Rate Note, a combination of the foregoing or any other kind of Note, depending upon the Interest and Redemption/Payment Basis specified hereon.

3. Register, Title and Transfers

3.1. Register

The Registrar will maintain a Regulation S register in respect of the Regulation S Notes (“Regulation S Register”) and the Registrar will maintain (outside the United Kingdom) a Rule 144A register in respect of the Rule 144A Notes (the “Rule 144A Register” and together with the Regulation S Register, the “Registers” and each a “Register”) at the specified office for the time being of the Registrar in respect of the Notes in accordance with the provisions of the Agency Agreement and shall record in the relevant Register the names and addresses of the holders of the Notes corresponding to such Register, particulars of the Notes and all transfers and redemptions thereof. In these Conditions, the “holder” of a Note means the person in whose name such Note is for the time being registered in the relevant Register (or, in the case of a joint holding, the first named thereof) and “Noteholder” shall be construed accordingly.

3.2. Title

The holder of each Note shall (except as otherwise required by law) be treated as the absolute owner of such Note for all purposes (whether or not it is overdue and regardless of any notice of ownership, trust or any other interest therein, any writing on the Note relating thereto (other than the endorsed form of transfer) or any notice of any previous loss or theft of such Note) and no person shall be liable for so treating such holder.

3.3. Transfers

Subject to Conditions 3.6 and 3.7, a Note may be transferred upon surrender of the relevant Note, with the endorsed form of transfer duly completed, at the specified office of the Registrar or at the specified office of a Transfer Agent, together with such evidence as the Registrar or such Transfer Agent may reasonably require to prove the title of the transferor and the authority of the individuals who have executed the form of transfer provided, however, that a Note may not be transferred unless the principal amount of Notes transferred and (where not all of the Notes held by a Holder are being transferred) the principal amount of the balance of Notes not transferred are not less than the minimum Specified Denomination (if any). Where not all the Notes represented by the surrendered Note are the subject of the transfer, a new Note in respect of the balance of the Notes will be issued to the transferor.

3.4. Registration and Delivery of Notes

Within five Business Days of the surrender of a Note in accordance with Condition 3.3, the Registrar shall register the transfer in question and deliver a new Note to each relevant holder for collection at its specified office or (at the request and risk of such relevant holder) by uninsured first class mail (airmail if overseas) to the address specified for the purpose by such relevant holder. In this paragraph, “Business Day” means a day on which commercial banks are open for business (including dealings in foreign currencies) in the city where the Registrar has its specified office.

3.5. No Charge

The transfer of a Note will be effected without charge but against such indemnity as the Registrar may require in respect of any tax or other duty of whatsoever nature which may be levied or imposed in connection with such transfer.

3.6. Closed Periods

Noteholders may not require transfers to be registered during the period of 15 days ending on the due date for any payment of principal or interest in respect of the Notes.

3.7. Regulations Concerning Transfers and Registration

All transfers of Notes and entries on the relevant Register or Registers, as the case may be, are subject to the detailed regulations concerning the transfer of Notes scheduled to the Agency Agreement. The regulations may be changed by the Lender with the prior written approval of the Trustee and the Registrar. A copy of the current regulations will be mailed (free of charge) by the Registrar to any Noteholder who requests in writing a copy of such regulations.

4. Restrictive Covenants

As provided in the Trust Deed, so long as any of the Notes remains outstanding (as defined in the Trust Deed), the Issuer will not, without the prior written consent of the Trustee, agree to any amendments to or any modification of (in each preceding case, in respect of a Note issued under a Subordinated Series only, with the consent of the Central Bank of Russia, if applicable (the “CBR”)) or waiver of, or authorise any breach or proposed breach of, the terms of the Trust Deed or the Loan Agreement and will act at all times in accordance with any instructions of the Trustee from time to time with respect to the Loan Agreement, except as otherwise expressly provided in the Loan Agreement. Any such amendment, modification, waiver or authorisation made with the consent of the Trustee shall be binding on the Noteholders and any such amendment or modification shall be notified by the Issuer to the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14.

Save as provided above, so long as any Note remains outstanding, the Issuer, without the prior written consent of the Trustee, shall not, inter alia, incur any other indebtedness for borrowed moneys (other than issuing further Notes (which may be consolidated and form a single series with Notes of any Series) and/or creating or incurring further obligations relating to such Notes and issues of notes on a limited recourse basis for the sole purpose of making loans to Alfa-Bank), engage in any business (other than entering into the Programme and issuing Notes thereunder or on a standalone basis from time to time for the sole purpose of financing Loans to Alfa-Bank in accordance with the Facility Agreement and each Loan Supplement, entering into related agreements and transactions (including derivatives on a limited recourse basis) and performing any act incidental or necessary in connection with any of the foregoing) declare any dividends, have any subsidiaries or employees, purchase, own, lease or otherwise acquire any real property (including office premises or like facilities), consolidate or merge with any other person or convey or transfer its properties or assets substantially as an entity to any person (otherwise than as contemplated in these Conditions and the Trust Deed), issue any shares (other than those in issue at the date of the Principal Trust Deed), give any guarantee or assume any other liability, or subject to the laws of Ireland, petition for any winding-up or bankruptcy.

5. Interest

5.1. Interest on Fixed Rate Notes

Each Fixed Rate Note bears interest on its outstanding principal amount from (but excluding) the Interest Commencement Date at the rate(s) per annum (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Rate(s) of Interest specified hereon which shall be equal to the rate per annum at which interest under the relevant Loan accrues. Accordingly, on each Interest Payment Date or as soon thereafter as the same is received by the Issuer, the Issuer shall account to the Noteholders for an amount equivalent to amounts of interest actually received by or for the account of the Issuer pursuant to the relevant Loan Agreement.

If a Fixed Coupon Amount is specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars, the amount of interest per Calculation Amount payable on each Interest Payment Date shall be an amount equal to the Fixed Coupon Amount, provided that if a Broken Amount is specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars as being payable on any Interest Payment Date, the amount of interest per Calculation Amount payable on such Interest Payment Date shall be an amount equal to the Broken Amount. If no Fixed Coupon Amount or Broken Amount is specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars, the amount of interest payable shall be determined in accordance with Condition 5.4.

5.2. Interest on Floating Rate Notes

- (i) Interest Payment Dates: Each Floating Rate Note bears interest on its outstanding principal amount from (but excluding) the Interest Commencement Date at the rate per annum (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Rate of Interest specified hereon, which shall be equal to the rate per annum at which interest under the Loan accrues, such interest being payable in arrear on each Interest Payment Date. Such Interest Payment Date(s) is/are either shown hereon as Specified Interest Payment Dates or, if no Specified Interest Payment Date(s) is/are shown hereon, Interest Payment Date shall mean each date which falls the number of months or other period shown hereon as the Interest Period after the preceding Interest Payment Date or, in the case of the first Interest Payment Date, after the Interest Commencement Date. Accordingly, on each such date, or as soon thereafter as the same shall be received by the Issuer, the Issuer shall account to the Noteholders for an amount equivalent to amounts of interest under the Loan received by or for the account of the Issuer pursuant to the Loan Agreement.
- (ii) Business Day Convention: If any date referred to in these Conditions that is specified to be subject to adjustment in accordance with a Business Day Convention would otherwise fall on a day that is not a Business Day, then, if the Business Day Convention specified is (A) the Floating Rate Business Day Convention, such date shall be postponed to the next day that is a Business Day unless it would thereby fall into the next calendar month, in which event (x) such date shall be brought forward to the immediately preceding Business Day and (y) each subsequent such date shall be the last Business Day of the month in which such date would have fallen had it not been subject to adjustment, (B) the Following Business Day Convention, such date shall be postponed to the next day that is a Business Day, (C) the Modified Following Business Day Convention, such date shall be postponed to the next day that is a Business Day unless it would thereby fall into the next calendar month, in which event such date shall be brought forward to the immediately preceding Business Day or (D) the Preceding Business Day Convention, such date shall be brought forward to the immediately preceding Business Day.

- (iii) Rate of Interest for Floating Rate Notes: The Rate of Interest in respect of Floating Rate Notes for each Interest Accrual Period (as defined in the Loan Agreement) shall be determined in the manner specified hereon and as set out in the Loan Agreement.

5.3. Accrual of Interest

Interest shall accrue on each Note up to, and including, the due date for redemption or prepayment in the manner provided in these Conditions unless, upon due presentation, payment is improperly withheld or refused, in which event interest shall continue to accrue (both before and after judgment) at the Rate of Interest in the manner provided in this Condition 5 to the Relevant Date (as defined in Condition 8).

5.4. Calculations

The amount of interest payable per Calculation Amount in respect of any Note for any Interest Accrual Period shall be equal to the product of the Rate of Interest, the Calculation Amount specified hereon and the Day Count Fraction for such Interest Accrual Period as specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement (or the Series Listing Particulars, as the case may be) and in the Loan Agreement, unless an Interest Amount (or a formula for its calculation) is applicable to such Interest Accrual Period, in which case the amount of interest payable per Calculation Amount in respect of such Note for such Interest Accrual Period shall equal such Interest Amount (or be calculated in accordance with such formula). Where any Interest Period comprises two or more Interest Accrual Periods, the amount of interest payable per Calculation Amount in respect of such Interest Period shall be the sum of the Interest Amounts payable in respect of each of those Interest Accrual Periods. In respect of any other period for which interest is required to be calculated, the provisions above shall apply save that the Day Count Fraction shall be for the period for which interest is required to be calculated.

5.5. Publication of Rates of Interest and Interest Amounts

As soon as practicable after calculating or determining the Rate of Interest and the Interest Amounts for each Interest Period and the relevant Interest Payment Date as set out in the Loan Agreement, the Calculation Agent shall cause such Rate of Interest and Interest Amounts to be notified to the Trustee, the Issuer, Alfa-Bank, each of the Paying Agents, the Noteholders, any other Calculation Agent appointed in respect of the Notes that is to make a further calculation upon receipt of such information and, if the Notes are listed and/or admitted to trading on a stock exchange and the rules of such exchange or other relevant authority so require, such exchange or other relevant authority as soon as possible after their determination, but in no event later than (i) the commencement of the relevant Interest Period, if determined prior to such time, in the case of notification to such exchange of a Rate of Interest and Interest Amount, or (ii) in all other cases, the fourth Business Day after such determination. Where any Interest Payment Date or Interest Period Date is subject to adjustment pursuant to Condition 5.2(ii), the Interest Amounts and the Interest Payment Date so published may subsequently be amended (or appropriate alternative arrangements made with the consent of the Trustee by way of adjustment) without notice in the event of an extension or shortening of the Interest Period. If a Loan becomes due and payable under Clause 11 of the Facility Agreement (in so far as it forms part of the relevant Loan Agreement), the accrued interest and the Rate of Interest payable in respect of the Notes shall nevertheless continue to be calculated as previously in accordance with this Condition but no publication of the Rate of Interest or the Interest Amount so calculated need be made unless the Trustee otherwise requires. The determination of any rate or amount, the obtaining of each quotation and the making of each determination or calculation by the Calculation Agent(s) shall (in the absence of manifest error) be final and binding upon all parties.

5.6. Determination or Calculation by Trustee

If the Calculation Agent does not at any time for any reason determine or calculate the Rate of Interest for an Interest Period or any Interest Amount pursuant to the Loan Agreement, the Trustee, subject to its being indemnified and/or secured and/or prefunded to its satisfaction, shall do so (or shall appoint an agent on its behalf to do so) and such determination or calculation shall be deemed to have been made by the Calculation Agent. In doing so, the Trustee shall apply the foregoing provisions of this Condition, with any necessary consequential amendments, to the extent that, in its opinion, it can do so, and, in all other respects it shall do so in such manner as it shall deem fair and reasonable in all the circumstances.

6. Redemption

6.1. Scheduled redemption

Unless the Loan is previously prepaid or repaid pursuant to Clause 5.2, 5.3 or 5.4 of the Facility Agreement in the case of a Senior Series of Notes, or pursuant to the terms of the relevant Subordinated Loan Agreement, in the case of a Subordinated Series of Notes, Alfa-Bank will be required to repay the Loan one Business Day (as defined in the Loan Agreement) before its Repayment Date (as defined in the Loan Agreement) and, subject to such repayment, as set forth in the Loan Agreement, all the Notes then remaining outstanding will be redeemed or repaid by the Issuer in the relevant Specified Currency on the Maturity Date specified hereon at their Final Redemption Amount (which, unless otherwise specified hereon, is 100 per cent. of the principal amount thereof).

6.2. Early redemption

If the Loan should become repayable in full (and be repaid in full) or be prepaid pursuant to the Loan Agreement prior to its scheduled repayment date, all Notes then remaining outstanding will thereupon become due and redeemable or repayable at their Early Redemption Amount (which, unless otherwise specified hereon is par together with interest accrued to the date of redemption) and the Issuer will endeavour to give not less than fifteen nor more than thirty days' notice thereof to the Trustee and the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14.

To the extent that the Issuer receives amounts of principal, interest and/or additional amounts, if any, (other than amounts in respect of the Reserved Rights) following acceleration of the Loan pursuant to Clause 11 of the Facility Agreement (in so far as it forms part of the Loan Agreement), the Issuer shall pay an amount equal to and in the same currency as such amounts on the Business Day following receipt of such amounts, subject as provided in Condition 7, on a pro rata basis to the Noteholders.

6.3. Cancellation

Alfa Bank, ABH Financial or any Subsidiary of Alfa Bank or ABH Financial, as the case may be, may from time to time, in accordance with the Facility Agreement, purchase Notes in the open market or by tender or by a private agreement at any price and, at any time after the third anniversary of the relevant Issue Date, deliver to the Issuer Notes, having an aggregate principal value of at least U.S.$1,000,000 (or its equivalent in a Specified Currency), together with a request for the Issuer to present such Notes to the relevant Registrar for cancellation, and may also at any time after the third anniversary of the relevant Issue Date procure the delivery to the relevant Registrar of the relevant Global Notes with instructions to cancel a specified aggregate principal amount of Notes (being at least U.S.$1,000,000 or its equivalent in a Specified Currency) represented thereby (which instructions shall be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to the relevant Registrar that Alfa Bank or ABH Financial or any Subsidiary of Alfa Bank or ABH Financial, as the case may be, is entitled to give such instructions), whereupon the Issuer shall, pursuant to Clause 9.1 of the Agency Agreement, request the relevant Registrar to cancel such Notes (or specified aggregate principal amount of Notes represented by the relevant Global Notes). Upon any such cancellation by or on behalf of the relevant Registrar, the principal amount of the Loan corresponding to the principal amount of such Notes shall be deemed to be prepaid for all purposes as of the date of such cancellation and no further payment shall be made or required to be made by Alfa Bank in respect of such amounts.

This Condition 6.3 will only apply to Notes issued under a Subordinated Series to the extent specified to be applicable in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars.

6.4. Compulsory Sale

The Issuer may compel any beneficial owner of an interest in the Rule 144A Notes to sell its interest in such Notes, or may sell such interest on behalf of such holder, if such holder is a U.S. person that is not a qualified institutional buyer (as defined in Rule 144A under the Securities Act) and a qualified purchaser (as defined in Section 2(a)(51) of the U.S. Investment Company Act of 1940).

7. Payments, Agents and Currency Exchange Option

7.1. Principal

Payments of principal shall be made against presentation and surrender of the relevant Notes at the specified office of the Principal Paying Agent or at the specified office of any Transfer Agent or the Registrar and in the manner provided in the Condition below.

7.2. Interest

Interest shall be paid to the person shown on the relevant Register at the opening of business on the fifteenth day before the due date for payment thereof (the “Record Date”). Payments of interest shall be made in the Specified Currency by transfer to an account in the relevant currency maintained by the payee with a bank in the principal financial centre for the Specified Currency or, in the case of euro, in a city in which banks have access to the Trans-European Automated Real-Time Gross Settlement Express Transfer (TARGET) System or any successor thereof (a “Bank”), or by transfer to an account in the Specified Currency maintained by the payee with, a Bank in the principal financial centre of such Specified Currency or in the case of euro, a Bank specified by the payee or at the option of the payee, by a euro-cheque and (in the case of interest payable on redemption) upon surrender of the relevant Notes at the specified office of the Principal Paying Agent or at the specified office of any Transfer Agent.

7.3. Payments subject to fiscal laws

Payments will be subject in all cases to (i) any applicable fiscal or other laws and regulations applicable thereto in any jurisdiction, but without prejudice to the provisions of Condition 8, and (ii) any withholding or deduction required pursuant to an agreement described in Section 1471(b) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (the “Code”) or otherwise imposed pursuant to Sections 1471 through 1474 of the Code, any regulations or agreements thereunder, official interpretations thereof, or any law implementing an intergovernmental approach thereto.

7.4. Payments on Business Days

If the due date for payments of interest or principal is not a Business Day, a Noteholder shall not be entitled to payment of the amount due until the next following Business Day and shall not be entitled to any further interest or other payment in respect of any such delay. In this paragraph, “Business Day” means a day (other than a Saturday or a Sunday) on which banks and foreign exchange markets are open for business in the relevant place of presentation, in such jurisdictions as shall be specified as “Financial Centres” hereon, and (i) (in the case of a payment in a currency other than euro) where payment is to be made by transfer to an account maintained with a bank in the relevant currency, on which foreign exchange transactions may be carried on in the relevant currency in the principal financial centre of the country of such currency or (ii) (in the case of a payment in euro) which is a TARGET Business Day.

7.5. Accrued Interest

The names of the initial Paying Agents and their initial specified offices are set out below. The Agency Agreement provides that the Issuer may at any time, with the prior written approval of the Trustee, vary or terminate the appointment of the Principal Paying Agent or any of the Paying Agents, and appoint additional or other paying agents provided that (i) so long as the Notes are listed and/or admitted to trading on any stock exchange or admitted to listing by any other relevant authority, there will be a Paying Agent and Transfer Agent with a specified office in such place as may be required by the rules and regulations of the relevant stock exchange or other relevant authority and (ii) there will be a Paying Agent with a specified office in a European Union member state that will not be obliged to withhold or deduct tax pursuant to any European Union Directive or any law implementing the conclusions of the ECOFIN Council meeting of 26–27 November 2000 or otherwise. Any such variation, termination or appointment shall only take effect (other than in the case of insolvency, when it shall be of immediate effect) after not more than 45 days’ and not less than 30 days’ notice thereof shall have been given to the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14.

In addition, if the due date for redemption or repayment of a Note is not an Interest Payment Date, interest accrued from (but excluding) the preceding Interest Payment Date or, as the case may be, from (but excluding) the Issue Date as specified hereon shall be payable only as and when actually received by or for the account of the Issuer pursuant to the Loan Agreement.

7.6. Payments by Alfa-Bank

Save as otherwise directed by the Trustee at any time after any of the Security Interests created in the Trust Deed becomes enforceable, the Issuer will, pursuant to Clauses 6 and 7 of the Agency Agreement, require Alfa-Bank to make all payments of principal and interest and any additional amounts to be made pursuant to the Loan Agreement to the Principal Paying Agent to an account in the name of the Issuer (the “Account”). Under the Charge, the Issuer will charge by way of first fixed charge all the rights, title and interest in and to all sums of money then or in the future deposited in the Account in favour of the Trustee for the benefit of the Trustee and Noteholders.

7.7. Currency Exchange Option

If Currency Exchange Option is specified in the Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars as being applicable in respect of Notes of which the Specified Currency is Russian Roubles (such Notes being “Russian Rouble Notes”) then Noteholders may, no later than the tenth Business Day (which has the meaning given to such term in Condition 7.4) before the due date for any payment of interest or principal, give an irrevocable notice of election (a “U.S. Dollar Noteholder Election”) to the Principal Paying Agent to receive such payment of interest or principal, as the case may be, in U.S. Dollars. Upon any such election in accordance with the foregoing, such interest or principal will be converted into U.S. Dollars by the Principal Paying Agent pursuant to this Condition 7.7.

For so long as any Russian Rouble Notes are represented by a Regulation S Global Note, payments of principal and interest in respect of such Russian Rouble Notes will be made or procured to be made in accordance with Clause 8.1 of the Agency Agreement pursuant to which any accountholder of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg may on or before the tenth Business Day prior to the Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date give an irrevocable election to the Principal Paying Agent to receive such payment of interest or principal, as the case may be, in U.S. Dollars through the notification procedures of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg.

For so long as any Russian Rouble Notes are represented by a Rule 144A Global Note, payments of principal and interest in respect of such Russian Rouble Notes will be made or procured to be made in accordance with Clause 8.1 of the Agency Agreement pursuant to which any participant shown in any records of DTC (a “DTC Participant”) as holder of the Notes will receive payments in respect of such Russian Rouble Notes (i) in Russian Roubles, in the case of a DTC Participant who has irrevocably elected to receive payments on the Russian Rouble Notes in Russian Roubles and has so notified DTC and the Principal Paying Agent on or prior to the time required by DTC for payments on the Russian Rouble Notes to be made in Russian Roubles, by transfer of same day funds to the Russian Rouble bank account designated by such DTC Participant, and (ii) in U.S. Dollars, in the case of all other DTC Participants, by the U.S. Paying Agent crediting the DTC Participant’s U.S. Dollar account at DTC with the DTC Participant’s pro rata portion of the U.S. Dollars purchased with the applicable Exchange Amount (as defined below) by the Principal Paying Agent pursuant to the Agency Agreement. To the extent the Principal Paying Agent receives notification from or on behalf of the DTC Participants of their election to receive Russian Roubles in accordance with the Conditions and the Rule 144A Global Note, the Principal Paying Agent shall arrange for payment in accordance with the wire instructions received from such DTC Participant.

Following receipt of the Exchange Amount, the Principal Paying Agent shall, on or before 12.30 p.m. (London time) on the Business Day prior to each Interest Payment Date or any Repayment Date, as the case may be, (the “Exchange Date”), purchase U.S. Dollars (the “U.S. Dollar Amount”) with the Exchange Amount (as defined below) at a purchase price calculated on the basis of the Applicable Exchange Rate (as defined below) for settlement on the relevant Interest Payment Date or any Repayment Date, as the case may be less any fees, including any spread on foreign exchange transactions, customarily charged by the Principal Paying Agent in connection with such conversion of the Exchange Amount.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Condition 7, if the Russian Rouble Notes are represented by Definitive Notes and for any reason on the Exchange Date it is not possible for the Principal Paying Agent to purchase the U.S. Dollar Amount with the Exchange Amount at the Applicable Exchange Rate, the Principal Paying Agent shall notify the Issuer who shall notify the relevant Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14 and the Paying Agents shall make payments on the Russian Rouble Notes in Russian Roubles into a Russian Rouble account maintained by the payee.

If the Russian Rouble Notes are represented by a Regulation S Global Note and for any reason on the Exchange Date it is not possible for the Principal Paying Agent to purchase the U.S. Dollar Amount with the Exchange Amount at the Applicable Exchange Rate, the Principal Paying Agent shall make payments on the Russian Rouble Notes in Russian Roubles to all Noteholders through the facilities of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg.

If the Russian Rouble Notes are represented by a Rule 144A Global Note and for any reason on the Exchange Date it is not possible for the Principal Paying Agent to purchase the U.S. Dollar Amount with the Exchange Amount at the Applicable Exchange Rate, the Principal Paying Agent will hold the Exchange Amount until the relevant DTC Participants make alternative arrangements for receipt of payment in Russian Roubles.

As used in this Condition 7.7:

“Applicable Exchange Rate” means the internal foreign exchange conversion rate for settlement, as determined by the Principal Paying Agent, on or before 12.30 p.m. (London time) on the Business Day prior to the relevant Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, as the case may be, following receipt by the Principal Paying Agent of the Exchange Amount which the Principal Paying Agent acting in a commercially reasonable manner uses to convert Russian Roubles into U.S. Dollars at the request of its other customers; and “Exchange Amount” means, in respect of each Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, as the case may be, the amount in Russian Roubles in aggregate equivalent to the portion of such interest and/or principal in respect of the Russian Rouble Notes due on the relevant Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, as the case may be, which is payable to the holders of such (if any) which have given an irrevocable election pursuant to this Condition 7.7 to receive payment of such interest and/or principal in U.S. Dollars. The relevant Registrar shall on the fifth Business Day prior to the Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, as the case may be, notify the Principal Paying Agent of the Exchange Amount.

In respect of any Currency Exchange Option, on the Business Day prior to the Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, the Principal Paying Agent shall notify the Issuer who shall give due notice to the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14 of (a) the Exchange Amount and the U.S. Dollar Amount applicable to such Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, as the case may be, (b) the Applicable Exchange Rate at which such U.S. Dollar Amount was purchased by the Principal Paying Agent and (c) if applicable, whether such U.S. Dollars were purchased from either the Principal Paying Agent or from another leading foreign exchange bank in London or New York City.

For the purposes of this Condition 7.7, none of the Principal Paying Agent, the Issuer and Alfa-Bank shall be liable to any Noteholder or any other party for any losses whatsoever resulting from application by the Principal Paying Agent of the Applicable Exchange Rate.

The Principal Paying Agent may rely conclusively on the basis on which its internal foreign exchange conversion rate (including, for avoidance of doubt, any third party indexes forming the basis for such conversation rates) for settlement has been determined and shall not be liable for losses associated with the basis for determination of such rate. The Principal Paying Agent may retain for its own account any fees, including any spread on foreign exchange transactions, customarily charged by it in connection with such conversion.

The Principal Paying Agent shall be entitled to rely on without further investigation or enquiry any notification or irrevocable instructions received by it pursuant to this Condition 7 and shall not be liable to any party for any losses whatsoever resulting from acting in accordance with such notifications even though subsequent to its acting it may be found that there was some defect in the notification or the notification was not authentic.

Any foreign exchange transaction effected by the Principal Paying Agent will generally be a transaction to buy or sell currency between the Issuer and either the Principal Paying Agent or its affiliate. The Principal Paying Agent or its affiliate will trade the foreign exchange transaction as a principal for its own account, and not as an agent, fiduciary, or broker on behalf of the Issuer. In certain circumstances, the foreign exchange transaction may be transmitted to a sub-custodian. In such cases, the Principal Paying Agent, or its affiliate may not be the foreign exchange counterparty and the foreign exchange transaction may not be processed and priced as described herein. In forwarding certain foreign exchange transactions to the sub-custodian or affiliate for execution, the Principal Paying Agent does not serve as agent, fiduciary, or broker on behalf of the Issuer.

8. Taxation

All payments in respect of the Notes by or on behalf of the Issuer will be made without deduction or withholding for or on account of any present or future taxes, duties or assessments or governmental charges of whatever nature imposed, levied, collected, withheld or assessed by or on behalf of Ireland or any political subdivision or any authority thereof or therein having the power to tax, unless the deduction or withholding of such taxes or duties is required by law.

In such event, the Issuer shall make such additional payments (“additional amounts”) as shall result in the receipt by the Noteholders of such amount as would have been received by them if no such withholding or deduction had been required but only to the extent and only at such time as the Issuer receives an equivalent amount from Alfa-Bank under the Loan Agreement. To the extent that the Issuer receives a lesser additional amount from Alfa-Bank, the Issuer will account to each Noteholder for an additional amount equivalent to a pro rata proportion of such additional amount (if any) as is actually received by, or for the account of, the Issuer pursuant to the Loan Agreement on the date of, in the currency of, and subject to any conditions attaching to the payment of such additional amount to the Issuer, provided that no such additional amount will be payable in respect of any Note:

- 8.1. to a Noteholder who (a) is able to avoid such deduction or withholding by satisfying any statutory requirements or by making a declaration of non-residence or other claim for exemption to the relevant tax authority; or (b) is liable for such taxes or duties by reason of his having some connection with Ireland other than the mere holding of such Note or the receipt of payments in respect thereof;
- 8.2. presented for payment of principal more than 30 days after the Relevant Date except to the extent that such additional payment would have been payable if such Note had been presented for payment on such 30th day;
- 8.3. where such withholding or deduction is imposed on a payment to an individual and is required to be made pursuant to any European Union Directive implementing the conclusions of the ECOFIN Council meeting of 26-27 November 2000 on the taxation of savings income or any law implementing or complying with, or introduced in order to conform to, such Directive or otherwise; or
- 8.4. presented for payment by or on behalf of a Noteholder who would have been able to avoid such withholding or deduction by presenting the relevant Note to another Paying Agent in a Member State of the European Union.

As used herein, “Relevant Date” (i) means the date on which any payment under the Loan Agreement first becomes due but (ii) if the full amount payable by Alfa-Bank has not been received by, or for the account of, the Issuer pursuant to the Loan Agreement on or prior to such date, it means the date on which such moneys shall have been so received and notice to that effect shall have been duly given to the Noteholders by or on behalf of the Issuer in accordance with Condition 14.

Any reference herein or in the Trust Deed to payments in respect of the Notes shall be deemed also to refer to any additional amounts which may be payable in accordance with the Trust Deed and this Condition 8 or any undertaking given in addition thereto or in substitution therefor pursuant to the Trust Deed.

9. Enforcement

The Trust Deed provides that only the Trustee may pursue the remedies under the general law, the Trust Deed or the Notes to enforce the rights of the Noteholders and no Noteholder will be entitled to pursue such remedies unless the Trustee (having become bound to do so in accordance with the terms of the Trust Deed) fails to do so within a reasonable time and such failure is continuing.

At any time after the occurrence of an Event of Default (as defined in the Facility Agreement) or of a Relevant Event (as defined in the Trust Deed), but subject, in the case of the Issuer, to the non-petition covenant in Condition 1, the Trustee may, at its discretion, and without notice and shall, if requested to do so by Noteholders holding 25 per cent. in aggregate principal amount of the Notes outstanding, or if directed to do so by an Extraordinary Resolution and, in each case, subject to it being secured and/or indemnified and/or prefunded to its satisfaction, (in the case of an Event of Default in respect of a Note issued under a Senior Series only) declare all amounts payable under the Loan Agreement by Alfa-Bank to be due and payable, (in the case of an Event of Default in respect of a Note issued under a Subordinated Series only) take the action permitted to be taken by the Issuer under the relevant Subordinated Loan Agreement, or (iii) (in the case of a Relevant Event) exercise any rights under the Security Interests created in the Trust Deed in favour of the Trustee. Upon repayment of the Loan following an Event of Default and a declaration as provided herein, the Notes will be redeemed or repaid at their principal amount together with interest accrued to the date fixed for redemption and thereupon shall cease to be outstanding.

10. Meetings of Noteholders; Modification of Notes, Trust Deed and Loan Agreement; Waiver; Substitution of the Issuer; Appointment/Removal of Trustees

10.1. Meetings of Noteholders

The Trust Deed contains provisions for convening meetings of Noteholders to consider any matter affecting their interests, including any modification of, or any arrangement in respect of, the Notes, the Loan Agreement or the Trust Deed. Noteholders will vote pro rata according to the principal amount of their Notes. Special quorum provisions apply for meetings of Noteholders convened for the purpose of amending certain terms concerning, inter alia, the amounts payable on, and the currency of payment in respect of, the Notes and the amounts payable and currency of payment under the Loan Agreement. Any resolution duly passed at a meeting of Noteholders will be binding on all the Noteholders, whether present or not.

10.2. Modification and Waiver

The Trustee may agree, without the consent of the Noteholders, to any modification of the Notes and the Trust Deed or the Loan Agreement which in the sole opinion of the Trustee is (i) of a formal, minor or technical nature or is made to correct a manifest error; or (ii) (save as provided in the Trust Deed) is not materially prejudicial to the interests of the Noteholders (as a class). The Trustee may also waive or authorise or agree to the waiving or authorising of any breach or proposed breach by the Issuer of the Conditions or the Trust Deed or by Alfa-Bank of the terms of the Loan Agreement, or determine that any event which would or might otherwise give rise to a right of acceleration under the Loan Agreement shall not be treated as such, if, in the opinion of the Trustee, to do so would not be materially prejudicial to the interests of the Noteholders (as a class); provided always that (subject to certain exceptions) the Trustee may not exercise such power of waiver in contravention of any express direction by an Extraordinary Resolution of the Noteholders. Any such modification, waiver or authorisation shall be binding on the Noteholders and, unless the Trustee agrees otherwise, any such modification shall be notified to the Noteholders as soon as practicable thereafter in accordance with Condition 14.

10.3. Substitution

The Trust Deed contains provisions to the effect that the Issuer may, and at the request of Alfa-Bank shall, having obtained the prior written consent of Alfa-Bank (if such substitution is not to be made at the request of Alfa-Bank) and the Trustee (which latter consent may be given without the consent of the Noteholders) and having complied with such certain requirements as the Trustee may direct in the interests of the Noteholders, substitute any entity in place of the Issuer as creditor under the Loan Agreement, as issuer and principal obligor in respect of the Notes and as principal obligor under the Trust Deed, subject to the relevant provisions of the Trust Deed and the substitute's rights under the Loan Agreement being charged and assigned, respectively, to the Trustee as security for the payment obligations of the substitute obligor under the Trust Deed and the Notes. Not later than 14 days after compliance with the aforementioned requirements, notice thereof shall be given by the Issuer to the Noteholder in accordance with Condition 14 or Alfa-Bank shall use its best endeavours to ensure that the substitute obligor does so.

10.4. Exercise of Powers

In connection with the exercise of any of its powers, trusts, authorities or discretions, the Trustee shall have regard to the interests of the Noteholders as a class and, in particular, shall not have regard to the consequences of such exercise for individual Noteholders resulting from their being for any purpose domiciled or resident in, or otherwise connected with, or subject to the jurisdiction of, any particular territory. No Noteholder is entitled to claim from the Issuer, Alfa-Bank or the Trustee any indemnification or payment in respect of any tax consequence of any such exercise upon individual Noteholders.

10.5. Appointment and Removal of Trustee

The Trust Deed contains provisions for the appointment or removal of a Trustee by a meeting of Noteholders passing an Extraordinary Resolution, provided that, in the case of removal of a Trustee, at all times there remains a trustee in office after such removal. Any appointment or removal of a Trustee shall be notified to the Noteholders by the Issuer in accordance with Condition 14. The Trustee may also resign such appointment giving not less than three months' notice to the Noteholders provided that such resignation shall not become effective unless there remains a trustee in office after such resignation.

11. Prescription

Notes will become void unless presented for payment within 10 years (in the case of principal) or five years (in the case of interest) from the due date for payment in respect thereof.

12. Indemnification of Trustee

The Trust Deed contains provisions for the indemnification of the Trustee and for its relief from responsibility in certain circumstances, including provisions relieving it from taking any step or action including instituting or taking any proceedings to enforce payment unless indemnified and/or secured and/or prefunded to its satisfaction and to be paid its costs and expenses in priority to the claims of Noteholders. The Trustee is entitled to enter into contracts or transactions with the Issuer and/or Alfa-Bank and any entity related to the Issuer and/or Alfa-Bank without accounting for any profit, fees, corresponding interest, discounts or share of brokerage earned, arising or resulting from any such contract or transactions.

The Trustee may rely without liability to Noteholders on a report, confirmation or certificate or any advice of any accountants, financial advisers, financial institution or any other expert, whether or not addressed to it and whether their liability in relation thereto is limited (by its terms or by any engagement letter relating thereto entered into by the Trustee or any other person or in any other manner) by reference to a monetary cap, methodology or otherwise. The Trustee may accept and shall be entitled to rely on any such report, confirmation or certificate or advice and such report, confirmation or certificate or advice shall be binding on the Issuer, Alfa-Bank, the Trustee and the Noteholders.

The Trustee's responsibilities are solely those of trustee for the Noteholders on the terms of the Trust Deed. Accordingly, the Trustee makes no representations and assumes no responsibility for the validity or enforceability of the Loan Agreement or the security created in respect thereof or for the performance by the Issuer of its obligations under or in respect of the Notes and the Trust Deed or by Alfa-Bank in respect of the Loan Agreement. The Trustee is entitled to assume that Alfa-Bank is performing all of its obligations pursuant to the Loan Agreement (and shall not incur any liability for doing so). The Trustee has no liability to Noteholders for any shortfall arising from the Trustee being subject to tax as a result of the Trustee holding or realising the Security Interests.

The Trustee is entitled to accept as sufficient evidence of any fact or matter or the expediency of any transaction or thing a certificate signed on behalf of the Issuer or Alfa-Bank by a director or an authorised signatory of the Issuer or Alfa-Bank as to any fact or matter upon which the Trustee may, in the exercise of any of its trusts, duties, powers, authorities, rights and discretions under the Trust Deed, require to be satisfied or have information, or to the effect that in the opinion of the person so certifying any particular transaction or thing is expedient, and the Trustee shall not be bound in any such case to call for further evidence or be responsible for any loss that may be occasioned by the Trustee acting on such certificate.

In acting under the Agency Agreement and in connection with the Notes, the Agents act solely as agents of the Issuer and (to the extent provided therein) the Trustee and do not assume any obligations towards or relationship of agency or trust for or with any of the Noteholders.

Notice of any change in any of the Agents or in their Specified Offices shall promptly be given by the Issuer to the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14.

13. Replacement of Notes

If any Note shall become mutilated, defaced, lost, stolen or destroyed it may, subject to all applicable laws and regulations and stock exchange requirements, be replaced at the specified office of the Registrar or at the specified office of the Principal Paying Agent in London on payment of such costs, expenses, taxes and duties as may be incurred in connection therewith and on such terms as to evidence, security and indemnity and otherwise as may reasonably be required by or on behalf of the Issuer or the Trustee. Mutilated or defaced Notes must be surrendered before replacements will be issued.

14. Notices

All notices to the Noteholders shall be deemed to have been duly given if (i) posted to such Noteholders at their respective addresses as shown on the relevant Register and (ii) so long as the Notes are admitted to trading on the Vienna Stock Exchange, when such notice is filed in the Companies Announcement Office of the Vienna Stock Exchange. Any such notice shall be deemed to have been given on the first date on which both conditions shall have been met.

In case by reason of any other cause it shall be impracticable to publish any notice to holders of Notes as provided above, then such notification to such holders as shall be given with the approval of the Trustee shall constitute sufficient notice to such holders for every purpose hereunder.

15. Further Issues

The Issuer may from time to time, without the consent of the Noteholders, create and issue further Notes having the same terms and conditions as the Notes in all respects (or in all respects except for the amount and the date of the first payment of interest) so as to be consolidated and form a single series with the Notes. Such further Notes shall be constituted by a deed supplemental to the Trust Deed between the Issuer and the Trustee. The Trust Deed contains provisions for convening a single meeting of Noteholders and the holders of Notes of other series in certain circumstances where the Trustee so decides. In relation to any further issue which is to be consolidated and form a single series with the Notes, the Issuer will enter into a loan agreement supplemental to the Loan Agreement with Alfa-Bank on substantially the same terms as the Loan Agreement (or in all respects except for the amount and the date of the first payment of interest on the further Notes). The Issuer will provide a further fixed charge in favour of the Trustee and amend the existing Security Interests in respect of certain of its rights and interests under such loan agreement and will assign absolutely certain of its rights under such loan agreement which will secure both the Notes and such further Notes and which will amend and supplement the Security Interests in relation to the existing Notes of such Series.

16. Contracts (Rights of Third Parties) Act 1999

No person shall have any right to enforce any term or condition of the Notes under the Contracts (Rights of Third Parties) Act 1999.

17. Governing Law

The Notes, the Agency Agreement, the Trust Deed and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with them shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, English law. The Issuer has submitted in the Trust Deed to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of England and has appointed an agent for the service of process in England.

SUMMARY OF THE PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE NOTES IN GLOBAL FORM

The following is a summary of the provisions to be contained in the Trust Deed to constitute the Notes and in the Global Notes which will apply to, and in some cases modify, the Terms and Conditions of the Notes while the Notes are represented by the Global Notes.

Unless otherwise indicated in the Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), the Notes will be represented by (i) in the case of Regulation S Notes, a Regulation S Global Note deposited with, and registered in the name of The Bank of New York Mellon, London Branch as nominee and a common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and (ii) in the case of Rule 144A Notes, one or more Rule 144A Global Notes deposited with a custodian for, and registered in the name of Cede & Co. as nominee of, DTC.

Unless otherwise indicated in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), beneficial interests in a Regulation S Global Note may be held only through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg at any time. See “—Book-Entry Procedures for the Global Notes”. By acquisition of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note, the purchaser thereof will be deemed to represent, among other things, that it is not a U.S. Person and that, prior to the expiration of 40 days after completion of the distribution of the Series of which such Notes are a part as determined and certified to the Principal Paying Agent by the relevant Dealer (or in the case of a Series of Notes sold to or through more than one relevant Dealer, by each of such relevant Dealers as to the Notes of such Series sold by or through it, in which case the Principal Paying Agent shall notify each such relevant Dealer when all relevant Dealers have so certified) (the “distribution compliance period”), it will not offer, sell, pledge or otherwise transfer such interest except to a person whom the seller reasonably believes to be a non-U.S. Person in an offshore transaction within the meaning of, and in accordance with, Regulation S. See “Transfer Restrictions”.

Unless otherwise indicated in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), beneficial interests in a Rule 144A Global Note may only be held through DTC at any time. See “—Book-Entry Procedures for the Global Notes”. By acquisition of a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note, the purchaser thereof will be deemed to represent, among other things, that it is a QIB that is also a QP and that, if in the future it determines to transfer such beneficial interest, it will transfer such interest in accordance with the procedures and restrictions contained in the Agency Agreement. See “Transfer Restrictions”.

Beneficial interests in each Global Note will be subject to certain restrictions on transfer set forth therein and in the Agency Agreement and the Rule 144A Global Notes will bear the legends set forth thereon regarding the restrictions set forth under “Transfer Restrictions”. A beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note may be transferred to a person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in a Rule 144A Global Note in denominations greater than or equal to the minimum denominations applicable to interests in a Rule 144A Global Note and only upon receipt by the Registrar of a written certification (in the form provided in the Agency Agreement) to the effect that the transferor reasonably believes that the transferee is a QIB that is also a QP and that such transaction is in accordance with any applicable securities laws of any state of the United States or any other jurisdiction. Beneficial interests in a Rule 144A Global Note may be transferred to a person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in a Regulation S Global Note only upon receipt by the Registrar of a written certification (in the form provided in the Agency Agreement) from the transferor to the effect that the transfer is being made to a non-U.S. Person and in accordance with Regulation S.

Any beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note that is transferred to a person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in a Rule 144A Global Note will, upon transfer, cease to be an interest in the Regulation S Global Note and become an interest in the Rule 144A Global Note, and, accordingly, will thereafter be subject to all transfer restrictions and other procedures applicable to beneficial interests in the Rule 144A Global Note for as long as it remains such an interest. Any beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note that is transferred to a person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in a Regulation S Global Note will, upon transfer, cease to be an interest in the Rule 144A Global Note and become an interest in the Regulation S Global Note and, accordingly, will thereafter be subject to all transfer restrictions and other procedures applicable to beneficial interests in the Regulation S Global Note for so long as it remains such an interest. No service charge will be made for any registration of transfer or exchange of Notes, but the Registrar may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax or other governmental charge payable in connection therewith. Except in the limited circumstances described below, owners of beneficial interests in Global Notes will not be entitled to receive physical delivery of Definitive Notes. The Notes are not issuable in bearer form. In addition, each Global Note will contain provisions which may modify the Terms and Conditions of the Notes as they apply to the Notes evidenced by such Global Note. The following is a summary of these provisions:

Notices

Notwithstanding Condition 13 of the Notes, so long as a Global Note is held by or on behalf of a clearing system, notices to Noteholders represented by such Global Note may be given by delivery of the relevant notice to that clearing system. For so long as the Notes are listed, the Issuer will also publish notices in accordance with the rules of the Vienna MTF of the Vienna Stock Exchange.

Record Date

Notwithstanding Condition 7.2, “Record Date” shall mean the Clearing System Business Day before the relevant due date for payment where “Clearing System Business Day” means (i) in respect of a Global Note held on behalf of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, a day when Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg is open for business and (ii) in respect of a Global Note held on behalf of DTC, a day when DTC is open for business.

Payments

To the extent that the Issuer has actually received the relevant funds from Alfa Bank, payments in respect of Notes represented by a Global Note will be made against presentation for endorsement and, if no further payment of principal or interest is to be made in respect of the Notes, against presentation and surrender of such Global Note to or to the order of the Registrar. Upon payment of any principal, the amount so paid shall be endorsed by or on behalf of the Registrar on behalf of the Issuer on the schedule to the Global Note. Payment while Notes are represented by a Global Note will be made in accordance with the procedures of the relevant clearing system.

Meetings

The holder of each Global Note will be treated as being one person for the purposes of any quorum requirements of, or the right to demand a poll at, a meeting of Noteholders and in any such meeting as having one vote in respect of each Note for which the relevant Global Note may be exchangeable.

Trustee’s Powers

In considering the interests of Noteholders whilst the relevant Global Note is held on behalf of a clearing system, the Trustee, to the extent it considers it appropriate to do so in the circumstances, may have regard to any information provided to it by such clearing system or its operator as to the identity (either individually or by category) of its accountholders with entitlements to such Global Note and may consider such interests as if such accountholders were the holders of such Global Note.

Cancellation

Cancellation of any Note required by the Terms and Conditions of the Notes to be cancelled will be effected by reduction in the principal amount of the applicable Global Note.

Exchange for Definitive Notes

Exchange

Each Global Note will be exchangeable, free of charge to the holder, in whole but not in part, for Notes in definitive, registered form if: (i) a Global Note is held by or on behalf of (A) DTC, and DTC notifies the Issuer that it is no longer willing or able to discharge properly its responsibilities as depositary with respect to the Global Note or ceases to be a “clearing agency” registered under the Exchange Act or if at any time it is no longer eligible to act as such, and the Issuer is unable to locate a qualified successor within 90 days of receiving notice or becoming aware of such ineligibility on the part of DTC or (B) Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, and Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as the case may be, is closed for business for a continuous period of 14 days (other than by reason of holidays, statutory or otherwise) or announces an intention permanently to cease business or does in fact do so, by the holder giving notice to the Registrar or any Transfer Agent or (ii) if the Issuer would suffer a material disadvantage in respect of the Notes as a result of a change in the laws or regulations (taxation or otherwise) of any jurisdiction referred to in Condition 8 which would not be suffered were the Notes in definitive form and a notice to such effect signed by two directors of the Issuer is delivered to the Trustee, by the Issuer giving notice to the Registrar or any Transfer Agent and the Noteholders, of its intention to exchange the relevant Global Note for Definitive Notes on or after the Exchange Date (as defined below) specified in the notice.

On or after the Exchange Date, the holder of the relevant Global Note may surrender such Global Note to or to the order of the Registrar or any Transfer Agent. In exchange for the relevant Global Note, as provided in the Paying Agency Agreement, the Registrar will deliver, or procure the delivery of, an equal aggregate amount of duly executed and authenticated Definitive Notes in or substantially in the form set out in the relevant schedule to the Trust Deed.

The Registrar will not register the transfer of, or exchange of interests in, a Global Note for Definitive Notes for a period of 15 calendar days ending on the date for any payment of principal or interest or on the date of optional redemption in respect of the Notes.

“Exchange Date” means a day falling not later than 90 days after that on which the notice requiring exchange is given and on which banks are open for business in the city in which the specified office of the Registrar or the Transfer Agent is located.

Delivery

In such circumstances, the relevant Global Note shall be exchanged in full for Definitive Notes and the Issuer will, at the cost of Alfa Bank (but against such indemnity as the Registrar or any relevant Transfer Agent may require in respect of any tax or other duty of whatever nature which may be levied or imposed in connection with such exchange), cause sufficient Definitive Notes to be executed and delivered to the Registrar for completion, authentication and dispatch to the relevant Noteholders. A person having an interest in a Global Note must provide the Registrar with (a) a written order containing instructions and such other information as the Issuer and the Registrar may require to complete, execute and deliver such Notes and (b) in the case of a Rule 144A Global Note only, a fully completed, signed certification substantially to the effect that the exchanging holder is not transferring its interest at the time of such exchange or, in the case of simultaneous sale pursuant to Rule 144A, a certification that the transfer is being made in compliance with the provisions of Rule 144A to a QIB that is also a QP. Definitive Notes issued in exchange for a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note shall bear the legend applicable to transfers pursuant to Rule 144A, as set out under “Transfer Restrictions”.

Legends

The holder of a Definitive Note may transfer the Notes evidenced thereby in whole or in part in the applicable minimum denomination by surrendering it at the specified office of the Registrar or any Transfer Agent, together with the completed form of transfer thereon. Upon the transfer, exchange or replacement of a Rule 144A Definitive Note bearing the legend referred to under “Transfer Restrictions”, or upon specific request for removal of the legend on a Rule 144A Definitive Note, the Issuer will deliver only Rule 144A Definitive Notes that bear such legend, or will refuse to remove such legend, as the case may be, unless there is delivered to the Issuer and the Registrar such satisfactory evidence, which may include an opinion of counsel, as may reasonably be required by the Issuer that neither the legend nor the restrictions on transfer set forth therein are required to ensure compliance with the provisions of the Securities Act and the Investment Company Act.

Currency Exchange Option

With respect to any Russian Rouble Note represented by a Definitive Note held by Noteholders that have made an irrevocable election in accordance with the Conditions to receive payments in US dollars, the Principal Paying Agent shall, on or before 12.30 p.m. (London time) on the Business Day prior to each due date for any payment of interest or principal, as the case may be, purchase the U.S. Dollar Amount with the Exchange Amount (each as defined in “Terms and Conditions of the Notes”) and the Paying Agents will pay, or procure the payment of the U.S. Dollar Amount to Noteholders that have made an irrevocable election in accordance with the Conditions to receive payments in dollars by wire transfer of same days funds for value the due date for payment. If for any reason it is not possible to purchase the U.S. Dollar Amount with the Exchange Amount while any Russian Rouble Notes are represented by Definitive Notes, the Principal Paying Agent shall notify the relevant Noteholders and shall make all payments on the Russian Rouble Notes in Russian Roubles into a Russian Rouble account maintained by the payee with a bank in London.

Book-Entry Procedures for the Global Notes

For each Series of Notes evidenced by both a Regulation S Global Note and a Rule 144A Global Note, custodial and depository links are to be established between DTC, Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg to facilitate the initial issue of the Notes and cross-market transfers of the Notes associated with secondary market trading. See “—Book-Entry Ownership—Settlement and Transfer of Notes”.

Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg

Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg each hold securities for their customers and facilitate the clearance and settlement of securities transactions through electronic book-entry transfer between their respective accountholders. Indirect access to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg is available to other institutions which clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with an accountholder of either system. Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg provide various services including safekeeping, administration, clearance and settlement of internationally-traded securities and securities lending and borrowing. Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg also deal with domestic securities markets in several countries through established depository and custodial relationships. Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg have established an electronic bridge between their two systems across which their respective customers may settle trades with each other. Their customers are worldwide financial institutions including underwriters, securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies and clearing corporations. Investors may hold their interests in such Global Notes directly through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg if they are accountholders (“Direct Participants”) or indirectly (“Indirect

DTC

DTC has advised the Issuer as follows: DTC is a limited purpose trust company organised under the laws of the State of New York, a “banking organisation” under the laws of the State of New York, a member of the U.S. Federal Reserve System, a “clearing corporation” within the meaning of the New York Uniform Commercial code and a “clearing agency” registered pursuant to the provisions of Section 17A of the Exchange Act. DTC was created to hold securities for its Participants and facilitate the clearance and settlement of securities transactions between Participants through electronic computerised book-entry changes in accounts of its Participants, thereby eliminating the need for physical movement of certificates. Participants include securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies, clearing corporations and certain other organisations. Indirect access to DTC is available to others, such as banks, securities brokers, dealers and trust companies, that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with a DTC Direct Participant, either directly or indirectly.

Unless otherwise indicated in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), investors may hold their interests in Rule 144A Global Notes directly through DTC if they are Direct Participants in the DTC system, or as Indirect Participants through organisations which are Direct Participants in such system.

DTC has advised the Issuer that it will take any action permitted to be taken by a holder of Notes only at the direction of one or more Direct Participants and only in respect of such portion of the aggregate principal amount of the relevant Rule 144A Global Notes as to which such Participant or Participants has or have given such direction. However, in the circumstances described under “Exchange for Definitive Notes”, DTC will surrender the relevant Rule 144A Global Notes for exchange for individual Rule 144A Definitive Notes (which will bear the legend applicable to transfers pursuant to Rule 144A).

Book-Entry Ownership

Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg

The Regulation S Global Note representing Regulation S Notes of any Series will have an ISIN and a Common Code and unless otherwise indicated in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), will be registered in the name of a nominee for, and deposited with a common depository on behalf of, Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg.

DTC

The Rule 144A Global Note representing Rule 144A Notes of any Series will have a CUSIP number and, if specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), an ISIN and Common Code and unless otherwise indicated in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series), will be deposited with a custodian for and registered in the name of Cede & Co. as nominee of, DTC. The custodian and DTC will electronically record the principal amount of the Notes held within the DTC System.

Relationship of Participants with Clearing Systems

Each of the persons shown in the records of Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC as the holder of a Note evidenced by a Global Note must look solely to Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (as the case may be) for his share of each payment made by the Issuer to the holder of such Global Note and in relation to all other rights arising under the Global Note, subject to and in accordance with the respective rules and procedures of Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (as the case may be). The Issuer expects that, upon receipt of any payment in respect of Notes evidenced by a Global Note, the common depository by whom such Note is held, or nominee in whose name it is registered, will immediately credit the relevant participants’ or accountholders’ accounts in the relevant clearing system with payments in amounts proportionate to their respective beneficial interests in the principal amount of the relevant Global Note as shown on the records of the relevant clearing system or its nominee. The Issuer also expects that payments by Direct Participants in any clearing system to owners of beneficial interests in any Global Note held through such Direct Participants in any clearing system will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices. Save as aforesaid, such persons shall have no claim directly against the Issuer in respect of payments due on the Notes for so long as the Notes are evidenced by such Global Note and the obligations of the Issuer will be discharged by payment to the registered holder, as the case may be, of such Global Note in respect of each amount so paid. None of the Issuer, the Trustee or any Agent will have any responsibility or liability for any aspect of the records relating to or payments made on account of ownership interests in any Global Note or for maintaining, supervising or reviewing any records relating to such ownership interests.

Settlement and Transfer of Notes

Subject to the rules and procedures of each applicable clearing system, purchases of Notes held within a clearing system must be made by or through Direct Participants, which will receive a credit for such Notes on the clearing system's records. The ownership interest of each actual purchaser of each such Note (the "Beneficial Owner") will in turn be recorded on the Direct and Indirect Participants' records. Beneficial Owners will not receive written confirmation from any clearing system of their purchase, but Beneficial Owners are expected to receive written confirmations providing details of the transaction, as well as periodic statements of their holdings, from the Direct or Indirect Participant through which such Beneficial Owner entered into the transaction.

Transfers of ownership interests in Notes held within the clearing system will be affected by entries made on the books of Participants acting on behalf of Beneficial Owners. Beneficial Owners will not receive certificates representing their ownership interests in such Notes, unless and until interests in any Global Note held within a clearing system are exchanged for Definitive Notes.

No clearing system has knowledge of the actual Beneficial Owners of the Notes held within such clearing system and their records will reflect only the identity of the Direct Participants to whose accounts such Notes are credited, which may or may not be the Beneficial Owners. The Participants will remain responsible for keeping account of their holdings on behalf of their customers. Conveyance of notices and other communications by the clearing systems to Direct Participants, by Direct Participants to Indirect Participants, and by Direct Participants and Indirect Participants to Beneficial Owners will be governed by arrangements among them, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may be in effect from time to time.

The laws of some jurisdictions may require that certain persons take physical delivery in definitive form of securities. Consequently, the ability to transfer interests in a Global Note to such persons may be limited. Because DTC can only act on behalf of Direct Participants, who in turn act on behalf of Indirect Participants, the ability of a person having an interest in a Rule 144A Global Note held through DTC to pledge such interest to persons or entities that do not participate in DTC, or otherwise take actions in respect of such interest, may be affected by a lack of physical certificate in respect of such interest.

Trading between Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg Participants

Secondary market sales of book-entry interests in the Notes held through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg to purchasers of book-entry interests in the Notes held through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg will be conducted in accordance with the normal rules and operating procedures of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and will be settled using the procedures applicable to conventional Eurobonds.

Trading between DTC Participants

Secondary market sales of book-entry interests in the Notes between DTC participants will occur in the ordinary way in accordance with DTC rules and will be settled using the procedures applicable to United States corporate debt obligations in DTC's Same-Day Funds Settlement ("SDFS") system in same-day funds, if payment is effected in U.S. Dollars, or free of payment, if payment is not effected in U.S. Dollars. Where payment is not effected in U.S. Dollars, arrangements may be put in place for a Series of Notes for DTC participants to either elect to receive such non-U.S. Dollar payment outside of DTC or for such non-U.S. Dollar payment to be converted into U.S. Dollars by a foreign exchange agent at the applicable U.S. Dollar spot rate prevailing on or about the relevant time of such payment and for such converted U.S. Dollar amount to be paid through DTC.

Trading between DTC seller and Euroclear/Clearstream, Luxembourg purchaser

When book-entry interests in Notes are to be transferred from the account of a DTC participant holding a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note to the account of a Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg account holder wishing to purchase a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note (subject to the certification procedures provided in the Agency Agreement), the DTC participant will deliver instructions for delivery to the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg account holder to DTC by 12 noon, New York time, on the settlement date. Separate payment arrangements are required to be made between the DTC participant and the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg participant. On the settlement date, the custodian of the Rule 144A Global Note will instruct the Registrar to (i) decrease the amount of Notes registered in the name of Cede & Co. (or such other nominee as may be specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series)) and evidenced by the Rule 144A Global Note of the relevant class and (ii) increase the amount of Notes registered in the name of the nominee of the common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and evidenced by the Regulation S Global Note. Book-entry interests will be delivered free of payment to Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as the case may be, for credit to the relevant account holder on the first business day following the settlement date.

Trading between Euroclear/Clearstream, Luxembourg seller and DTC purchaser

When book-entry interests in the Notes are to be transferred from the account of a Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg accountholder to the account of a DTC participant wishing to purchase a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note (subject to the certification procedures provided in the Agency Agreement), the Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg participant must send to Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg delivery free of payment instructions by 7:45 p.m., Brussels or Luxembourg time, one business day prior to the settlement date. Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as the case may be, will in turn transmit appropriate instructions to the common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and the Registrar to arrange delivery to the DTC participant on the settlement date. Separate payment arrangements are required to be made between the DTC participant and the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg accountholder, as the case may be. On the settlement date, the common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg will (a) transmit appropriate instructions to the custodian of the Rule 144A Global Note who will in turn deliver such book-entry interests in the Notes free of payment to the relevant account of the DTC participant and (b) instruct the Registrar to (i) decrease the amount of Notes registered in the name of the nominee of the common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and evidenced by a Regulation S Global Note; and (ii) increase the amount of Notes registered in the name of Cede & Co. (or such other nominee as may be specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series)) and evidenced by a Rule 144A Global Note.

Although Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC have agreed to the foregoing procedures in order to facilitate transfers of beneficial interest in Global Notes among participants and accountholders of Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC, they are under no obligation to perform or continue to perform such procedure, and such procedures may be discontinued at any time. None of the Issuer, the Trustee or any Agent will have the responsibility for the performance by Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC or their respective Direct or Indirect Participants of their respective obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations.

Pre-issue Trades Settlement

It is expected that delivery of Notes will be made against payment therefor on the Closing Date thereof, which could be more than three business days following the date of pricing. Under Rule 15c6-1 under the Exchange Act, trades in the United States secondary market generally are required to settle within three business days (T+3), unless the parties to any such trade expressly agree otherwise. Accordingly, purchasers who wish to trade Notes in the United States on the date of pricing or the next succeeding business days until three days prior to the relevant Closing Date will be required, by virtue of the fact the Notes initially will settle beyond T+3, to specify an alternate settlement cycle at the time of any such trade to prevent a failed settlement. Settlement procedures in other countries will vary. Purchasers of Notes may be affected by such local settlement practices, and purchasers of Notes between the relevant date of pricing and the relevant Closing Date should consult their own advisers.

Currency Exchange Option for Global Notes

For so long as any Russian Rouble Notes are represented by a Regulation S Global Note, payments of principal and interest in respect of such Russian Rouble Notes will be made or procured to be made in accordance with Clause 8.1.1 of the Agency Agreement pursuant to which any accountholder of Euroclear and(or) Clearstream, Luxembourg may on or before the tenth business day prior to the Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date give an irrevocable election to the Principal Paying Agent to receive such payment of interest or principal, as the case may be, in US dollars through the notification procedures of Euroclear and (or) Clearstream, Luxembourg.

For so long as any Russian Rouble Notes are represented by a Rule 144A Global Note, payments of principal and interest in respect of such Russian Rouble Notes will be made or procured to be made in accordance with Clause 8.1.1 of the Agency Agreement pursuant to which any participant shown in any records of DTC (a “DTC Participant”) as holder of the Notes will receive payments in respect of such Russian Rouble Notes (i) in Russian Roubles, in the case of a DTC Participant who has irrevocably elected to receive payments on the Russian Rouble Notes in Russian Roubles and has so notified DTC on or prior to the time required by DTC for payments on the Russian Rouble Notes to be made in Russian Roubles, by transfer of same day funds to the Russian Rouble bank account designated by such DTC Participant, and (ii) in US dollars, in the case of all other DTC Participants, by the U.S. Paying Agent crediting the DTC Participant’s U.S. dollar account at DTC with the DTC Participant’s pro-rata portion of the US dollars purchased with the applicable Exchange Amount by the Principal Paying Agent pursuant to the Agency Agreement. On the Business Day prior to the Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, the Principal Paying Agent shall give due notice to the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 14 of (a) the Exchange Amount and the U.S. Dollar Amount applicable to such Interest Payment Date or the Repayment Date, as the case may be, (b) the Applicable Exchange Rate at which such U.S. Dollar Amount was purchased by the Principal Paying Agent and (c) if applicable, whether such US dollars were purchased from either the Principal Paying Agent or from another leading foreign exchange bank in London or New York City.

With respect to any Russian Rouble Notes which are represented by Global Notes, as early as practicable on the relevant due date for payment of interest or principal the Principal Paying Agent will pay, or procure the payment of, the U.S. Dollar Amount (i) pro-rata to their interests in the Rule 144A Global Notes, to DTC Participants that have not made an irrevocable election to receive payment in Russian Roubles on a payment date, by wire transfer of same day funds for value the due date for payment and (ii) pro-rata to their interests in the Regulation S Global Note, to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg accountholders that have made an irrevocable election to receive payments in US dollars, through the facilities of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg. If, while Russian Rouble Notes are represented by Global Notes, for any reason it is not possible for the Principal Paying Agent to purchase the U.S. Dollar Amount with the Exchange Amount at the Applicable Exchange Rate, the Principal Paying Agent shall so notify the Noteholders and shall (a) hold the Exchange Amount until the relevant DTC participants make alternative arrangements for receipt of payment in Russian Roubles and (b) make payment on the Russian Rouble Notes in Russian Roubles to accountholders in Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg.

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Agency Agreement to the contrary, including the Conditions, (i) all costs of the purchase of US dollars with the Exchange Amount shall be borne pro rata by the relevant Noteholders of the Russian Rouble Notes by deduction from the U.S. Dollar Amount to be made by the Principal Paying Agent and (ii) the Issuer shall have no obligation whatsoever to pay any commissions or expenses, or to indemnify the Noteholders against any difference between the U.S. Dollar Amount received by such Noteholders and their pro rata portion of the Exchange Amount.

SUBSCRIPTION AND SALE

Summary of Dealer Agreement

Subject to the terms and on the conditions contained in the dealer agreement dated 17 April 2013 (the “Dealer Agreement”) between the Issuer, Alfa Bank, ABH Financial, the Arrangers and the Permanent Dealers, the Notes will be offered from time to time by the Issuer to the Permanent Dealers or such other Dealers as may be appointed from time to time in respect of any Series of Notes pursuant to the Dealer Agreement. Any agreement for the sale of Notes will, inter alia, make provision for the form and terms and conditions of the relevant Notes, whether the placement of the Notes is underwritten or sold on an agency basis only, the price at which such Notes will be subscribed by the Dealers and the commissions or other agreed deductibles (if any) which are payable or allowable by the Issuer in respect of such subscription and the form of any indemnity to the Dealers against certain liabilities in connection with the offer and sale of the relevant Notes. The Notes may be resold at prevailing market prices, or at prices related thereto, at the time of such resale, as determined by the relevant Dealer. The Dealer Agreement also provides for Notes to be issued in syndicated Series that may be jointly and severally underwritten by two or more Dealers.

Each of the Issuer, Alfa Bank and ABH Financial has agreed to indemnify the Dealers against certain losses, as set out in the Dealer Agreement. The Dealer Agreement entitles the Dealers to terminate any agreement that they make to subscribe for the Notes in certain circumstances prior to payment for such Notes being made to the Issuer.

Selling Restrictions

United States

The Notes and the corresponding Loans have not been and will not be registered under the Securities Act and the Notes may not be offered or sold within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons, except in certain transactions exempt from the registration requirements of the Securities Act. Terms used in this paragraph have the meanings given to them by Regulation S.

Each Dealer has agreed and each further Dealer appointed under the Programme will be required to agree that, except as permitted by the Dealer Agreement, it will not offer or sell Notes (i) as part of their distribution at any time or (ii) otherwise until 40 days after the completion of the distribution of an identifiable tranche of which such Notes are a part, as determined and certified to the Principal Paying Agent by such Dealer (or, in the case of an identifiable tranche of Notes sold to or through more than one Dealer, by each of such Dealers with respect to Notes of an identifiable tranche purchased by or through it, in which case the Principal Paying Agent shall notify such Dealer when all such Dealers have so certified), within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons, and it will have sent to each Dealer to which it sells Notes during the distribution compliance period (other than resales pursuant to Rule 144A) a confirmation or other notice setting out the restrictions on offers and sales of the Notes within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons. Terms used in the preceding sentence have the meanings given to them by Regulation S. In addition, until 40 days after the commencement of the offering any identifiable tranche of Notes, an offer or sale of Notes within the United States by any dealer (whether or not participating in the offering of such tranche of Notes) may violate the registration requirements of the Securities Act if such offer or sale is made otherwise than in accordance with Rule 144A.

Notes offered and sold outside the United States to non-U.S. Persons may be sold in reliance on Regulation S. The Dealer Agreement provides that the Dealer(s) may directly or through their respective U.S. broker-dealer affiliates arrange for the offer and resale of Notes within the United States only to persons whom they reasonably believe are QIBs and QPs who can represent that (a) they are QIBs within the meaning of Rule 144A who are also QPs, (b) they are not broker-dealers who own and invest on a discretionary basis less than $25 million in securities of unaffiliated issuers, (c) they are not a participant-directed employee plan, such as 401(k) plan, (d) they are acting for their own account, or the account of one or more QIBs each of which is a QP, (e) they are not formed for the purpose of investing in the Issuer or the Notes, (f) they, and each account for which they are purchasing, will hold and transfer at least $200,000 in principal amount of Rule 144A Notes at any time, (g) they understand that the Issuer may receive a list of participants holding positions in its securities from one or more book-entry depositories, and (h) they will provide notice of the transfer restrictions set forth in these Base Listing Particulars to any subsequent transferees.

These Base Listing Particulars have been prepared by the Issuer and Alfa Bank for use in connection with the offer and sale of the Notes outside the United States and the resale of the Notes in the United States and for the listing of Notes on the Vienna MTF of the Vienna Stock Exchange, or other stock exchange specified in the Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series). The Issuer and the Dealers reserve the right to reject any offer to purchase the Notes, in whole or in part, for any reason. These Base Listing Particulars do not constitute an offer to any person in the United States or to any U.S. Person other than any QIB who is also a QP and to whom an offer has been made directly by one of the Dealers or its U.S. broker-dealer affiliate. Distribution of these Base Listing Particulars by any non-U.S. Person outside the United States or by any QIB/QP within the United States to any U.S. Person or to any other person within the United States, other than any QIB/QP and those persons, if any, retained to advise such non-U.S. Person or QIB/QP with respect thereto, is unauthorised and any disclosure without the prior written consent of the Issuer of any of its contents to any such U.S. Person or other person within the United States, other than any QIB/QP and those persons, if any, retained to advise such non-U.S. person or QIB/QP, is prohibited.

Each Dealer has represented and agreed that:

- (a) in relation to any Notes which have a maturity of less than one year, (i) it is a person whose ordinary activities involve it in acquiring, holding, managing or disposing of investments (as principal or agent) for the purposes of its business and (ii) it has not offered or sold and will not offer or sell any Notes other than to persons whose ordinary activities involve them in acquiring, holding, managing or disposing of investments (as principal or as agent) for the purposes of their businesses or who it is reasonable to expect will acquire, hold, manage or dispose of investments (as principal or agent) for the purposes of their businesses where the issue of the Notes would otherwise constitute a contravention of Section 19 of the FSMA by the Issuer;
- (b) it has only communicated or caused to be communicated and will only communicate or cause to be communicated an invitation or inducement to engage in investment activity (within the meaning of Section 21 of the FSMA) received by it in connection with the issue or sale of any Notes in circumstances in which Section 21(1) of the FSMA does not apply to the Issuer; and
- (c) it has complied and will comply with all applicable provisions of the FSMA with respect to anything done by it in relation to any Notes in, from or otherwise involving the United Kingdom.

Russian Federation

Each of the Dealers has represented and agreed that the Notes will not be offered, transferred or sold as part of their initial distribution or at any time thereafter to or for the benefit of any persons (including legal entities) resident, incorporated, established or having their usual residence in Russia or to any person located within the territory of Russia unless and to the extent otherwise permitted under Russian Law.

Republic of Cyprus

Each Dealer has severally represented, warranted and agreed that these Base Listing Particulars are not an offer to the public in the Republic of Cyprus and no action has been taken to permit an offer of the Notes in the Republic of Cyprus and these Base Listing Particulars are not a prospectus for the purpose of and does not fall within the provisions of the Cyprus Prospectus Law, N.114(I)/2005.

Ireland

Each Dealer has represented, warranted and agreed that:

- (a) it will not underwrite the issue of, or place, the Notes otherwise than in conformity with the provisions of the European Union (Markets in Financial Instruments) Regulations 2017 (as amended, the “MiFID II Regulations”), including, without limitation, Regulation 5 (Requirement for authorisation (and certain provisions concerning MTFs and OTFs)) thereof, any rules or codes of conduct made under the MiFID II Regulations, and the provisions of the Investor Compensation Act 1998 (as amended);
- (b) it will not underwrite the issue of, or place, the Notes otherwise than in conformity with the provisions of the Companies Act 2014 of Ireland (as amended, the “Companies Act 2014”), the Central Bank Acts 1942-2018 (as amended) and any codes of practice made under Section 117(1) of the Central Bank Act 1989 (as amended);
- (c) it will not underwrite the issue of, or place, or do anything in Ireland in respect of, the Notes otherwise than in conformity with the provisions of the Prospectus Regulation, the European Union (Prospectus) Regulations 2019 and any rules issued by the Central Bank under Section 1363 of the Companies Act 2014; and
- (d) it will not underwrite the issue of, place or otherwise act in Ireland in respect of, the Notes otherwise than in conformity with the provisions of the Market Abuse Regulation (EU 596/2014) (as amended), the European Union (Market Abuse) Regulations 2016 (as amended) and any rules and guidance issued by the Central Bank under Section 1370 of the Companies Act 2014.

General

Each Dealer has agreed that it has, to the best of its knowledge and belief, complied and will comply with applicable securities laws and regulations in each jurisdiction in which it offers, sells or delivers Notes or distributes these Base Listing Particulars (and any amendments thereof and supplements thereto) or any other offering or publicity material relating to the Notes, the Issuer or Alfa Bank.

No action has or will be taken in any jurisdiction by the Issuer, Alfa Bank or any of the Dealers that would, or is intended to, permit a public offer of the Notes or possession or distribution of any offering material in relation thereto, in any country or jurisdiction where action for that purpose is required. Accordingly, each Dealer has undertaken to the Issuer and Alfa Bank that it will not, directly or indirectly, offer or sell any Notes or distribute or publish any prospectus, form of application, advertisement or other document or information in any country or jurisdiction except under circumstances that will, to the best of its knowledge and belief, result in compliance with any applicable laws and regulations and all offers and sales of Notes by it will be made on the same terms.

These selling restrictions may be modified by the agreement of the Issuer, Alfa Bank following a change in a relevant law, regulation or directive.

In addition, in the ordinary course of their business activities, the Dealers and their affiliates may make or hold a broad array of investments and actively trade debt and equity securities (or related derivative securities) and financial instruments (including bank loans) for their own account and for the accounts of their customers. Such investments and securities activities may involve securities and/or instruments of Alfa Bank or its affiliates. Certain of the Dealers or their affiliates that have a lending relationship with Alfa Bank routinely hedge their credit exposure to Alfa Bank consistent with their customary risk management policies. Typically, such Dealers and their affiliates would hedge such exposure by entering into transactions which consist of either the purchase of credit default swaps or the creation of short positions in Alfa Bank's securities, including potentially any Notes offered under the Programme. Any such short positions could adversely affect future trading prices of any Notes offered under the Programme. The Dealers and their affiliates may also make investment recommendations and/or publish or express independent research views in respect of such securities or financial instruments and may hold, or recommend to clients that they acquire, long and/or short positions in such securities and instruments.

TAXATION

The following is a general description of the material Irish, Russian Federation and United States tax considerations relating to the Notes issued and each Loan. It does not purport to be a complete analysis of all tax considerations relating to the Notes and each Loan, whether in those countries or elsewhere. Prospective purchasers of the Notes should consult their own advisers as to which countries' tax laws could be relevant to acquiring, holding and disposing of the Notes and receiving payments of interest, principal and/or other amounts under such Notes and the consequences of such actions under the tax laws of those countries in light of their particular circumstances. This summary is based upon the law as in effect on the date of these Base Listing Particulars and is subject to any change in law that may take effect after such date. The information and analysis contained within this section are limited to taxation issues and prospective investors should not apply any information or analysis set out below to other areas, including (but not limited to) the legality of transactions involving the Notes.

Irish Taxation

Introduction

The following is a summary of the principal Irish tax consequences for individuals and companies of ownership of the Notes based on the laws and practice of the Irish Revenue Commissioners currently in force in Ireland and may be subject to change. It deals with Noteholders who beneficially own their Notes as an investment. Particular rules not discussed below may apply to certain classes of taxpayers holding Notes, such as dealers in securities, trusts, etc. The summary does not constitute tax or legal advice and the comments below are of a general nature only. Prospective investors in the Notes should consult their professional advisers on the tax implications of the purchase, holding, redemption or sale of the Notes and the receipt of interest thereon under the laws of their country of residence, citizenship or domicile.

Taxation of Noteholders

Withholding Tax

In general, tax at the standard rate of income tax (currently 20 per cent.) is required to be withheld from payments of Irish source interest which should include interest payable on the Notes. The Issuer will not be obliged to make a withholding or deduction for or on account of Irish income tax from a payment of interest on a Note where:

- (a) the Notes are Quoted Eurobonds, i.e. securities which are issued by a company (such as the Issuer), which are listed on a recognised stock exchange (such as the Vienna MTF of the Vienna Stock Exchange) and which carry a right to interest; and
- (b) the person by or through whom the payment is made is not in Ireland, or if such person is in Ireland, either:
 - (i) the Notes are held in a clearing system recognised by the Irish Revenue Commissioners; (DTC, Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg are, amongst others, so recognised); or
 - (ii) the person who is the beneficial owner of the Notes is not resident in Ireland and has made a declaration to a relevant person (such as a paying agent located in Ireland) in the prescribed form.

Thus, subject to the discussion below, so long as the Notes continue to be quoted on the Vienna MTF of the Vienna Stock Exchange and are held in a clearing system recognised by the Irish Revenue Commissioners (DTC, Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg are, amongst others, so recognised) interest on the Notes can be paid by any Paying Agent acting on behalf of the Issuer free of any withholding or deduction for or on account of Irish income tax. If the Notes continue to be quoted but cease to be held in a recognised clearing system, interest on the Notes may be paid without any withholding or deduction for or on account of Irish income tax provided such payment is made through a Paying Agent outside Ireland.

Interest or other distributions paid on the Notes which are profit dependent or any part of which exceeds a reasonable commercial return could, under certain anti-avoidance provisions, be re-characterised as a non-deductible distribution and be subject to dividend withholding tax in certain circumstances. However, this should not apply on the basis of a confirmation by the Issuer that, at the time the Notes were issued, the Issuer was not in possession or aware of any information which could reasonably be taken to indicate that interest or other distributions paid on the Notes would not be subject, without reduction computed by reference to the amount of such interest or other distribution, to a tax in a relevant territory which generally applies to profits, income or gains received in that relevant territory by persons from sources outside that relevant territory, where the term “relevant territory” means a member state of the European Union (other than Ireland) or a country with which Ireland has signed a double tax treaty.

Encashment Tax

Irish tax will be required to be withheld at the rate of 25 per cent. from interest on any Note, where such interest is collected or realised by a bank or encashment agent in Ireland on behalf of any Noteholder. There is an exemption from encashment tax where the beneficial owner of the interest is not resident in Ireland and has made a declaration to this effect in the prescribed form to the encashment agent or bank.

Stamp Duty

No stamp duty or similar tax is imposed in Ireland on the issue, transfer or redemption of the Notes provided the Issuer is a qualifying company for the purposes of Section 110 of the Taxes Consolidation Act 1997 and the proceeds of the Notes are used in the course of the Issuer’s business.

Russian Federation

General

The following is a summary of certain Russian tax considerations relevant to the purchase, ownership and disposal of the Notes as well as taxation of interest and other payments on the corresponding Loan. This summary is based on the laws of the Russian Federation and the practice of their interpretation and application by the relevant authorities as in effect on the date of these Base Listing Particulars (where these laws are subject to changes, which could occur frequently, at short notice and may have retroactive effect). The information and analysis contained within this section are limited to taxation issues, and prospective investors should not apply any information or analysis set out below to other areas, including (but not limited to) the legality of transactions involving the Notes. This summary does not seek to address the applicability of, and/or procedures in relation to, taxes levied by regions, municipalities or other non-federal level authorities of Russia or tax implications arising for the Noteholders applying special tax regimes available under Russian tax legislation, nor does it seek to address the availability of double tax treaty to and the eligibility for double tax treaty relief of any Noteholder in respect of income payable on the Notes, or practical difficulties involved in claiming or obtaining such double tax treaty relief, including confirmation of a beneficial ownership status, non-application of a limitation on benefits provision, interpretation of a principal purpose test etc., as well as tax benefits which may be available under the applicable double tax treaties. The analysis set out herein does not include any comments on tax implications which could arise for the Noteholders in connection with entering into REPO or stock lending transactions with the Notes or into term deals, derivatives or any similar types of transactions with the Notes.

Many aspects of Russian tax laws and regulations are subject to significant uncertainty and lack of interpretive guidance resulting in different interpretations and the inconsistent application thereof by various Russian authorities in practice. The substantive provisions of Russian tax laws and regulations applicable to securities and financial instruments may be subject to more rapid and unpredictable changes (possibly with the retroactive effect) and inconsistent application as compared to jurisdictions with more developed capital markets and tax systems. In practice, the interpretation and application of tax laws and regulations by different tax inspectorates may be inconsistent or contradictory and may result in the imposition of conditions, requirements or restrictions that are not explicitly stated by the law. The interpretation and application of such provisions will, in practice, rest substantially with local tax inspectorates and such interpretations may often be inconsistent and/or may often change. Furthermore, in the absence of binding precedents court rulings on tax or other related matters taken by different courts relating to the same or similar circumstances may also be inconsistent or contradictory.

Prospective investors should consult their own tax advisers regarding the tax consequences of investing in the Notes, which may arise in their own particular circumstances. No representations with respect to the Russian tax consequences relevant to any particular Noteholder are made hereby.

For the purposes of this summary, the term “Resident Noteholder” means:

- (i) a Russian legal entity or an organization which acquires, holds and disposes the Notes of any Series, (ii) a legal entity or an organization, in each case organised under a non-Russian law, which acquires, holds and disposes the Notes of any Series through its permanent establishment in Russia (as defined by Russian tax law), or (iii) a foreign organization organized under a non-Russian law and recognized as Russian tax resident in accordance with the requirements set out in the Russian Tax Code, which acquires, holds and disposes the Notes of any Series (the “Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity”). An organization formed under a non-Russian law shall be deemed to be tax resident of the Russian Federation for the purposes of the Russian Tax Code if (1) it is deemed to be tax resident of the Russian Federation in accordance with an applicable double tax treaty and/or (2) its place of management is in the Russian Federation unless a different conclusion follows from an applicable double tax treaty.

- an individual who satisfies the criteria for being a Russian tax resident and who acquires, holds and disposes of the Notes of any Series (the “Resident Noteholder-Individual”). A “Russian tax resident” is an individual who is actually present in Russia for an aggregate period of 183 calendar days or more in any period comprised of 12 consecutive months. Presence in Russia for Russian personal income tax residency purposes is not considered interrupted if an individual departs from Russia for short periods of time (less than six months) for medical treatment, education purposes or completion of employment or other duties related to work (rendering services) at offshore hydrocarbon fields.

For the purposes of this summary, the term “Non-Resident Noteholder” means:

- a Noteholder which is a legal entity or an organisation, in each case not organised under the Russian law, which acquires, holds and disposes of the Notes of any Series otherwise than through its permanent establishment in Russia and does not satisfy the criteria for being a Russian tax resident as defined above (the “Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity”), and
- a Noteholder who is an individual and does not satisfy the criteria for being a Russian tax resident as defined above and who acquires, holds and disposes of the Notes of any Series (the “Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual”).

For the purposes of this summary, the definitions of “Resident Noteholder-Individual” and “Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual” are taken at face value based on the wording of Russian tax law as written as at the date of these Base Listing Particulars. In practice, however, the application of the above formal residency definition may differ based on the position of the Russian tax authorities. As at the date of these Base Listing Particulars, the law is worded in a way that implies the potential for individuals to be a tax resident in Russia for a part of a calendar year. However, both the Russian Ministry of Finance and the Russian tax authorities have expressed the view that an individual should be either tax resident or non-resident in Russia for the full calendar year and consequently even where the travel pattern dictates differing tax residency status for a part of the tax year, the application of the Russian personal income residency tax rate may in practice be disallowed. This situation may be altered by the introduction of amendments to other articles of the Russian Tax Code dealing with taxation of individuals, a change in the position of the Russian tax authorities or by outcomes of tax controversy through the courts.

Tax residency rules and Russian Federation’s rights with regard to taxation may be affected by an applicable double tax treaty. The Russian tax treatment of interest payments to be made by Alfa Bank to the Issuer (or to the Trustee, as the case may be) under the relevant Loan Agreement may affect taxation of the Noteholders. See “Taxation of Interest on the Loans” below.

Taxation of the Notes

Resident Noteholders

Resident Noteholders will be subject to all applicable Russian taxes in respect of income realised by them in connection with the acquisition, ownership and/or disposal of the Notes of any Series (including interest received on the Notes) or in connection with payments under the relevant Loan Agreement made by Alfa Bank to the Issuer (or to the Trustee, as the case may be) if Resident Noteholders qualify for persons that have actual right to the income concerned for Russian tax purposes. See Section “Taxation of Interest on the Loans” below.

Resident Noteholders should consult their own tax advisors with regards to the effect that the acquisition, holding and/or disposal of the Notes may have on their tax position.

Non-Resident Noteholders

Taxation of Non-Resident Noteholders-Legal Entities

- Acquisition of the Notes

The mere acquisition of the Notes by Non-Resident Noteholders-Legal Entities per se (whether upon their issue or in the secondary market) should not trigger any Russian tax implications for the Non-Resident Noteholders-Legal Entities at the moment of the acquisition.

- Interest on the Notes

Non-Resident Noteholders-Legal Entities generally should not be subject to any Russian taxes in respect of payment of interest on the Notes received from the Issuer. The taxation of interest on the Notes may however be affected by the Russian withholding tax treatment of interest on any Loan. See “Taxation of Interest on the Loans” below.

- Sale or other Disposal of the Notes

Sale or other disposal proceeds, received by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity from a source within or outside Russia should not be generally subject to any Russian taxes, provided that the proceeds of such sale, redemption, or other disposal are not received from a source within Russia.

Generally, there should be no Russian withholding tax on gains from sale or other disposal of the Notes imposed on Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity. However, there is some uncertainty regarding the Russian withholding tax treatment of the portion of the sale or other disposal proceeds, if any, attributable to accrued interest (coupon) on the Notes (i.e. debt obligations), where proceeds from sale or other disposal of the Notes are received from a source within Russia by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity.

This uncertainty is caused by isolated instances in which the Russian tax authorities challenged the non-application of Russian withholding tax to the amount of accrued interest (coupon) embedded into the sale price of the eurobonds. Although the Russian Ministry of Finance in its most recent clarification letters opined that the amount of sale or other disposal proceeds attributable to the accrued interest on the Eurobonds paid to a non-Russian organization should not be regarded as Russian-source income and on this basis should not be subject to taxation in Russia, there remains a possibility that a Russian entity, an individual entrepreneur, or a foreign entity having a registered tax presence in Russia which purchases the Notes from a Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity or acts as an intermediary may seek to assess Russian withholding tax at 20% rate (or such other rate as could be effective at the time of such sale or other disposal) on the accrued interest portion of the sale or other disposal proceeds. See “Risk Factors — Risks Relating to Russian Taxation”.

- Redemption of the Notes

Non-Resident Noteholders-Legal Entities should not be generally subject to any Russian taxes in respect of repayment of principal on the Notes received from the Issuer.

Taxation of Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals

- Acquisition of the Notes

Acquisition of the Notes by Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals may constitute a taxable event for Russian personal income tax purposes pursuant to the provisions of the Russian Tax Code relating to the material benefit (deemed income) received by individuals as a result of acquisition of securities (in case the Notes are initially issued at par, these provisions are likely to be relevant for the acquisitions of the Notes in the secondary market only). If the acquisition price of the Notes is below the lower margin of the fair market value calculated under a specific procedure for the determination of market prices of securities for Russian personal income tax purposes, the difference may become subject to the Russian personal income tax at the rate of 30 per cent. (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of acquisition), which is, arguably, subject to reduction or elimination under the applicable double tax treaty.

Under the Russian tax legislation, taxation of income of Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals will depend on whether this income would be qualified as received from Russian or non-Russian sources. Although the Russian Tax Code does not contain any provisions in relation to how the related material benefit should be sourced, in practice the Russian tax authorities may infer that such income should be considered as Russian source income, if the Notes are purchased “in Russia”. In the absence of any guidance as to what should be considered as a purchase of securities “in Russia”, the Russian tax authorities may apply various criteria in order to determine the source of the related material benefit, including looking at the place of conclusion of acquisition transaction, the location of the issuer, or other similar criteria. There is no assurance therefore that as a result any material benefit received by Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals in connection with the acquisition of the Notes will not become taxed in Russia.

- Interest on the Notes

Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals generally should not be subject to Russian personal income tax in respect of payment of interest on the Notes received from the Issuer. Taxation of interest on the Notes may however be affected by the taxation treatment of income from sale of the Notes and/or interest on the relevant Loan. See “Sale or other Disposal of the Notes” and “Taxation of Interest on the Loans” below.

- Sale, Redemption or other Disposal of the Notes

Non-resident Noteholder-Individuals should not be subject to any Russian taxes in respect of gains or other income realised on a redemption, sale or other disposal of the Notes of any Series outside of Russia, provided that the proceeds of such sale, redemption or other disposal are not received from a source within Russia.

Subject to any available tax treaty relief, if the receipt of any proceeds from redemption, sale or other disposal of the Notes by a Non-Resident Noteholder – Individual is classified as income from Russian sources for Russian personal income tax purposes, as such, these proceeds will become subject to Russian personal income tax at the rate of 30 per cent. (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of disposal).

Since the Russian Tax Code does not contain any additional guidance as to when the sale or other disposal proceeds should be deemed to be received from Russian sources by an individual not qualifying as a tax resident for Russian personal income tax purposes, in practice the Russian tax authorities may infer that such income should be considered as Russian source income, if the Notes are sold or disposed “in Russia”. In the absence of any guidance as to what should be considered as a sale or other disposal of securities “in Russia”, the Russian tax authorities may apply various criteria in order to determine the source of the sale or other disposal, including looking at the place of conclusion of the transaction, the location of the Issuer, or other similar criteria. There is no assurance therefore that as a result that sale or other disposal proceeds received by Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals will not become taxable in Russia.

If the disposal proceeds are considered as being derived from Russian sources, Russian personal income tax will apply to the gross amount of sales or other disposal proceeds (including proceeds attributable to accrued and paid interest on the Notes) decreased by the amount of duly documented cost deductions (including the original acquisition costs of the Notes and other documented expenses related to the acquisition, holding and the sale or other disposal of the Notes) provided that the Notes qualify as securities under Russian and applicable foreign law and the relevant documentation is duly executed. There is a risk that, if the documentation supporting the cost deductions is deemed insufficient by the Russian tax authorities or the person remitting the respective income to the Non-Resident Noteholders—Individuals (where such person qualifies as a tax agent obliged to calculate and withhold Russian personal income tax and remit it to the Russian budget), the immediate costs deduction will be disallowed and the tax will apply to the gross amount of sales or other disposal proceeds.

In certain circumstances if sales or other disposal proceeds (including proceeds attributable to accrued and paid interest on the Notes) are paid to a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual by a party considered as tax agent for Russian tax purposes, the applicable Russian personal income tax at the rate of 30% (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of payment) should be withheld at source by such tax agent. Any organisation being a Russian tax resident, an individual entrepreneur, a Russian representative office or Russian branch of a foreign organisation making payment of proceeds from the sale or other disposal of the Notes to Non-Resident Noteholder—Individual may be considered as the tax agent.

The amount of tax withheld will be calculated after taking into account available documented deductions for the original acquisition cost and related expenses on the acquisition, holding and sale or other disposal of the Notes to the extent such deductions and expenses can be determined by the entity making the payment of income to a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual. The tax agent which is a professional intermediary acting under an asset management agreement, brokerage service agreement, an agency agreement or a commission agreement would be required to report to the Russian tax authorities in respect of its inability to withhold personal income tax in full within one month upon termination of the agreement or by March 1 of the year following the calendar year in which the income was received. Failure or inability of the tax agent to timely withhold the applicable Russian personal income tax in full will place the onus of reporting and payment of such tax on the Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual based on tax notification issued by the tax authorities.

If the costs and other expenses were born in connection with the acquisition, holding and sale or other disposal of the Notes within the relationship with the party other than tax agent who is obliged to calculate and withhold Russian personal income tax under this agreement, original duly documented costs and other documented expenses related to the acquisition, holding and sale or other disposal of the Notes may be taken into account by the tax agent upon written application of the Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual and presentation of the documents confirming such costs and expenses.

Where the Notes are sold by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual to legal entities, organisations or individuals other than mentioned above as tax agents, generally, no Russian personal income tax should be withheld at source by these persons. The Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual would be then required to file a personal income tax return individually, report on the amount of income realised to the Russian tax authorities and apply for a deduction in the amount of acquisition and other expenses related to the acquisition, holding and the sale or other disposal of the Notes, confirmed by the supporting documentation. The applicable personal income tax will then have to be paid by the Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual on the basis of the filed personal income tax return. Under certain circumstances gains received and losses incurred by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual as a result of sale or other disposal of the Notes and other securities of the same category (namely, securities qualified as traded or non-traded for Russian personal income tax purposes) occurring within the same tax year may be aggregated for Russian personal income tax purposes which would affect the total amount of personal income tax payable by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual in Russia.

There is also a risk that any gains derived by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual from the sale or other disposal of the Notes may be affected by changes in the exchange rate between the currency of acquisition of the Notes, the currency of the sale or other disposal of the Notes and Roubles.

Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals should consult their own tax advisors with respect to tax consequences arising in connection with the acquisition, holding, sale or other disposal of the Notes, including the receipt of sales or other proceeds from a source within Russia upon the sale or other disposal of the Notes.

Tax Treaty Relief

The Russian Federation has concluded double tax treaties with a number of countries and honours some double tax treaties concluded by the former Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. These double tax treaties may contain provisions that allow to reduce or eliminate Russian income tax due with respect to income received by Non-Resident Noteholders from Russian sources including income relating to acquisition, holding, sale or other disposal of the Notes (if this income is treated as income from Russian sources). To the extent double tax treaty benefits are available, in order to obtain them such Non-Resident Noteholders must comply with the certification, information, and reporting requirements in force in the Russian Federation (relating, in particular, to the confirmation of the entitlement and eligibility for treaty benefits).

In addition, in order to enjoy double tax treaty benefits, a Non-Resident Noteholder–Legal Entity which has the actual right to receive income (i.e., who qualifies as a “beneficial owner of income”) and is eligible for the benefits of the applicable double tax treaty is obliged to provide the tax agent with the satisfactory documentary evidence as well as the duly executed tax residency certificate before the date of the income payment. The tax residency status of Non-Resident Noteholders – Legal Entities which are banks in jurisdictions which have concluded double tax treaties with the Russian Federation and which have the actual right to receive income and claim reduced tax rates under the applicable double tax treaties can be confirmed by public information guides (e.g. Bankers Almanac) in lieu of the tax residency certificate.

In order to apply for tax exemption or payment of tax at a reduced tax rate under the respective double tax treaty, a Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual must provide to the tax agent a passport of a foreign citizen in order to prove his/her tax residency status in the foreign jurisdiction. If this document is not sufficient to prove the tax residency status, the tax agent will request the Non-Resident Noteholder-Individual to provide a tax residency certificate issued by the competent authorities in his/her country of residence for tax purposes. If the documents proving residency in the respective state are submitted to the tax agent after the personal income tax is withheld, the tax agent will be required to reimburse to the Non-Resident Noteholder Individual the amount of tax withheld.

The law does not clearly establish how the tax agent shall determine whether a passport is sufficient to confirm the individual’s eligibility for double tax treaty benefits.

It is not explicit whether under the Russian Tax Code the Russian citizens who are Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals would be able to enjoy exemption from taxation at source under an applicable double tax treaty in practice.

The procedure of elimination of double taxation by means of exemption under an applicable double tax treaty of the Non-Resident Noteholders-Individuals in case of absence of a tax agent is not explicitly indicated in the Russian Tax Code.

Non-Resident Noteholders should consult their own tax advisors regarding possible tax treaty relief and procedures required to be fulfilled for obtaining such relief with respect to any Russian taxes imposed in respect of interest income on the Notes or any income received in connection with the acquisition, holding and the sale or other disposal of the Notes.

Moreover, currently it is not entirely clear how the double tax treaty to which the Russian Federation is a party would be affected by the MLI. It is possible that the changes made as a result of Russia being a party to the MLI may have an additional adverse impact on the availability of double taxation treaty benefits to the Non-Resident Noteholders (See “Risk Factors — Risks Relating to Russian Taxation” for further details).

Refund of Tax Withheld

If Russian withholding tax on income derived from Russian sources by a Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity was withheld at source a claim for a refund of the tax that was withheld at source can be filed by that Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity with the Russian tax authorities either based on general tax reclaim procedures within three years following the date of withholding, or, provided that such Non-Resident Noteholder-Legal Entity is entitled to the benefits of the applicable double tax treaty allowing it not to pay the tax or allowing it to pay the tax at a reduced tax rate in relation to such income, within three years following the year in which the tax was withheld. There is no assurance that such refund will be possible in practice to the Non-Resident Noteholder–Legal Entity.

If Russian personal income tax on income derived from Russian sources by a Non-Resident Noteholder–

Individual, for whom double tax treaty relief is available, was withheld at source despite the right of this Non-Resident Noteholder–Individual to rely on benefits of the applicable double tax treaty allowing such individual not to pay the tax in Russia or allowing to pay the tax at a reduced tax rate in relation to such income, a claim for a refund of Russian personal tax (which was excessively withheld at source) and an application of the benefits of the applicable double tax treaty, together with a passport of a foreign individual / tax residency certificate issued by the competent authorities in his/her country of residence may be filed by that Non-Resident Noteholder–Individual to the tax agent within three years following the tax year when the corresponding income was received. In the absence of a tax agent who withheld the Russian personal income tax under consideration (for instance, in case of a liquidation of the tax agent), such an application for a refund may be filed with the Russian tax authorities within the same period (three years following the tax year when the corresponding income was received) with the Russian tax return, a tax residency certificate and documents proving tax withholding to the Russian tax authorities.

There can be no assurance that the tax agent and/or the Russian tax authorities will refund this tax in practice.

Although the Russian Tax Code arguably contains an exhaustive list of documents and information which have to be provided by the Non-Resident Noteholder to the Russian tax authorities for the tax refund purposes, the Russian tax authorities may, in practice, require a wide variety of documentation confirming the right of a Non-Resident Noteholder to obtain tax relief available under the applicable double tax treaty. Such documentation may not be explicitly required by the Russian Tax Code and may to a large extent depend on the position of local representatives of the tax inspectorates.

Obtaining a refund of Russian income taxes that were excessively withheld at source is likely to be a time consuming process requiring many efforts and no assurance can be given that such refund will be granted to a Non-Resident Noteholders in practice.

Non-Resident Noteholders should consult their own tax advisors regarding procedures required to be fulfilled in order to obtain refund of Russian income taxes, which were excessively withheld at source.

Taxation of Interest payments on the Loans

In general, payments of interest on borrowed funds made by a Russian entity to a non-resident legal entity or organisation having no registered presence and/or no permanent establishment and/or no tax residency in Russia are subject to Russian withholding tax at the rate of 20 per cent. (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of payment), which could be potentially reduced or eliminated under the terms of an applicable double tax treaty subject to timely compliance with the respective treaty clearance formalities by the interest recipient and confirmation of the beneficial ownership status.

Generally, no withholding tax obligations should arise in Eurobond structures (as defined in Section "Risk Factors") by virtue of the special exemption envisaged by the Russian Tax Code. The Russian Tax Code provides that Russian borrowers should be fully released from the obligation to withhold tax from interest and other payments made to foreign entities provided that the following conditions are all simultaneously met:

1. interest is paid on debt obligations of Russian entities that arose in connection with the placement by foreign entities of "traded bonds", which are defined as bonds or other debt obligations (a) listed and/or admitted to trading on one of the qualifying foreign exchanges and/or (b) that have been registered in qualifying foreign depository/clearing organisations;

The lists of qualifying foreign exchanges and foreign depository/clearing organisations were approved by the Central Bank of the Russian Federation in its Instruction № 4393-U of 30 May 2017 (the "Lists"). Clearstream, Luxembourg, Euroclear and Vienna Stock Exchange are included in the Lists.

The connection between the debt obligation and the issued bonds should be evident and supported with documents, which are set forth in the Russian Tax Code.

2. there is a double tax treaty between Russia and the jurisdiction of tax residence of the Loan interest income recipient (namely the Issuer) and the Issuer will be able to provide the Loan interest payor (i.e. Alfa Bank) with a duly executed tax residency certificate;
3. the recipient of interest on the relevant Loan is a foreign entity which is the issuer of issued bonds (i.e., the Issuer), or a foreign entity authorized to receive interest income payable on the issued bonds, or a foreign entity to which rights and obligations under bonds issued by another foreign entity have been assigned.

Alfa Bank believes that it should be eligible to satisfy the mentioned above conditions established by the Russian Tax Code and obtain a release from the obligation to withhold Russian income tax from payments of interest and certain other amounts, as the case may be, on each Loan to the Issuer, which satisfies the conditions set forth above throughout the term of the relevant Loan and the Notes of the corresponding Series subject to the qualifications set out above.

Importantly, the Russian Tax Code does not provide for the exemption of the foreign interest income recipients from Russian withholding tax and/or Russian personal income tax, as the case may be, in addition to the release of the Russian borrower from withholding tax obligations in respect of interest payable on the loan. Currently there is no requirement and mechanism in the Russian tax legislation for the foreign income recipients being the legal entities to self-assess and pay the tax to the Russian tax authorities, in case the tax was not withheld at source. Moreover, the Russian Ministry of Finance acknowledged in its information letter published on its website that the release of Russian companies from obligation to act as a tax agent means, in effect, that tax at source within Russia should not arise in connection with Eurobond structure, since there is neither a mechanism nor obligation for a non-resident to independently calculate and pay such tax. At the same time, so far this acknowledgement of the Russian Ministry of Finance has not been anyhow formalised. In a separate letter issued by the Russian Ministry of Finance on a later date, it opined that the foreign income recipient remains liable to tax, if the amount of tax was due to withholding and was not withheld by the Russian tax agent. The letter has not however been issued in connection with Eurobond structure. There can be no assurance that rules on self-assessment and payment of the respective withholding taxes by non-residents will not be introduced in the future or that the Russian tax authorities would not change their position on the matter in connection with Eurobond structures or would not make attempts to collect the tax from the foreign income recipients, including the Issuer, the Non-Resident Noteholders and/or the Trustee. Resident Noteholders that have the actual right to interest and other income on any Loan will be subject to Russian personal income tax (for Resident Noteholders - Individuals) or profit tax (for Resident Noteholders – Legal Entities) at applicable Russian tax rates, which may be withheld at source or payable on a self-assessed basis.

If interest and/or any other amounts due under any Loan become payable to the Trustee pursuant to the Trust Deed, there is some residual uncertainty whether the release from the obligation to withhold the tax under the Russian Tax Code would be available to Alfa Bank. Specifically, there is some uncertainty whether the Trustee will be qualified as an “entity authorised to receive interest income payable on traded bonds” containing in the Russian Tax Code. It is not expected that the Trustee will, or will be able to, claim a Russian withholding tax exemption or reduction under any applicable double tax treaty under such circumstances. It creates a potential risk that in case payments under the Loan of any Series are made to the Trustee for the benefit of the Non-Resident Noteholders, the Russian withholding tax at the rate of 20% (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of payment) or Russian personal income tax at the rate of 30% (or such other tax rate as may be effective at the time of payment), should be deducted from the amount of interest and some other payments under the relevant Loan Agreement. While some Non-Resident Noteholders may seek a reduction or elimination of Russian withholding tax or personal income tax, as applicable, or a refund of the respective taxes under applicable double tax treaties entered into between their countries of tax residence and the Russian Federation, where such treaties exist and to the extent they are applicable, there is no assurance that any treaty relief will be available to them in practice under such circumstances.

If any payments under any Loan become subject to Russian withholding tax (as a result of which the Issuer or the Trustee will be required to reduce payments made by it under the corresponding Notes by the amount of such withholding tax), Alfa Bank will be obliged (subject to certain conditions) under the terms of the relevant Loan Agreement to increase payments made by it under the relevant Loan as may be necessary so that the net payments received by the Issuer or the Trustee will be equal to the amounts they would have received in absence of such withholding tax. There is a risk that gross-up for Russian withholding tax may not take place and that payments made by Alfa Bank under the relevant Loan will be reduced by the amount of the Russian income tax or Russian personal income tax withheld by it at source.

If Alfa Bank is obliged to increase any payments under any Loan or to make additional payments on any or all Loans as described above, it may (without premium or penalty), subject to certain conditions, prepay the relevant Loan in full. In such case, all outstanding Notes of the corresponding Series will be redeemable or repayable at par together with accrued and unpaid interest and additional amounts, if any, to the date of repayment.

No VAT will be payable in Russia in respect of interest and principal payments under each Loan.

Certain United States Federal Tax Considerations

The following is a general description of certain U.S. federal income tax considerations related to the purchase, ownership and disposition of the Notes but does not purport to be a complete analysis of all potential tax effects. This discussion is limited to consequences relevant to a U.S. holder (as defined below), and does not address the effects of any U.S. federal tax laws other than U.S. federal income tax laws (such as estate and gift tax laws) or any state, local or non-U.S. tax laws. This discussion is based upon the Code, Treasury regulations issued thereunder (the “Treasury Regulations”), and judicial and administrative interpretations thereof, each as in effect on the date hereof, and all of which are subject to change, possibly with retroactive effect. No rulings from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (the “IRS”) have been or are expected to be sought with respect to the matters discussed below. There can be no assurance that the IRS will not take a different position concerning the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership or disposition of the Notes or that any such position would not be sustained.

This discussion does not address all of the U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to a holder in light of such holder's particular circumstances, including the impact of the unearned income Medicare contribution tax or the alternative minimum tax, or to holders subject to special rules, such as certain financial institutions, U.S. expatriates, insurance companies, dealers in securities or currencies, traders in securities, U.S. holders whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar, tax-exempt entities, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, partnerships or other pass through entities and investors in such entities, persons subject to special tax accounting rules as a result of any item of gross income with respect to the Notes being taken into account in an "applicable financial statement" (as defined in Section 451 of the Code), U.S. holders that are resident in or have a permanent establishment in a jurisdiction outside the United States, U.S. holders that hold Notes through non-U.S. brokers or other non-U.S. intermediaries and persons holding the Notes as part of a "straddle," "hedge," "conversion transaction" or other integrated transaction. In addition, this discussion is limited to persons who purchase Notes for cash at their "issue price" (the first price at which a substantial amount of Notes is sold to the public for cash, excluding sales to bond houses, brokers or similar persons or organizations acting in the capacity of underwriters, placement agents or wholesalers), or, if different, the price set forth in the relevant Pricing Supplement, and who hold the Notes as capital assets within the meaning of section 1221 of the Code.

For purposes of this discussion, a "U.S. holder" is a beneficial owner of a Note that is, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, (i) an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States; (ii) a corporation or any entity taxable as a corporation that is created or organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia; (iii) any estate the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income taxation regardless of its source; or (iv) any trust if a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust and one or more U.S. persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust, or if a valid election is in place to treat the trust as a U.S. person.

If any entity or arrangement treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes holds the Notes, the U.S. tax treatment of a partner in the partnership generally will depend upon the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. A partnership considering an investment in the Notes, and partners in such a partnership, should consult their tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of the Notes.

No authority directly addresses the U.S. federal income tax characterisation of securities like the Notes and the Issuer has not and will not seek a ruling from the IRS as to their characterisation for such purposes. To the extent relevant for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Issuer intends to treat the Notes as indebtedness for such purposes and this discussion assumes that treatment is correct. Alternative characterisations include treatment of the Notes as beneficial ownership of the Senior Loan or as equity in the Issuer. If the Notes were treated as equity, there is a significant risk that the U.S. holders may be treated as holding equity in a "passive foreign investment company". In addition, the Issuer intends to treat the Notes as debt instruments that are not treated as "contingent payment debt instruments" and such characterisation is binding on all U.S. holders unless a U.S. holder discloses otherwise on its U.S. federal income tax return. The foregoing position is not binding on the IRS or a court, and no assurance can be given that the IRS will not assert, or a court would not sustain, a position regarding the characterisation of the Notes that is contrary to the Issuer's characterisation. Prospective investors should seek advice from their tax advisers as to the proper characterisation of the Notes for U.S. federal income tax purposes and the consequences to them of alternative characterisations of the Notes for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

The following discussion assumes that the Notes will not be issued with any (or with only a de minimus amount of) original issue discount ("OID") for U.S. federal income tax purposes and are not treated as "contingent payment debt instruments", and that all interest on the Notes will constitute "qualified stated interest" for U.S. federal income tax purposes. You are urged to consult your tax advisor as to the particular consequences to you under U.S. federal, state and local, and any applicable foreign, tax laws of the acquisition, ownership and disposition of the Notes. Any supplemental U.S. federal income tax consequences of owning Notes will be discussed in the relevant Series Listing Particulars.

Prospective purchasers of the Notes should consult their tax advisors concerning the tax consequences of holding Notes in light of their particular circumstances, including the application of the U.S. federal income tax considerations discussed below, as well as the application of other federal, state, local, foreign or other tax laws.

Payments and accruals of stated interest

Except as noted below with respect to pre-issuance accrued interest, stated interest on the Notes (including any additional amounts paid in respect of withholding taxes and without reduction for any amounts withheld) generally will be includible in the gross income of a U.S. holder as ordinary income at the time that such payments are received or accrued, in accordance with such U.S. holder's method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

A U.S. holder that uses the cash method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes and that receives a payment of stated interest on the Notes will be required to include in income (as ordinary income) the U.S. dollar value of the foreign currency interest payment (determined based on the spot rate of exchange on the date such payment is received) regardless of whether the payment is in fact converted to U.S. dollars at such time. A cash method U.S. holder will not recognize foreign currency exchange gain or loss with respect to the receipt of such stated interest, but may recognize foreign currency exchange gain or loss attributable to the actual disposition of the foreign currency so received.

A U.S. holder that uses the accrual method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes, or who is otherwise required to accrue interest prior to receipt, will be required to include in income (as ordinary income) the U.S. dollar value of the amount of stated interest income in foreign currency that has accrued for such year determined by translating such amount into U.S. dollars at the average spot rate of exchange for the accrual period or, with respect to an accrual period that spans two taxable years, at the average spot rate of exchange for the partial period within each taxable year. Alternatively, an accrual basis U.S. holder may make an election (which must be applied consistently to all debt instruments held by the electing U.S. holder at the beginning of the first taxable year to which the election applies or thereafter acquired by the U.S. holder, and cannot be changed without the consent of the IRS) to translate accrued interest income into U.S. dollars using the spot rate of exchange on the last day of the interest accrual period (or the last day of the portion of the accrual period within each taxable year in the case of a partial accrual period), or at the spot rate of exchange on the date of receipt, if that date is within five business days of the last day of the accrual period. A U.S. holder that uses the accrual method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes will recognize foreign currency exchange gain or loss with respect to accrued stated interest income on the date such interest is received. The amount of foreign currency exchange gain or loss recognized will equal the difference, if any, between the U.S. dollar value of the foreign currency payment received (determined based on the spot rate of exchange on the date such stated interest is received) in respect of such accrual period and the U.S. dollar value of the interest income that has accrued during such accrual period (as determined above), regardless of whether the payment is in fact converted to U.S. dollars at such time. Any such foreign currency exchange gain or loss generally will constitute ordinary income or loss and be treated, for foreign tax credit purposes, as U.S. source income or loss, and generally will not be treated as an adjustment to interest income or expense.

Pre-issuance accrued interest

A portion of the purchase price paid for a Note may be allocable to unpaid stated interest that has accrued prior to the date the Note is purchased (the "pre-issuance accrued interest"). As a result, a portion of the first interest payment on a Note equal to the amount of such pre-issuance accrued interest may be treated as a nontaxable return of such pre-issuance accrued interest (except that a U.S. holder generally would be required to recognize exchange gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference, if any, between the U.S. dollar value of the pre-issuance accrued interest at the time of purchase and at the time the payment of such pre-issuance accrued interest is received, as determined at the spot rate in effect on each such date). Amounts treated as pre-issuance accrued interest should be excluded from the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in the Note and should not reduce a U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in the Note when received. U.S. holders are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the tax treatment of the pre-issuance accrued interest.

Amortizable bond premium

If a U.S. holder purchases a Note for an amount (not including any amount paid for pre-issuance accrued interest, as discussed above) in excess of its principal amount, such U.S. holder will be considered to have purchased the Note with "amortizable bond premium" in an amount equal to the excess.

Subject to certain exceptions and the limitation, a U.S. holder may elect to amortize any amortizable bond premium as an offset to stated interest over the remaining term of a Note on a constant yield method. A U.S. holder making this election must generally use any amortizable bond premium allocable to an accrual period to offset stated interest required to be included in income with respect to the Note in such accrual period. A U.S. holder that elects to amortize bond premium with respect to a Note must reduce its adjusted tax basis in the Note by the U.S. dollar amount of the premium amortized. An election to amortize bond premium applies to all taxable debt obligations then owned and thereafter acquired by such U.S. holder and such election may be revoked only with the consent of the IRS. Amortizable bond premium will be computed in foreign currency. A U.S. holder making the election to amortize bond premium generally would recognize exchange gain or loss each period equal to the difference between the U.S. dollar value of bond premium with respect to such period determined on the date the interest attributable to such period is received and the U.S. dollar value of such amortized bond premium determined on the date of the acquisition of the Notes. The Notes may be subject to call provisions at our option at various times. As a result, a U.S. holder may be required to calculate the amount of amortizable bond premium based on the amount payable on an applicable call date if the use of the call price and the call date results in a smaller amortizable bond premium for the period ending on the call date. U.S. holders are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the advisability of this election to amortize amortizable bond premium and availability of the deduction for amortizable bond premium.

With respect to a U.S. holder that does not elect to amortize bond premium, the amount of bond premium will reduce a gain or increase a loss upon sale, exchange or other disposition or result in a loss when the Note matures.

Sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of Notes

Upon the sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a Note, a U.S. holder generally will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference, if any, between the amount realized upon such disposition (less any amount equal to any accrued but unpaid stated interest, which, unless it represents pre-issuance accrued interest, will be taxable as interest income in accordance with the U.S. holder's method of tax accounting as described above to the extent not previously included in income by the U.S. holder) and such U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in the Note.

A U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in a Note will, in general, be the cost of such Note to such U.S. holder, excluding any amount attributable to pre-issuance accrued interest and decreased by any amortizable bond premium previously amortized by such U.S. holder with respect to the Note. The cost of a Note purchased with foreign currency generally will be the U.S. dollar value of the foreign currency purchase price on the date of purchase, calculated at the exchange rate in effect on that date. If the Note is traded on an established securities market, a cash basis taxpayer (and, if it elects, an accrual basis taxpayer) will determine the U.S. dollar value of the cost of the Note by translating the amount paid at the spot rate of exchange on the settlement date of the purchase.

If a U.S. holder receives foreign currency on such a sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a Note, the amount realized generally will be based on the U.S. dollar value of such foreign currency translated at the spot rate of exchange on the date of taxable disposition. In the case of a Note that is considered to be traded on an established securities market, a cash basis U.S. holder (and, if it so elects, an accrual basis U.S. holder) will determine the U.S. dollar value of such foreign currency by translating such amount at the spot rate of exchange on the settlement date of the disposition. The special election available to accrual basis U.S. holders in regard to the purchase and disposition of Notes traded on an established securities market must be applied consistently to all debt instruments held by the U.S. holder from year to year and cannot be changed without the consent of the IRS. An accrual basis U.S. holder that does not make the special election will recognize foreign currency exchange gain or loss to the extent that there are exchange rate fluctuations between the disposition date and the settlement date, and such gain or loss generally will constitute U.S. source ordinary income or loss.

Gain or loss recognized upon the sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a Note that is attributable to fluctuations in currency exchange rates with respect to the principal amount of such Note generally will be treated as ordinary income or loss. Gain or loss attributable to fluctuations in currency exchange rates with respect to the principal amount of a Note generally will equal the difference, if any, between (x) the U.S. dollar value of the U.S. holder's foreign currency purchase price for the Note (excluding any amounts attributable to pre-issuance accrued interest), determined at the spot rate of exchange on the date of the sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition and decreased by the U.S. dollar value of any amortizable bond premium amortized by the U.S. holder with respect to the Note, and (y) the U.S. dollar value of the U.S. holder's foreign currency purchase price for the Note (excluding any amounts attributable to pre-issuance accrued interest), determined at the spot rate of exchange on the date the U.S. holder purchased the Note and decreased by the U.S. dollar value of any amortizable bond premium previously amortized by the U.S. holder with respect to the Note. In addition, upon the sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a Note, a U.S. holder may recognize foreign currency exchange gain or loss attributable to amounts received with respect to accrued and unpaid stated interest (and, if applicable, pre-issuance accrued interest), which will be treated as discussed above under "—Payments of stated interest" or "—Pre-issuance accrued interest," as applicable. However, upon a sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a Note, a U.S. holder will recognize any foreign currency exchange gain or loss (including with respect to accrued and unpaid interest) only to the extent of total gain or loss realized by such U.S. holder on such disposition.

Any gain or loss recognized upon the sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a Note in excess of foreign currency exchange gain or loss attributable to such disposition generally will be U.S. source gain or loss and generally will be capital gain or loss. Capital gains of non-corporate U.S. holders (including individuals) derived in respect of capital assets held for more than one year are generally eligible for reduced rates of taxation. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

U.S. holders should consult their tax advisors regarding how to account for payments made in a foreign currency with respect to the acquisition, sale, exchange, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Note and the foreign currency received upon a sale, exchange, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Note.

Foreign tax credit

Stated interest income on a Note generally will constitute foreign source income, i.e. income from sources outside the United States, and generally will be considered passive category income in computing the foreign tax credit allowable to U.S. holders under U.S. federal income tax laws. Any non-U.S. withholding taxes withheld at the rate applicable to the relevant U.S. holder may be eligible for foreign tax credits (or deduction in lieu of such credits) for U.S. federal income tax purposes, subject to applicable limitations. There are significant complex limitations on a U.S. holder's ability to claim foreign tax credits. U.S. holders should consult their tax advisors regarding the credibility or deductibility of any withholding taxes in their particular circumstances.

Any foreign currency exchange gain or loss generally will constitute ordinary income or loss and be treated, for foreign tax credit purposes, as U.S. source income or loss, and generally not as an adjustment to interest income expense.

Substitution of the Issuer

The terms of the Notes provide that, in certain circumstances, the obligations of the Issuer under the Notes may be assumed by another entity. Any such assumption might be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a deemed disposition of Notes by a U.S. holder in exchange for new notes issued by the new obligor. As a result of this deemed disposition, a U.S. holder could be required to recognize capital gain or loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes equal to the difference, if any, between the issue price of the new (as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes), and the U.S. holder's tax basis in the Notes. U.S. holders should consult their tax advisers concerning the U.S. federal income tax consequences to them of a change in obligor with respect to the Notes.

Information reporting and U.S. backup withholding

In general, information reporting requirements will apply to payments of interest on the Notes and to the proceeds of the sale or other disposition (including a retirement or redemption) of a Note paid to a U.S. holder unless such U.S. holder is an exempt recipient, and, when required, provides evidence of such exemption.

U.S. backup withholding may apply to such payments if the U.S. holder fails to timely provide a taxpayer identification number or a certification that it is not subject to backup withholding, or otherwise fails to comply with, or establish an exemption from, the applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. Certain U.S. holders are not subject to backup withholding. U.S. holders should consult their tax advisers as to their qualification for exemption from backup withholding and the procedure for obtaining an exemption.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax and any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a refund or a credit against a U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability by filing the appropriate claim for a refund with the IRS and provided the required information is timely furnished to the IRS.

Tax return disclosure requirements

The Treasury Regulations that require the reporting to the IRS of certain tax shelter transactions cover certain transactions generally not regarded as tax shelters, including certain foreign currency transactions giving rise to losses in excess of a certain minimum amount, such as the receipt or accrual of interest on or a sale, exchange, retirement, redemption or other taxable disposition of a foreign currency note or foreign currency received in respect of a foreign currency note. U.S. holders should consult their tax advisers to determine the tax return disclosure obligations, if any, with respect to an investment in the Notes, including any requirement to file IRS Form 8886 (Reportable Transaction Disclosure Statement).

Information with respect to foreign financial assets

Certain U.S. holders that own “specified foreign financial assets” with an aggregate value in excess of certain thresholds generally are required to file an information report IRS Form 8938 (Statement of Specified Foreign Financial Assets) with respect to such assets with their tax returns. The Notes generally will constitute specified foreign financial assets subject to these reporting requirements, unless the Notes are held in certain accounts maintained by certain (e.g. U.S.) financial institutions.

U.S. holders are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the application of the foregoing disclosure requirements to their ownership of the Notes, including the significant penalties for non-compliance.

CERTAIN ERISA CONSIDERATIONS

Notes are not permitted to be acquired or held by employee benefit plans as defined in Section 3(3) of the U.S. Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (“ERISA”) and subject to Title I of ERISA, including collective investment funds, separate accounts or accounts whose underlying assets are treated as assets of such plans pursuant to the US Department of Labor (“DOL”) “plan assets” regulation, 29 CFR Section 2510.3-101, as modified by Section 3(42) of ERISA (collectively, “ERISA Plans”), plans or other arrangements not subject to ERISA but subject to Section 4975 of the Code, including individual retirement accounts and Keogh Plans (collectively, “4975 Plans”), or by entities whose underlying assets include plan assets by reason of an investment in the entity by ERISA Plans or 4975 Plans or otherwise (collectively, “Plan Asset Entities”). ERISA Plans, 4975 Plans and Plan Asset Entities are collectively referred to as “Benefit Plan Investors”. Subject to certain restrictions described below, Notes are permitted to be acquired and held by governmental plans, non-electing church plans and other arrangements that are not subject to ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code and are not Benefit Plan Investors (collectively, “Non-ERISA Plans”).

ERISA imposes fiduciary standards and certain other requirements on ERISA Plans and on those persons who are fiduciaries with respect to ERISA Plans. Section 406 of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code also prohibit certain transactions involving the assets of a Benefit Plan Investor and certain persons (referred to as “parties in interest” or “disqualified persons” under ERISA or the Code) having certain relationships to such Benefit Plan Investors, unless a statutory or administrative exemption is applicable to the transaction. A party in interest or disqualified person who engages in a non-exempt prohibited transaction may be subject to excise taxes and other penalties and liabilities under ERISA and the Code. A fiduciary of a Benefit Plan Investor that engages in a non-exempt prohibited transaction may also be subject to penalties and liabilities under ERISA and the Code. Non-ERISA Plans are subject to applicable state, local or federal law, as well as the restrictions of duties of common law, and may also be subject to fiduciary or prohibited transaction provisions that operate similarly to those under ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code.

Under the regulations issued by the DOL, as modified by Section 3(42) of ERISA (the Plan Asset Regulations), unless certain exceptions apply, if a Benefit Plan Investor invests in an “equity interest” of an entity, that is neither a “publicly offered security” nor a security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act, the Benefit Plan Investor’s assets include both the equity interest and an undivided interest in each of the entity’s underlying assets, unless it is established that the entity is not an “operating company” or that equity participation in the entity by Benefit Plan Investors is not “significant”. Equity participation is considered “significant” and therefore the “look through” rule will apply, where Benefit Plan Investors own 25 per cent. or more of the total value of any class of equity interest in the entity. For purposes of this 25 per cent. determination, the value of equity interests held by persons (other than Benefit Plan Investors) that have discretionary authority or control with respect to the assets of the entity or that provide investment advice for a fee (direct or indirect) with respect to such assets (or any affiliate of such person) is disregarded. An equity interest does not include debt (as determined by applicable local law), which does not have substantial equity features.

If the underlying assets of an entity are deemed to be plan assets, those with discretionary authority or control over the entity would be fiduciaries with respect to the entity’s assets. The assets of the entity would also be subject to the fiduciary and prohibited transaction rules of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code, as well as other rules applicable to plan assets.

The Issuer believes that the Notes should be treated as debt rather than equity for purposes of the Plan Assets Regulations. The DOL, however, may take a contrary view or may view the Notes as having substantial equity features. Further, neither the Issuer nor the Trustee will be able to monitor the Noteholders’ status as Benefit Plan Investors. Accordingly, the Notes are not permitted to be acquired or held by any Benefit Plan Investor.

Non-ERISA Plans are permitted to acquire and hold the Notes, subject to certain restrictions described below. Each Non-ERISA Plan acquiring and holding the Notes will be deemed to have represented and warranted that it is not a Benefit Plan Investor, that the acquisition, holding and disposition of the Notes do not and will not violate any statute, regulation, administrative decision, policy or other legal authority applicable to the Non-ERISA Plan and the purchase, holding and disposition of the Notes or any interest therein do not and will not result in the assets of the Issuer being considered plan assets of such Non-ERISA Plan. Non-ERISA Plans are generally not subject to ERISA nor do the prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code apply to these types of plans. However, governmental plans (as described in Section 3(32) of ERISA), are subject to prohibitions on related-party transactions under Section 503 of the Code, which prohibitions operate similarly to the prohibited transaction rules under ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, and other Non-ERISA Plans may be subject to similar prohibitions. Accordingly, the fiduciary of a Non-ERISA Plan must consider applicable state or local laws, if any, imposed upon such plan before purchasing and holding a Note or any interest therein.

BY ITS PURCHASE AND HOLDING OF A NOTE OR ANY INTEREST THEREIN, THE PURCHASER AND/OR HOLDER THEREOF AND EACH TRANSFEREE WILL BE DEEMED TO HAVE REPRESENTED AND WARRANTED AT THE TIME OF ITS PURCHASE AND THROUGHOUT THE PERIOD THAT IT HOLDS SUCH NOTE OR INTEREST THEREIN, THAT (1) IT IS NOT AND WILL NOT BE (A) AN EMPLOYEE BENEFIT PLAN AS DESCRIBED IN SECTION 3(3) OF ERISA THAT IS SUBJECT TO THE PROVISIONS OF TITLE I OF ERISA, (B) A PLAN TO WHICH SECTION 4975 OF THE CODE OF 1986, AS AMENDED APPLIES OR (C) AN ENTITY WHOSE UNDERLYING ASSETS INCLUDE PLAN ASSETS FOR PURPOSES OF ERISA OR SECTION 4975 OF THE CODE BY REASON OF AN INVESTMENT IN THE ENTITY BY A PERSON DESCRIBED IN (A) OR (B) ABOVE OR OTHERWISE, (2) IF IT IS A GOVERNMENTAL PLAN, AS DEFINED IN SECTION 3(32) OF ERISA, OR OTHER PLAN OR ARRANGEMENT THAT IS NOT SUBJECT TO TITLE I OF ERISA OR SECTION 4975 OF THE CODE, THE PURCHASE, HOLDING AND DISPOSITION OF THE NOTES OR ANY INTEREST THEREIN DO NOT AND WILL NOT VIOLATE ANY STATUTE, REGULATION, ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION, POLICY OR ANY OTHER LEGAL AUTHORITY APPLICABLE TO SUCH GOVERNMENTAL PLAN OR OTHER PLAN OR ARRANGEMENT THAT IS NOT SUBJECT TO TITLE I OF ERISA OR SECTION 4975 OF THE CODE, AND THE PURCHASE, HOLDING AND DISPOSITION OF THIS NOTE OR ANY INTEREST HEREIN DO NOT AND WILL NOT RESULT IN THE ASSETS OF THE ISSUER OF THE NOTES BEING CONSIDERED PLAN ASSETS OF SUCH GOVERNMENTAL PLAN OR OTHER PLAN NOT SUBJECT TO TITLE I OF ERISA OR SECTION 4975 OF THE CODE, AND (3) IT WILL NOT SELL OR OTHERWISE TRANSFER ANY NOTE OR INTEREST THEREIN TO ANY PERSON WITHOUT FIRST OBTAINING THE SAME FOREGOING REPRESENTATIONS, WARRANTIES AND COVENANTS FROM THAT PERSON.

The foregoing is not intended to be exhaustive and the law governing investments by Benefit Plan Investors and Non-ERISA Plans is subject to extensive administrative and judicial interpretations. The foregoing discussion should not be construed as legal advice. The sale of any Notes to any Non-ERISA Plan is in no respect a representation by the Issuer or any of its affiliates that such an investment meets all relevant legal requirements with respect to investments by Non-ERISA Plans generally or any particular Non-ERISA Plan, or that such an investment is appropriate for Non-ERISA Plans generally or any particular Non-ERISA Plan. Any potential purchaser or holder of Notes should consult counsel with respect to issues arising under ERISA, the Code and other applicable laws and make their own independent decisions.

In general, European regulated investors are restricted from using a rating for regulatory purposes if such rating is not issued by a credit rating agency established in the EEA and registered under the CRA Regulation unless (1) the rating is provided by a credit rating agency operating in the EEA before 7 June 2010 which has submitted an application for registration in accordance with the CRA Regulation and such registration has not been refused, or (2) the rating is provided by a credit rating agency not established in the EEA but is endorsed by a credit rating agency established in the EEA and registered under the CRA Regulation or (3) the rating is provided by a credit rating agency not established in the EEA which is certified under the CRA Regulation. maintain on its website, <https://www.esma.europa.eu/supervision/credit-rating-agencies/risk>, a list of credit rating agencies registered and certified in accordance with the CRA Regulation. The ESMA website is not incorporated by reference into, nor does it form part of, these Base Listing Particulars. This list must be updated within five working days of ESMA’s adoption of any decision to withdraw the registration of a credit rating agency under the CRA Regulation. Therefore such a list is not conclusive evidence of the status of the relevant rating agency as there may be delays between certain supervisory measures being taken against a relevant rating agency and the publication of the updated ESMA list. (The above disclosure should reflect the rating allocated to the Notes of the type being issued under the Programme generally or, where the issue has been specifically rated, that rating.)

Tranches of Notes issued under the Programme will be rated or unrated. Where a Tranche of Notes is rated, such rating will not necessarily be the same as the rating(s) disclosed in these Base Listing Particulars or the rating(s) assigned to Notes already issued. Where a Tranche of Notes is rated, the applicable rating(s) will be specified in the relevant Pricing Supplement or Series Listing Particulars (in respect of a Senior Series) or Series Listing Particulars only (in respect of a Subordinated Series). Whether or not each credit rating applied for in relation to a relevant Tranche of Notes will be (1) issued by a credit rating agency established in the EEA and registered (or which has applied for registration and not been refused) under the CRA Regulation, or (2) issued by a credit rating agency which is not established in the EEA but will be endorsed by a CRA which is established in the EEA and registered under the CRA Regulation or (3) issued by a credit rating agency which is not established in the EEA but which is certified under the CRA Regulation will be disclosed in the Pricing Supplement or Series Listing

Credit ratings assigned to the Notes do not necessarily mean that they are a suitable investment. A rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to revision, suspension or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating organisation.

In general, European regulated investors are restricted from using a rating for regulatory purposes if such rating is not issued by a credit rating agency established in the EEA and registered under the CRA Regulation unless (1) the rating is provided by a credit rating agency operating in the EEA before 7 June 2010 which has submitted an application for registration in accordance with the CRA Regulation and such registration has not been refused, or (2) the rating is provided by a credit rating agency not established in the EEA but is endorsed by a credit rating agency established in the EEA and registered under the CRA Regulation or (3) the rating is provided by a credit rating agency not established in the EEA which is certified under the CRA Regulation. The ESMA is obliged to maintain on its website, <https://www.esma.europa.eu/supervision/credit-rating-agencies/risk>, a list of credit rating agencies registered and certified in accordance with the CRA Regulation. The ESMA website is not incorporated by reference into, nor does it form part of, these Base Listing Particulars. This list must be updated within five working days of ESMA's adoption of any decision to withdraw the registration of a credit rating agency under the CRA Regulation. Therefore such a list is not conclusive evidence of the status of the relevant rating agency as there may be delays between certain supervisory measures being taken against a relevant rating agency and the publication of the updated ESMA list.

Scope of Review

We conducted our review in accordance with International Standard on Review Engagements 2410, “Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity”. A review of condensed consolidated interim financial information consists of making inquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. 2 Operating Environment of the Group

The Group has a significant exposure to the economy and financial markets of the Russian Federation. The Russian Federation displays certain characteristics of an emerging market. Its economy is particularly sensitive to oil and gas prices. The legal, tax and regulatory frameworks continue to develop and are subject to frequent changes and varying interpretations. The Russian economy continues to be negatively impacted by ongoing political tension in the region and international sanctions against certain Russian companies and individuals.

In March 2020, the World Health Organisation declared the outbreak of COVID-19 a global pandemic. In response to the pandemic, the Russian authorities implemented numerous measures attempting to contain the spreading and impact of COVID-19, such as travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, shelter-in-place orders and limitations on business activity, including closures. Many of the above measures were subsequently relaxed. However, as of 30 June 2021, the infection levels remain high, vaccination rate in Russia is low, and there is a risk that the Russian authorities would impose additional restrictions later in 2021.

In the first half of 2021 the Russian economy started to recover from the pandemic, largely due to an increase in households spending and public investments. This was also supported by the global economic recovery and high prices on global commodity markets. However, the prices on certain markets in Russia and globally are also growing in response to the economic recovery, contributing to an increase in inflation in Russia.

The long-term effects of the current economic environment are difficult to predict, and management's current expectations and estimates could differ from actual results.

3 Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of preparation. This condensed consolidated interim financial information has been prepared in accordance with International Accounting Standard ("IAS") 34 "Interim Financial Reporting" and should be read in conjunction with the annual consolidated financial statements of the Group for the year ended 31 December 2020, which have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS").

The accounting policies and methods of computation applied in the preparation of this condensed consolidated interim financial information are consistent with those disclosed in the annual consolidated financial statements of the Group for the year ended 31 December 2020, except for income tax expense which is recognized in this condensed consolidated interim financial information based on management's best estimates of the weighted average income tax rate expected for the full financial year.

Changes in presentation. Where necessary, corresponding figures from the annual consolidated financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2020 have been adjusted to conform to the presentation of amounts in this condensed consolidated interim financial information:

4 Critical Accounting Estimates and Judgements in Applying Accounting Policies

Estimates and judgements were reassessed and updated as compared to those made in the annual financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2020 to reflect the recent changes in the economic environment:

ECL measurement. Measurement of ECLs is a significant estimate that involves determination of methodology, models and data inputs to those models. The following components have a major impact on credit loss allowance: definition of default, definition of significant increase in credit risk (“SICR”), probability of default (“PD”), exposure at default (“EAD”), and loss given default (“LGD”), as well as assumptions used in models of macro-economic scenarios. The Group regularly reviews and validates the models and inputs to the models to reduce any differences between expected credit loss estimates and actual credit loss experience.

In this condensed consolidated interim financial information, the Group has taken into account the evidence of the current macroeconomic conditions seen through to the end of July 2021 and as described in Note 2 (the events after the interim reporting date were taken into account if they provided evidence related to the conditions existing at the reporting date or could have been reasonably anticipated).

In the first half of 2021, the Group reassessed macroeconomic variables impacting credit risk and expected credit losses, including oil and natural gas price dynamics, Russian stock market index MOEX dynamics and dynamics of the money supply (i.e. changes in volumes of currency in circulation, demand and saving deposits and liquid securities). The expected frequency of defaults in the corporate loan portfolio in the following 12 months following the valuation day shrunk in comparison with the level estimated as at 31 December 2020.

Based on macroeconomic forecast and statistical default observations of the portfolio the Group reconsidered associated the macroeconomic impact on the PD of corporate borrowers. This update resulted in a USD 5 million release of ECL.

5 Adoption of New or Revised Standards and Interpretations and New Accounting Pronouncements

New accounting standards and interpretations. The following amended standard became effective for the Group from 1 January 2021, but did not have any material impact on the Group:

Unless otherwise described below, the new standards and interpretations are not expected to affect significantly the Company’s financial statements:

- Amendments to IAS 1 and IFRS Practice Statement 2: Disclosure of Accounting policies (issued in February 2021 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023);
- Amendments to IAS 8: Definition of Accounting Estimates (issued in February 2021 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023);
- Covid-19-Related Rent Concessions – Amendments to IFRS 16 (issued in March 2021 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 April 2021);
- Deferred tax related to assets and liabilities arising from a single transaction – Amendments to IAS 12 (issued in May 2021 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023).

The credit loss allowance for loans and advances to customers recognised in the period is impacted by a variety of factors. The main movements in the table are described below:

- Transfers between Stage 1, 2 and 3 due to balances experiencing significant increases (or decreases) of credit risk or becoming credit-impaired in the period, and the consequent “step up” (or “step down”) between 12-month and Lifetime ECL;
- Additional allowances for new financial instruments recognised during the period, as well as releases for financial instruments derecognised (repaid) in the period;
- Impact on the measurement of ECL due to changes to model assumptions, including changes in PDs, EADs and LGDs in the period, arising from update of inputs to ECL models;

- Unwinding of discount due to the passage of time because ECL is measured on a present value basis;
- Foreign exchange translations of assets denominated in foreign currencies and other movements; and
- Write-offs of allowances related to assets that were written off during the period.

15 Segment Analysis

The Group's reportable segments are strategic business units that offer different products and services:

- Corporate and investment banking - comprises corporate lending, leasing, corporate deposit services, trade finance operations and structured corporate lending, securities trading, debt and equity capital markets services, derivative products, corporate finance advisory services and merger and acquisition advice.
- Medium, small and micro banking - comprises customer current accounts, savings, deposits, settlements, cash services and providing loans to individual entrepreneurs, small and medium businesses.
- Retail banking - comprises retail demand and term deposit services, credit and debit card services, retail lending (including consumer (POS) loans and personal instalment loans, car loans and mortgages), money transfers and private banking services.
- Treasury - comprises the Group's wholesale funding, internal funding reallocation, liquidity and risk management activities.

These segments are managed separately because each of them requires formulating a different strategy and uses different operational platforms. The Group evaluates segment performance on the basis of profit or loss before tax. Segment performance is regularly reviewed by the Group's Chief Operating Decision Maker ("CODM"). The CODM has been identified as the members of the Executive Board of Alfa-Bank.

The accounting policies of the operating segments are materially the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies except for: (i) use of a transfer pricing system, (ii) different classification of certain lines of income and expenses including other comprehensive income items and (iii) some balances and operations are excluded from segment analysis since they are monitored separately and on a less regular basis (including situations when balance is not allocated and related income or expense are allocated for the segment analysis and vice versa). In accordance with the transfer pricing system used by the Group funds are generally reallocated at internal interest rates set by the Treasury Department of the Group, which are determined by reference to market interest rate benchmarks, contractual maturities for loans and observed actual maturities of customer accounts balances.

16 Financial Risk Management

The Group's risk management policies and procedures are consistent with those disclosed in the annual consolidated financial statements of the Group for the year ended 31 December 2020.

Liquidity risk. The following table represents analysis of assets and liabilities as at 30 June 2021 by their expected maturities as determined by the Group. This analysis was prepared on the basis of contractual maturities except for adjustments in relation to (i) trading securities and (ii) part of customer accounts. The entire portfolio of trading securities was classified within "demand and less than 1 month" based on the Management's assessment of the portfolio's realisability. Part of current/settlement/demand accounts was reallocated from "demand and less than 1 month" category to baskets with later maturities. On the basis of past experience Management believes that (i) diversification of these accounts by number and type of customers and (ii) constant inflow of new deposits indicate that at least part of these current/demand/settlement accounts would provide a long-term and stable source of funding for the Group.

17 Contingencies and Commitments

Legal proceedings. From time to time and in the normal course of business, claims against the Group are received. On the basis of its own estimates and both internal and external professional advice, management is of the opinion that no material losses exceeding provision of USD 2 million (31 December 2020: USD 2 million) recorded in this condensed consolidated interim financial information as at 30 June 2021 will be incurred in respect of claims against the Group. In August 2021 the Group received a claim from the Prosecutor General's Office of the Russian Federation requiring the Group to pay up to USD 104 million in relation to a settlement of the Group loans with one of the significant borrowers. Based on its understanding of the facts and review of the legislation the Group is going to vigorously defend its position and believes that no material losses will ultimately be incurred in respect of this claim.

Credit related commitments and performance guarantees. The primary purpose of these instruments is to ensure that funds are available to a customer as required. Financial guarantees and standby letters of credit, which represent irrevocable assurances that the Group will make payments in the event that a customer cannot meet its obligations to third parties, carry the same credit risk as loans. Documentary and commercial letters of credit, which are written undertakings by the Group on behalf of a customer authorising a third party to draw drafts on the Group up to a stipulated amount under specific terms and conditions, are collateralised by the underlying shipments of goods to which they relate or cash deposits and therefore carry less risk than a direct borrowing.

In addition to credit related commitments, the Group issues performance guarantees. Performance guarantees are insurance contracts that provide compensation if another party fails to perform a contractual obligation. Such contracts transfer non-financial performance risk in addition to credit risk. The risk under performance guarantee contracts is the possibility that the insured event (i.e. the failure to perform the contractual obligation by another party) occurs. The key risks the Group faces are significant fluctuations in the frequency and severity of payments incurred on such contracts relative to expectations. The Group uses historical data and statistical techniques to predict levels of such payments. Claims must be made before the contract matures and most claims are settled within short term. This allows the Group to achieve a high degree of certainty about the estimated payments and therefore future cash flows. The Group manages such risks by constantly monitoring the level of payments for such products and has the ability to adjust its fees in the future to reflect any change in claim payments experience. The Group has a claim payment requests handling process which includes the right to review the claim and reject fraudulent or non-compliant requests.

Outstanding credit related commitments and performance guarantees were as follows:

In millions of US Dollars	30 June 2021	31 December 2020
Unused credit cards limits	7 707	6 940
Import letters of credit	885	855
Unused corporate overdraft facilities	773	672
Financial guarantees	298	246
Export letters of credit	42	11
Total credit related commitments	9 705	8 724
Performance guarantees	4 327	2 619
Total credit related commitments and performance guarantees	14 032	11 343
Credit loss allowance	(49)	(40)

As at 30 June 2021 the Group had USD 15 529 million (31 December 2020: USD 14 333 million) revocable commitments on credit lines. As at 30 June 2021 the Group had USD 8 943 million (31 December 2020: USD 7 118 million) commitments to provide financial and performance guarantees.

The total outstanding contractual amount of credit related commitments and performance guarantees does not necessarily represent future cash requirements, as these instruments may expire or terminate without being funded. The fair value of credit related commitments and performance guarantees was USD 49 million as at 30 June 2021 (31 December 2020: USD 40 million).

Compliance with covenants. In accordance with agreements for attracting financing the Group should comply with financial and non-financial covenants. The most significant covenants are:

- to comply with the ratios and requirements of the CBRF;
- to maintain a minimum ratio of capital to risk-weighted assets calculated in accordance with Basel;
- to maintain a minimum level of net assets; and
- to ensure that all related party transactions are on an arm's length basis.

The Group was in compliance with these covenants during the six-month period ended 30 June 2021 and during 2020.

18 Fair Value of Financial Instruments

Fair value measurements are analysed by level in the fair value hierarchy as follows: (1) level one are measurements at quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities, (2) level two measurements are valuations techniques with all material inputs observable for the asset or liability, either directly (that is, as prices) or indirectly (that is, derived from prices), and (3) level three measurements are valuations not based on observable market data (that is, unobservable inputs). Management applies judgement in categorising financial instruments using the fair value hierarchy. If a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment, that measurement is a Level 3 measurement. The significance of a valuation input is assessed against the fair value measurement in its entirety.

Recurring fair value measurements

For assets and liabilities carried at fair value, the levels in the fair value hierarchy, which the fair values are attributed to, were as follows:

In millions of US Dollars	30 June 2021			31 December 2020

Methods and assumptions for valuation of financial assets included in Level 2 and Level 3 of the fair valuation hierarchy

Level 2. The fair value of financial derivatives allocated to Level 2 was determined based on the discounted cash flows (DCF) models with all significant inputs observable in the market (LIBOR, EURIBOR, Mosprime, the CBRF rates for foreign currencies). The fair value of securities with insignificant trading volumes was based on quotes provided by reputable brokerage houses.

Level 3. Equity investments at FVOCI allocated to Level 3 represent investments in funds and have been valued using the fair value of net assets reported to the Group. The fair value of financial instruments mandatorily measured at FVTPL was based on the discounted cash flows (DCF) models and credit value adjustment which reflects the probability of default of counterparty and debit value adjustment which reflects the possibility of the Group's default.

Assets and liabilities not measured at fair value but for which fair value is disclosed

As at 30 June 2021 the fair value of each class of financial assets and liabilities carried at AC approximated their carrying value.

Cash and cash equivalents are carried at AC which approximates current fair value.

Loans and receivables carried at AC. The fair value of floating rate instruments is normally their carrying amount. The estimated fair value of fixed interest rate instruments is based on estimated future cash flows expected to be received discounted at current interest rates for new similar instruments with similar credit risk and remaining maturity.

Investments at AC. The fair value of investments at AC has been determined by reference to published price quotations.

Due to banks and customer accounts carried at AC. The estimated fair value of fixed interest rate instruments with stated maturity, for which a quoted market price is not available, was estimated based on expected cash flows discounted at current interest rates for new instruments with similar credit risk and remaining maturity. Discount rates used were consistent with the credit risk of the individual entities depending on currency and maturity of the instrument.

Debt securities issued. The fair value of traded securities has been determined by reference to published price quotations. The fair value of the rest of the debt was estimated on the basis of discounted cash flows using interest rates for similar instruments.

Subordinated debt. The fair value of traded subordinated debt has been determined by reference to published price quotations. The fair value of the rest of the debt was estimated on the basis of discounted cash flows using interest rates for similar instruments.

19 Related Party Transactions

For the purposes of this condensed consolidated interim financial information, parties are generally considered to be related if one party has the ability to control the other party, is under common control, or can exercise significant influence over the other party in making financial or operational decisions as defined by IAS 24 "Related Party Disclosures". In considering each possible related party relationship, attention is directed to the substance of the relationship, not merely the legal form.

Banking transactions are entered into in the normal course of business with related parties. These transactions include settlements, loans, deposit taking, guarantees, trade finance, corporate finance, foreign currency exchange and other transactions.

In the tables below amounts related to the caption "other related parties" are represented by associates and joint ventures of the Group.

Independent Auditor's Report

To the Shareholders and Board of Directors of ABH Financial Limited:

Our opinion

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the consolidated financial position of ABH Financial Limited (the "Company") and its subsidiaries (together – the "Group") as at 31 December 2020, and the Group's consolidated financial performance and its consolidated cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS).

What we have audited

The Group's consolidated financial statements comprise:

- the consolidated statement of financial position as at 31 December 2020;
- the consolidated statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income for the year then ended;
- the consolidated statement of changes in equity for the year then ended;
- the consolidated statement of cash flows for the year then ended; and
- the notes to the consolidated financial statements, which include significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (ISAs). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements section of our report.

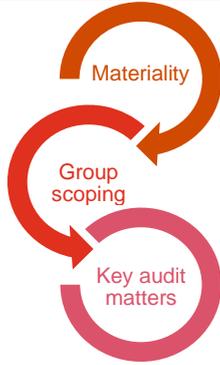

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Independence

We are independent of the Group in accordance with the International Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including International Independence Standards) issued by the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (IESBA Code) and the ethical requirements of the Auditor's Professional Ethics Code and Auditor's Independence Rules that are relevant to our audit of the consolidated financial statements in the Russian Federation. We have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements and the IESBA Code.

Our audit approach

Overview

Overall Group materiality: USD 60 million, which represents approximately 5% of average profit before tax for the past three years.

We tailored the scope of our audit in order to perform sufficient work to enable us to provide an opinion on the consolidated financial statements as a whole, taking into account the structure of the Group, the accounting processes and controls, and the industry in which the Group operates.

Credit loss allowance for loans and advances to customers.

As part of designing our audit, we determined materiality and assessed the risks of material misstatement in the consolidated financial statements. In particular, we considered where management made subjective judgements; for example, in respect of significant accounting estimates that involved making assumptions and considering future events that are inherently uncertain. As in all of our audits, we also addressed the risk of management override of internal controls, including among other matters consideration of whether there was evidence of bias that represented a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.

Materiality

The scope of our audit was influenced by our application of materiality. An audit is designed to obtain reasonable assurance whether the consolidated financial statements are free from material misstatement. Misstatements may arise due to fraud or error. They are considered material if individually or in aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the consolidated financial statements.

Based on our professional judgement, we determined certain quantitative thresholds for materiality, including the overall Group materiality for the consolidated financial statements as a whole as set out in the table below. These, together with qualitative considerations, helped us to determine the scope of our audit and the nature, timing and extent of our audit procedures and to evaluate the effect of misstatements, if any, both individually and in aggregate on the consolidated financial statements as a whole.

Overall Group materiality	USD 60 million.
How we determined it	Approximately 5% of average profit before tax of the past three years.
Rationale for the materiality benchmark applied	We chose average profit before tax of the past three years to mitigate the volatile nature of profit before tax in recent years. We chose 5%, which, in our experience, is within the range of acceptable quantitative materiality thresholds commonly used for this benchmark for public interest entities.

Key audit matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matter	How our audit addressed the key audit matter
Credit loss allowance for loans and advances to customers We focused on this matter due to the significance of loans and advances to customers balance and in particular the significance of management judgements and estimates required for calculation of the related credit loss allowance. Individual assessment of expected credit loss (ECL) is based on models which use expected future cash flows related to individual balances under different scenarios. Collective assessment of ECL, which is used for all loans not individually assessed, is based on models, which use internally developed risk metrics. The output from the models is then applied to the loan balances. The design of and inputs to the models are subject to significant management judgement. Note 10 “Loans and Advances to Customers” and Note 31 “Financial Risk Management” to the consolidated financial statements provide detailed information on the credit loss allowance for loans and advances to customers. Also Note 4 “Critical Accounting Estimates and Judgments in Applying Accounting Policies” to the consolidated financial statements outlines information on the impact on the credit loss allowance from the current macroeconomic conditions.	In relation to the ECL policies and models including changes made during 2020 (including the impact of COVID-19) we assessed the appropriateness of the key assumptions used and their compliance with the requirements of IFRS 9. We assessed and tested (on a sample basis) the design and operating effectiveness of the controls over identification of the overdue loans and the data transfer from source systems to ECL models. We performed various analytical procedures and backtesting over ECL allowance for loans and advances to customers to ensure the reasonableness of the application of the policies and models to prior period assessments. We analysed (on a sample basis) the significant loans and advances to legal entities, which had not been identified by management as impaired and formed our own judgement as to whether that was appropriate. This is done to gain comfort over the accuracy of allocation of loans to the different “stages”. We tested (on a sample basis) impaired loans and advances to legal entities with individual assessment of ECL allowance. We assessed the appropriateness of the scenarios used and their likelihood, examined the estimated future cash flows used by management, challenged the assumptions, including valuation of collateral and timing of cash flows, compared management estimates to available external evidence and re-performed discounted cash flows calculations. We assessed the ECL models for loans and advances to legal entities and checked the accuracy of the ECL allowance resulting from the models.

Key audit matter	How our audit addressed the key audit matter
	We assessed the application of forward-looking information to the models for loans and advances to legal entities and concluded on its appropriateness. For major segments of loans and advances to legal entities we tested probability of default (PD) and recalculated loss given default (LGD). We analysed the calculation of ECL allowance for loans and advances to individuals, and checked the logic and main assumptions used in the models applied by the management. The system of allocation of loans into the three “stages” defined by IFRS 9 is essential for the measurement of ECL and setting aside ECL allowances. Hence, we assessed the policies applied by the Group in this area and tested their application. We also checked the completeness and accuracy of the credit risk disclosures required by IFRS.

How we tailored our Group audit scope

We tailored the scope of our audit in order to perform sufficient work to enable us to provide an opinion on the consolidated financial statements as a whole, taking into account the structure of the Group, the accounting processes and controls, and the industry in which the Group operates.

We performed a full scope audit of JSC “ALFA-BANK” (Russian subsidiary of the Company, representing more than 90% of the Group’s total assets, revenue and net profit). In addition, we performed other limited audit procedures on the remaining components of the Group.

Responsibilities of management and those charged with governance for the consolidated financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with IFRS, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group’s ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Group or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the Group’s financial reporting process.

Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with ISAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
- Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the Group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, actions taken to eliminate threats or safeguards applied.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

The certified auditor responsible for the audit resulting in this independent auditor's report is Natalia Mileshkina.

2 Operating Environment of the Group

The Group has a significant exposure to the economy and financial markets of the Russian Federation.

Russian Federation. The Russian Federation displays certain characteristics of an emerging market. Its economy is particularly sensitive to oil and gas prices. The legal, tax and regulatory frameworks continue to develop and are subject to frequent changes and varying interpretations (Note 33). Russian economy continues to be negatively impacted by ongoing political tension in the region and international sanctions against certain Russian companies and individuals.

2 Operating Environment of the Group (Continued)

On 12 March 2020, the World Health Organisation declared the outbreak of COVID-19 a global pandemic. In response to the pandemic, the Russian authorities implemented numerous measures attempting to contain the spreading and impact of COVID-19, such as travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, shelter-in-place orders and limitations on business activity, including closures. The above measures were gradually relaxed during 2020 and 2021. These measures have, among other things, severely restricted economic activity in Russia and have negatively impacted, and could continue to negatively impact businesses, market participants, clients of the Group, as well as the Russian and global economy for an unknown period of time. As part of such measures the Group acts as agent in several government subsidy programmes for the most affected industries.

Management is taking necessary measures to ensure sustainability of the Group's operations. However, the future effects of the current economic situation are difficult to predict and management's current expectations and estimates could differ from actual results.

For the purpose of measurement of expected credit losses ("ECL") the Group uses supportable forward-looking information, including forecasts of macroeconomic variables. As at 31 December 2020 the Group updated the following economic variables on which the forecast of future macroeconomic conditions is based:

- oil and natural gas price dynamics;
- Russian stock market index MOEX dynamics;
- dynamics of the money supply, which includes changes in volumes of currency in circulation, demand and saving deposits and liquid securities.

As with any economic forecast, however, the projections and likelihoods of their occurrence are subject to a high degree of inherent uncertainty and therefore the actual outcomes may be significantly different from those projected. Note 4 provides more information on how the Group incorporated forward-looking information in the ECL models.

3 Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of preparation. These consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") under the historical cost convention, as modified by the initial recognition of financial instruments based on fair value, and by the revaluation of premises and equipment, investment properties, financial instruments categorised at fair value through profit or loss ("FVTPL") and at fair value through other comprehensive income ("FVOCI"). The principal accounting policies applied in the preparation of these consolidated financial statements are set out below. Policies have been consistently applied to all the periods presented, unless otherwise stated. Refer to Note 5.

Alfa-Bank maintains its accounting records in accordance with Russian banking regulations. Other subsidiaries maintain their accounting records in accordance with accounting regulations or applicable companies' law in their respective jurisdictions. These consolidated financial statements have been prepared from those accounting records and adjusted as necessary in order to be in accordance with IFRS.

Presentation currency. These consolidated financial statements are presented in millions of US Dollars. The US Dollar has been selected as the presentation currency of the Group as US Dollar is the currency which management of the Group uses to manage business risks and exposures and measure the performance of its businesses.

Functional currencies. Different entities within the Group have different functional currencies, based on the underlying economic conditions of their operations. In particular, Alfa-Bank and Alfa Leasing have Russian Roubles as their functional currency, as their activities are mostly based in the Russian Federation and are dependent on the condition of the Russian economy. Amsterdam Trade Bank N.V. has Euro as its functional currency, as its activities are mostly based in Europe. ABH Financial Limited and Alfa Capital Markets Ltd have US Dollars as their functional currency, as the companies operate internationally on markets mainly influenced by the US Dollar. Management evaluates the appropriateness of the respective functional currencies for the entities of the Group from time to time, so that the functional currency of any entity of the Group may change, once the economic conditions it is reliant on so dictate. Further information regarding the basis of translation of currencies in the preparation of these consolidated financial statements is provided under "Foreign Currency Translation" section of this Note.

Consolidated financial statements. Subsidiaries are those investees, including structured entities, that the Group controls because the Group (i) has power to direct relevant activities of the investees that significantly affect their returns, (ii) has exposure, or rights, to variable returns from its involvement with the investees, and (iii) has the ability to use its power over the investees to affect the amount of investor's returns. The existence and effect of substantive rights, including substantive potential voting rights, are considered when assessing whether the Group has power over another entity. For a right to be substantive, the holder must have practical ability to exercise that right when decisions about the direction of the relevant activities of the investee need to be made. The Group may have power over an investee even when it holds less than majority of voting power in an investee. In such a case, the Group assesses the size of its voting rights relative to the size and dispersion of holdings of the other vote holders to determine if it has de-facto power over the investee. Protective rights of other investors, such as those that relate to fundamental changes of investee's activities or apply only in exceptional circumstances, do not prevent the Group from controlling an investee. Subsidiaries are consolidated from the date on which control is transferred to the Group and are deconsolidated from the date on which control ceases.

The acquisition method of accounting is used to account for the acquisition of subsidiaries other than those acquired from parties under common control. Identifiable assets acquired and liabilities and contingent liabilities assumed in a business combination are measured at their fair values at the acquisition date, irrespective of the extent of any non-controlling interest.

The Group measures non-controlling interest that represents present ownership interest and entitles the holder to a proportionate share of net assets in the event of liquidation on a transaction by transaction basis, either at: (a) fair value, or (b) the non-controlling interest's proportionate share of net assets of the acquiree. Non-controlling interests that are not present ownership interests are measured at fair value.

Goodwill is measured by deducting the net assets of the acquiree from the aggregate of the consideration transferred for the acquiree, the amount of non-controlling interest in the acquiree and fair value of an interest in the acquiree held immediately before the acquisition date. Any negative amount ("gain on bargain purchase") is recognised in profit or loss, after management reassesses whether it identified all the assets acquired and all liabilities and contingent liabilities assumed, and reviews appropriateness of their measurement.

The consideration transferred for the acquiree is measured at the fair value of the assets given up, equity instruments issued and liabilities incurred or assumed, including fair value of assets or liabilities from contingent consideration arrangements, but excludes acquisition related costs such as advisory, legal, valuation and similar professional services. Transaction costs incurred for issuing equity instruments are deducted from equity; transaction costs incurred for issuing debt are deducted from its carrying amount and all other transaction costs associated with the acquisition are expensed.

Intercompany transactions, balances and unrealised gains on transactions between group companies are eliminated; unrealised losses are also eliminated unless the cost cannot be recovered. The Company and all of its subsidiaries use uniform accounting policies consistent with the Group's policies.

Non-controlling interest is that part of the net results and of the equity of a subsidiary attributable to interests which are not owned, directly or indirectly, by the Company. Non-controlling interest forms a separate component of the Group's equity.

Purchases and sales of non-controlling interest. The Group applies the economic entity model to account for transactions with owners of non-controlling interest. Any difference between the purchase consideration and the carrying amount of non-controlling interest acquired is recorded as a capital transaction directly in equity. The Group recognises the difference between sales consideration and carrying amount of non-controlling interest sold as a capital transaction in the consolidated statement of changes in equity.

Foreign currency translation. Monetary assets and liabilities are translated into each entity's functional currency at the official exchange rate at the respective end of the reporting period. Foreign exchange gains and losses resulting from the settlement of the transactions and from the translation of monetary assets and liabilities into each entity's functional currency at period-end exchange rates are recognised in profit or loss for the year. Translation at year-end rates does not apply to non-monetary items that are measured at historical cost. Non-monetary items measured at fair value in a foreign currency, including equity investments, are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value was determined. Effects of exchange rate changes on non-monetary items measured at fair value in a foreign currency are recorded as part of the fair value gain or loss.

Loans between group entities and related foreign exchange gains or losses are eliminated upon consolidation. However, where the loan is between group entities that have different functional currencies, the foreign exchange gain or loss cannot be eliminated in full and is recognized in the consolidated profit or loss, unless the loan is not expected to be settled in the foreseeable future and thus forms part of the net investment in foreign operation. In such a case, the foreign exchange gain or loss is recognized in other comprehensive income.

The results and financial position of each Group entity (none of which is in a hyperinflationary economy) are translated into US Dollar as presentation currency as follows:

- (i) assets and liabilities for each statement of financial position presented are translated at the closing rate at the end of the respective reporting period;
- (ii) income and expenses are translated at average exchange rates (unless this average is not a reasonable approximation of the cumulative effect of the rates prevailing on the transaction dates, in which case income and expenses are translated at the dates of the transactions);
- (iii) components of equity are translated at the historic rate; and
- (iv) all resulting exchange differences are recognised in other comprehensive income.

When control over a foreign operation is lost, the previously recognised exchange differences on translation to a different presentation currency are reclassified from other comprehensive income to profit or loss for the year as part of the gain or loss on disposal. On partial disposal of a subsidiary without loss of control, the related portion of accumulated currency translation differences is reclassified to non-controlling interest within equity.

As at 31 December 2020 the principal rate of exchange used for translating foreign currency balances was USD 1 = RR 73.8757 (2019: USD 1 = RR 61.9057), the average exchange rate for 2020 was USD 1 = RR 72.1464 (2019: USD 1 = RR 64.7362).

Financial instruments - key measurement terms. Depending on their classification financial instruments are carried at fair value or amortised cost as described below.

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The best evidence of fair value is price in an active market. An active market is one in which transactions for the asset or liability take place with sufficient frequency and volume to provide pricing information on an ongoing basis.

Fair value of financial instruments traded in an active market is measured as the product of the quoted price for the individual asset or liability and the quantity held by the entity. This is the case even if a market's normal daily trading volume is not sufficient to absorb the quantity held and placing orders to sell the position in a single transaction might affect the quoted price. The quoted market price which management considers is the most representative of fair value was used to measure fair value.

A portfolio of financial derivatives or other financial assets and liabilities that are not traded in an active market is measured at the fair value of a group of financial assets and financial liabilities on the basis of the price that would be received to sell a net long position (i.e. an asset) for a particular risk exposure or paid to transfer a net short position (i.e. a liability) for a particular risk exposure in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. This is applicable for assets carried at fair value on a recurring basis if the Group: (a) manages the group of financial assets and financial liabilities on the basis of the entity's net exposure to a particular market risk (or risks) or to the credit risk of a particular counterparty in accordance with the entity's documented risk management or investment strategy; (b) it provides information on that basis about the group of assets and liabilities to the entity's key management personnel; and (c) the market risks, including duration of the entity's exposure to a particular market risk (or risks) arising from the financial assets and financial liabilities is substantially the same.

Valuation techniques such as discounted cash flow models or models based on recent arm's length transactions or consideration of financial data of the investees, are used to measure fair value of certain financial instruments for which external market pricing information is not available. Fair value measurements are analysed by level in the fair value hierarchy as follows: (i) level one are measurements at quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities, (ii) level two measurements are valuations techniques with all material inputs observable for the asset or liability, either directly (that is, as prices) or indirectly (that is, derived from prices), and (iii) level three measurements are valuations not based on solely observable market data (that is, the measurement requires significant unobservable inputs). Transfers between levels of the fair value hierarchy are deemed to have occurred at the end of the reporting period. Refer to Note 38.

Transaction costs are incremental costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition, issue or disposal of a financial instrument. An incremental cost is one that would not have been incurred if the transaction had not taken place. Transaction costs include fees and commissions paid to agents (including employees acting as selling agents), advisors, brokers and dealers, levies by regulatory agencies and securities exchanges, and transfer taxes and duties. Transaction costs do not include debt premiums or discounts, financing costs or internal administrative or holding costs.

Amortised cost ("AC") is the amount at which the financial instrument was recognised at initial recognition less any principal repayments, plus accrued interest, and for financial assets less any allowance for expected credit losses. Accrued interest includes amortisation of transaction costs deferred at initial recognition and of any premium or discount to maturity amount using the effective interest method. Accrued interest income and accrued interest expense, including both accrued coupon and amortised discount or premium (including fees deferred at origination, if any), are not presented separately and are included in the carrying values of related items in the consolidated statement of financial position.

The effective interest method is a method of allocating interest income or interest expense over the relevant period, so as to achieve a constant periodic rate of interest (effective interest rate) on the carrying amount. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments or receipts (excluding future credit losses) through the expected life of the financial instrument or a shorter period, if appropriate, to the net carrying amount of the financial instrument.

The effective interest rate discounts cash flows of variable interest instruments to the next interest repricing date, except for the premium or discount which reflects the credit spread over the floating rate specified in the instrument, or other variables that are not reset to market rates. Such premiums or discounts are amortised over the whole expected life of the instrument. The present value calculation includes all fees paid or received between parties to the contract that are an integral part of the effective interest rate. For assets that are purchased or originated credit-impaired ("POCI") at initial recognition, the effective interest rate is adjusted for credit risk, i.e. it is calculated based on the expected cash flows on initial recognition instead of contractual payments.

Financial instruments – initial recognition. Financial instruments at FVTPL are initially recorded at fair value. All other financial instruments are initially recorded at fair value adjusted for transaction costs. Fair value at initial recognition is best evidenced by the transaction price. A gain or loss on initial recognition is only recorded if there is a difference between fair value and transaction price which can be evidenced by other observable current market transactions in the same instrument or by a valuation technique whose inputs include only data from observable markets. After the initial recognition, an ECL allowance is recognised for financial assets measured at AC and investments in debt instruments measured at FVOCI, resulting in an immediate accounting loss.

All purchases and sales of financial assets that require delivery within the time frame established by regulation or market convention ("regular way" purchases and sales) are recorded at trade date, which is the date on which the Group commits to deliver a financial asset. All other purchases are recognised when the entity becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument.

Financial assets – classification and subsequent measurement – measurement categories. The Group classifies financial assets in the following measurement categories: FVTPL, FVOCI and AC. The classification and subsequent measurement of debt financial assets depends on: (i) the Group's business model for managing the related assets portfolio and (ii) the cash flow characteristics of the asset.

Financial assets – classification and subsequent measurement – business model. The business model reflects how the Group manages the assets in order to generate cash flows – whether the Group’s objective is: (i) solely to collect the contractual cash flows from the assets (“hold to collect contractual cash flows”), or (ii) to collect both the contractual cash flows and the cash flows arising from the sale of assets (“hold to collect contractual cash flows and sell”) or, if neither of (i) and (ii) is applicable, the financial assets are classified as part of “other” business model and measured at FVTPL.

Business model is determined for a group of assets (on a portfolio level) based on all relevant evidence about the activities that the Group undertakes to achieve the objective set out for the portfolio available at the date of the assessment. Factors considered by the Group in determining the business model include the purpose and composition of a portfolio, how risks are assessed and managed and how the assets’ performance is assessed. Refer to Note 4 for critical judgements applied by the Group in determining the business models for its financial assets.

Financial assets – classification and subsequent measurement – cash flow characteristics. Where the business model is to hold assets to collect contractual cash flows or to hold contractual cash flows and sell, the Group assesses whether the cash flows represent solely payments of principal and interest (“SPPI”). Financial assets with embedded derivatives are considered in their entirety when determining whether their cash flows are consistent with the SPPI feature. In making this assessment, the Group considers whether the contractual cash flows are consistent with a basic lending arrangement, i.e. interest includes only consideration for credit risk, time value of money, other basic lending risks and profit margin.

Where the contractual terms introduce exposure to risk or volatility that is inconsistent with a basic lending arrangement, the financial asset is classified and measured at FVTPL. The SPPI assessment is performed on initial recognition of an asset and it is not subsequently reassessed.

Financial assets – reclassification. Financial instruments are reclassified only when the business model for managing the portfolio as a whole changes. The reclassification has a prospective effect and takes place from the beginning of the first reporting period that follows after the change in the business model.

Financial assets impairment – credit loss allowance for ECL. The Group assesses, on a forward-looking basis, the ECL for debt instruments measured at AC and FVOCI and for the exposures arising from loan commitments and financial guarantee contracts. The Group measures ECL and recognises credit loss allowance at each reporting date. The measurement of ECL reflects: (i) an unbiased and probability weighted amount that is determined by evaluating a range of possible outcomes, (ii) time value of money and (iii) all reasonable and supportable information that is available without undue cost and effort at the end of each reporting period about past events, current conditions and forecasts of future conditions.

Debt instruments measured at AC are presented in the consolidated statement of financial position net of the allowance for ECL. For loan commitments and financial guarantees, a separate provision for ECL is recognised as a liability in the consolidated statement of financial position. For debt instruments at FVOCI, changes in amortised cost, net of allowance for ECL, are recognised in profit or loss and other changes in carrying value are recognised in OCI as gains less losses on debt instruments at FVOCI.

The Group applies a three stage model for impairment, based on changes in credit quality since initial recognition. A financial instrument that is not credit-impaired on initial recognition is classified in Stage 1. Financial assets in Stage 1 have their ECL measured at an amount equal to the portion of lifetime ECL that results from default events possible within the next 12 months or until contractual maturity, if shorter (“12 Months ECL”). If the Group identifies a significant increase in credit risk (“SICR”) since initial recognition, the asset is transferred to Stage 2 and its ECL is measured based on ECL on a lifetime basis, that is, up until contractual maturity but considering expected prepayments, if any (“Lifetime ECL”). Refer to Note 31 for a description of how the Group determines when a SICR has occurred. If the Group determines that a financial asset is credit-impaired, the asset is transferred to Stage 3 and its ECL is measured as a Lifetime ECL. The Group’s definition of credit impaired assets and definition of default is explained in Note 31. For financial assets that are purchased or originated credit-impaired (“POCI Assets”), the ECL is always measured as a Lifetime ECL. Note 31 provides information about inputs, assumptions and estimation techniques used in measuring ECL.

Financial assets – write-off. Financial assets are written-off, in whole or in part, when the Group exhausted all practical recovery efforts and has concluded that there is no reasonable expectation of recovery. The write-off represents a derecognition event. The Group may write-off financial assets that are still subject to enforcement activity when the Group seeks to recover amounts that are contractually due, however, there is no reasonable expectation of recovery.

Financial assets – derecognition. The Group derecognises financial assets when (a) the assets are redeemed or the rights to cash flows from the assets otherwise expired or (b) the Group has transferred the rights to the cash flows from the financial assets or entered into a qualifying pass-through arrangement while (i) also transferring substantially all risks and rewards of ownership of the assets or (ii) neither transferring nor retaining substantially all risks and rewards of ownership, but not retaining control. Control is retained if the counterparty does not have the practical ability to sell the asset in its entirety to an unrelated third party without needing to impose restrictions on the sale.

Financial assets – modification. The Group sometimes renegotiates or otherwise modifies the contractual terms of the financial assets. The Group assesses whether the modification of contractual cash flows is substantial considering, among other, the following factors: any new contractual terms that substantially affect the risk profile of the asset, significant change in interest rate, change in the currency denomination, new collateral or credit enhancement that significantly affects the credit risk associated with the asset or a significant extension of a loan when the borrower is not in financial difficulties.

If the modified terms are substantially different, the rights to cash flows from the original asset expire and the Group derecognises the original financial asset and recognises a new asset at its fair value. The date of renegotiation is considered to be the date of initial recognition for subsequent impairment calculation purposes, including determining whether a SICR has occurred. The Group also assesses whether the new loan or debt instrument meets the SPPI criterion. Any difference between the carrying amount of the original asset derecognised and fair value of the new substantially modified asset is recognised in profit or loss, unless the substance of the difference is attributed to a capital transaction with owners.

In a situation where the renegotiation was driven by financial difficulties of the counterparty and inability to make the originally agreed payments, the Group compares the original and revised expected cash flows to assets whether the risks and rewards of the asset are substantially different as a result of the contractual modification. If the risks and rewards do not change, the modified asset is not substantially different from the original asset and the modification does not result in derecognition. The Group recalculates the gross carrying amount by discounting the modified contractual cash flows by the original effective interest rate (or credit-adjusted effective interest rate for POCI financial assets) and recognises a modification gain or loss in profit or loss.

Financial liabilities – measurement categories. Financial liabilities are classified as subsequently measured at AC, except for (i) financial liabilities at FVTPL: this classification is applied to derivatives, financial liabilities held for trading (e.g. short positions in securities), contingent consideration recognised by an acquirer in a business combination and other financial liabilities designated as such at initial recognition and (ii) financial guarantee contracts and loan commitments.

Financial liabilities – derecognition. Financial liabilities are derecognised when they are extinguished (i.e. when the obligation specified in the contract is discharged, cancelled or expires).

An exchange between the Group and its original lenders of debt instruments with substantially different terms, as well as substantial modifications of the terms and conditions of existing financial liabilities, are accounted for as an extinguishment of the original financial liability and the recognition of a new financial liability. The terms are substantially different if the discounted present value of the cash flows under the new terms, including any fees paid net of any fees received and discounted using the original effective interest rate, is at least 10% different from the discounted present value of the remaining cash flows of the original financial liability. In addition, other qualitative factors, such as the currency that the instrument is denominated in, changes in the type of interest rate, new conversion features attached to the instrument and change in loan covenants are also considered. If an exchange of debt instruments or modification of terms is accounted for as an extinguishment, any costs or fees incurred are recognised as part of the gain or loss on the extinguishment. If the exchange or modification is not accounted for as an extinguishment, any costs or fees incurred adjust the carrying amount of the liability and are amortised over the remaining term of the modified liability.

Modifications of liabilities that do not result in extinguishment are accounted for as a change in estimate using a cumulative catch up method, with any gain or loss recognised in profit or loss, unless the economic substance of the difference in carrying values is attributed to a capital transaction with owners.

Cash and cash equivalents. Cash and cash equivalents are items which are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and which are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value. All short-term placements with other banks, beyond overnight placements, are included in due from other banks. Amounts which relate to funds that are of a restricted nature are excluded from cash and cash equivalents, both in the consolidated statement of financial position and for the purposes of the consolidated statement of cash flows. Cash and cash equivalents are carried at AC because: (i) they are held for collection of contractual cash flows and those cash flows represent SPPI, and (ii) they are not designated at FVTPL.

The payments or receipts presented in the consolidated statement of cash flows represent transfers of cash and cash equivalents by the Group, including amounts charged or credited to current accounts of the Group's counterparties held with the Group, such as loan interest income or principal collected by charging the customer's current account or interest payments or disbursement of loans credited to the customer's current account, which represents cash or cash equivalent from the customer's perspective.

Mandatory cash balances with central banks. Mandatory cash balances with central banks are carried at AC and represent non-interest-bearing mandatory reserve deposits with the CBRF and other local central banks, which are not available to finance the Group's day-to-day operations and hence are not considered as part of cash and cash equivalents for the purposes of the consolidated statement of cash flows.

Due from other banks. Amounts due from other banks are recorded when the Group advances money to counterparty banks. Amounts due from other banks are carried at AC when: (i) they are held for the purposes of collecting contractual cash flows and those cash flows represent SPPI, and (ii) they are not designated at FVTPL.

Loans and advances to customers. Loans and advances to customers are recorded when the Group advances money to purchase or originate a receivable from a customer. Based on the business model and the cash flow characteristics, the Group classifies loans and advances to customers into one of the following measurement categories:

- 1) AC: loans that are held for collection of contractual cash flows and those cash flows represent SPPI, and that are not voluntarily designated at FVTPL, are measured at AC.
- 2) FVTPL: loans that do not meet the criteria for AC or FVOCI are measured at FVTPL.

Impairment allowances are determined based on forward-looking ECL model. Note 31 provides information about inputs, assumptions and estimation techniques used in measuring ECL.

Repossessed collateral. Repossessed collateral represents financial and non-financial assets acquired by the Group in settlement of overdue loans. These assets are initially recognised at fair value when acquired and included in premises and equipment, other financial assets, investment properties or inventories within other assets depending on their nature and the Group's intention in respect of recovery of these assets and are subsequently remeasured and accounted for in accordance with the accounting policies for these asset categories.

Where repossessed collateral results in acquiring control over a business, the business combination is accounted for using the acquisition method of accounting with fair value of the settled loan representing the cost of acquisition (refer to the accounting policy for consolidation).

Loan commitments. The Group issues commitments to provide loans. These commitments are irrevocable or revocable only in response to a material adverse change. Such commitments are initially recognised at their fair value, which is normally evidenced by the amount of fees received. This amount is amortised on a straight-line basis over the life of the commitment, except for commitments to originate loans if it is probable that the Group will enter into a specific lending arrangement and does not expect to sell the resulting loan shortly after origination; such loan commitment fees are deferred and included in the carrying value of the loan on initial recognition. At the end of each reporting period, the commitments are measured at (i) the remaining unamortised balance of the amount at initial recognition, plus (ii) the amount of the loss allowance determined based on the expected credit loss model, unless the commitment is to provide a loan at a below market interest rate, in which case the measurement is at the higher of these two amounts. The carrying amount of the loan commitments represents a liability. For contracts that include both a loan and an undrawn commitment and where the Group cannot separately distinguish the ECL on the undrawn loan component from the loan component, the ECL on the undrawn commitment is recognised together with the loss allowance for the loan. To the extent that the combined ECLs exceed the gross carrying amount of the loan, they are recognised as a liability.

Financial guarantees. Financial guarantees require the Group to make specified payments to reimburse the holder of the guarantee for a loss it incurs because a specified debtor fails to make payment when due in accordance with the original or modified terms of a debt instrument. Financial guarantees are initially recognised at their fair value, which is normally evidenced by the amount of fees received. This amount is amortised on a straight-line basis over the life of the guarantee. At the end of each reporting period, the guarantees are measured at the higher of (i) the amount of the loss allowance for the guaranteed exposure determined based on the expected loss model and (ii) the remaining unamortised balance of the amount at initial recognition. In addition, an ECL loss allowance is recognised for fees receivable that are recognised in the consolidated statement of financial position as an asset.

Performance guarantees. Performance guarantees are contracts that provide compensation if another party fails to perform a contractual obligation. Such contracts transfer non-financial performance risk in addition to credit risk. Performance guarantees are initially recognised at their fair value, which is normally evidenced by the amount of fees received. This amount is amortised on a straight-line basis over the life of the contract. At the end of each reporting period, the performance guarantee contracts are measured at the higher of (i) the unamortised balance of the amount at initial recognition and (ii) the best estimate of expenditure required to settle the contract at the end of each reporting period, discounted to present value. Where the Group has the contractual right to revert to its customer for recovering amounts paid to settle the performance guarantee contracts, such amounts will be recognised as loans and receivables upon transfer of the loss compensation to the guarantee's beneficiary.

Investments in debt securities. Based on the business model and the cash flow characteristics, the Group classifies investments in debt securities into one of the following measurement categories:

- 1) AC: debt securities that are held for collection of contractual cash flows and where those cash flows represent SPPI, and that are not voluntarily designated at FVTPL in order to significantly reduce an accounting mismatch, are measured at AC.
- 2) FVOCI: debt securities that are held for collection of contractual cash flows and for selling, where those cash flows represent SPPI, and that are not designated at FVTPL, are measured at FVOCI. Interest income from these assets is calculated using the effective interest method and recognised in profit or loss. An impairment allowance estimated using the expected credit loss model is recognised in profit or loss for the year. All other changes in the carrying value are recognised in OCI. When the debt security is derecognised, the cumulative gain or loss previously recognised in OCI is reclassified from OCI to profit or loss.
- 3) FVTPL: investments in debt securities that do not meet the criteria for AC or FVOCI are measured at FVTPL (mandatory FVTPL). The Group may also irrevocably designate investments in debt securities at FVTPL on initial recognition (designated FVTPL) if applying this option significantly reduces or eliminates an accounting mismatch between financial assets and liabilities being recognised or measured on different accounting bases (the recognition mismatch or the measurement mismatch).

Investments in equity securities. Financial assets that meet the definition of equity from the issuer's perspective, i.e. instruments that do not contain a contractual obligation to pay cash and that evidence a residual interest in the issuer's net assets, are considered as investments in equity securities by the Group.

Investments in equity securities are measured at FVTPL, except where the Group elects at initial recognition to irrevocably designate an equity investment at FVOCI. The Group's policy is to designate equity investments as FVOCI when those investments are held for purposes other than to generate investment returns. When the FVOCI election is used, fair value gains and losses are recognised in OCI and are not subsequently reclassified to profit or loss, including on disposal. Impairment losses and their reversal, if any, are not measured separately from other changes in fair value. Dividends continue to be recognised in profit or loss when the Group's right to receive payments is established except when they represent a recovery of an investment rather than a return on such investment.

Sale and repurchase agreements and lending of securities. Sale and repurchase agreements ("repo agreements"), which effectively provide a lender's return to the counterparty, are treated as secured financing transactions. Securities sold under such sale and repurchase agreements are not derecognised. The securities are reclassified as repurchase receivables in the consolidated statement of financial position if the transferee has the right by contract or custom to sell or repledge the securities. The corresponding liability is presented within amounts due to other banks or other borrowed funds.

Securities purchased under agreements to resell (“reverse repo agreements”), which effectively provide a lender’s return to the Group, are recorded as due from other banks or loans and advances to customers, as appropriate. The difference between the sale and repurchase price, adjusted by interest and dividend income collected by the counterparty, is treated as interest income and accrued over the life of repo agreements using the effective interest method.

Securities lent to counterparties for a fixed fee are retained in the consolidated financial statements in their original category in the consolidated statement of financial position unless the counterparty has the right by contract or custom to sell or repledge the securities, in which case they are reclassified and presented separately. Securities borrowed for a fixed fee are not recorded in the consolidated financial statements, unless these are sold to third parties, in which case the purchase and sale are recorded in profit or loss for the year within gains less losses arising from trading securities. The obligation to return the securities is recorded at fair value in other borrowed funds.

Investment property. Investment property is property held by the Group to earn rental income or for capital appreciation, or both and which is not occupied by the Group.

Investment property is initially recognised at cost, including transaction costs, and subsequently remeasured at fair value updated to reflect market conditions at the end of the reporting period. Fair value of investment property is the price that would be received from sale of the asset in an ordinary transaction, without deduction of any transaction costs. Fair value of the Group’s investment property is determined based on reports of independent appraisers, who hold a recognised and relevant professional qualification and who have recent experience in valuation of property of similar location and category.

Earned rental income is recorded in profit or loss for the year within other operating income. Gains and losses resulting from changes in the fair value of investment property are recorded in profit or loss for the year and presented in the line Gains less losses from investment properties.

Goodwill. Goodwill is carried at cost less accumulated impairment losses, if any. The Group tests goodwill for impairment at least annually and whenever there are indications that goodwill may be impaired. Goodwill is allocated to the cash-generating units, or groups of cash-generating units, that are expected to benefit from the synergies of the business combination. Such units or group of units represent the lowest level at which the Group monitors goodwill and are not larger than an operating segment. Gains or losses on disposal of an operation within a cash generating unit to which goodwill has been allocated include the carrying amount of goodwill associated with the operation disposed of, generally measured on the basis of the relative values of the operation disposed of and the portion of the cash-generating unit which is retained.

Premises and equipment. Equipment is stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and provision for impairment, where required.

Premises of the Group are subject to revaluation on a regular basis. Revaluations are made with sufficient regularity to ensure that the carrying amount does not differ materially from that which would be determined using fair value at the end of the reporting period. Increases in the carrying amount arising on revaluation are credited to other comprehensive income and increase the revaluation surplus in equity. Decreases that offset previous increases of the same asset are recognised in other comprehensive income and decrease the previously recognised revaluation surplus in equity; all other decreases are charged to profit or loss for the year. The revaluation reserve for premises included in equity is transferred directly to retained earnings when the surplus is realised on the retirement or disposal of the asset. The amount of the surplus realised is the difference between depreciation based on the revalued carrying amount of the asset and depreciation based on the asset’s original cost.

Premises and equipment of acquired subsidiaries are initially recorded in the consolidated statement of financial position at their estimated fair value at the date of acquisition of the acquired subsidiary, being their cost to the Group.

Construction in progress is carried at cost less provision for impairment where required. Upon completion, assets are transferred to premises and equipment at their carrying value. Construction in progress is not depreciated until the asset is available for use.

Costs of minor repairs and maintenance are expensed when incurred. Costs of replacing major parts or components of premises and equipment items are capitalised and the replaced part is retired.

At each reporting date the Group assesses whether there is any indication of impairment of premises and equipment. If any such indication exists, the Group estimates the recoverable amount, which is determined as the higher of an asset's fair value less costs to sell or its value in use. Where the carrying amount of an asset is greater than its estimated recoverable amount, it is written down to its recoverable amount and the difference is charged to profit or loss for the year, unless it has previously been revalued, in which case the revaluation surplus is eliminated first and any additional loss is charged in profit or loss for the year. An impairment loss recorded for an asset in prior periods is reversed if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the asset's recoverable amount.

Gains and losses on disposal of premises and equipment are determined by comparing their carrying amount with the sale proceeds and are recognised in profit or loss for the year.

Computer software. Acquired computer software licenses are capitalised on the basis of the costs incurred to acquire and bring to use the specific software. Costs associated with maintaining computer software programmes are recorded as an expense as incurred. Internal development costs that are directly associated with identifiable and unique software products controlled by the Group which will probably generate economic benefits exceeding costs beyond one year are recorded as intangible assets.

Expenditure which enhances or extends the performance of computer software programmes beyond their original specifications is recorded as a capital improvement and added to the original cost of the software.

Computer software development costs recorded as assets are amortised using the straight-line method over their useful lives of five to ten years.

Depreciation. Depreciation is applied on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of the assets using the following rates:

Premises	2% per annum;
Office equipment	16% - 20% per annum;
Computer equipment	25% - 33% per annum;
Leasehold improvements	over the term of the underlying lease;
Right-of-use assets	over the term of the underlying lease.

The residual value of an asset is the estimated amount that the Group would currently obtain from disposal of the asset less the estimated costs of disposal, if the asset were already of the age and in the condition expected at the end of its useful life. The assets' residual values and useful lives are reviewed, and adjusted if appropriate, at the end of each reporting period.

Accounting for leases by the Group as a lessee. Leases entered by the Group are recognized as a right-of-use asset and a corresponding liability at the date at which the leased asset is available for use by the Group. Each lease payment is allocated between the liability and finance cost. The finance cost is charged to profit or loss over the lease period so as to produce a constant periodic rate of interest on the remaining balance of the liability for each period. The right-of-use asset is depreciated over the shorter of the right-of-use asset's useful life and the lease term on a straight-line basis.

Right-of-use assets are disclosed within premises and equipment and right-of-use assets line, lease liabilities are disclosed within other liabilities line of the consolidated statement of financial position. Finance cost is disclosed within other similar expense line, depreciation of right-of-use assets is disclosed within operating expenses line of the consolidated statement of profit or loss. Cash outflow for lease liabilities is disclosed within cash flows from financing activities of the consolidated statement of cash flows.

Assets and liabilities arising from a lease are initially measured on a present value basis. Lease liabilities include the net present value of the following lease payments:

- fixed payments (including in-substance fixed payments), less any lease incentives receivable under cancellable and non-cancellable operating leases,
- variable lease payments that are based on an index or a rate,
- amounts expected to be payable by the lessee under residual value guarantees,
- the exercise price of a purchase option if the lessee is reasonably certain to exercise that option, and
- payments of penalties for terminating the lease, if the lease term reflects the lessee exercising that option.

The lease payments are discounted using the lessee's incremental borrowing rate, being the rate that the lessee would have to pay to borrow the funds necessary to obtain an asset of similar value in a similar economic environment with similar terms and conditions.

Right-of-use assets are measured at cost comprising the following:

- the amount of the initial measurement of lease liability,
- any lease payments made at or before the commencement date less any lease incentives received,
- any initial direct costs, and
- restoration costs.

Payments associated with short-term leases, leases of low-value assets and variable lease payments not dependent on index or rate are recognised on a straight-line basis as an expense in profit or loss.

Accounting for operating leases by the Group as a lessor. When assets are leased out under an operating lease, the lease payments receivable are recognised as rental income on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

Finance lease receivables. Where the Group is a lessor in a lease which transfers substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership to the lessee, the assets leased out are presented as a finance lease receivable and carried at the present value of the future lease payments. Finance lease receivables are initially recognised at commencement (when the lease term begins) using a discount rate determined at inception (the earlier of the date of the lease agreement and the date of commitment by the parties to the principal provisions of the lease).

The difference between the gross receivable and the present value represents unearned finance income. This income is recognised over the term of the lease using the net investment method (before tax), which reflects a constant periodic rate of return. Incremental costs directly attributable to negotiating and arranging the lease are included in the initial measurement of the finance lease receivable and reduce the amount of income recognised over the lease term. Finance income from leases is recorded within other similar income in profit or loss for the year.

Credit loss allowance is recognised in accordance with the general ECL model. The ECL is determined in the same way as for loans and advances measured at AC and recognised through an allowance account to write down the receivables' net carrying amount to the present value of expected cash flows discounted at the interest rates implicit in the finance leases. The estimated future cash flows reflect the cash flows that may result from obtaining and selling the assets subject to the lease.

Due to other banks. Amounts due to other banks are recorded when money or other assets are advanced to the Group by counterparty banks. The non-derivative liability is carried at AC.

Customer accounts. Customer accounts are non-derivative liabilities to individuals, state or corporate customers and are carried at AC.

Financial liabilities designated at FVTPL. The Group may designate certain liabilities at FVTPL at initial recognition. Gains and losses on such liabilities are presented in profit or loss except for the amount of change in the fair value that is attributable to changes in the credit risk of that liability (determined as the amount that is not attributable to changes in market conditions that give rise to market risk), which is recorded in OCI and is not subsequently reclassified to profit or loss. This is unless such a presentation would create, or enlarge, an accounting mismatch, in which case the gains and losses attributable to changes in credit risk of the liability are also presented in profit or loss.

Debt securities issued. Debt securities issued include promissory notes, bonds, commercial paper and term notes. Promissory notes issued by the Group have a fixed date of repayment. These may be issued against cash deposits or as a payment instrument, which the purchaser can discount in the over-the-counter secondary market. Debt securities are stated at AC.

If the Group purchases its own debt securities issued, they are removed from the consolidated statement of financial position and the difference between the carrying amount of the liability and the consideration paid is recorded in profit or loss for the year as gains less losses arising from acquisition of own debts.

Subordinated debt. Subordinated debt ranks behind all other creditors in case of liquidation. Subordinated debt is carried at AC.

Acquired own subordinated notes are removed from the consolidated statement of financial position and the difference between the carrying amount of the liability and the consideration paid is recorded in profit or loss for the year as gains less losses arising from acquisition of own debts.

Trade and other payables. Trade payables are accrued when the counterparty has performed its obligations under the contract and are carried at AC.

Share capital. Ordinary shares are classified as equity. Incremental costs directly attributable to the issue of new shares are shown in equity as a deduction, net of tax, from the proceeds. Any excess of the fair value of consideration received over the par value of shares issued is recorded as share premium in equity.

Dividends. Dividends are recorded in equity in the period in which they are declared. Dividends that are declared after the end of the reporting period are disclosed as subsequent events.

Derivative financial instruments and hedge accounting. Derivative financial instruments including foreign exchange contracts, currency and interest rate swaps and other derivative financial instruments are carried at their fair value.

Fair values are obtained from quoted market prices in active markets, including recent market transactions, and valuation techniques, including discounted cash flow models and options pricing models, as appropriate. All derivative instruments are carried as assets when fair value is positive, and as liabilities when fair value is negative. Changes in the fair value of derivative financial instruments are included in profit or loss for the year in gains less losses arising from foreign currencies, gains less losses arising from trading securities and other operating income, depending on the related contracts, unless the derivatives qualify as hedging instruments.

The Group applies hedge accounting for its existing hedge by foreign currency exchange forward contracts of part of the Group's net investment in subsidiaries of the Group that have Russian Rouble as a functional currency. Also, the Group applies hedge accounting for its existing hedge of interest payments on borrowings and loans and advances to customers using interest rate swaps. The Group receives a floating rate and pays a fixed rate on the interest rate swaps for its existing hedge of interest payments on loans and advances to customers. The Group receives a fixed rate and pays a floating rate on the interest rate swaps for its existing hedge of interest payments on borrowings. Credit risk on the loans and advances to customers is not designated as part of the hedge relationship.

The Group made an accounting policy choice to continue to apply the hedge accounting requirement of IAS 39, pending the macro hedging project being finalised.

The Group documents, at the inception of the transaction, the relationship between the hedged items and hedging instruments, as well as its risk management objective and strategy for undertaking the hedge. The Group also documents its assessment, both at hedge inception and on an ongoing basis, of whether the derivatives that are used in hedging transactions are highly effective in offsetting the exposures to the hedged risks.

The hedge effectiveness of part of Russian Rouble net investment in subsidiaries of the Group is measured by reference to changes in RR/USD spot rates. Only the change in the fair value of the foreign currency exchange forward contracts due to changes in spot rates is reported in other comprehensive income and the remaining change in the fair value of those contracts is included in profit or loss. Accumulated hedging gains or losses recorded through other comprehensive income are recycled from other comprehensive income to profit or loss in the period when the hedged item is disposed of.

In order to assess hedge effectiveness, the Group regularly performs two kinds of effectiveness tests: prospective effectiveness test (a forward-looking test of whether a hedging relationship is expected to be highly effective in future periods); and retrospective effectiveness test (a backward-looking test of whether a hedging relationship has actually been highly effective in a past period).

A hedge is regarded as highly effective only if both of the following conditions are met:

- At the inception of the hedge and in subsequent periods, the hedge is expected to be highly effective in achieving offsetting changes in fair value attributable to the hedged risk during the period, for which the hedge is designated – prospective effectiveness test, range of 80%-125% is used; and
- The actual results of the hedge – retrospective effectiveness test; range of 80%-125% is used.

Income taxes. Income taxes have been provided for in the consolidated financial statements in accordance with legislation enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period. The income tax charge comprises current tax and deferred tax and is recognised in profit or loss for the year except if it is recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity because it relates to transactions that are also recognised, in the same or a different period, in other comprehensive income or directly in equity.

Current tax is the amount expected to be paid to or recovered from the taxation authorities in respect of taxable profits or losses for the current and prior periods. Taxable profits or losses are based on estimates if the consolidated financial statements are authorised prior to filing relevant tax returns. Taxes, other than on income, are recorded within administrative and other operating expenses.

Deferred income tax is provided using the balance sheet liability method for tax loss carry forwards and temporary differences arising between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts in the consolidated financial statements. Taxation rates enacted or substantively enacted at the end of the reporting period which are expected to apply when the temporary differences will reverse or the tax loss carry forwards will be utilised are used to determine deferred income tax balances. Deferred income tax is not accounted for if it arises from initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction other than a business combination that at the time of the transaction affects neither accounting nor taxable profit or loss. Deferred tax liabilities are not recorded for temporary differences on initial recognition of goodwill and subsequently for goodwill which is not deductible for tax purposes. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are netted only within the individual companies of the Group. Deferred tax assets for deductible temporary differences and tax loss carry forwards are recorded only to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the deductions can be utilised.

Deferred income tax is provided on post-acquisition retained earnings and other post acquisition movements in reserves of subsidiaries, except where the Group controls the subsidiary's dividend policy and it is probable that the difference will not reverse through dividends or otherwise in the foreseeable future.

Uncertain tax positions. The Group's uncertain tax positions are reassessed by management at the end of each reporting period. Liabilities are recorded for income tax positions that are determined by management as more likely than not to result in additional taxes being levied if the positions were to be challenged by the tax authorities. The assessment is based on the interpretation of tax laws that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period and any known court or other rulings on such issues. Liabilities for penalties, interest and taxes other than on income are recognised based on management's best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the obligations at the end of the reporting period.

Interest income and expense recognition. Interest income and expense are recorded for all debt instruments, other than those at FVTPL, on an accrual basis using the effective interest method. This method defers, as part of interest income or expense, all fees paid or received between the parties to the contract that are an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and all other premiums or discounts. Interest income on debt instruments at FVTPL calculated at nominal interest rate is presented within "other similar income" line in profit or loss.

Fees integral to the effective interest rate include origination fees received or paid by the entity relating to the creation or acquisition of a financial asset or issuance of a financial liability, for example fees for evaluating creditworthiness, evaluating and recording guarantees or collateral, negotiating the terms of the instrument and for processing transaction documents. Commitment fees received by the Group to originate loans at market interest rates are integral to the effective interest rate if it is probable that the Group will enter into a specific lending arrangement and does not expect to sell the resulting loan shortly after origination. The Group does not designate loan commitments as financial liabilities at FVTPL.

For financial assets that are originated or purchased credit-impaired, the effective interest rate is the rate that discounts the expected cash flows (including the initial expected credit losses) to the fair value on initial recognition (normally represented by the purchase price). As a result, the effective interest is credit-adjusted.

Interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the gross carrying amount of financial assets, except for:

- i) financial assets that have become credit-impaired (Stage 3), for which interest revenue is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to their AC (net of the ECL provision); and
- ii) financial assets that are purchased or originated credit-impaired, for which the original credit-adjusted effective interest rate is applied to the AC.

Fee and commission income. Fee and commission income is recognised over time on a straight-line basis as the services are rendered, when the customer simultaneously receives and consumes the benefits provided by the Group's performance. Such income includes recurring fees for account maintenance, account servicing fees, account subscription fees, premium service package fees, portfolio and other asset management advisory and service fees, wealth management and financial planning services, etc. Variable fees are recognised only to the extent that management determines that it is highly probable that a significant reversal will not occur.

Other fee and commission income is recognised at a point in time when the Group satisfies its performance obligation, usually upon execution of the underlying transaction. The amount of fee or commission received or receivable represents the transaction price for the services identified as distinct performance obligations. Such income includes fees for arranging a sale or purchase of foreign currencies on behalf of a customer, fees for processing payment transactions, fees for cash settlements, collection or cash disbursements, as well as, commissions and fees arising from negotiating, or participating in the negotiation of a transaction for a third party, such as the acquisition of loans, shares or other securities or the purchase or sale of businesses.

Customer loyalty programs. The Group offers number of customer loyalty programs. Accounting for such programs varies depending on who is identified as the customer, and whether the Group acts as an agent or as a principal under the contract. For point-based programs, the Group generally recognises a liability for the accumulated points that are expected to be utilised by the customers, which is reversed to profit or loss as the points expire. Cashbacks on plastic card transactions reduce fee and commission income.

Deposit insurance expenses. Deposit insurance expenses comprise of contributions paid to the SDIA. Contributions are not linked to particular customer deposits or deposit products.

Fiduciary assets and custody services. Assets held by the Group in its own name, but on the account of third parties, are not reported in the consolidated statement of financial position. The amount of the fee received or receivable represents the consideration for the services.

Offsetting. Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount reported in the consolidated statement of financial position when there is a legally enforceable right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis or realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously. Such a right of set off (a) must not be contingent on a future event and (b) must be legally enforceable in all of the following circumstances: (i) in the normal course of business, (ii) the event of default and (iii) the event of insolvency or bankruptcy.

Provisions for liabilities and charges. Provisions for liabilities and charges are non-financial liabilities of uncertain timing or amount which are accrued when the Group has a present legal or constructive obligation as a result of past events, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation, and a reliable estimate of the amount of the obligation can be made.

Staff costs and related contributions. Wages, salaries, contributions to the Russian Federation state pension and social insurance funds, paid annual leave and sick leave, bonuses, and non-monetary benefits are accrued in accordance with the existing employee compensation plans in a year in which the associated services are rendered by the employees. Discretionary employee compensations are subject to management's approval and are disclosed within staff costs. The Group has no legal or constructive obligation to make pension or similar benefit payments beyond the payments to the statutory defined contribution scheme.

Segment reporting. Operating segments are reported in a manner consistent with the internal reporting provided to the Group's chief operating decision maker. Segments whose revenue, result or assets are ten percent or more of all segments are reported separately.

Presentation of consolidated statement of financial position in order of liquidity. The Group does not have a clearly identifiable operating cycle and therefore does not present current and non-current assets and liabilities separately in the consolidated statement of financial position. Instead, analysis of assets and liabilities by their expected maturities is presented in Note 31.

Accounting policy for perpetual instruments. Refer to Note 24.

Amendments of the consolidated financial statements after issue. The Board of Directors has the power to amend the consolidated financial statements after issue.

4 Critical Accounting Estimates and Judgements in Applying Accounting Policies

The Group makes estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities. Estimates and judgements are continually evaluated and are based on management's experience and other factors, including expectations of future events that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances. Management also makes certain judgements, apart from those involving estimations, in the process of applying the accounting policies. Judgements that have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in these consolidated financial statements and estimates that can cause a significant adjustment to the carrying amount of assets and liabilities:

ECL measurement. Measurement of ECLs is a significant estimate that involves determination of methodology, models and data inputs to those models. The following components have a major impact on credit loss allowance: definition of default, significant increase in credit risk ("SICR"), probability of default ("PD"), exposure at default ("EAD"), and loss given default ("LGD"), as well as models of macro-economic scenarios. The Group regularly reviews and validates the models and inputs to the models to reduce any differences between expected credit loss estimates and actual credit loss experience.

In these consolidated financial statements, the Group has taken into account the evidence of the current macroeconomic conditions as described in Note 2. In order to address rising credit risks the Group adjusted the main approaches to assessing the level of expected credit losses that have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the consolidated financial statements.

- the Group updated economic variables on which the forecast of future macroeconomic conditions is based and reassessed their associated impact on the PD, EAD and LGD of corporate borrowers. The update was performed twice during the period and resulted in reduction in the ECL allowance at the beginning of 2020, followed by a subsequent increase later in the year in response to the COVID-19 pandemic;
- the Group has expanded the period of statistical default observations used in PD estimation models for certain segments of loans and advances to corporate borrowers provided on a collective basis resulting in higher PDs for such segments;
- the Group has expanded the criteria of SICR for staging purposes such as COVID-19 affected industries (mainly real estate and aviation transport), high leverage forecast, revenue decrease etc;
- the Group assessed individual ECL allowance for significant loans and advances to corporate borrowers based on the most relevant macroeconomic forecasts and information about customers' activities in the current economic conditions;
- the Group has adjusted the procedures for issuing new loans and advances to corporate borrowers, requiring extra information for credit lines drawdowns, reduced high-risk credit limits and implemented additional approval and monitoring procedures for loans issued;
- the Group reduced the average amount of new originated loans to individuals in higher risk segments and implemented more thorough monitoring of credit quality of the loan portfolio. Current lending of loans and advances to individuals incorporates margin and credit quality statistics collected during the pandemic period;
- the Group refined the approach to calculation of the adjustment for forward-looking information to the PD and LGD of loans to individuals using the most recent borrowers' behaviour and its forecasts;

4 Critical Accounting Estimates and Judgements in Applying Accounting Policies (Continued)

- the Group has applied higher PDs to loans to individuals which were restructured in the form of payment holidays and lower payments;
- the Group has updated its approach to LGD calculation for loans to individuals. The Group has collected statistics in order to assess the level of recoveries from loans specified as defaulted. The level of such recoveries is higher than recoveries from non-restructured defaulted loans.

The impact of the above changes at the moment of their implementation (second quarter 2020) was approximately USD 94 million of additional ECL allowance charged. The above ECL policies and approaches were applied consistently since their implementation and through to 31 December 2020. As at 31 December 2020 exposure of loans and advances to individuals restructured in the form of payment holidays or lower payments reduced (Note 10), ECL allowance on these loans slightly increased following application of most recent statistical information on behaviour of these loans. This increase was offsetted by better performance of the normal portfolio during the second half of 2020.

A movement of 10% of loans and advances to customers from Stage 1 (12-months ECL) to Stage 2 (lifetime ECL) would result in an increase in credit loss allowance of USD 90 million (2019: USD 200 million). A movement of 10% of loans and advances to individuals from Stage 2 to Stage 3 would result in an increase in ECL allowance of USD 30 million (2019: USD 26 million). A 10% decrease in discounted cash flows from Stage 3 loans and advances to corporate borrowers would result in an increase in credit loss allowance of USD 59 million (2019: USD 20 million).

Assessment of whether cash flows are solely payments of principal and interest (“SPPI”). Determining whether a financial asset’s cash flows are solely payments of principal and interest required judgement. The time value of money element may be modified, for example, if a contractual interest rate is periodically reset but the frequency of that reset does not match the tenor of the debt instrument’s underlying base interest rate, for example a loan pays three months interbank rate, but the rate is reset every month. The effect of the modified time value of money was assessed by comparing relevant instrument’s cash flows against a benchmark debt instrument with SPPI cash flows, in each period and cumulatively over the life of the instrument. The assessment was done for all reasonably possible scenarios, including reasonably possible financial stress situation that can occur in financial markets. The Group applied a threshold of 10% to determine whether differences against benchmark instruments are significantly different. In case of a scenario with cash flows that significantly differ from the benchmark, the assessed instrument’s cash flows are not SPPI and the instrument is then carried at FVTPL.

The Group identified and considered contractual terms that change the timing or amount of contractual cash flows. The SPPI criterion is met if a loan allows early settlement and the prepayment amount substantially represents principal and accrued interest, plus a reasonable additional compensation for the early termination of the contract. The asset’s principal is the fair value at initial recognition less subsequent principal repayments, i.e. instalments net of interest determined using the effective interest method. As an exception to this principle, the standard also allows instruments with prepayment features that meet the following condition to meet SPPI: (i) the asset is originated at a premium or discount, (ii) the prepayment amount represents contractual par amount and accrued interest and a reasonable additional compensation for the early termination of the contract, and (ii) the fair value of the prepayment feature is immaterial at initial recognition.

The Groups’ loans include cross-selling clauses that represent a reduction in the interest rate upon the customer entering into other contracts with the Group or achieving certain criteria, such as maintaining a minimum turnover on current bank accounts held with the Group. The cash flows are SPPI if such clauses merely reduce the Group’s overall profit margin on the instrument and there are no other features inconsistent with a basic lending arrangement.

The Group considered examples in the standard and concluded that features that arise solely from legislation and that are not part of the contract, that is, if legislation changed, the features would no longer apply (such as bail in legislation in certain countries), are not relevant for assessing whether cash flows are SPPI.

The Group’s loan agreements allow adjusting interest rates in response to certain macro-economic or regulatory changes. Management applied judgement and assessed that competition in the banking sector and the practical ability of the borrowers to refinance the loans would prevent it from resetting the interest rates at an above-market level and hence cash flows were assessed as being SPPI.

The Group’s loans, primarily to real estate developers, have cash flows that highly depend on performance of the underlying assets. The loans are carried at FVTPL where management determined that such loans are in substance non-recourse.

The instruments that failed the SPPI test are measured at FVTPL.

Functional currencies of different entities of the Group. Different entities within the Group have different functional currencies, based on the underlying economic conditions of their operations. This determination of what the specific underlying economic conditions are requires judgement. In making this judgement, the Group evaluates among other factors, the location of activities, the sources of revenue, risks associated with activities and denomination of currencies of operations of different entities.

In determination of the functional currencies of ABH Financial Limited and Alfa Capital Markets Ltd, the Group based its judgement on the fact that the companies operate internationally on markets mainly influenced by the US Dollar (not Russian Rouble). Moreover, the majority of their operations are denominated in US Dollars. The US Dollar is also the currency in which their business risks and exposures are managed and the performance of their business is measured.

5 Adoption of New or Revised Standards and Interpretations

The following amended standards became effective for the Group from 1 January 2020, but did not have any material impact on the Group:

Amendments to the Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting (issued in March 2018 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2020). The revised Conceptual Framework includes a new chapter on measurement; guidance on reporting financial performance; improved definitions and guidance - in particular the definition of a liability; and clarifications in important areas, such as the roles of stewardship, prudence and measurement uncertainty in financial reporting.

Definition of a business – Amendments to IFRS 3 (issued in October 2018 and effective for acquisitions from the beginning of annual reporting period that starts on or after 1 January 2020). The amendments revise definition of a business. A business must have inputs and a substantive process that together significantly contribute to the ability to create outputs. The new guidance provides a framework to evaluate when an input and a substantive process are present, including for early stage companies that have not generated outputs. An organised workforce should be present as a condition for classification as a business if are no outputs. The definition of the term 'outputs' is narrowed to focus on goods and services provided to customers, generating investment income and other income, and it excludes returns in the form of lower costs and other economic benefits. It is also no longer necessary to assess whether market participants are capable of replacing missing elements or integrating the acquired activities and assets. An entity can apply a 'concentration test'. The assets acquired would not represent a business if substantially all of the fair value of gross assets acquired is concentrated in a single asset (or a group of similar assets).

Definition of material – Amendments to IAS 1 and IAS 8 (issued in October 2018 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2020). The amendments clarify the definition of material and how it should be applied by including in the definition guidance that until now has featured elsewhere in IFRS. In addition, the explanations accompanying the definition have been improved. Finally, the amendments ensure that the definition of material is consistent across all IFRS Standards. Information is material if omitting, misstating or obscuring it could reasonably be expected to influence the decisions that the primary users of general purpose financial statements make on the basis of those financial statements, which provide financial information about a specific reporting entity.

Interest rate benchmark reform – Amendments to IFRS 9, IAS 39 and IFRS 7 (issued in September 2019 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2020). The amendments were triggered by replacement of benchmark interest rates such as LIBOR and other inter-bank offered rates ('IBORs'). The amendments provide temporary relief from applying specific hedge accounting requirements to hedging relationships directly affected by the IBOR reform.

COVID-19-Related Rent Concessions Amendment to IFRS 16 (issued in May 2020 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 June 2020). The amendment provides lessees with relief in the form of an optional exemption from assessing whether a rent concession related to COVID-19 is a lease modification. Lessees can elect to account for rent concessions in the same way as if they were not lease modifications. The practical expedient only applies to rent concessions occurring as a direct consequence of the COVID-19 pandemic and only if all of the following conditions are met: the change in lease payments results in revised consideration for the lease that is substantially the same as, or less than, the consideration for the lease immediately preceding the change; any reduction in lease payments affects only payments due on or before 30 June 2021; and there is no substantive change to other terms and conditions of the lease. The application of the amendment did not have any impact on the right-of-use asset.

6 New Accounting Pronouncements

Certain new standards and interpretations have been issued that are mandatory for the annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2021 or later, and which the Group has not early adopted.

IFRS 17 “Insurance Contracts” (issued in May 2017 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023). IFRS 17 replaces IFRS 4, which has given companies dispensation to carry on accounting for insurance contracts using existing practices. As a consequence, it was difficult for investors to compare and contrast the financial performance of otherwise similar insurance companies. IFRS 17 is a single principle-based standard to account for all types of insurance contracts, including reinsurance contracts that an insurer holds. The standard requires recognition and measurement of groups of insurance contracts at: (i) a risk-adjusted present value of the future cash flows (the fulfilment cash flows) that incorporates all of the available information about the fulfilment cash flows in a way that is consistent with observable market information; plus (if this value is a liability) or minus (if this value is an asset) (ii) an amount representing the unearned profit in the group of contracts (the contractual service margin). Insurers will be recognising the profit from a group of insurance contracts over the period they provide insurance coverage, and as they are released from risk. If a group of contracts is or becomes loss-making, an entity will be recognising the loss immediately. The Group expects to apply the standard to performance guarantees that it issues and is currently assessing the impact of the new standard on its consolidated financial statements.

Amendments to IFRS 17 and an amendment to IFRS 4 (issued in June 2020 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023). The amendments include a number of clarifications intended to ease implementation of IFRS 17, simplify some requirements of the standard and transition. The amendments relate to eight areas of IFRS 17, and they are not intended to change the fundamental principles of the standard. The following amendments to IFRS 17 were made:

- Effective date: The effective date of IFRS 17 (incorporating the amendments) has been deferred by two years to annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023; and the fixed expiry date of the temporary exemption from applying IFRS 9 in IFRS 4 has also been deferred to annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023.
- Expected recovery of insurance acquisition cash flows: An entity is required to allocate part of the acquisition costs to related expected contract renewals, and to recognise those costs as an asset until the entity recognises the contract renewals. Entities are required to assess the recoverability of the asset at each reporting date, and to provide specific information about the asset in the notes to the financial statements.
- Contractual service margin attributable to investment services: Coverage units should be identified, considering the quantity of benefits and expected period of both insurance coverage and investment services, for contracts under the variable fee approach and for other contracts with an ‘investment-return service’ under the general model. Costs related to investment activities should be included as cash flows within the boundary of an insurance contract, to the extent that the entity performs such activities to enhance benefits from insurance coverage for the policyholder.
- Reinsurance contracts held – recovery of losses: When an entity recognises a loss on initial recognition of an onerous group of underlying insurance contracts, or on addition of onerous underlying contracts to a group, an entity should adjust the contractual service margin of a related group of reinsurance contracts held and recognise a gain on the reinsurance contracts held. The amount of the loss recovered from a reinsurance contract held is determined by multiplying the loss recognised on underlying insurance contracts and the percentage of claims on underlying insurance contracts that the entity expects to recover from the reinsurance contract held. This requirement would apply only when the reinsurance contract held is recognised before or at the same time as the loss is recognised on the underlying insurance contracts.
- Other amendments: Other amendments include scope exclusions for some credit card (or similar) contracts, and some loan contracts; presentation of insurance contract assets and liabilities in the statement of financial position in portfolios instead of groups; applicability of the risk mitigation option when mitigating financial risks using reinsurance contracts held and non-derivative financial instruments at fair value through profit or loss; an accounting policy choice to change the estimates made in previous interim financial statements when applying IFRS 17; inclusion of income tax payments and receipts that are specifically chargeable to the policyholder under the terms of an insurance contract in the fulfilment cash flows; and selected transition reliefs and other minor amendments.

Sale or Contribution of Assets between an Investor and its Associate or Joint Venture – Amendments to IFRS 10 and IAS 28 (issued on 11 September 2014 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after a date to be determined by the IASB). These amendments address an inconsistency between the requirements in IFRS 10 and those in IAS 28 in dealing with the sale or contribution of assets between an investor and its associate or joint venture. The main consequence of the amendments is that a full gain or loss is recognised when a transaction involves a business. A partial gain or loss is recognised when a transaction involves assets that do not constitute a business, even if these assets are held by a subsidiary.

Classification of liabilities as current or non-current – Amendments to IAS 1 (issued on 23 January 2020 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2022). These narrow scope amendments clarify that liabilities are classified as either current or non-current, depending on the rights that exist at the end of the reporting period. Liabilities are non-current if the entity has a substantive right, at the end of the reporting period, to defer settlement for at least twelve months. The guidance no longer requires such a right to be unconditional. Management's expectations whether they will subsequently exercise the right to defer settlement do not affect classification of liabilities. The right to defer only exists if the entity complies with any relevant conditions as of the end of the reporting period. A liability is classified as current if a condition is breached at or before the reporting date even if a waiver of that condition is obtained from the lender after the end of the reporting period. Conversely, a loan is classified as non-current if a loan covenant is breached only after the reporting date. In addition, the amendments include clarifying the classification requirements for debt a company might settle by converting it into equity. 'Settlement' is defined as the extinguishment of a liability with cash, other resources embodying economic benefits or an entity's own equity instruments. There is an exception for convertible instruments that might be converted into equity, but only for those instruments where the conversion option is classified as an equity instrument as a separate component of a compound financial instrument.

Classification of liabilities as current or non-current, deferral of effective date – Amendments to IAS 1 (issued on 15 July 2020 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023). The amendment to IAS 1 on classification of liabilities as current or non-current was issued in January 2020 with an original effective date 1 January 2022. However, in response to the Covid-19 pandemic, the effective date was deferred by one year to provide companies with more time to implement classification changes resulting from the amended guidance.

Proceeds before intended use, Onerous contracts – cost of fulfilling a contract, Reference to the Conceptual Framework – narrow scope amendments to IAS 16, IAS 37 and IFRS 3, and Annual Improvements to IFRSs 2018-2020 – amendments to IFRS 1, IFRS 9, IFRS 16 and IAS 41 (issued on 14 May 2020 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2022). The amendment to IAS 16 prohibits an entity from deducting from the cost of an item of PPE any proceeds received from selling items produced while the entity is preparing the asset for its intended use. The proceeds from selling such items, together with the costs of producing them, are now recognised in profit or loss. An entity will use IAS 2 to measure the cost of those items. Cost will not include depreciation of the asset being tested because it is not ready for its intended use. The amendment to IAS 16 also clarifies that an entity is 'testing whether the asset is functioning properly' when it assesses the technical and physical performance of the asset. The financial performance of the asset is not relevant to this assessment. An asset might therefore be capable of operating as intended by management and subject to depreciation before it has achieved the level of operating performance expected by management.

The amendment to IAS 37 clarifies the meaning of 'costs to fulfil a contract'. The amendment explains that the direct cost of fulfilling a contract comprises the incremental costs of fulfilling that contract; and an allocation of other costs that relate directly to fulfilling. The amendment also clarifies that, before a separate provision for an onerous contract is established, an entity recognises any impairment loss that has occurred on assets used in fulfilling the contract, rather than on assets dedicated to that contract.

IFRS 3 was amended to refer to the 2018 Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting, in order to determine what constitutes an asset or a liability in a business combination. Prior to the amendment, IFRS 3 referred to the 2001 Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting. In addition, a new exception in IFRS 3 was added for liabilities and contingent liabilities. The exception specifies that, for some types of liabilities and contingent liabilities, an entity applying IFRS 3 should instead refer to IAS 37 or IFRIC 21, rather than the 2018 Conceptual Framework. Without this new exception, an entity would have recognised some liabilities in a business combination that it would not recognise under IAS 37. Therefore, immediately after the acquisition, the entity would have had to derecognise such liabilities and recognise a gain that did not depict an economic gain. It was also clarified that the acquirer should not recognise contingent assets, as defined in IAS 37, at the acquisition date.

The amendment to IFRS 9 addresses which fees should be included in the 10% test for derecognition of financial liabilities. Costs or fees could be paid to either third parties or the lender. Under the amendment, costs or fees paid to third parties will not be included in the 10% test.

Illustrative Example 13 that accompanies IFRS 16 was amended to remove the illustration of payments from the lessor relating to leasehold improvements. The reason for the amendment is to remove any potential confusion about the treatment of lease incentives.

IFRS 1 allows an exemption if a subsidiary adopts IFRS at a later date than its parent. The subsidiary can measure its assets and liabilities at the carrying amounts that would be included in its parent's consolidated financial statements, based on the parent's date of transition to IFRS, if no adjustments were made for consolidation procedures and for the effects of the business combination in which the parent acquired the subsidiary. IFRS 1 was amended to allow entities that have taken this IFRS 1 exemption to also measure cumulative translation differences using the amounts reported by the parent, based on the parent's date of transition to IFRS. The amendment to IFRS 1 extends the above exemption to cumulative translation differences, in order to reduce costs for first-time adopters. This amendment will also apply to associates and joint ventures that have taken the same IFRS 1 exemption.

The requirement for entities to exclude cash flows for taxation when measuring fair value under IAS 41 was removed. This amendment is intended to align with the requirement in the standard to discount cash flows on a post-tax basis.

Interest rate benchmark (IBOR) reform – phase 2 amendments to IFRS 9, IAS 39, IFRS 7, IFRS 4 and IFRS 16 (issued on 27 August 2020 and effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2021). The Phase 2 amendments address issues that arise from the implementation of the reforms, including the replacement of one benchmark with an alternative one. The amendments cover the following areas:

- Accounting for changes in the basis for determining contractual cash flows as a result of IBOR reform: For instruments to which the amortised cost measurement applies, the amendments require entities, as a practical expedient, to account for a change in the basis for determining the contractual cash flows as a result of IBOR reform by updating the effective interest rate using the guidance in paragraph B5.4.5 of IFRS 9. As a result, no immediate gain or loss is recognised. This practical expedient applies only to such a change and only to the extent it is necessary as a direct consequence of IBOR reform, and the new basis is economically equivalent to the previous basis. Insurers applying the temporary exemption from IFRS 9 are also required to apply the same practical expedient. IFRS 16 was also amended to require lessees to use a similar practical expedient when accounting for lease modifications that change the basis for determining future lease payments as a result of IBOR reform.
- End date for Phase 1 relief for non-contractually specified risk components in hedging relationships: The Phase 2 amendments require an entity to prospectively cease to apply the Phase 1 reliefs to a non-contractually specified risk component at the earlier of when changes are made to the non-contractually specified risk component, or when the hedging relationship is discontinued. No end date was provided in the Phase 1 amendments for risk components.
- Additional temporary exceptions from applying specific hedge accounting requirements: The Phase 2 amendments provide some additional temporary reliefs from applying specific IAS 39 and IFRS 9 hedge accounting requirements to hedging relationships directly affected by IBOR reform.
- Additional IFRS 7 disclosures related to IBOR reform: The amendments require disclosure of: (i) how the entity is managing the transition to alternative benchmark rates, its progress and the risks arising from the transition; (ii) quantitative information about derivatives and non-derivatives that have yet to transition, disaggregated by significant interest rate benchmark; and (iii) a description of any changes to the risk management strategy as a result of IBOR reform.

Unless otherwise described above, the new standards and interpretations are not expected to affect significantly the Group's consolidated financial statements.

The credit quality of balances on correspondent and settlement accounts with banks and financial institutions is managed through a system of qualitative risk management procedures comprising credit risk assessment before acceptance. After establishing a correspondent account, depending on the magnitude of the balance, management carries out regular monitoring of the financial position and performance of the counterparties.

As at 31 December 2020 the three largest aggregate balances on correspondent and settlement accounts and overnight placements amounted to USD 1 885 million (2019: USD 1 680 million) or 54% (2019: 53%) of the correspondent and settlement accounts and overnight placements, while the ten largest aggregate balances on correspondent and settlement accounts and overnight placements amounted to USD 2 942 million (2019: USD 2 855 million) or 85% (2019: 90%) of the correspondent and settlement accounts and overnight placements.

Analysis by credit quality of correspondent and settlement accounts and overnight placements with other banks was as follows as at 31 December 2020:

In millions of US Dollars	Correspondent and settlement accounts with banks and financial institutions	Overnight placements with other banks	Total

The ECL for these balances represents an insignificant amount, therefore the Group did not recognise any credit loss allowance for cash and cash equivalents. Refer to Note 31 for the ECL measurement approach.

Changes in credit risk and other movements include charge or release of credit loss allowance for loans transferred from other stages during the period, for new originated loans classified to the stage after the date of their initial recognition, and for loans classified to the stage at the beginning of the period.

The credit loss allowance for loans and advances to customers recognised in the period is impacted by a variety of factors, details of ECL measurement are provided in Note 31. Below main movements in the table are described:

- Transfers between Stage 1, 2 and 3 due to balances experiencing significant increases (or decreases) of credit risk or becoming credit-impaired in the period, and the consequent “step up” (or “step down”) between 12-month and Lifetime ECL;
- Additional allowances for new financial instruments recognised during the period, as well as releases for financial instruments derecognised in the period;
- Impact on the measurement of ECL due to changes to model assumptions, including changes in PDs, EADs and LGDs in the period, arising from update of inputs to ECL models;
- Unwinding of discount due to the passage of time because ECL is measured on a present value basis;
- Foreign exchange translations of assets denominated in foreign currencies and other movements; and
- Write-offs of allowances related to assets that were written off during the period.

The above ratings for neither past due nor impaired represent aggregated results of the scoring system used by the Group. Good credit standing category represents excellent quality loans with the best score, average credit standing category – medium quality with average score and below average credit standing category – loans potentially under surveillance.

The primary factors that the Group considers in determining whether a loan has become impaired are ability of borrowers to service their debt, loans and interest overdue status and realisability of related collateral, if any.

In millions of US Dollars	2020	2019

Loans to individuals - Consumer (POS) loans	-	-
Total difference on credit loss allowance	444	482

Reverse sale and repurchase receivables and mortgage loans are not included in the above table since the Group would not originate these instruments without collateral.

In the normal course of business the Group obtains collateral and/or guarantees and sureties for loans to legal entities. Acceptable collateral includes real estate, property, equipment, inventories, securities, contractual rights and certain other assets. Guarantees and sureties can be provided by controlling shareholders, government entities, banks and other solvent legal entities.

As at 31 December 2020 corporate loans in the amount of USD 14 454 million (2019: USD 8 844 million) were not secured (or were secured by low quality collateral which does not allow to classify the loan as secured using criteria of the Group) and loans in the amount of USD 6 128 million (2019: USD 7 038 million) were secured only by third party guarantees where guarantors are considered to be related to the borrower itself.

As at 31 December 2020 and 2019 most of the loans to small and medium size enterprises were secured by collateral or sureties. Finance lease receivables are secured by the leased equipment the title to which is normally retained by the Group for the duration of the lease.

Reverse sale and repurchase agreements are effectively collateralised by securities purchased under those agreements. As at 31 December 2020 reverse sale and repurchase agreements were collateralised by securities purchased with estimated fair value of USD 874 million (2019: USD 1 407 million) all of which the Group had the right to sell or repledge.

Credit cards, personal instalment and consumer (POS) loans to individuals are not secured. Mortgage loans to individuals are collateralised by respective property acquired.

For the purposes of measurement the Group classified all balances included in loans and advances to customers as financial assets at AC. Currency, maturity and interest rate analyses of loans and advances to customers are disclosed in Note 31. The estimated fair value of loans and advances to customers is disclosed in Note 38. The information on related party balances is disclosed in Note 39.

Staff costs include contributions to the Russian state pension plan made by the Group for its personnel employed in Russia in the amount of USD 98 million (2019: USD 102 million). The state pension plan is classified as a defined contribution plan because the Group does not have any legal or constructive obligation to make further contributions if the state pension plan would not hold sufficient assets to pay all employee benefits relating to employees' past service.

In the context of the Group's current structure, tax losses and current tax assets of different companies may not be offset against current tax liabilities and taxable profits of other companies and, accordingly, taxes may accrue even where there is a net consolidated tax loss. Therefore, a deferred tax asset of one company of the Group may not be offset against a deferred tax liability of another company.

30 Segment Analysis

The Group's reportable segments are strategic business units that offer different products and services:

- Corporate and investment banking - comprises corporate lending, leasing, corporate deposit services, trade finance operations and structured corporate lending, securities trading, debt and equity capital markets services, derivative products, corporate finance advisory services and merger and acquisition advice.
- Medium, small and micro banking - comprises customer current accounts, savings, deposits, settlements, cash services and providing loans to individual entrepreneurs, small and medium businesses.
- Retail banking - comprises retail demand and term deposit services, credit and debit card services, retail lending (including consumer (POS) loans and personal instalment loans, car loans and mortgages), money transfers and private banking services.
- Treasury - comprises the Group's wholesale funding, internal funding reallocation, liquidity and risk management activities.

These segments are managed separately because each of them requires formulating a different strategy and uses different operational platforms. The Group evaluates segment performance on the basis of profit or loss before tax. Segment performance is regularly reviewed by the Group's Chief Operating Decision Maker ("CODM"). The CODM has been identified as the members of the Executive Board of Alfa-Bank.

The accounting policies of the operating segments are materially the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies except for: (i) use of a transfer pricing system, (ii) different classification of certain lines of income and expenses including other comprehensive income items and (iii) some balances and operations are excluded from segment analysis since they are monitored separately and on a less regular basis (including situations when balance is not allocated and related income or expense are allocated for the segment analysis and vice versa). In accordance with the transfer pricing system used by the Group funds are generally reallocated at internal interest rates set by the Treasury Department of the Group, which are determined by reference to market interest rate benchmarks, contractual maturities for loans and observed actual maturities of customer accounts balances.

The Group's revenues from external customers are analysed by products and services in Notes 25 and 26.

The vast majority of the Group's revenues from external customers are attributed to customers domiciled in the Russian Federation. Revenues from external customers domiciled in other countries are below the threshold for separate disclosure in these consolidated financial statements. The vast majority of non-financial assets are also located in the Russian Federation.

31 Financial Risk Management

The Group systematically exploits the opportunities available to it to achieve its growth targets without losing sight of the related risks. The Group applies across all product lines a unified risk management practice comprising credit risk, market risk, currency risk, interest rate risk, liquidity risk and operational risk management. The primary objective of the Group's risk management is to achieve an optimal level of risk-return for its operations. The Group continues to enhance its risk management.

The financial risk management function establishes risk limits and ensures that exposure to risks stays within these limits. The operational risk management functions are intended to ensure proper functioning of internal processes and procedures to minimise the Group's exposure to internal and external risk factors.

The Group's approach to managing risks is composed of following elements: (i) risk governance, (ii) risk identification, (iii) risk assessment, management and control, and (iv) risk reporting.

Subsidiaries of the Group have own unified risk management bodies depending on their size and risk profiles aimed at effective and efficient governance and decision making.

The Board of Directors has overall responsibility for the implementation of the risk management framework, including, but not limited to review and approval of the Risk and capital management strategy, procedure of significant risks management, risk-appetite, internal ratings-based ("IRB") models and validation reports. The Board of Directors also approves significant exposures, affiliated and related party transactions, which exceed the specific limits.

The Audit Committee is responsible for overseeing the internal control framework, assessing the adequacy of risk management and compliance policies and procedures. It convenes regularly and provides recommendations to the Board of Directors on development of the risk management framework as well as its views on the quality of risk management and compliance.

The Remuneration Committee is responsible for reviewing and developing the remuneration framework, including recommendations to the Board of Directors.

The Risk Committee is responsible for preliminary consideration, analysis and proposals to the Board of Directors of the following key subjects: oversight the risk and capital management strategy, establishing risk appetite, monitoring the effectiveness of the risk management system, improvement of risk-culture and "Three lines of defence" model, IRB models and validation.

The Executive Board is responsible for implementation and monitoring of risk mitigation measures. The Executive Board monitors that the Group operates within the established risk parameters. The Executive Board approves risks which exceed the individual authority of the relevant committees. The Executive Board is responsible for approval of procedures for risk and capital management and stress-testing based on the Risk and capital management strategy approved by the Board of Directors. It ensures internal capital adequacy assessment procedures (“ICAAP”) and maintains capital adequacy higher than minimum regulatory requirements, as well as considers ICAAP reporting.

Risks are managed and controlled through a system of relevant committee (in order to facilitate efficient decision-making, the Group has established a hierarchy of credit committees depending on the type and amount of the exposure): a) non-retail credit risk through the Non-Retail Credit Committees, b) retail credit risk through the Retail and Mass Risk Committee, c) Market, Liquidity and Interest rate risk through the Asset and Liability Management Committee (“ALCO”), d) operational risk through the Operational Risk Steering Committee.

The Risk Management Department is responsible for the overall risk management functions, ensuring the implementation of common principles and methods for identifying, measuring, managing and reporting risks. The Risk Management Department deals with non-retail credit risk, counterparty credit risk, retail credit risks along with market risk, operational risk, liquidity risk and interest rate risk (together with the Treasury Department). The department structure is geared to bring focus on proactive portfolio management and to perform an extensive program of risk management processes and models improvements with ultimate goal to satisfy Basel II and III standards for risk management.

Corporate bad debts are managed through the Problem Loans Department that is independent from the Risk Management Department. Corporate problem loans are approved by the Main Credit Committee. The Non-Retail Default Committee is responsible for approval defaults and recovery period of borrowers (group of borrowers).

In relation to retail business, the Bad Debt Management Department executes the bad debt management strategy developed by the Retail Credit Risk Management Division and the Bad Debt Management Department. Default process is mainly automated, methodology is approved by the Chairman of the Executive Board.

Amsterdam Trade Bank N.V. has its own Risk Management and Treasury departments, operating in a way similar to Alfa-Bank.

Risk identification. Both external and internal risk factors are identified and managed throughout the Group's organisational structure. Particular attention is given to developing risk overviews that are used to identify the full range of risk factors and serve as a basis for determining the level of assurance over the current risk mitigation procedures. An overview of the key risks is regularly reported to the CRO, members of the risk management committees, the Executive Board and the Board of Directors.

Risk assessment, management and control. The Group's risk assessment, reporting and control procedures vary by type of risk, but share a common methodology developed and updated by the Risk Management Department. Compliance with the Group's standards is supported by periodic reviews undertaken by the Internal Audit Department. The results of Internal Audit reviews are discussed with the management of the business units to which they relate and presented to the Audit Committee and the senior management of the Group.

Risk Reporting. Risk reporting represents a comprehensive reporting system that provides the senior management with the summary information about significant risks, risk-appetite and consequences of changes of the operating environment. Regular risk reporting includes results on risk identification and analysis of significant risks through the set of indicators, analysis of the available capital and capital adequacy estimation, stress-testing results.

Risk-appetite and significant risks. The Group indicates significant risks and defines risk-appetite for each significant risk disclosed below:

- Non-retail credit risk
- Counterparty credit risk
- Retail credit risk
- Market risk
- Interest rate risk
- Operational risk
- Liquidity risk
- Concentration risk

Credit risk. The Group exposes itself to credit risk, which is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will cause a financial loss for the other party by failing to meet an obligation.

Exposure to credit risk arises as a result of the Group's lending and other transactions with counterparties, giving rise to financial assets and off-balance sheet credit-related commitments.

The Group's maximum exposure to credit risk is reflected in the carrying amounts of financial assets in the consolidated statement of financial position. For financial guarantees issued, commitments to extend credit, undrawn credit lines and export/import letters of credit, the maximum exposure to credit risk is the amount of the commitment.

Credit risk management. Credit risk is the single largest risk for the Group's business; management therefore carefully manages its exposure to credit risk.

The estimation of credit risk for risk management purposes is complex and involves the use of models, as the risk varies depending on market conditions, expected cash flows and the passage of time. The assessment of credit risk for a portfolio of assets entails further estimations of the likelihood of defaults occurring, the associated loss ratios and credit conversion factors.

Limits. The Group structures the levels of credit risk it undertakes by placing limits on the amount of risk accepted in relation to one borrower, or groups of borrowers, and to geographical and industry segments. Limits on the level of credit risk by product and industry sector are approved regularly by management. Such risks are monitored on a revolving basis and are subject to an annual, or more frequent, review.

The Group established a number of credit committees that are responsible for approving credit limits for individual borrowers. Depending on the magnitude of credit risk, the decisions on transactions with corporate clients are approved either by the Main Credit Committee or the Small Credit Committee. These committees convene weekly. In certain circumstances (for example, based on tenor or size) loans are approved by the Executive Board or the Board of Directors. Authority to approve deals with insignificant credit limits are delegated by the Executive Board to the special groups within Corporate and Investment Bank and the Risk Management Department under the "4 eyes" principle.

Loan applications originated by the relevant client relationship managers are passed on to the relevant credit committee for the approval of the credit limit. Exposure to credit risk is also managed, in part, by obtaining collateral as well as corporate and personal guarantees. In order to monitor exposure to credit risk, regular reports are produced by the officers based on a structured analysis focusing on the customer's business and financial performance. Any significant interaction with customers with deteriorating creditworthiness are reported to and reviewed by the Executive Board or the Board of Directors.

Credit risk grading system. For measuring credit risk and grading financial instruments by the amount of credit risk, the Group applies two approaches – an Internal Rating-Based (IRB) system or risk grades estimated by external international rating agencies (S&P, Fitch, Moody's).

In accordance with the internal rating loans and advances to customers and investments at AC assigned in one of the following rating categories:

- First class – strong credit quality with low expected credit risk
- Good and standard – adequate credit quality with a moderate credit risk
- Acceptable – moderate credit quality with a satisfactory credit risk
- Weak – facilities that require closer monitoring and remedial management
- Impaired – facilities in which a default has occurred.

The IRB system is designed internally and ratings are estimated by the Group itself. Various credit-risk estimating techniques are used by the Group depending on the class of the asset. There are three commonly used types of such systems:

- Model-based – In this system, credit risk ratings are assigned by internally developed statistical models with the limited involvement of credit officers. Statistical models include qualitative and quantitative information that shows the best predictive power based on historical data on defaults.

- Expert judgement-based – In this system, credit risk ratings are assigned subjectively by experienced credit officers based on internally developed methodology and different qualitative and quantitative factors. This approach is based on expert methodology and judgements rather than on sophisticated statistical models.
- Hybrid – This rating system is a combination of the two systems above. It is developed by using historical data combined with expert input.

The Group applies IRB systems for measurement of credit risk for the following financial assets: interbank loans with Russian counterparties, corporate and retail loans, corporate bonds.

The rating models are regularly reviewed by the Risk Management Department, backtested on actual default data and updated if necessary. Despite the method used, the Group regularly validates the accuracy of ratings estimates and appraises the predictive power of the models.

Assessment of the credit quality of cash and cash equivalents, debt trading securities, due from other banks and debt investments at FVOCI are based on the counterparties' long-term credit ratings assigned by international rating agencies such as Standard & Poor's, Moody's Investors Services and Fitch Ratings and in accordance with the internal rating methodology:

- First class - banks and companies with minimal probability of default and with ratings above BB+ by Standard & Poor's and FitchRaings, Ba1 by Moody's Investors Services and BB+ in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Good and standard - banks and companies with long-term credit rating from BB- to BB by Standard & Poor's and FitchRaings, Ba3 to Ba2 by Moody's Investors Services and from BB- to BB in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Acceptable - banks and companies with long-term credit rating from B- to B+ by Standard & Poor's and FitchRaings, B3 to B1 by Moody's Investors Services and from B- to B+ in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Weak - banks and companies with long-term credit rating from CCC+ to C by Standard & Poor's and FitchRaings, Caa1 and Ca by Moody's Investors Services and CCC in accordance with the internal rating methodology.
- Impaired - banks and companies with long-term credit rating below C by Standard & Poor's and FitchRaings, Ca by Moody's Investors Services and below CCC in accordance with the internal rating methodology.

External ratings are assigned to counterparties by independent international rating agencies, such as S&P, Moody's and Fitch. These ratings are publicly available. Such ratings and the corresponding range of PDs are applied for the following financial instruments if these instruments are not covered by IRB rating systems: interbank placements to foreign counterparties, loans to sovereigns, and investments in debt securities (government, corporate and municipal bonds, and Eurobonds and promissory notes purchased).

Alfa-Bank submitted an application to the CBRF for transition on IRB models for corporate loans.

Expected credit loss (ECL) measurement – definitions

ECL is a probability-weighted estimate of the present value of future cash shortfalls (i.e., the weighted average of credit losses, with the respective risks of default occurring in a given time period used as weights). An ECL measurement is unbiased and determined by evaluating a range of possible outcomes. ECL measurement is based on four components used by the Group: Probability of Default ("PD"), Exposure at Default ("EAD"), Loss Given Default ("LGD") and Discount Rate.

Exposure at Default (EAD) – an estimate of exposure at a future default date, taking into account expected changes in exposure after the reporting date, including repayments of principal and interest, and expected drawdowns on committed facilities.

Probability of Default (PD) – an estimate of the likelihood of default to occur over a given time period.

Loss Given Default (LGD) – an estimate of the loss arising on default. It is based on the difference between the contractual cash flows due and those that the lender would expect to receive, including from any collateral. It is expressed as a percentage of the EAD.

Discount Rate – a tool to discount an expected loss to the present value at the reporting date. The discount rate represents the effective interest rate (EIR) for the financial instrument or an approximation thereof.

Lifetime period – the maximum period over which ECL should be measured. For loans with fixed maturity, the lifetime period is equal to the remaining contractual period. For loan commitments and financial guarantee contracts, this is the maximum contractual period over which an entity has a present contractual obligation to extend credit. For credit cards issued to individuals, it is the period that is based on internal statistics, and it is equal to 3 years.

Lifetime ECL – losses that result from all possible default events over the remaining lifetime period of the financial instrument.

12-month ECL – the portion of lifetime ECLs that represent the ECLs resulting from default events on a financial instrument that are possible within 12 months after the reporting date that are limited by the remaining contractual life of the financial instrument. For those instruments without contractual life - 12 months are used.

Forward looking information – the information that includes the key macroeconomic variables impacting credit risk and expected credit losses for each portfolio segment. Among other factors the Group analyses:

- oil and natural gas price dynamics;
- Russian stock market index MOEX dynamics;
- dynamics of the money supply, which includes changes in volumes of currency in circulation, demand and saving deposits and liquid securities.

Credit Conversion Factor (CCF) – a coefficient that shows the probability of conversion of an off-balance sheet amounts to exposure on the balance within a defined period. It can be calculated for a 12-month or lifetime period. Based on the analysis performed, the Group considers that 12-month and lifetime CCFs are the same.

Purchased or originated credit impaired (POCI) financial assets – financial assets that are credit-impaired upon initial recognition.

Low credit risk financial assets – assets that have an investment grade defined by external rating agencies or corresponding internal rating, debt instruments issued by Russian Federation and denominated in RUR, loans to companies owned by the Russian Federation and denominated in RUR. The presumption, being that there have been significant increases in credit risk since initial recognition when financial assets are more than 30 days past due, has not been rebutted.

Default and credit-impaired asset – a loan is in default, meaning fully aligned with the definition of credit-impaired, when it meets one or more of the following criteria:

- the borrower is more than 90 days past due on its contractual payments;
- the Group consider to sell the borrower's debt with significant losses (more than 5% of the debt principal balance and accrued interest);
- the Default Committee recognized restructured debt as default;
- the loan was originated to consolidate all the borrower's current debts to the Group into one (refinanced retail loans)
- the Group has classified the borrower in the default rating class according to the master scale together with the fact that the Main Credit Committee recognised the borrower as credit-impaired one. The Main Credit Committee decides on recognition of the borrower as credit-impaired one based on the unlikeliness-to-pay criteria listed below:
 - the borrower is insolvent;
 - it is becoming likely that the borrower will enter bankruptcy;
 - other criteria reflecting difficulties with successful fulfilling of obligations by the borrower.

An instrument is considered no longer to be in default (i.e. have cured), when it does not meet any more a default criteria into the consecutive period of six months for non-retail loans and three months for retail loans, except for a default refinanced retail loan, for which cure period is twelve months.

Significant increase in credit risk (SICR) – the SICR assessment is performed on an individual basis and on a portfolio basis. For loans issued to legal entities and individuals, interbank loans and debt securities accounted for at AC or at FVOCI, SICR is assessed on an individual basis by monitoring the triggers stated below. The criteria used to identify a SICR are monitored and reviewed periodically for appropriateness by the Group's Risk Management Department.

The Group considers a financial instrument to have experienced a SICR when one or more of the following quantitative, qualitative or backstop criteria have been met.

For loans issued to legal entities and bonds issued by the legal entities, interbank operations and bonds issued by the banks:

- 30 days past due;
- increase of PD by 2,7 times (that is close to decrease of rating by 3 notches) compared to PD on the date of initial recognition (the relative threshold);
- loan for which internal rating cannot be calculated (excluding loans rated by international rating agencies);
- inclusion of loan into a watch list zone "Red" according to the internal credit risk monitoring process.

For loans to Individuals:

- 30 days past due;
- increase of odds PD by 4 times compared to odds PD on the date of initial recognition (the relative threshold);
- fraud lists.

If there is evidence that the SICR criteria are no longer met, the instrument will be transferred back to Stage 1. If an exposure has been transferred to Stage 2 based on a qualitative indicator, the Group monitors whether that indicator continues to exist or has changed.

ECL measurement – description of estimation techniques

General principle

For non-POCI financial assets, ECLs are generally measured based on the risk of default over one of two different time periods, depending on whether the credit risk of the borrower has increased significantly since initial recognition. This approach can be summarised in a three-stage model for ECL measurement:

- Stage 1: a financial instrument that is not credit-impaired on initial recognition and its credit risk has not increased significantly since initial recognition, loss allowance is based on 12-month ECL.
- Stage 2: if a SICR since initial recognition is identified, the financial instrument is moved to Stage 2 but not yet deemed to be credit-impaired, loss allowance is based on lifetime ECL.
- Stage 3: if the financial instrument is credit-impaired, the financial instrument is then moved to Stage 3 and loss allowance is based on lifetime ECL.

ECL for POCI financial assets is always measured on a lifetime basis (Stage 3), so at the reporting date, the Group only recognises the cumulative changes in lifetime expected credit losses.

The Group can carry out three separate approaches for ECL measurement:

- assessment on an individual basis;
- assessment on a portfolio basis: internal ratings are estimated on an individual basis but the same credit risk parameters (e.g. PD, LGD) will be applied during the process of ECL calculations for the same credit risk ratings and homogeneous segments of the loan portfolio;
- assessment based on external ratings.

The Group performs an assessment on an individual basis for the following types of loans issued to legal entities: loans with unique credit risk characteristics, individually significant loans and credit-impaired loans.

The Group performs an assessment on a portfolio basis for the following types of assets: loans and credit-related commitments issued to legal entities (standard lending, specialised lending, loans to leasing companies, etc.), interbank loans, retail loans and loans issued to SMEs. This approach incorporates aggregating the portfolio into homogeneous segments based on borrower-specific information.

The Group performs assessments on external ratings for the following types of loans: interbank loans, debt securities issued by the banks and legal entities, and loans issued to sovereigns.

Principles of assessment on individual basis – ECL assessments on an individual basis are done by weighting the estimates of credit losses for different possible outcomes against the probabilities of each outcome. The Group defines at least two possible outcomes for each loan, one of which leads to credit loss in spite of the probability of such a scenario. Individual assessment is mainly based on the expert judgement of the Problem Loans Collection Department. Expert judgements are regularly tested in order to decrease the difference between estimates and actual losses.

Principles of assessment on portfolio basis – to assess the staging of exposure and to measure a loss allowance on a collective basis, the Group combines its exposures into segments on the basis of shared credit risk characteristics, such as that exposures to risk within a group are homogeneous.

Examples of shared characteristics include type of customer (such as income producing real estate or leasing companies), product type (such as credit cards or cash loans), credit risk rating and date of initial recognition.

The different segments reflect differences in credit risk parameters such as PD and LGD. The appropriateness of groupings is monitored and reviewed on a periodic basis by the Risk Management Department.

In general, ECL is the multiplication of the following credit risk parameters: EAD, PD and LGD (definitions of the parameters are provided above). The general approach used for ECL calculation is stated below. It could be applied for products assessed on a portfolio basis and for products for which the bank has credit risk ratings assessment based on borrower-specific information.

$$ECL = \sum_{i=0}^{N-1} (PD_{t_i, t_{i+1}} \frac{EAD_{t_i}}{(1 + EIR)^{t_i}} LGD_{t_i})$$

where:

LGD_{t_i} – loss given default in moment t_i

EAD_{t_i} – exposure at default in moment t_i

$PD_{t_i, t_{i+1}}$ – probability of default between t_i and t_{i+1} (cannot be higher than 100%)

t_i – number of months in the loan's lifetime

EIR – effective interest rate

N – remaining amount of payments.

The ECL is determined by predicting credit risk parameters (EAD, PD and LGD) for each future month during the lifetime period for each individual exposure or collective segment. These three components are multiplied together and adjusted for the likelihood of survival (i.e. the exposure has been repaid or defaulted in an earlier month). This effectively calculates an ECL for each future month, which is then discounted back to the reporting date and summed up. The discount rate used in the ECL calculation is the original effective interest rate or an approximation thereof.

The brief principles of calculating the credit risk parameters are as following.

The EADs are determined based on the expected payment profile, which varies by product type:

- for amortising products and bullet repayment loans, EAD is based on the contractual repayments owed by the borrower over a 12-month or lifetime basis.
- for revolving products, the EAD is predicted by taking the current drawn balance and adding a credit conversion factor that accounts for the expected drawdown of the remaining limit by the time of default.

Two types of PDs are used for calculating ECLs: 12-month and lifetime PD:

- 12-month PDs – the estimated probability of a default occurring within the next 12 months (or over the remaining life of the financial instrument if less than 12 months). This parameter is used to calculate 12-month ECLs. An assessment of a 12-month PD is based on the latest available historic default data and adjusted for forward-looking information when appropriate.
- Lifetime PDs – the estimated probability of a default occurring over the remaining life of the financial instrument. This parameter is used to calculate lifetime ECLs for Stage 2 exposures. An assessment of a Lifetime PD is based on the latest available historic default data and adjusted for forward looking information when appropriate.

To calculate Lifetime PD, the Group uses different statistical approaches depending on the segment and product type, such as the extrapolation of 12-month PDs based on migration matrixes and developing lifetime PD curves based on the historical default data. For lifetime PD calculations, the Group uses historical default data and the extrapolation of trends for longer periods during which default data was not available.

LGD represents the Group's expectation of the extent of loss on a defaulted exposure. LGD varies by the product, stage and the availability of collateral or other credit support.

The 12-month and lifetime LGDs are determined based on the factors that impact the expected recoveries after a default event.

The approach to LGD measurement can be divided into three possible approaches:

- measurement of LGD based on the specific characteristics of the collateral;
- calculation of LGD on a portfolio basis based on recovery statistics;
- individually defined LGD depending on different factors and scenarios.

For loans secured by real estate the Group calculates LGD based on specific characteristics of the collateral, such as projected collateral values, historical discounts on sales and other factors.

For particular segments of the corporate, retail, interbank loan portfolio and corporate bonds LGD is calculated on a collective basis based on the latest available recovery statistics.

ECL measurement for off-balance sheet financial instruments (financial guarantees, loan commitments)

The ECL measurement of off-balance sheet accounts consists of the same steps described above for the balance sheet exposures and differs with respect to EAD calculation. EAD with respect to off-balance sheet exposures should be calculated in the following way:

$$EAD = ExOff * CCF$$

where:

CCF – credit conversion factor

ExOff – amount of credit-related commitments

CCF for undrawn credit lines of legal entities, credit cards issued to individuals and financial guarantees is defined based on statistical analysis of exposure at default

CCF for overdrafts is defined as 100% since the limits can be used by the clients at any time.

Principles of assessment based on external ratings – the principles of ECL calculations based on external ratings are the same as for their assessment on a portfolio basis. Since the clients have defined the external credit rating, credit risk parameters (PD) could be taken from the default and recovery statistics published by international rating agencies.

Forward-looking information incorporated in the ECL models. The assessment of the SICR and the calculation of ECLs both incorporate forward-looking information. The Group has performed historical analyses and identified the key economic variables impacting credit risk and ECLs for each portfolio.

These economic variables and their associated impact on the PD, EAD and LGD vary by financial instrument. These economic variables, such as consumer price index, natural gas price, Russian CDS, have been determined by performing statistical regression analysis to understand the impact of changes in these variables has historically had on default rates.

Based on them the Group's Risk Management Department makes the forecast of future macroeconomic conditions, which is considered by the management of the Group to define the next coming stage of economic cycle using not only statistical approach but also expert judgement of the management.

The assessment of SICR is performed using the Lifetime PD for retail borrowers and 12-month PD for other financial assets, along with qualitative and backstop indicators. This determines whether the whole financial instrument is in Stage 1, Stage 2, or Stage 3 and hence whether a 12-month or lifetime ECL should be recorded. Following this assessment, the Group measures ECL as either a probability-weighted 12 month ECL (Stage 1), or a probability weighted lifetime ECL (Stages 2 and 3). These probability-weighted ECLs are determined by running the relevant ECL model.

As with any economic forecast, the projections and likelihoods of occurrence are subject to a high degree of inherent uncertainty, and therefore the actual outcomes may be significantly different to those projected. The Group considers these forecasts to represent its best estimate of the possible outcomes and has analysed the non-linearities and asymmetries within the Group's different portfolios to establish that the chosen scenarios are appropriately representative of the range of possible scenarios.

Validation – the Group regularly reviews its methodology and assumptions to reduce any difference between the estimates and the actual loss of credit. Such validation is performed at least once a year. The results of validation the ECL measurement methodology are communicated to the Group management and further steps for tuning models and assumptions are defined after discussions between authorised persons.

Market risk. The Group takes on exposure to market risks. Market risks arise from open positions in equity, currency and interest rate products, all of which are exposed to general and specific market movements.

The Group manages its market risk through notional-based and risk-based limits for the Group's sub-positions. Overall Group's position is split between (i) Corporate and Retail Banking positions, (ii) Investment Banking position and (iii) Treasury position. Corporate and Retail Banking exposures to market risks are managed through the system of limits monitored by the Treasury Department. Investment Banking exposures to market risk are managed through open position limits, value at risk ("VaR") limits and extreme loss limits which are set for both aggregated position in equities, fixed income, foreign currency and derivative instruments (treated as separate "trading desks") and for individual trading desks. In addition, sub-limits are set for exposures to various types of securities (including both equity and debt securities) and markets and position limits for issuers and individual instruments. Limits on securities positions are approved by ALCO. An issuer limits on debt securities are approved separately by a relevant Credit Committee. The major part of the Group's proprietary and flow trading portfolios consists of liquid securities quoted on active market (Note 8). The Group's derivative operations are driven by two major factors: (i) the necessity to hedge own risks by foreign currency, securities and interest rate derivatives and (ii) customer's demand for foreign currency, securities, commodities and other derivatives.

Risk-based limits are monitored on a daily basis by the Risk Management Department with respect to individual (foreign currency, equity, fixed income, derivatives) trading desks. The overall VaR of Investment Banking is monitored on a weekly basis.

The limit for the overall 1-day, 99% confidence level VaR of trading position is USD 40 million.

Certain structured credit positions either with or without a component of financing from third parties were controlled according to their notional amount under the credit risk policy of the Group.

The daily VaR measure is an estimate, with a confidence level set at 99%, of the potential loss that might arise under normal market conditions if the current positions of the Group were to be held unchanged for one business day. Although VaR is a valuable tool in measuring market risk exposures, it has a number of limitations, especially in less liquid markets:

- The use of historical data as a basis for determining future events may not encompass all possible scenarios, particularly those which are of an extreme nature;
- One business day holding period assumes that all positions can be liquidated or hedged within that period. This is considered to be a realistic assumption in almost all cases but may not be the case in situations in which there is severe market illiquidity for a prolonged period;
- The use of a 99% confidence level does not take into account losses that may occur beyond this level. There is a one percent probability that the loss could exceed the VaR;
- As VaR is only calculated on the end-of-day basis, it does not necessarily reflect exposures that may arise on positions during the trading day; and
- The VaR measure is dependent upon the Group's position and the volatility of market prices. The VaR of an unchanged position reduces if market volatility declines and vice versa.

The effectiveness of the VaR model is subject to back-test assessment. Back-testing compares the frequency of bigger-than-VaR loss occurrence and compares it to the set confidence level.

The major advantage of VaR risk assessment, its reliance on the empirical data, is at the same time its major drawback. Extreme market moves that may cause substantial deterioration of the Group's position have to be assessed by putting a stress on the number of standard deviations of market returns. Historical stress scenario can be also used. The resulting figures serve as a rough indicator of magnitude of a likely loss under the corresponding scenario. The Group uses stress tests to model the financial impact of a variety of exceptional market scenarios on individual trading portfolios and the Group's overall position. Stress tests provide an indication of the potential size of losses that could arise in extreme conditions.

Equity price risk. As noted above, for the purpose of quantifying the Group's equity price risks which is attributed to Investment Banking trading position only, the Group uses a VaR model.

As at 31 December 2020 the Group's equity price risk VaR was limited at USD 8 million (2019: USD 8 million) (limit set by ALCO).

Currency risk. Currency risk is the risk that the value of financial instruments will fluctuate due to changes in the foreign exchange rates. The Treasury Department is responsible for the centralised management of the foreign exchange risk of the banking book (strategic position). The Corporate and Investment Bank is responsible for the currency risk management of trading position. ALCO sets separate limits on the open currency position. The Risk Management Department controls limits of trading position. The Treasury Department of the Group ensures compliance limits on open foreign exchange position of the banking book and general limits on the open currency position.

The Group uses derivatives to manage current and forecast exposures resulting from foreign currencies.

Derivatives represent the fair value, as at the end of the reporting period, of the respective currency that the Group agreed to buy (positive amount) or sell (negative amount) before netting of positions and payments with the counterparty. The amounts by currency are presented gross as stated in Note 37.

Different entities within the Group have different functional currencies, based on the underlying economic conditions of their operations (Note 4). For the purpose of currency risk sensitivity analysis the Group splits its assets, liabilities and notional amounts of foreign currency receivable and payable at the reporting dates into three currency zones depending on the functional currencies of the entities included in the zone:

- Russian Rouble zone (includes all Russian Federation subsidiaries);
- Euro zone (includes Amsterdam Trade Bank N.V.);
- US Dollar zone (includes all other foreign subsidiaries operating internationally).

Sensitivity analysis presented below indicates the potential effect of the change in foreign exchange market conditions on the profit or loss for the year and risk arising out of translation of the financial statements of subsidiaries into the presentation currency of the Group.

As the Group exposure to currencies other than US Dollar, Euro and Russian Rouble is not considerable in comparison to other exposures, in performing sensitivity analysis the Group includes its net position in other currencies into the net position in US Dollars. As at 31 December 2020 the Group's net currency position including foreign currency derivatives was as follows:

Russian Rouble zone	8 704	-	220
Euro zone	-	135	1
US Dollar zone	59	433	-
Exposure with effect on profit or loss	8 763	568	221
Exposure with effect on other comprehensive income	(7 607)	-	-
Net exposure	1 156	568	221

As at 31 December 2020 if either of USD/RR, USD/EUR and EUR/RR rate changed by +/-10% respectively, this would have affected profit or loss for the year (pre-tax) of the Group and equity in the following way:

In millions of US Dollars	USD/RR	USD/EUR	EUR/RR
+ 10% change in all foreign exchange rates	116	57	22
- 10% change in all foreign exchange rates	(116)	(57)	(22)

As at 31 December 2019 the Group's net currency position including foreign currency derivatives was as follows:

In millions of US Dollars	USD/RR	USD/EUR	EUR/RR
Russian Rouble zone	8 321	-	151
Euro zone	-	14	(1)
US Dollar zone	35	451	-
Exposure with effect on profit or loss	8 356	465	150
Exposure with effect on other comprehensive income	(8 277)	-	-
Net exposure	79	465	150

At 31 December 2019 if USD/RR, USD/EUR and EUR/RR rate changed by +/-10% respectively, this would have affected profit or loss for the year (pre-tax) of the Group and equity in the following way:

In millions of US Dollars	USD/RR	USD/EUR	EUR/RR
+ 10% change in all foreign exchange rates	8	47	15
- 10% change in all foreign exchange rates	(8)	(47)	(15)

Interest rate risk. Interest rate risk of the banking book (IRRBB) is the current or prospective risk to both the earnings and economic value arising from adverse movements in interest rates that affect interest rate sensitive instruments. IRRBB is assessed in two perspectives: sensitivity of net interest margin (NIM perspective), sensitivity of economic value of equity (EVE perspective). Thus, there are two classes of IRRBB metrics employed. Shocks of interest rates for IRRBB metrics calculations are: 1) standardised by Basel committee and 2) developed by the Treasury and the Risk Management Department.

While IRRBB arises from interest rates fluctuations, there are risks, reflecting in both mentioned perspectives of IRRBB, that come from movements in market rates (referring as “market risk”) and from Group’s credit spreads oscillations (referring as “spread risk”). Both market and spread IRRBB are measured in terms of NIM’s and EVE’s sensitivities.

To control for IRRBB volume ALCO sets limits for all interest rate risk metrics. Limits for IRRBB metrics are set for significant currencies (these are currencies for each those total outstanding volume is not less than 5% of the total banking book balance). These are Russian Rouble, US Dollar and Euro. The Group’s IRRBB is managed by the Treasury Department within the limits set by ALCO. Such limits are monitored on a weekly basis by the Assets Liabilities Management Unit of the Treasury Department.

To remain within the limits set by ALCO, the Treasury Department has a mandate to hedge IRRBB. Hedge is achieved both 1) with derivatives and 2) by altering balance sheet structure.

In addition, risks of changes in prices of individual debt instruments related to trading positions of investment business (i.e. interest rate risk of the trading book) are covered by the limit on the size of the open position and the limit for VaR.

The table below summarises the Group’s exposure to interest rate risks as monitored by management. The table presents the aggregated amounts of the Group’s financial assets and liabilities at carrying amounts, categorised by the earlier of contractual interest repricing or maturity dates.

Refer to Note 37 for the information on interest rate derivatives used to manage the Group’s interest rate exposure.

For the year ended 31 December 2020 and 2019, if interest rates at that date had been 100 basis points higher/lower, with all other variables held constant, pre-tax profit would have been USD 40 million higher/lower (2019: USD 22 million higher/lower), mainly as a result of higher interest income on loans and advances to customers. Other components of equity (also pre-tax) would have been USD 33 million lower/higher (2019: USD 47 million lower/higher), as a result of change in the fair value of fixed interest rate debt investments classified as FVOCI.

The sign “-” in the table above means that the Group does not have the assets or liabilities in corresponding currency.

Geographical risk concentrations.

As at 31 December 2020 and 2019 majority of assets, liabilities and credit related commitments of the Group are concentrated in the Russian Federation. Also, the Group has certain balances (mainly cash and cash equivalents, loans and advances to customers and debt securities) in Europe, USA and CIS. CIS represents the countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States, of which the Group’s primary exposure is to the Ukraine, Kazakhstan and Belarus.

The majority of the Group’s revenues are generated from counterparties domiciled in the Russian Federation as well as substantially all of capital expenditure of the Group relates to operations of the Group in the Russian Federation.

Liquidity risk. Liquidity risk is a risk of incapacity of the credit institution to finance its activities, i.e., support the growth of assets and fulfil the obligations at maturity without incurring losses in amounts endangering the financial stability of the credit institution. The Group is exposed to daily calls on its available cash resources from overnight deposits, current accounts, maturing deposits, loan draw downs and from margin and other calls on derivative instruments. The Group does not maintain cash resources to meet all of these needs as experience shows that a minimum level of reinvestment of maturing funds can be predicted with a high level of certainty. Liquidity risk is managed by the Treasury Department and is monitored by ALCO.

The Group seeks to maintain a stable funding base comprising primarily amounts due to corporate and retail customer deposits, debt securities in issue and due to other banks and maintain an adequate diversified portfolios of liquid assets in order to be able to respond quickly and smoothly to unforeseen liquidity requirements.

The liquidity management of the Group requires considering the level of liquid assets necessary to settle obligations as they fall due; maintaining access to a range of funding sources; maintaining funding contingency plans, monitoring liquidity ratios and liquidity factors against regulatory or Group risk-appetite requirements. Alfa-Bank calculates liquidity ratios on a daily basis in accordance with the requirement of the CBRF. These ratios are:

- (i) instant liquidity ratio (N2), which is calculated as the ratio of highly-liquid assets to liabilities payable on demand;
- (ii) current liquidity ratio (N3), which is calculated as the ratio of liquid assets to liabilities maturing within 30 calendar days;
- (iii) long-term liquidity ratio (N4), which is calculated as the ratio of assets maturing after one year to regulatory capital and liabilities maturing after one year;
- (iv) liquidity coverage ratio (PKL, N26), which is calculated as the ratio of highly liquid assets that will be received during the next calendar day without substantial loss in value to the amount of net expected outflow of funds on the operations of the bank for the next 30 calendar days;
- (v) net stable funding ratio (NSFR, N29) in accordance with the internal and the CBRF requirements, different ratios of concentration of liabilities by groups of clients, covenants, deposits with rights of cancellation, etc.

The Treasury Department prepares the liquidity profile of the financial assets and liabilities. The Treasury Department then builds up an adequate portfolio of short-term liquid assets, largely made up of short-term liquid trading securities, deposits with banks (including the CBRF and Federal Treasury for Russian Roubles and central banks for other currencies) and other inter-bank facilities, to ensure that sufficient liquidity is maintained within the Group as a whole.

For regular stress-test purposes, the Treasury Department runs liquidity forecast models for different financial instruments on a daily basis. Different scenarios are tracked: including or disregarding projected new lending. Information on the level of delinquencies that result in late payments is regularly updated for the liquidity forecast. These liquidity forecast models are aggregated into liquidity position under the Crisis Scenario. The Crisis Scenario's liquidity position is calculated on a daily basis and additionally covers severe market conditions: crisis customer's outflows, defaults of loans, the CBRF facilities, etc. ALCO sets the limits as Survival Horizon (continuous number of days of positive liquidity under the Crisis Scenario) separately for local currency, foreign currency and total.

Liquidity risk-appetite ratios are reported on regular basis to the Management, ALCO and the Board of Directors.

The tables below show liabilities by their remaining contractual maturity. The amounts disclosed in the maturity table are the contractual undiscounted cash flows, including gross finance lease obligations (before deducting future finance charges), prices specified in deliverable forward agreements to purchase financial assets for cash, contractual amounts to be exchanged under a gross settled currency swaps, and gross loan commitments. Such undiscounted cash flows differ from the amounts included in the consolidated statement of financial position because the amounts in the consolidated statement of financial position are based on discounted cash flows. Net settled derivatives are included at the net amounts expected to be paid.

When the amount payable is not fixed, the amounts are determined by reference to the conditions existing at the reporting date. Foreign currency payments are translated using the spot exchange rate at the end of the reporting period.

The Group does not use the above undiscounted maturity analysis to manage liquidity. Instead, the Treasury Department monitors expected maturities.

The following table represents analysis of assets and liabilities as at 31 December 2020 by their expected maturities as determined by the management. This analysis was prepared on the basis of contractual maturities except for adjustments in relation to (i) trading securities and (ii) part of customer accounts. The entire portfolio of trading securities was classified within “demand and less than 1 month” based on the Management’s assessment of the portfolio’s realisability. Part of current/settlement/demand accounts was reallocated from “demand and less than 1 month” category to baskets with later maturities. On the basis of past experience Management believes that (i) diversification of these accounts by number and type of customers and (ii) constant inflow of new deposits indicate that at least part of these current/demand/settlement accounts would provide a long-term and stable source of funding for the Group.

Assets and liabilities disclosed as “no stated maturity” are expected to be recovered or settled after twelve months after the reporting period.

Liquidity requirements to support calls under guarantees and standby letters of credit are considerably less than the amount of the commitments because the Group does not generally expect the third party to draw funds under the agreement. The total outstanding contractual amount of commitments to extend credit does not necessarily represent future cash requirements, since many of these commitments will expire or terminate without being funded.

The matching and/or controlled mismatching of the maturities and interest rates of assets and liabilities is fundamental to the management of the Group. It is unusual for banks ever to be completely matched since business transacted is often of an uncertain term and of different types. An unmatched position potentially enhances profitability but can also increase the risk of losses. The maturities of assets and liabilities and the ability to replace, at an acceptable cost, interest-bearing liabilities as they mature, are important factors in assessing the liquidity of the Group and its exposure to changes in interest and exchange rates.

Operational risk. Operational risk is defined as risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, people and systems or from external events. This definition includes legal risk but excludes strategic and reputational risk. The events that are included under this definition of operational risk are, mainly, losses from fraud, computer system failures, settlement errors, model errors or natural disasters.

The Group monitors its operational risk profile and material exposures to operational losses on a regular basis. The Group's system of regular reporting of information to senior management supports the proactive management of operational risk.

Activities of the Group's operational risk management includes identification, assessment, monitoring and reporting, control and/or minimization of the Group's exposure to operational risk as well as the distribution of responsibilities and authorities to manage operational risk. Information on realised operational risks and losses are collected in the Group's own loss database system.

In order to identify and assess operational risks, the Group uses the following operational risk management tools:

- analysis of processes;
- internal loss data collection and analysis;
- external loss data collection and analysis;
- risk and control self-assessment (RCSA);
- key risk indicators (KRI);
- scenario analysis (stress-testing).

The main principles and instruments of operational risk minimisation are defined by the Group's Operational Risk Management Policy.

The Group regards active participation of its business divisions as a cornerstone for effective risk management. Each business division is primarily responsible for the identification and assessment of operational risk arising from its business operations. In circumstances where a business division considers it appropriate, operational risk is insured.

The Operational Risk Steering Committee ("ORSC"), which meets monthly, monitors the level of operational risk, coordinates the operational risk management across the departments and approves procedures for operational risk identification. ORSC takes part in carrying out operational risk analysis of new products and complex transactions, approval of internal documents regarding operational risk.

Each year, the Group obtains an international comprehensive banking risk insurance policy, also known as a "banker's blanket bond", which covers its professional activities world-wide and insures it against, among other things, forgery, electronic and computer crimes and employees' unlawful actions.

32 Management of Capital

The Group's main objectives when managing capital are: (i) to comply with the capital requirements set by the respective central banks and debt covenants, (ii) to safeguard the companies' ability to continue as a going concern, and (iii) to maintain a sufficient capital base to achieve a capital adequacy ratio of the Group based on Basel (International Convergence of Capital Management and Capital Standards dated July 1988 (as subsequently amended and updated)) of at least 8%.

The Group's policy of capital management is designated to maintain the capital base sufficient to comply with the regulatory requirements and to keep the confidence of investors, creditors, other market participants and to secure the future development of the Group. The CBRF establishes and monitors capital adequacy limits for Alfa-Bank. Capital adequacy limits for Amsterdam Trade Bank N.V. are established and monitored by the Dutch National Bank. Capital adequacy limits of Alfa Capital Markets Ltd are monitored by the Cyprus Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Group plans its capital needs to be able to comply with both the regulators' requirements and Basel with a one-year horizon. The Group performs medium- and long-term planning of growth in the asset side considering sufficiency of capital. When necessary, the Group develops and implements measures to increase its capital base.

The amount of the Group's total capital calculated in accordance with Basel III as at 31 December 2020 was USD 9 235 million (2019: USD 8 910 million), the amount of Tier 1 capital as at 31 December 2020 was USD 8 542 million (2019: USD 7 939 million). According to information provided internally to key management personnel, total capital adequacy ratio and Tier 1 capital adequacy ratio were 17.8% and 16.4%, respectively (2019: 18.3% and 16.3%) and the relevant Group entities complied with external capital adequacy requirements during 2020 and 2019.

33 Contingencies and Commitments

Legal proceedings. From time to time and in the normal course of business, claims against the Group are received. On the basis of its own estimates and both internal and external professional advice, management is of the opinion that no material losses exceeding provision of USD 2 million (2019: USD 2 million) recorded in these consolidated financial statements as at 31 December 2020 will be incurred in respect of claims against the Group.

Tax contingencies. A significant part of operations of the Group is undertaken in the Russian Federation. Russian tax legislation (including changes enacted at the end of the reporting period), is subject to varying interpretations when being applied to the transactions and activities of the Group. Consequently, tax positions taken by management and the formal documentation supporting the tax positions may be challenged by relevant authorities. Russian tax administration is gradually strengthening, including the fact that there is a higher risk of tax review of transactions without a clear business purpose or with tax non-compliant counterparties. Fiscal periods remain open to review by the authorities in respect of taxes for three calendar years preceding the year of review. Under certain circumstances reviews may cover longer periods.

The Russian transfer pricing legislation is to a large extent aligned with the international transfer pricing principles developed by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development. This legislation provides the possibility for tax authorities to make transfer pricing adjustments and impose additional tax liabilities in respect of controlled transactions (transactions with related parties and some types of transactions with unrelated parties), provided that the transaction price is not on an arm's length basis.

The Russian legislation contains special rules for adjustment of transaction prices for tax purposes which includes transfer pricing rules as well as rules for securities and derivatives. The Group believes that no transactions performed in 2020 or earlier required tax adjustments, except for certain transactions (mainly related to securities and derivatives). It is possible, with the evolution of the interpretation of the transfer pricing rules, that such transfer prices could be challenged. The impact of any such challenge cannot be reliably estimated.

The Group includes companies incorporated outside of Russia. The tax liabilities of the Group are determined on the assumption that these companies are not subject to Russian profits tax, because they do not have a permanent establishment in Russia. This interpretation of relevant legislation may be challenged but the impact of any such challenge cannot be reliably estimated currently; however, it may impact the financial position and/or some operations of the Group.

The Controlled Foreign Company (CFC) legislation introduced Russian taxation of profits of foreign companies and non-corporate structures (including trusts) controlled by Russian tax residents (controlling parties). CFC income is subject to a 20% tax rate if the CFC is controlled by a legal entity and a rate of 13% if it is controlled by an individual. As a result, management reassessed the Group's tax positions and concluded that this legislation does not result in additional material deferred taxes for temporary differences that arose from the expected taxable manner of recovery of the relevant Group's operations to which the CFC legislation applies to.

As the Russian tax legislation does not provide definitive guidance in certain areas, the tax authorities may challenge the Group's interpretations of some uncertain areas. While management currently estimates that the tax positions and interpretations that it has taken can probably be sustained, there is a possible risk that an outflow of resources will be required should such tax positions and interpretations be challenged by the relevant authorities. The impact of any such challenge cannot be reliably estimated; however, it may be significant to the financial position and/or the overall operations of the Group.

In addition to the aforementioned risks, the Group estimates that as at 31 December 2020 and 2019 it had no other material probable or possible tax exposures. Management will vigorously defend the Group's positions and interpretations that were applied in determining taxes recognised in these consolidated financial statements if these are challenged by the authorities.

Regulatory compliance. The Group provides financial services through financial institutions registered in the Russian Federation, the Netherlands, Cyprus and other jurisdictions. Financial services are subject to regulation by authorities in connection with obtaining and renewing various licences and permits, as well as with ongoing compliance with existing laws and regulations and with the terms and conditions of the respective licences and permits. The failure to comply with the regulatory requirements may result in the imposition of fines or penalties or more severe sanctions including the suspension, amendment or termination of licences and permits or in requirements to limit certain business activities.

In the normal course of business, the Group must interpret and apply existing regulatory requirements to its activities. From time to time matters of actual or potential non-compliance with existing regulatory requirements may be identified. The Management is focused on the rectification of such matters as a matter of priority and believes that such matters will not result in significant operating restrictions or material financial losses.

Capital commitments. As at 31 December 2020 the Group had capital commitments of USD 109 million (2019: USD 95 million), of which USD 94 million (2019: USD 88 million) related to construction expenditure and modernisation of premises and USD 5 million (2019: USD 7 million) related to purchase and installation of new computer systems. Management has already allocated the necessary resources in respect of these commitments. Management believes that future income and funding will be sufficient to cover these and any similar commitments.

Credit related commitments and performance guarantees. The primary purpose of these instruments is to ensure that funds are available to a customer as required. Financial guarantees and standby letters of credit, which represent irrevocable assurances that the Group will make payments in the event that a customer cannot meet its obligations to third parties, carry the same credit risk as loans. Documentary and commercial letters of credit, which are written undertakings by the Group on behalf of a customer authorising a third party to draw drafts on the Group up to a stipulated amount under specific terms and conditions, are collateralised by the underlying shipments of goods to which they relate or cash deposits and therefore carry less risk than a direct borrowing.

In addition to credit related commitments, the Group issues performance guarantees. Performance guarantees are insurance contracts that provide compensation if another party fails to perform a contractual obligation. Such contracts transfer non-financial performance risk in addition to credit risk. The risk under performance guarantee contracts is the possibility that the insured event (i.e. the failure to perform the contractual obligation by another party) occurs. The key risks the Group faces are significant fluctuations in the frequency and severity of payments incurred on such contracts relative to expectations. The Group uses historical data and statistical techniques to predict levels of such payments. Claims must be made before the contract matures and most claims are settled within short term. This allows the Group to achieve a high degree of certainty about the estimated payments and therefore future cash flows. The Group manages such risks by constantly monitoring the level of payments for such products and has the ability to adjust its fees in the future to reflect any change in claim payments experience. The Group has a claim payment requests handling process which includes the right to review the claim and reject fraudulent or non-compliant requests.

Outstanding credit related commitments and performance guarantees were as follows:

In millions of US Dollars	2020	2019
Unused credit cards limits	6 940	6 523
Import letters of credit	855	551
Corporate overdrafts	672	1 063

Total credit related commitments and performance guarantees	11 343	9 947

As at 31 December 2020 the Group had USD 14 333 million (2019: USD 13 200 million) revocable commitments on credit lines. As at 31 December 2020 the Group had USD 7 118 million (2019: USD 6 957 million) commitments to provide financial and performance guarantees.

The total outstanding contractual amount of credit related commitments and performance guarantees does not necessarily represent future cash requirements, as these instruments may expire or terminate without being funded. - to maintain a minimum ratio of capital to risk-weighted assets calculated in accordance with Basel;
- to maintain a minimum level of net assets; and
- to ensure that all related party transactions are on an arm's length basis.

The Group was in compliance with these covenants during 2020 and 2019.

As at 31 December 2020 the fair value of such securities sold under sale and repurchase agreements with other banks and customers amounted to USD 142 million (2019: USD 42 million) (Notes 15 and 16).

Mandatory cash balances with central banks represent mandatory reserve deposits, which are not available to finance the Group's day-to-day operations.

34 Offsetting Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities

Financial instruments subject to offsetting, enforceable master netting and similar arrangements include (1) amounts receivable under reverse repurchase agreements effectively collateralised by securities which are not recognized in the consolidated statement of financial position, (2) amounts payable under repurchase agreements which are collateralised by repurchase receivables relating to trading securities and investments, (3) derivative financial instruments which are collateralised by margin deposits, and (4) customer accounts, debt securities issued and other financial liabilities which are netted against loans and advances to customers and other financial assets with companies constituting a group .

The table below summarises assets and liabilities subject to offsetting as at 31 December 2020:

As at 31 December 2020 the Group placed margin call deposits in the amount of USD 404 million (2019: USD 310 million) and held margin call deposits in the amount of USD 75 million (2019: USD 84 million) as collateral under transactions with derivatives and operations with securities. 35 Transfers of Financial Assets

Investment in JSC SB Alfa-Bank Kazakhstan. Alfa Bank legally owns 100% interest in JSC SB Alfa-Bank Kazakhstan. On 29 June 2009 the Group signed a call option agreement (with amendments) with ABHH (Note 1), whereby in exchange for an option premium of USD 63 million ABHH received a right to acquire for a fixed consideration, and at any time until 31 December 2024, shares representing a 100% interest in JSC SB Alfa-Bank Kazakhstan. This agreement effectively transferred to ABHH all potential voting rights and economic benefits relating to JSC SB Alfa-Bank Kazakhstan. The Group recorded disposal of its interest in JSC SB Alfa-Bank Kazakhstan on 29 June 2009. In 2009 ABHH transferred its rights relating to the call option agreement to its subsidiary.

The Group transferred financial assets in transactions that did not qualify for derecognition in the current and prior periods:

Sale and repurchase transactions. At 31 December 2020 the Group had trading securities and investments in the amount of USD 439 million (2019: USD 135 million) (Notes 8 and 11) that are subject to obligation to repurchase the securities for a fixed pre-determined price. As at 31 December 2020 the carrying value of the liabilities associated with these sale and repurchase transactions was USD 414 million (2019: USD 135 million) (Note 15). The estimated fair value of associated liabilities is approximately equal to their carrying value.

36 Interests in Structured Entities

The Group issued bonds through consolidated structured entities incorporated in European countries. These entities were consolidated as they were specifically set up for the purposes of the Group, and the Group has exposure to substantially all of their risks and rewards. These entities have debt securities issued with a nominal value of USD 3 075 million outstanding as at 31 December 2020 (2019: USD 3 181 million).

37 Derivative Financial Instruments

Derivative financial instruments are generally traded in an over-the-counter market with professional market counterparties on standardised or specific contractual terms and conditions.

The principal or agreed amounts of certain types of financial instruments provide a basis for comparison with instruments recorded on the consolidated statement of financial position but do not necessarily indicate the amounts of future cash flows involved or the current fair value of the instruments and, therefore, do not indicate the Group's exposure to credit or price risks. The derivative instruments become favourable (assets) or unfavourable (liabilities) as a result of fluctuations in market interest rates, foreign exchange rates or other variables relative to their terms. The aggregate contractual or principal amount of derivative financial instruments held and the aggregate fair values of derivative financial assets and liabilities can fluctuate significantly from time to time.

The principal or agreed amounts and fair values of derivative instruments other than foreign exchange forward and swap contracts are set out in the following table. This table reflects gross positions before the netting of any counterparty positions by type of instrument and covers the contracts with a maturity date subsequent to respective reporting period.

The total amount of the effective portion of the foreign currency exchange gains or losses recorded during 2020 on these hedging instruments amounted to gain of USD 1 210 million (2019: loss of USD 773 million). No ineffectiveness was recorded in the profit or loss for 2020 and 2019 in respect of the hedge. As at 31 December 2020 the positive fair value of these hedging instruments amounted to USD 22 million (2019: negative USD 337 million). No amounts were reclassified from other comprehensive income during 2020 and 2019, as there were no disposals of hedge subsidiaries, which the hedge relate to.

38 Fair Value Disclosures

Fair value measurements are analysed by level in the fair value hierarchy as follows: (1) level one are measurements at quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities, (2) level two measurements are valuations techniques with all material inputs observable for the asset or liability, either directly (that is, as prices) or indirectly (that is, derived from prices), and (3) level three measurements are valuations not based on observable market data (that is, unobservable inputs). Management applies judgement in categorising financial instruments using the fair value hierarchy. If a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment, that measurement is a Level 3 measurement. The significance of a valuation input is assessed against the fair value measurement in its entirety.

Recurring fair value measurements

Recurring fair value measurements are those that the accounting standards require or permit in the consolidated statement of financial position at the end of each reporting period. The levels in the fair value hierarchy into which the recurring fair value measurements are categorised are as follows:

Methods and assumptions for valuation of financial assets included in Level 2 and Level 3 of the fair valuation hierarchy

Level 2. The fair value of financial derivatives allocated to Level 2 was determined based on the discounted cash flows (DCF) models with all significant inputs observable in the market (LIBOR, EURIBOR, Mosprime, the CBRF rates for foreign currencies). The fair value of securities with insignificant trading volumes was based on quotes provided by reputable brokerage houses.

Level 3. Equity investments at FVOCI allocated to Level 3 represent investments in funds and have been valued using the fair value of net assets reported to the Group. The fair value of financial instruments mandatorily measured at FVTPL was based on the discounted cash flows (DCF) models and credit value adjustment which reflects the probability of default of counterparty and debit value adjustment which reflects the possibility of the Group's default.

A reconciliation of movements in Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy by class of financial instruments for the year ended 31 December 2020 was as follows:

Financial information was prepared by the management of JOINT-STOCK COMPANY "ALFA-BANK" in accordance with the rules contained in the instruction of October 08, 2018 N 4927-U "About the list, forms and procedures for the preparation and presentation of reporting forms of credit institutions to the Central Bank of the Russian Federation (hereinafter – instruction of the Central Bank of the Russian Federation).

Basis of Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (ISAs). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with the Rules of Independence of the Auditors and Audit Organizations and The Code of Professional Ethics of the Auditors, which are in accordance with International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants' Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including international standards of independence), and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Financial Information

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with Russian accounting standards, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial information, management is responsible for assessing the entity's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the directors either intend to liquidate the entity or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the entity's financial reporting process.

Independent Auditor's Report

TRANSLATION NOTE: Our report has been prepared in Russian and in English. In all matters of interpretation of information, views or opinions, the Russian version of our report takes precedence over the English version.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Information

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial information as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial information.

As part of an audit in accordance with ISAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

a) identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial information, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.

b) obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control.

c) evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the directors.

d) conclude on the appropriateness of the directors' use of the going concern basis of accounting and based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the entity's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial information or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the entity to cease to continue as a going concern.

e) evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial information, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those in charge of corporate governance with a statement that we have complied with all relevant ethical requirements regarding independence and informed them about all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be considered to influence our independence as auditors, and, if necessary, about appropriate safeguards.

JOINT-STOCK COMPANY "ALFA-BANK"

Consolidated Financial Information with Independent Auditor's Report

Moscow | 2020

Opinion

We have audited the consolidated financial information of JOINT-STOCK COMPANY "ALFA-BANK" and its subsidiaries (hereinafter – Group), which comprise the consolidated balance sheet as of January 1, 2020 (Form 0409802), the consolidated statement of financial results for 2019 (Form 0409803) and information on the composition of participants of the banking (consolidated) group, the level of sufficiency of own funds and the amount of provisions for doubtful loans and other assets as of January 1, 2020 (Form 0409812) (hereinafter – financial information). Financial information was prepared by the management of JOINT-STOCK COMPANY "ALFA-BANK" in accordance with the rules contained in the instruction of October 08, 2018 N 4927-U "About the list, forms and procedures for the preparation and presentation of reporting forms of credit institutions to the Central Bank of the Russian Federation (hereinafter – instruction of the Central Bank of the Russian Federation).

In our opinion, attached financial information has been prepared in all material respects in accordance with the rules contained in the instructions of the Central Bank of the Russian Federation, and present fairly the financial position of the Group as of January 1, 2020, as well as the results of its activities during 2019.

Basis of Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (ISAs). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with the Rules of Independence of the Auditors and Audit Organizations and The Code of Professional Ethics of the Auditors, which are in accordance with International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants' Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including international standards of independence), and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Financial Information

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with Russian accounting standards, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial information, management is responsible for assessing the entity's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the directors either intend to liquidate the entity or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the entity's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Information

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial information as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial information.

As part of an audit in accordance with ISAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- a) identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial information, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- b) obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control.
- c) evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the directors.
- d) conclude on the appropriateness of the directors' use of the going concern basis of accounting and based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the entity's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial information or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the entity to cease to continue as a going concern.
- e) evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial information, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those in charge of corporate governance with a statement that we have complied with all relevant ethical requirements regarding independence and informed them about all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be considered to influence our independence as auditors, and, if necessary, about appropriate safeguards.
